A two-game National Hockey League winning streak has restored the confidence of Atlanta Flames coach Fred Creighton.

Moments after the Flames had defeated Washington Capitals 4-1 Friday night, Creighton admitted he was looking forward to tonight's game with Boston Bruins at Atlanta's Omni.

"It's our chance to have our most productive week of the year," said Creighton. "We've won two in a row and now have a chance to make it three."

"I was thinking before the game that if we could do something tonight it would help our chances for tomorrow, our biggest game to date," he said. "Even though it's not in our division, it would be a big lift for us if we could get something out of this game."

Atlanta's victory over the Capitals came two days after the team defeated Kansas City Scouts 3-1 and put its record at 7-8-1. The Capitals, with five losses at home, are now 3-12.

In the only other league game Friday night, Toronto Maple Leafs downed California Seals 4-2.

Bill Flett scored two of the Atlanta goals.

"Thank goodness we won tonight because we have been having some problems," said Flett. "You have to get a few breaks."

Washington coach Milt Schmidt wasn't happy with the performance of his Capitals.

"We've got to learn to check," said Schmidt. "I guess I'm falling down on the job in that area, but I can't do it for them."

Capitals' goalie Ron Low was hit on the right cheek bone with a shot from Curt Bennett and the wound required 12 stitches. Schmidt said, however, that he would be able to play if he can put on a face mask.

Washington captain Billy Clement suffered a possible slight shoulder separation when he hit the goal post and crashed into the boards behind the Atlanta net. The Capitals said Mike Bompman is being called up from Baltimore Clippers of the American Hockey League to replace him.

Blaine Stoughton scored two goals to lead the Maple Leafs past California.

Toronto took a 3-0 lead before the game was seven minutes old with Lanny McDonald scoring in the first minute, and Stoughton sticking at 6:38. Former Seal Stan Weir assisted on both goals.

Phoenix Runs Into Second

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Phoenix Roadrunners managed only a 32 tie with Toronto Toros in Phoenix Friday night, but it was good enough to move them into sole possession of second place in the World Hockey Association's Western Division three points behind Houston Aeros.

In Winnipeg meanwhile, the Jets romped to a 6-1 win over third place Edmonton Oilers to consolidate their hold on second place in the Canadian Division.

The Roadrunners salvaged the tie when Lauri Mononen's second-period goal erased a 3-1 lead by the Toros where goalie Mario Viau turned aside 40 shots.

Jeff Jacques and Frank Mahovlich each scored in the first period for Toronto and Gary Lariviere scored for Phoenix to make it 2-1 at the end of the same period.

The Jets scored three goals in the first period as they overpowered the Oilers, peppering Edmonton goalie Dave Dryden with 45 shots.

Bobby Hull and rookie Peter Sullivan each scored twice for the Jets and defenseman Larry Hornung and 16-year Ford wounded out the scoring. Barry Long got the Edmonton goal on a second-period slapshot from the blueline that appeared to catch Winnipeg goalie Joe Daley unprepared.

The Jets, with 22 points, now are two points behind division leaders Quebec Nordiques but they have two games on hand. Friday's loss leaves the Oilers six points behind Winnipeg, while the Toros, by virtue of their third tie of the season in 16 games, remain well back of the pack with nine points.

"So, we're introducing our new Red, White and Blue plan with lower Red and White fares."

Here's what we've done. We've kept the famous Red, White and Blue system which offers savings when you travel at off-peak periods.

We've eliminated incentives for some people (youth and family plans), so we could lower all Red and White fares for everyone! Blue fares are basically unchanged. The 65-Plus fare discount still applies, as do attractive rates for groups.

We've changed the basis of peak and off-peak travel within the territory between Quebec City and Windsor/Sarnia from day of the week to hour of the day. Now you save by the clock instead of the calendar.

We've left the basic system unchanged for Transcontinental, Maritimes and other long-distance trains.

To explain the plan in detail, we've designed a new "travel savings calendar." It shows you how to travel when trains are less crowded, and save.

Pick up the new Red, White and Blue folder from your Travel Agent or CN Passenger Sales Office. And plan to save with CN.

Jauch Finds Humor Payneful

EDMONTON (CP) — John Payne of Saskatchewan Roughriders made a mild attempt at humor Friday night and visited Ed Jauch, of Edmonton Eskimos in a tender spot.

The Payne-Jauch matches spoke briefly at a news conference during a ceremony to present individual award-winners in the league.

The entire affair, as expected, was casual until Payne responded to a question by reporters as to what he thought of Jauch. If the Saskatchewan defence could force Tom Wilkinson, who is first in general, out of Sunday's WFC sudden-death final before the Dome.

Most agreed Payne was paying tribute to Wilkinson's ability, but Jauch evidently didn't see it that way. He insisted the best club should represent the Western Conference in the Grey Cup final at Calgary next weekend and said he doesn't want to see any poor losers.

Jauch also said he hopes the best quarterback between Wilkinson or Ron Lancaster of Saskatchewan plays in the final. In each of the last two Grey Cup finals, Edmonton has been defeated after Wilkinson was injured.

Wilkinson has made little of the fact that Saskatchewan defensive coach Don Matt said earlier this week that Wilkinson could not play if he took an intense as the one Ralph Brock this and the Grey Cup. if we should get there, the hitting is harder.

I'm not sitting around thinking I might get hurt. You just can't think like that."

Brock, coaches of course, were reluctant to provide any information that might help the rival. Payne conceded he will make no changes from the lineup that whipped Winnipeg 20-24 Saturday night in the sudden-death semi-final and Jauch said some changes yet to be made.

Jauch is expected to add tailor Garry Lefebvre from a five-day trial and hard-hitting fullback Calvin Hunter, who is the injured list in time for the 6 p.m. EST kickoff in the game to be televised nationally by the CBC.

Both clubs scheduled workouts today. Saskatchewan arrived Friday to put the finishing touches on preparations.

Tops among the individual winners honored at the annual pre-final ceremony was William Burden of Calgary Stampeders, who set a Canadian Football League record this season. He won the Jeff Nicklin Memorial Trophy as most valuable player and the Eddie James Trophy as top rushing.

Larry Cameron of British Columbia Lions won the top rookie award and Wally Buono of Edmonton accepted the Dave Dryburgh Trophy as coaching champion. Charlie Turner of Edmonton was honored as the Schlaerco-Becker Memorial Trophy as outstanding offensive lineman and Bill Baker of Ottawa was honored as top defensive CBC.

Tom Forzani of Calgary was honored as top Canadian.

Cameron, Turner, Baker, Forzani and Burden are finalists in various categories of top-player competitions to be settled during Grey Cup week.

CIAU Plans Further Action

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Canadian Interuniversity Athletic Union took its case with the University of Western Ontario a step further Friday, announcing that it will seek leave to appeal an Ontario Supreme Court ruling.

The court ruling, announced Thursday in Toronto by Mr. Justice John D'Orsicol, ruled that the CIAU did not have the jurisdiction to declare students ineligible.

The CIAU said in a statement it does not agree with the ruling but will obey it under that University of Windsor's decision to allow its football team to play in Sunday's Ontario-Quebec Yates Cup football game.

The CIAU said it disputes Mr. Justice O'Driscoll's ruling that intercollegiate rules of the CIAU, a national governing body for intercollegiate athletics, are not legally binding.

Mr. Justice O'Driscoll overturned a two-year suspension of Windsor from intercollegiate sports for using an ineligible player, quarterback Dave Pickett, on the football team.

He said CIAU bylaws provide for expulsion of members but do not provide for suspensions, and that the CIAU bylaws are presently enforceable compelling rules or any rules about eligibility."

But the CIAU statement said the association has the power through bylaws approved by the federal consumer and corporate affairs department. They were adopted at the CIAU annual meeting in Victoria last June.

The bitter feud between the CIAU and Windsor has been under way since September, when the Ontario Court of Appeal ruled that Pickett was ineligible under CIAU rules. He was ineligible to play by Ontario Universities Athletic Association (OUAA) standards and has played all year guiding the Lancers to a 5-4 won-lost record in league play.

Last weekend, the Lancers trampled Wilfrid Laurier Golden Hawks to the championship for the Western Division of the Ontario-Quebec Intercollegiate Football Conference.

But two weeks ago, the CIAU announced the terms of the suspension putting Windsor out of all football competition for two years, although it would still be able to compete in the OUAA.

Windsor then went to court while it and Laurier both prepared to meet Ottawa in the Sunday's national semi-final. The CIAU had said that Laurier would be in the Central Bowl.

The judge's ruling ended Laurier's season and allowed Windsor to advance without Pickett against Ottawa, and if it wins, the College Bowl, the national championship.

Meanwhile, a spokesmen for University of Calgary Dinosaurs said Friday that they will be willing to play in Toronto should the Lancers defeat Ottawa on Sunday.

The Dinosaurs and Axeman meet in the Atlantic Bowl, with the winner advancing to the national college final against either Ottawa or Windsor.

...And One Thing Leads to Another

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

"It was just a friendly National Basketball Association scuffle, soon to be forgotten," said Dick Gibbs of Buffalo Braves.

The capacity crowd at the Milwaukee Arena won't forget.

And there's a sneaky suspicion neither will Milwaukee Bucks.

"I was filling the lane on a fast break when (Garry) Brokaw stepped in front of me," Gibbs said. "I didn't appreciate that so I threw him out of my way."

Brokaw's version is a little different: "We were coming down the court — I jostled elbows. He hit me on the punch. So I hit him."

That's when Milwaukee's Bobby Dandridge got into the act, followed shortly afterwards by the Bucks' general manager, six-foot-eight, 200-pound Wayne Embry.

"I was just trying to protect Brokaw," Dandridge said of his tackling Gibbs. "I'm just glad nobody got hurt. We just fell over the table. There were no punches exchanged."

When the fourth-quarter brawl was over, Buffalo were on to defeat Milwaukee 113-98, snapping a five-game Bucks' winning streak.

In other NBA games Friday night, Philadelphia 76ers defeated Boston 119-109, Atlanta clipped Washington 97-92, Portland downed Chicago 93-89, Los Angeles stopped Phoenix 114-107 and Seattle edged Cleveland 100-99 in overtime.

In the American Basketball Association, St. Louis beat Virginia 106-102. Denver downed Kentucky 107-101 and Indiana beat Utah 127-119.

No fouls, technical or otherwise, were called in connection with the Milwaukee-Buffalo brawl. No players were ejected and officials called a jump ball to resume play.

Bob McAdoo's 27 points led the Braves, who piled out a 13-point first-quarter lead as Milwaukee took only one of its first eight shots and only six of 25 field goal attempts.

Definite Factor In Today's Final

OTTAWA (CP) — As Montreal Alouettes and Toronto Rough Riders head into today's championship, they face gloomy weather conditions.

The Ottawa weather office said Friday the forecast for this afternoon's game, to start at 2 p.m. EST, is for northwest winds gusting between 15 and 25 miles per hour, mainly sunny and cooler with temperatures overcast skies and the possibility of a few flurries.

The playing field at Lansdowne Park runs east and west and with winds gusting from the northwest, quarterbacks will likely encounter trying conditions in passing and kicking.

More than 35,000 fans could be in the game and those watching it on the CTV network may also be treated to some of the strange happenings that frequently turn up in this weather football.

Apart from listing several rule changes because of injuries, the coaches, George Brancato of Ottawa and Marv Levy of Montreal, have not been saying a lot about the game.

Two weeks ago, the Riders slaughtered the Als 46-6 to win the EFC title but both coaches hope their players have forgotten that game.

Levy wants his players to think politely after defeating Ottawa Rough Riders 35-13 last Sunday to move into the final. Brancato does not want the Riders to think the Als will be such easy pickings again.

Brancato says he is not to look back behind. We're 2-0 in games with Ottawa for the year and we just know this is going to be a close, hard game," Levy says.

Meanwhile, Brancato has warned his charges about complacency in the game. Only a few days are primed for this game with no injuries to speak of and morale when we got hot and lucky recently. It doesn't mean we don't have our troubles."

The Riders' only lineup change is the reactivation of Jim Corveyleon, formerly of Palmer who has recovered from a broken arm. Andy McLeod, who took his place for three games, has been released. Meanwhile Levy faces an agonizing choice over defensive end Bernie Witt, who doesn't appear sufficiently recovered from a knee injury to play. He doesn't want to put him on the injured list for fear of losing him for the Grey Cup.

Nonetheless, Levy will take Ah You's place and linebacker Jim Cope, who lost his starting job and was the cut, is with the Als for a five-day trial and may see duty today.

Skins May Deal Cards Second Spot

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

When the curtain comes down on Sunday's National Football League game in St. Louis, either the Cardinals or Washington Redskins will own first place in the Eastern Conference East.

"We've got to play a nearly perfect game," says Cards' coach Don Coryell. "If we don't, it's curtains."

He knows whereof he speaks. Last month, in a Monday night collision in Washington, the Cardinals gave the ball game five times. The result: a 27-17 victory by the Redskins.

In that game, Billy Kilmer was calling the signals for the Redskins. This time, though, he's out of business, the result of a partially torn hamstring muscle sustained last Sunday in New York.

If the Redskins win, they'll avenge the Cardinals' only loss, a sweep of Washington a year ago. The teams wound up tied in the end of the 1974 season, each with a 10-4 record.

But those two St. Louis triumphs gave the Cards the NFC East title and relegated the Redskins to "wild-card" status. Not that it really matters much. Both teams have knocked out of the playoffs in the first round.

In other NFL games Sunday, Dallas is at New England, Kansas City at Pittsburgh, Miami at Houston, Minnesota at New Orleans, Los Angeles at Atlanta, Cleveland at St. Louis, Denver at San Diego, Green Bay at Philadelphia, Buffalo at New York Giants, Chicago at San Francisco and New York Jets at Baltimore. On Monday night, Oakland at Detroit.

The Cowboys are a game out of first behind Washington and Dallas in the East. The Patriots, The Steelers can take at least a tie-for-second lead in the Eastern Conference Central Division by knocking off the Chiefs since Cincinnati, the other first-place shareholder, goes Monday night against the feeding Bills.

The Chiefs, expected to be out of the playoff chase early, are 4-4, two games back of Oakland and Denver in the Western Division, but they, figured to stay competitive, are 2-0 against the East but has lost three of its last four, including last two games behind the Dolphins.

Miami can solidify its Eastern lead and, at the same time, put a further damper on Houston's playoff aspirations. But the Oilers, who haven't had a victory since October, can be expected just one more victory to stay alive in the fight for the AFC Central race with the Steelers and Bengals.

Willie Burden – Stamp Back

Burden Captures WFC Trophies

EDMONTON (CP) — Willie Burden of Calgary Stampeders, the Western Football Conference nominee, as outstanding player in the Canadian Football League, received two conference awards Friday night.

Burden was given the Jeff Nicklin Memorial Trophy as most valuable player and the Eddie James Trophy as outstanding rusher.

The awards were announced in a news conference in connection with the sudden-death WFC final here Sunday between Edmonton Eskimos and Saskatchewan Roughriders.

Burden covered 1,897 yards on 323 attempts this season, bypassing a record set in 1961 by Earl Lunsford, who played that season for Calgary. He also surpassed a record of 323 carries in one season, set by Saskatchewan's George Reed this year.

Burden and Johnny Rodgers of Montreal Alouettes are the finalists for the outstanding player award in the CFL.

Also honored with WFC awards Friday were defensive end Bill Baker of British Columbia Lions, outstanding lineman; linebacker Larry Cameron of British Columbia, outstanding rookie; Dave Cutler of Edmonton, who won the Dave Dryburgh Trophy as scoring champion; wide receiver Tom Forzani of Calgary, outstanding Canadian; and offensive tackle Charlie Turner of Edmonton as top offensive lineman.

Forzani won the Dr. Beattie Martin Trophy and Turner the Demarco-Becket Memorial Trophy.

Bad All Over

The weatherman has promised wet football fields for all four Canadian football playoff games this weekend.

The Atlantic Bowl game today at Wolfville, N.S. a national college semi-final, faced the prospect of a soaked, muddy field following heavy rains that swept the area since Thursday.

Meanwhile, a light snow storm was heading for Ottawa where the other college semi-final game is scheduled Sunday following today's Canadian Football League Eastern Conference final.

Some rain but no snow was the prediction for Sunday's CFL Western Conference final in Edmonton.

More rain and wind was predicted today during the Atlantic Bowl which pits Acadia Axemen against the visiting Calgary Dinosaurs.

In Ottawa today, Montreal Alouettes, visit the Rough Riders in the EFC final but the Friday night snowfall was not expected to seriously affect the playing surface at Landowne Park where a modern drainage system under the field usually takes care of heavy precipitation.

Today's predicted high temperature for Ottawa was minus two.

The outlook for Sunday's Central Bowl game featuring University of Ottawa Gee-Gees and Windsor Lancers, also at Lansdowne Park, was for mostly cloudy weather.

Martin's Free Throws Good for Victory

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — John Cassidy of Halifax hit for two free throws in the final 15 seconds Friday night to lead the Canadian national basketball team to a 66-65 victory over Niagara University.

The Canadian team headed for the 1976 Olympics, led most of the way as they won their first game on a 16-game swing against U.S. collegiate teams.

With the score tied at 61-61 and 30 seconds left, Martin Riley of Winnipeg hit on a jumper from the foul circle to put Canada ahead.

Cassidy then sank his free throws before Niagara's Vern Allen tipped in a rebound with five seconds left.

Bill Robinson of Chemainus, B.C., led all scorers with 20 points. Mike Hanley was high for Niagara with 15.

Jamie Hazell of Burlington, Ont., added 14 points for Canada, and Cassidy finished with 12. Riley had 11 points and Bob Town of Winnipeg finished with eight.

The Canadians now travel to Albany, N.Y. for a game tonight with Siena University.

Who Took The Award?

OTTAWA (CP) — Montreal Alouettes owner Sam Berger may be 75 years old but he wished away from the Canadian Football Conference's awards luncheon here Friday with the Jeff Russel Memorial Trophy as the EFC's most valuable player.

The trophy was actually won by his cousin's superstar, Johnny Rodgers, but Rodgers' flanker Sankey the league for the award, said he wanted to give it to Berger for giving him his start in the league three years ago.

Rodgers, who was the league's top scorer and lost year, said he hoped to get twice after further this year and win the Schenley Trophy as the Canadian Football League's most valuable player.

Rodgers leads his Alouette Team-mates into today's EFC championship game against Ottawa Rough Riders. The luncheon was part of festivities leading up to the game.

Two Riders also received awards. Tom Foley, who has worked as halfback and receiver this year, was given the Lew Hayman Award as the outstanding Canadian in the EFC.

Quarterback Tom Clements who guided the Riders to first place in the EFC this year, received the Frank M. Gibson Award as the EFC's rookie of the year.

Dave Briggins of Montreal got the Leo Lamarque Award as outstanding offensive lineman in the EFC while Jim Portigal of Toronto Argonauts won the EFC's outstanding defensive lineman Jerrel, the James P. McCaffry Award.

JOHNNY RODGERS

Pickett Will Get Different Look

OTTAWA (CP) — Quarterback Dave Pickett will be reactivated by Windsor Sunday when Windsor Lancers, the winner of last Sunday's national season, goes against Ottawa Gee-Gees in the Atlantic Bowl college football playoff game.

Pickett, the centre of a storm over eligibility over eligibility rules in Canadian college football, was declared ineligible for the Lancers in this national semi-final playoff game.

The winner of Sunday's game advances to the Nov. 21 College Bowl in Toronto to meet the winner of today's Atlantic Bowl game in Wolfville, N.S.

The University of Ottawa Gee-Gees did not win its game against Windsor because Ottawa supported the Canadian Interuniversity Athletic Union (CIAU) in its efforts to suspend Windsor for using Pickett, who was declared ineligible under CIAU rules at the start of the season

On Thursday, Windsor won a ruling from the Ontario Supreme Court that the CIAU did not have the power to suspend Windsor and that the Lancers should be allowed to play against Ottawa, without Pickett in the lineup.

Births

SLEEPER — Mr. and Mrs. Darryl Sleeper are happy to announce the birth of their son, Mark Darryl, on Thursday, Nov. 11, 1971 at Belleville General Hospital. Weight 8 lbs., 7 oz. Special thanks to Dr. Richard and all staff on maternity.

In Memoriam

BLAIND, Betty — In cherished loving memory of a beloved wife, mother and grandmother, who departed from us one year ago today, November 13, 1970.
Sad and lonely next year has passed, Since our great sorrow came to us. The grief that we felt that day, No one could express.
God gave us strength to endure it, Time has crept by to bear the blow, But what it meant to lose you, No one will ever know.
You took no farewell, gave no farewell, Your world suddenly closed, Leaving your home before we knew it, And why God knows why.
—Forever loved, and so sadly missed by husband Ross, son Brian, daughter Belinda, daughter-in-law Donna and grandson Jeffrey.

MUIR — In loving memory of our dear mother, Minnie Muir, who passed away November 13, 1966.
Time heals not lessen their fragrance, Tho the feather loss its dew, Till the end of time, dear mother, I shall love and remember you.
—Lovingly missed and never forgotten, Edgar and Norma.

MUIR — In loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother, Minnie M. Muir, who passed away November 13, 1966.
Peacefully sleeping resting at last, The world's weary troubles and trials are past, In silence she suffered, In patience she bore, Till God called her home to suffer no more.
—Always remembered by Thelma and family.

Kentville Puts Marketing Skills to Orchard Sales

KENTVILLE, N.S. (CP) — "There is no doubt about it this year will test our marketing know-how," said a Nova Scotia department of agriculture official who has been looking into the orchard outlook for 1976.

"The grower is in a difficult position because he has precisely been the more expensive crop ever grown in the history of the Annapolis Valley," said tree specialist Charles Embree. It is expected that costs have risen at about the same rate as he national price index in the United States 1975-75. The index shows each increase at farm machinery, up 40 per cent; general supplies, up 44 per cent, and fertilizer, up 113 per cent.

The valley grower is faced with a heavy marketing pressure, said Mr. Embree.

"One thing for sure," said Mr. Embree, "poor quality fruit will not pay and may not even find a home."

"Consider this: storage and packaging could cost more than the return for juice, so the higher the percentage of poor fruit, the lower the grower's return."

The grower does have some useful chemical tools that increase artificially the quality of the harvest.

Chemicals will promote maturity and improve fruit color by 30 per cent, abiotrak says. Fruit with borderline color can be enhanced chemically.

One of the best natural aids to the grower is apet-picking-aid lacting from the trees only those fruits ready for market while leaving others to ripen and mature further.

"Not long ago apple marketing predicted that the old phenomena of biennial bearing could be corrected with new cultural techniques such as thinners," said Mr. Embree.

"So the big crop should be a thing of the past." Not so this year.

"Maybe it was the weather, we don't know, but certainly every apple-growing area on this side of the Atlantic has a very good crop."

The Nova Scotia crop this year is estimated 2.6 million bushels, compared to 2.3 million in 1974.

Witness Returns Stolen Ash Trays

TORONTO (CP) — Georgs Minden, owner of the Windsor Arms Hotel in Toronto received the following letter recently:

"I am humbly returning your ashtray to you which I did steal from you several years ago. I am very sorry that I stole it and ask you forgiveness. The reason I am returning it is because I became one of Jehovah's Christian Witnesses and I am trying to live according to the Bible now. So I am not stealing ashtrays any more, and I am trying to correct all the past errors that I can. I hope this ashtray does not get broken in the mail on the way back to you! Also I enjoyed eating at your restaurant very much.

"Sincerely,
"One of Jehovah's Witness"

Mr. Minden, wondering whether this might be the beginning of a trend, said: "I put the ashtrays and towels that disappeared from the Windsor Arms over the 40 years the hotel has been in existence were returned, we would be inundated and a storage problem would be created. I can only hope that past purloiners stagger their returns."

In a one-year period August, 1974, to August, 1975—Frank Falgarer, the hotel's food and beverage manager, reports the following cutlery missing from the hotel:

Coffee spoons, 1,970; dessert spoons, 1,310; dessert forks, 1,016; table knives—1,106; table forks, 1,265; tablespoons, 996. And pilfered ashtrays? Approximately 2,800.

As for missing towels, the hotel's housekeeping department counted its losses for a month, multiplied the figures by the total number of months the Windsor Arms has been in operation and came up with the following totals: hand towels, 41,472; bath towels, 17,280, and face cloths, 46,304.

Gas Station Now Uses Metric Measure

TORONTO (CP) — Motorists filling up at Pat Boyd's downtown gas station sometimes have to look twice at the pump when paying for their gas chase—the gasoline comes in litres.

Mr. Boyd's Sonoco franchise is billed as Canada's only metric filling station and he says he has had some customer complaints since the switch to metric last April.

"But not many come in screaming," he says. "Just some of the older people."

In fact, he says, customers are usually blase about the whole situation. Most do ask for a conversion table to see how many gallons they are paying for, but apart from that, there's little complaint.

Mr. Boyd says he doesn't know how much it cost to switch over the pumps but that the change has not affected his business one way or the other.

Volume has remained steady, although the switch to the metric system has meant a small saving for the customer.

He says his present price per litre is 66.9 cents for regular, works out to 73.5 cents per gallon. Before the changeover he was charging 79.9 cents a gallon for regular.

He says the average purchase was about 50 litres, or just about 11 gallons.

Motorists confused by the whole thing, he has a stock of pamphlets with conversion tables explaining that 10 litres equal 2 gallons and assuring the customer:

"Your dollar buys the same amount of gasoline whether it is measured in litres or in gallons."

With the gradual phasing in of metric units over the next few years, Mr. Boyd has just got off to an early start.

Now, how much is that in litres?

History Buffs Try To Restore Old Tug

OTTAWA (CP) — As the little tug Agnes P. sinks into the summer of her 75th year, a small group of steam and history buffs, the Friends of Agnes P. Society, are trying to raise 50,000 to restore the last steamboat to ply the Rideau River and Canal from Ottawa to Kingston, Ont.

The Agnes P., named after Agnes Phillips, an officer's wife remembered female, is quietly resting her heart out near the Rideau Manor Marina at Kars, 70 miles south of Ottawa.

Duncan duPresne, a director of the By Town Railway Society, and Charles Acton-Bond, who berthed the boat at his marina 11 years ago, are leading the group that hopes to restore the vessel.

They have interested the Rideau Valley Conservation Authority in the project, but the agency has no funds for restoration and can only provide some parts by placing them in a museum.

"I would like to see the Aggie kept whole and preserved as she looked when she was launched prior to 1900," duPresne said, a reminder of our river community when it was the quiet and unhurried way of wooden ships and iron men," said Mr. duPresne.

Built in 1913 of hand-hewn oak timbers by a man named Kelly in Masson, Que., for the federal railways and canals department, now the department of transport, the Agnes P. spent nearly 50 years working closely with the steam-powered dredge Rideau and two dump scows.

Tooling her melodious three-chamber whistle, the 50-foot long vessel with her 13-foot beam would lift the 30-foot system helping to clear away debris and cave-ins, and cut channel markers and hauling booms of squared timber to repair the many lock gates.

In later years, the Aggie is reported to have spent a lean along her bottom. This was regularly patched and time she passed near a clay bank.

Said No More

LONDON (CP) — When Mr. Justice Joyce, a newly-appointed High Court judge, took his seat for the first time he told lawyers: "I think the motto I should adopt on the bench is 'fool's voice is known by a multitude of words.' I'll say no more."

Unbalanced Diet Is Girl's Plight

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Doctor: I am a 19-year-old girl who weighs 140 lb. I know that is too much for me since I am only 5 feet tall.

I've asked my mother to take me to our doctor, but she says all he'll tell me is to cut out sweets. I know that's part of my being fat—that, and not exercising enough.

But what kind of diet can I go on? I go to school, so I can't bring a pork chop-brussel sprouts-coffee-type diet with me. So what kind of diet can I follow?—P. M.

Come now. You sound as though you are trying to rationalize your poor eating habits. You have a world of suitable alternatives to the lunch you mention.

How about a lean meat or cheese sandwich, skim milk, some fruit, or some raw vegetables (carrot sticks, radishes, etc.)? A hard-boiled egg can substitute for a sandwich.

You are much too heavy for your height. Sweets aren't the whole story, though. The lunches I suggest should hold you over until you get home, where a sensible snack can be waiting, perhaps a glass of skim milk.

What you need is determination. Watch out for snacks for fried foods, second helpings, and so forth. Instead of a second helping, sip a glass of water or unsweetened juice.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have been suffering for the last three and a half months with the spasmonic choroiditis.

My blood count is over 2,000. I'm told this is unusually high and that I have a stubborn case. I am being treated with cortisone, but there has been no improvement yet in my blurred vision.

What can you tell me about this disease and treatment? I always read your column, and I always get a lot of good information from it.—Mrs. R. S.

This tongue-twister is a parasitic disease which can be congenital or acquired. The congenital form exists when a pregnant woman has the disease and transmits it to the unborn child. The acquired form behaves like a viral infection and there is lymph gland and liver involvement.

The condition is not readily diagnosed, but it can be suspected from obvious eye involvement, including the changes in the retina, from where comes the name. This can cause the blurred vision you mention. Tiny tests (for antibodies) show a rather high percentage of persons have this disorder in some degree.

The parasites can be killed by eating lightly cooked meat or by modern freezing methods. Cats can get it from eating infected mice. A human confined cat is relatively safe unless the house has mice, but a rover is a prime suspect as a carrier of the infection.

Your high liver readings suggest a recently acquired infection, and one that is rather active. Treatment consists of use of pyrimethamine and sulfadiazine. Cortisone may be used to supplement these drugs. Caution is in order with the use of pyrimethamine, since it can cause an anemia and a decrease in the white blood cells.

It may be that your failure to improve on cortisone alone requires more extensive treatment. Subsequent liver tests would indicate the effectiveness of the present therapy.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My baby is six months old. When he is choking from eating or drinking, does it help to hold him up by his arms? Some people tell me it does.—Mrs. W. P.

The traditional sensible burping routine (rather patting on the back) with the baby's body held against a convenient shoulder is the best method. Lifting the child up by the arms doesn't to make much sense.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would you please discuss the "TUR" operation, and whether it is painful and how it is done? Does the condition return, and if so, is another such operation needed?—M.T.

T.U.R. stands for "transurethral resection." The procedure is for removal of a portion of an enlarged prostate gland through the urethra—the outlet from the bladder. It usually is quite successful, but on occasion the prostatic tissue can regenerate, requiring a second operation.

It is a commonly performed procedure for simple enlargement of the gland, and it avoids incision through the abdomen. The latter procedure is called "suprapubic prostatectomy."

Although the prospect of either procedure strikes fear into the hearts of many patients, modern techniques and equipment make them not that ponderous.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My granddaughter, age 21, is, but still of college. She complains of a squeaking noise in her bones anytime she moves around. What causes this? She is a healthy girl and full of life.—Mrs. J.S.

She is probably referring to a periodic cracking of the joints. This could be due to movement of the tendons over the joints or to movement of the thin cartilages within the joints.

A nuisance, but no problem.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Whenever I drink coffee it seems to make me hyper. My heart beats fast and I can't sit still. I am 25-years-old. I rarely drink it. But when I do I am pretty jittery. Why does this happen?—Mrs. N.C.

Because the caffeine in it is a stimulant. Need I remind you that there are several brands of decaffeinated coffee on the market?

LONDON (AP) — Rex Harrison, 67-year-old actor and film star, is being sued for divorce by his fifth wife, Elizabeth, whom he married in New York in 1971.

Mrs. Harrison's petition, filed in London divorce court Thursday, gives no reason. Under British law, an irretrievable breakdown of a marriage is regarded as sufficient reason for divorce.

Mrs. Harrison is the daughter of Lord Ogmore, a Liberal member of the House of Lords. Harrison's previous wives were Marjorie Noel, Collette Thomas and actresses Lilli Palmer, Kay Kendall and Rachel Roberts.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — June Pointer, the youngest of the four Pointer Sisters, has retired from concert performances because of extreme mental and physical exhaustion, a spokesman for the group announced.

Pat Paralla, publicity agent for the Pointer Sisters, said that the 20-year-old singer had relied on the recommendation of her physician.

Paralla said Miss Pointer may continue recording songs with her sisters, Anita, 37, Ruth 39, and Bonnie, 35, if her health permits. The Pointer Sisters will appear at future concerts as a trio, Paralla added.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Stephen McHattie has been chosen to star in James Dean: Portrait of a Friend, a two-hour movie for NBC Television.

Producers William Hart and John Forbes say McHattie bears a close resemblance to Dean, who died in an auto crash 20 years ago. McHattie appeared in such films as Von Richthofen and Brown, The People Next Door and The Ultimate Warrior. He also has appeared on TV in Kojak and the movie Search for the Gods.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Anjelica Huston and Tina Aumont, both daughters of famous film families, have been signed to appear in Universal movies.

Miss Huston, daughter of John and granddaughter of Walter Huston, will appear in The Blarney Cock, a pirate epic starring Robert Shaw. She made her film debut under her father's direction in A Walk with Life and Death in 1970.

Sunday and Monday Horoscopes

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

For Sunday, Nov. 14

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You'd better give some serious thought now as to how you intend to clear up obligations you owe in two different parties.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Don't make important decisions late in the day. You'll not be thinking as clearly as you should. Rest you sleep on it.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Problems today will be of your own making. If you keep this in mind, trouble can be avoided.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Avoid attending a function this evening where you could run into someone you've had unkind words with. The matter is not yet resolved.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You're extremely vulnerable today where your pride is concerned. Don't take yourself too seriously. Don't expect applause if none is due you.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Today you're apt to search more diligently for faults in others than for their good points. Try not to criticize unless it's constructive.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) You'll come out on the short end if you're involved in a financial situation with a friend today.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) The early part of the day will be pleasant, but toward evening neither you nor your mate will be as liberal as one might wish or you should be.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Slow down a bit or you're likely to push your mental and physical energies beyond their limits today.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) If you're too insistent upon having your own way today you'll have to pay the price for everyone. Relax. Let your hair down.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Don't begin a do-it-yourself project around the house late in the day. You'll upset things more than you'll improve them.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) If you go out this evening and make a late night of it, don't try to catch up for lost time by driving home in a hurry.

Monday, Nov. 17

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your generosity takes care of urgent financial matters today. Problems will occur later if you let things drift.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Spend more time today taking care of situations directly affecting your self-interest. Don't worry about the affairs of others.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Normally you're at your best being where the action is, but today you should avoid gatherings. They'll just bore you.

Opening lead—K ♥

By Oswald and James Jacoby

Jim: "There is an opening lead made on every hand. Sometimes it doesn't make any difference what you lead. On other occasions it means the difference between making and losing the contract."

Oswald: "Against a slam contract your first decision must be whether to lead to attack; your second, where to attack! If attack appears to be called for."

Jim: "Now take a look at the West hand. You hold the king of trumps and two queens, yet your opponents have galloped into a slam. You expect your copies of trumps will be a winner. South has bid two, three and six spades. Where is the other trick going to come from?"

Oswald: "The answer is that if it is going to come from diamonds your partner will have a diamond trick that will keep. If it is going to come from hearts or clubs, then you had better lead one of those suits right away."

Jim: "The suit to attack is is clearly your short one. You only have three hearts. There is a good chance that you will score a heart trick if your partner holds the king. You lead 4 and North-South complain of bad luck. Lead anything else and they score the slam."

Ask the Jacobys

A Kentucky reader wants to know how to bid against the Woodson two-way notrump.

Fortunately, this bid is like the whooping crane and is almost extinct. The opening notrump shows either 15-17 or 16-18 points. The best way to handle it is to let the user get into trouble on his own. He will do so.

Judgement Reserved Against Demeter

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario resources ministry will be asked to do what it can to bring both sides in the pulp and paper strike back to the bargaining table, Labor Minister Dr. Bette Stephenson said Friday.

She was replying in the legislature to a question by Mel Swart (NDP—Wetland), who suggested the government "use a considerable clout" it has in its control of the timber-cutting rights of Abitibi Paper Co. Ltd.

The Canadian Paperworkers' Union has been on strike against Abitibi for several months.

Dr. Stephenson said she will ask Resources Minister Leo Bernier "about whatever he can possibly do to bring both of these parties back to the table because this is essential."

Wednesday, the labor minister indicated during question period negotiations between the two sides were in recess.

She said Friday the ministry mediator decided last week after talking to both sides that there was no point in further negotiations and adjourned the bargaining session.

Ministry officials have been instructed to press hard for a return to negotiations in the near future, she added.

Richard Smith (L—Niagara) asked the minister whether she was aware that the company's last offer was below the controls imposed by the federal government.

Dr. Stephenson said action will be taken by the ministry if there is evidence of bargaining in bad faith.

Security Tightened At Queen's Park

TORONTO (CP) — Security provisions at Queen's Park have been expanded as a result of a demonstration there Oct. 28 involving the Union of Injured Workers, Speaker Russell Rowe said Friday.

In a report to the legislature, Mr. Rowe said five union members were taken to hospital but none were admitted.

About 200 demonstrators gathered at Queen's Park to protest lack of programs for injured workers and demanded a meeting with Labor Minister Dr. Bette Stephenson.

The report, ordered by Premier William Davis, said demonstrators will no longer be allowed within the series of arches and platforms immediately in front of the building.

Mr. Rowe said he believes the incident "reflected the pain, anger and frustration which many individuals and groups throughout the world today are experiencing and the resulting clash with authority which sometimes occurs."

But demonstrations outside the legislature that cause unwarranted risk of personal injury to those taking part, or bystanders, cannot be condoned, he added.

The speaker said when the demonstrators learned they would not be allowed inside the building, "a heated melee" developed in which police were forced back to the main doors of the building.

Controls Considered

TORONTO (CP) — Solicitor-General John MacBeth said Friday the Ontario government will consider requesting stores to register and record all firearm sales between now and when federal gun-control legislation is passed.

Larry Grossman (PC—Toronto St. Andrew-St. Patrick) asked the minister during question period to take action against extensive advertising by many stores selling fire-arms.

Few Maritime Minds Changed Over Price-wage Restraints

HALIFAX (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau's Halifax talk on price and wage controls Friday appeared to change few positions, although the head of the Liberal party showed on his two-day visit here thought some attitudes had changed on the restraint-program.

Labor generally showed no more confidence in the government's economic policies than before, while business officials appeared to accept them with reservations.

The prime minister held a two-hour meeting with about 90 business, labor, education and municipal officials Friday, then slug about 30 minutes longer than his schedule provided for the closed-door talks.

Mr. Trudeau later visited a senior citizens home and then returned to Ottawa.

Gerald Yetman, president of the Nova Scotia Federation of Labor, said the group was opposed to the program before the prime minister's visit, "and we're still opposed to it."

"We didn't get any answers to our questions satisfactorily."

A. A. Brait, president of the Atlantic Provinces Economic Council (APEC), said the prime minister's visit "served a useful purpose . . . although I'm not sure how receptive he was to specific problems."

Mr. Brait said he believed many who attended the meeting changed their attitude toward the controls.

Earlier in the day, Mr. Trudeau told a news conference labor leaders "haven't closed the door" on the wage and price control program.

He said the government had been meeting with labor leaders since the program was announced.

The prime minister said during the recording of a program at CFCH-TV here that "labor leaders have given me a fair hearing."

Asked if there would be more government intervention in the marketplace, the prime minister said he hoped not. But if constitutional amendments were necessary to solve inflation on a long term basis, the idea "was not inconceivable."

Government Acts On Paper Strike

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Appeal Court is proceeding Friday with the public was forbidden to attend, reserved judgment in the appeal of Peter Demeter, convicted of the murder of his wife.

The proceedings were heard behind locked doors by counsel for Demeter; the Crown, court officials and reporters. The reporters were required to produce identification and received written instructions from Ontario Chief Justice George Gale.

The judge's instructions banned publicity of proceedings without his consent. No such dispensation was given Friday.

The order of no publicity was given "in the interest of the administration of justice and to avoid the possibility of any prejudice in the event that a new trial is ordered," the instructions said.

"Any violation of any part of this order will be regarded as contempt of court and will be dealt with accordingly."

The order said when the judgment is released, parts of the reasons publicly can may be reported but "any such reporting is to be confined to the actual words used in the judgment".

Proceedings resumed Friday after being adjourned last Oct. 17.

At present, Demeter, 43, is serving a life sentence in prison. A jury in London, Ont. convicted him last Dec. 5 of murder by having hired someone to kill his wife, Christine, 32, at the time of her death in July, 1973.

Edward Greenspan, Demeter's lawyer at the appeal, has said in arguments for a new trial that errors were made by Demeter's trial judge, Mr. Justice Campbell Grant. Mr. Greenspan has sought to introduce new evidence.

Crown Attorney David Watt has said none of the trial judge's errors are sufficient to warrant a new trial and that Mr. Greenspan's new evidence is inadmissible or irrelevant.

Ajax Truck Driver Faces Charges Following Fatal Accident

BY ROBIN CHASE
Staff Reporter

SHANNONVILLE — Four members of a Montreal family are dead, another is in hospital and an Ajax man faces charges following a pickup-truck collision Saturday on Highway 401 east of Shannonville and 9½ miles east of Belleville.

Belleville OPP identified the dead Saturday as Anna Maria Lucca, 33, her 18-month-old son Lorenzo, Maria Lucca, 65 and Lorenza Lucca, 66.

Police said they were passengers in a 1970-model Maverick driven by Pietro Lucca, 20, who was transferred Sunday from Belleville General Hospital to Montreal in fair condition with burns to his back and hands.

Police also said they have charged William Bernard Matson, 24, of 1 Edward St. in Ajax but added the nature of the charges will not be disclosed until Matson appears in Belleville provincial court for the first time Nov. 24.

Matson was released Saturday on an undertaking to a justice of the peace to appear in court.

Both the Lucca car and a 1½ ton GMC truck were westbound in the driving lane when the rear-end collision occurred, propelling the car across the passing lane and into the median, police said.

Constable Fred Hamelink, the investigating officer, said as the car skidded across the passing lane, the gasoline tank dropped and split open and the resulting heat due to friction during the skid caused it to ignite as the car entered the median.

He said he was on zone patrol at 1:06 p.m. when he came upon the scene about four minutes after the accident occurred.

Constable Hamelink related that he and a passerby assisted the driver who had managed to crawl out of his burning vehicle through the driver's side window.

"We tried to get back but the heat and flames were so intense," he said. "There is nothing we could do, you feel so helpless."

Constable Hamelink said both the Point Anne division of Thurlow Township Volunteer Fire Department and Quinte Ambulance at Corbyville responded and an independent trucker volunteered the use of his vehicle to transport the destroyed car to Marysville where a temporary morgue was set up.

He said the bodies, transferred Sunday to Montreal, were removed to the Belleville hospital where a post mortem was deemed unnecessary due to the obvious cause of death by fire.

He added there was no attempt to remove the bodies from the car at the scene due to their unstable condition. Coroner at the scene was Dr. W.F. Bales of Belleville.

Constable Hamelink, who estimated $500 damage to the truck's front end, pointed out the accident was the second one on the site in two weeks but the detachment's jurisdiction where an accident on Sept. 1 had happened.

The police spokesman added that 11 people have been killed in motor vehicle accidents in the past 29 days in Ontario Provincial Police No. 9 District — a usual six-month total.

Union Not Worried

3 Inside Workers Here Cross Lines

By CLIFF KENYON
Staff Reporter

Belleville city and rural letter carriers hit the streets today after three members of striking CUPW crossed picket lines to return to work.

Belleville postmaster Roy Wainwright said two workers returned to work Friday and another joined them today.

Local mail boxes are to be cleared, mail sorted and delivered by 41 letter carriers laid off Oct. 24 as a result of the strike by inside workers. No mail will go in or out of the city. The three of about 45 inside workers, said Mr. Wainwright, will have no difficulties sorting local mail. He said they can sort about 1,000 pieces an hour.

Five of seven full-time employees at two part-time workers at the Picton post office returned to work today.

Postmaster Robert Carter said although the post office lacks a full staff, local mail deliveries now can be handled. Also side services to Cherry Valley, Milford and Demorestville will be resumed.

He added there is still no highway service between Picton and Belleville.

Mail carriers in Trenton and Brighton returned to work last Monday. There are 11 workers in Trenton and six in Brighton. All have returned.

Walter Yateman, Belleville and Brighton local CUPW president, said in a telephone interview Monday, the return of the union members has not "too badly" affected union morale.

"It's just the normal run of scabs. We have people who have never supported us much and we expected it. The morale is good among the other fellows," said Mr. Yateman.

Union members met Saturday to discuss return of the workers.

"I was there when they went in this morning. We asked them to stop and talked to them," explained Mr. Yateman.

Picketers, he said, have instructions not to harrass those returning to work. Pickets are to stand back as they enter the building and ask them to stop "verbally".

Asked about possible violence on the picket line, said Mr. Yateman: "I know there won't be any trouble as long as I'm president of the local."

He said about 35 union members are manning the 24-hour-day picket line and doubled up on picket duty.

"There is only one more member who is not supporting us who could," he said.

Members of United Auto Workers and United Electrical Workers unions joined in support of the strike by picketing at the post office during the weekend, said Mr. Yateman.

Announcement Friday of strike pay from the national organization "cheered up" members, he said.

Referring to the inside workers, Mr. Wainwright said it is "strictly their decision" to return to work.

To avoid afternoon bulldup when mail boxes are emptied, Mr. Wainwright said he asks residents to mail letters at the post office.

He said residents should only post local mail: "Outside mail will just pile up."

Cabinet May Approve More Funds to End Strike

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The national postal strike crawled through a weekend provoking little blizzard to its 24th day today, still with no sign the government or the Canadian Union of Postal Workers (CUPW) intend to resume negotiations.

Already the longest postal strike in Canadian history, it has destroyed dozens of small businesses dependent on the mails for survival, created others filling the void left by the strike and already made it impossible to mail Christmas parcels or cards outside the workers' local area with any hope of arrival this year.

The union continues to demand $2.75 an hour over its average base pay of $4.58 an hour in a 27-month contract and Postmaster-General Bryce Mackasey continues to say he only has $1.70 an hour additional available over a 30-month contract.

All but this basic monetary bundle has been passed by negotiators.

Cabinet May approve more funds to end the strike, Mackasey said Friday that Treasury Board President Donald Macdonald, of the federal cabinet, might approve a larger offer by Mr. Mackasey, as has been urged by union spokesmen. But no sign of that has shown by Sunday night.

Meanwhile, in Montreal local, the most militant in the country, had a show of solidarity Sunday at which 4,400 inside workers pledged support for their executive.

Marcel Pepin, the fiery local president, told the workers the first 100 days of Canada Post's history would start functioning Monday.

But there was no union proof. Most Joe Davidson—who was in Western Canada drumming up support—said whether he had came from or how much each Western vessel take home a week from it.

Economic Summit

Western Leaders Urge Co-opertion

RAMBOUILLET, France (CP) — Western leaders at an six-power economic conference today pledged to stabilize prices, protect more jobs and ensure that recovery from the world's deepest recession since the 1930s does not falter.

"These talks have deepened our understanding and sympathetic of our mutual economic interdependence," French President Ford told a news conference later.

"The people of our countries can look forward to more jobs and less inflation and a greater sense of security," President Ford added as the weekend talks ended.

French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing said a new spirit of international co-operation has emerged from the talks.

"What is important is what I would call the Spirit of Rambouillet, a spirit of co-operation and international responsibility to ensure that the world economy will recover the lasting stability and growth that is necessary for the well-being of all peoples of the world," the French leader said.

He spoke a much statement said that in consolidating economic recovery, it is important to avoid stimulating additional inflationary forces which might threaten its success.

"We will not allow the recovery to be jeopardized," the statement said. "We will not accept another outbreak of inflation."

It was issued by the leaders of the United States, Britain, France, West Germany, Italy and Japan after three days of talks.

The declaration contained a lengthy passage relating to a combined approach to the international energy crisis. Its main points:

—The world's economic expansion is directly linked to the availability of increasing supplies of energy.

—The industrialized nations resolved to make theses resources available for the growth of their economies.

—Consumer interests demand that the six countries continue to co-operate to reduce their dependence on imported energy through conservation and through the building-up of alternative sources.

—Consumer countries remain ready to co-operate with the oil-producing states to achieve a balanced and steadily-developing energy market.

The six defined their most urgent task as being the achievement of "stable and durable growth which will re-establish business and consumer confidence" and "permanent employment with its waste of human resources."

On the key issue of wildly-fluctuating exchange rates that threatened the collapse of the world money system, the declaration made two major points.

Monetary authorities, presumably meaning central banks, will act to counter disorder in the money markets caused by speculation and other factors.

The conference, as a whole, supported apparent conciliation of American and French views on the need for currency stability and on ways of achieving it.

He showed no interest until mother picked him up — and he left, with some of Santa's beard clutched in one hand.

Economic Summit Urges Tariff Cuts, Stable Rates

RAMBOUILLET, France (AP) — An international economic summit conference ends today with six Western nations agreeing to press for new tariff cuts and more-stable currency exchange rates.

Leaders of the United States, France, Britain, West Germany, Italy and Japan reached tentative agreement Sunday. Their aides went to work on a final statement calling for a renewal of near-stalemated trade negotiations in Geneva and adoption of guideposts for currency-exchange rates.

A conference spokesman said the negotiations which began Saturday at the 14th-century chateau of Rambouillet, 28 miles southwest of Paris, were "precise, fruitful and in depth."

The agreement on exchange rates, aimed at ending a long dispute between the United States and France, was expected to establish limits within which currency values could vary in international money markets without the central banks buying or selling to control the rate of exchange.

President Ford said he is "confident we can find a way to wrap up this issue," his economic co-ordinator, William Seidman, told reporters.

France wants to return to a system of fixed exchange rates but recently relaxed its stand. The United States also is for fixed floating exchange rates, but Seidman said Washington would not object if other nations tried to keep the rates for their currencies within set limits "as long as we are free to follow floating exchange rates."

Ford told the other heads of government Sunday that the United States would welcome foreign investment in new U.S. energy projects and promised to export a portion of the output wherever possible.

Seidman said there is no current barrier to members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) investing in U.S. energy programs and claiming part of the payoff.

The conference also focused on ways to reinvigorate tariff-reduction negotiations now stalling in Geneva. Ford told the other government chiefs he felt the Geneva talks should be completed by 1977 and should produce tariff reductions on a scale at least as great as those sought in during the Kennedy-Round talks in the 1960s.

Civil Service Supports Guidelines

OTTAWA (CP) — The executive of a federal civil service union local has defied a demand by the Public Service Alliance of Canada to oppose the government's anti-inflation program.

The executive of Local 111, Taxation component local, said the call by their union and the Canadian Labor Congress (CLC) to oppose the legislation as anti-Canadian was an obstruction of the government's right to pass laws and a discredit to the labor movement.

Members of the local executive said in an interview Friday that another reason for their opposition to the campaign is the fact that about one dozen of the local's 1,200 Ottawa members have been seconded to help administer the anti-inflation program.

Local president John MacGowan and director Verne Graham said the alliance's commitment to spend $40,000 fighting the government amounts to a demand that they discredit their employer, the federal government—and their own members who are enforcing the program.

The executive members noted that the executive of the Canadian Union of Postal Workers has been accused of ignoring the wishes of its membership by refusing to submit the government's last offer to a vote.

"Are we coming to this?" asked Mr. Graham.

Corke Still Trying for Hillcrest Sewer Cost Aid

These are the latest developments in the Hillcrest sewer services issue:

Mayor Ben Corke says he now hopes to meet with Ontario Environment Minister George Kerr to re-open the possibility of provincial aid to offset high taxes in Hillcrest caused by sanitary sewer installations.

Reeve Horace Casey of neighboring Thurlow Township has protested that cost comparisons claimed for the installation of similar services in his municipality are incorrect.

Flat rates are still being worked out. But estimates of what householders could pay for sewer services, so far are higher than the annual $139 which has been widely quoted, he says.

Mayor Corke said he had talked with a housing ministry official on the Hillcrest situation Wednesday while at Queen's Park with a delegation from Belleville General Hospital discussing funding issues with the health ministry.

Earlier last week it had been hoped the mayor would meet with Housing MMinister John Rhodes after the comparisons claimed for the installation of similar services in his municipality are incorrect.

Film Has Local Flavor

A 17-minute Canadian film on seat belt safety currently shown with Recommendation for Mercy at Quinte Mall Cinemas has a local flavor.

Constable Don Knyrk, community service officer with Ontario Provincial Police at Belleville, said today the film, produced by the provincial ministry of transportation and communications, features an idea he and fellow officer, Constable Brian Turner, conceived early this year.

The idea developed from the officers' presentations to public school students on seat belts using fresh eggs, strapped and unstrapped in model cars run down a ramp — to show the effects of wearing or neglecting to wear a seat belt.

Constable Knyrk said all Famous Players Theatres in Ontario are showing the film as public service and early response has been favorable.

Suspect Held in Fires

A 38-year-old Belleville man has been charged with three counts of arson charges in connection with a spate of fires during the past four months.

Daniel Higgins, 117B Victoria Ave., was charged Friday in connection with two fires in buildings on Victoria Ave. and one on Cannifton Rd.

Damage in an apartment block at 90-92 Victoria Ave., was estimated at about $40 000 after a fire Oct. 17. The first alarm for the two-alarm blaze at the 100-year-old apartment block was turned in about 2.15 a.m. A second alarm followed about 35 minutes later.

Chief Leo Culhane said following the fire there was extensive fire and water damage to the top floor and water and smoke damage to the ground floor. Eleven tenants of the building secured unlisted.

Higgins faces a third connection with a fire Nov. 3 at a Cannifton leased two-storey home.

Fire in the building divided into three apartments broke out about 9 p.m. in the rear in the chimney area of the building.

The fire took about one-and-a-half hours to extinguish. No damage estimate has as yet been made.

Higgins faces a third charge in connection with a fire in a garage off Victoria Ave.

Cruiser Clipped

Three people, including a city police officer, were treated and released for cuts and bruises from injuries at General Hospital Saturday following a two-car collision at the intersection of Bridge and Front Streets.

Chief Douglas Crosbie identified the officer today as Constable Brian Mitchell, 35, passenger in a patrol car driven by Constable Steve Tebworth.

The two persons injured in the other car are identified as Stephen Goulah, 18, or RR 3, Tweed, the driver and a passenger, Patricia Elliott, 15 of RR 1, Tweed.

Chief Crosbie said the Goulah vehicle was westbound on Bridge St. when it turned in front of the eastbound patrol car to proceed south on Front St. when the accident occurred.

He said damage was estimated at $800 in each vehicle in the 6:37 p.m. mishap which is still under investigation.

Fire Levels Cottage

MYERS COVE — Fire of unknown origin levelled a cottage early Friday at the western end of Kashwakamak Lake near Woodcrest Park just east of this hamlet, located about 50 miles northeast of Belleville.

Chief John Bolton of Northbrook Volunteer Fire Department said Friday the clapboard-sided structure owned by James Baker of Oshawa, was unoccupied at the time it was destroyed at about 1 a.m. during high winds which knocked down electrical wires in the area.

He said the building, 14-by-24 feet in dimension, was levelled by the time firefighters arrived. He said when the blaze was noticed by a caller, the cottage was half destroyed.

Bill McDonald of Clayne, an Ontario Hydro official, said Friday hydro investigators found no evidence of electrical causes but noted a neighbor had observed someone in the premises a year or so previous and the cottage contained an oil stove heater.

Mid-air Hookup Requires Timing

By JERRY BROWN

NORTH ATLANTIC — The five planes are flying at 500 mph with less than six feet separating the four smaller CF-5 fighters and this time it is not part of an air show to amuse and entertain.

The pilots have been crammed into cramped, 2½ by 3½ by 3 foot cockpit boxes for three hours and they still must ensure another three hours of tight quarters before the air-to-air refueling exercise is completed. Occasionally they can eat some of the steak and chocolate or zip orange juice from their lunch bag but they can't walk down the aisle and use the facilities like some other aircraft passengers.

Long Leap II is more than half completed and the transoceanic refueling exercise is working smoothly as the bigger Boeing 707 acting as the tanker, provides the smaller, faster more manoeuverable single-pilot CF-5 with the fuel necessary to keep the fighters airborne.

The key word is confidence. The fighter pilots must have confidence in the ability of their comrades in other jets, themselves and the ability of the 707 tanker and its crew to keep feeding the necessary fuel to keep their planes airborne longer than the estimated 12 hours flight time.

The CF-5 can travel at speeds in excess of 1,000 mph when acting as a tactical fighter in support of ground forces or in an independent activity but for the purposes of this exercise, which would be necessary to transfer the planes great distances, it flies in formation with the 707.

The close co-operation between the two squadrons involved, the French speaking 435 Escadrille Tractique De Combat based in Bagotville and the 437 Husky Squadron or 707 unit from Trenton, is displayed in the confidence of all the pilots and technical crews on the planes.

"All our flying lives we have been taught the worst thing to do was to hit something while in the air and now we have to force ourselves, recondition our thinking, to fly directly at the hose to refuel our aircraft," said Capt. Ray Levasseur, a CF-5 pilot.

The refueling is performed by lowering a 40-foot hose from the end of the 707. The hose has a metal basket on the end which the fighters plug a receiving tube into and then continue to fly in formation at 500 mph while the fuel transfer takes place.

Twice a year the fighter pilots must update their certification and fly a refueling exercise with the tankers. The CF-5 squadron is the only tactical air squadron in eastern Canada and they would be used in an emergency conflict to provide air support for ground forces.

During peace time the squadron performs in air shows and is sometimes used during civilian emergencies in a photo-reconnaissance role. The planes are equipped with cameras that can take pictures from almost any altitudes and have been deployed during floods and land slides to take pictures and provide information to local rescue agencies.

The Husky squadron have five 707 in its fleet, two of which are equipped to perform double duty as tankers. Normally the 707 ferry service personnel across the ocean but they are also used in exercises with the fighters to keep both units at top operational efficiency.

"In an emergency we can be on our way anywhere in the world within one hour and join the tanker in flight, but this refueling is very dangerous and it is necessary to work hard to reduce the risks," Capt. Levasseur said.

Most Museums in County Report Attendance Increase

By TERRY SPRAGUE
Staff Reporter

PICTON — Attendance at the Prince Edward County's Museum here this year was "very good", says curator, James Gooding.

He attributes the success this year to "something going on all the time". The Diefenbaker dedication of the memorial chancel was attended by 350 people most of whom were county residents.

The museum, which operates on a year-round basis, is currently restoring the 150-year-old Macaulay House, built by the late Rev. Wm. Macaulay.

Also reporting a good year was Mrs. Mildred Ross, curator of the North Marysburgh Museum, near Wellington. Attendance is up this year, she said, and among those visiting the museum were people from Germany. The site is an early German settlement; Mrs. Love commented. The museum this year featured a number of hand-made coverlets and quilts.

Willis Metcalf of the Mariners' Museum at South Bay said attendance here this summer was better than last year. Selfsend new artifacts were added this year and a new addition to the Marine Museum to house the growing exhibit, is included in future plans for the park and museum. This year's Mariners' Memorial Service, in August, was attended by some 500 people.

Curator of the Ameliasburgh Museum, Harry Bisbee, said this year's attendance was "down a bit" and attributes the decline to hot weather during summer and a lack of school tours. This summer, two activity days were held, he said, featuring the operation of many of the museum's exhibits. Among the new acquisitions this year was a 50-foot windmill, smoke house, sap shanty and an original Massey-Harris tractor.

The Wellington Museum enjoyed an "all-time high attendance", reported Ruth Armstrong, curator here. Among this season's activities were a meeting of Quakers in October and a Bell Telephone display, featuring the Picton and Wellington offices.

Although the museum is open only from Victoria Day until Labor Day, the museum can be opened any time for tours and groups by contacting the curator, said Mrs. Armstrong. She said a museum should be "commonly spirited", and treated more as part of the community rather than just a building to house exhibits.

PICTON — The Picton detachment of the OPP are investigating the theft of $25 from the Apostolic Missionary Institute at Prince Edward Heights. The theft was reported Saturday morning.

Dog Shot, Owner Offers Reward for Information

DEMORESTVILLE — A reward has been offered for information concerning the shooting of a purebred dog in the vicinity of Main St. here Sunday morning.

Owner of the injured Irish Setter, Carol Riopel of the Hitching Rail says she has told police of the incident and will pay reward money for further details.

Ms. Riopel was indoors Sunday when she heard her pet Brandy howl in pain. She said that he appeared on the street seconds later with what was believed to be a bullet wound in his paw.

Ms. Riopel observed the Irish Setter as a family pet and, like most other dogs in Demorestville, runs loose.

She added that he is extremely gentle and the family has never received a complaint about him from community residents.

There have been recent complaints however about dogs chasing cattle in the area.

She observed that she is concerned because her pet has been injured and expensive veterinary care is required. Also she is alarmed by the fact that such an incident could have occurred.

Ms. Riopel felt that the shooting typifies the need for gun controls as it occurred in or near the main road running through the hamlet.

Government Backs Away from Guaranteed Income Plan Estimated in Billions

By VINCENT EGAN
Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst
Thomson News Service

It may be one more that's straw in the wind, but the federal government is backing away from at least one major new type of public spending.

The guaranteed annual income program may not go ahead "at the present time," according to Finance Minister Donald Macdonald.

The initial cost of a guaranteed annual income for Canadians has been put at $4-billion.

But it has been estimated by Frank Capon, a past president of the Canadian Institute of Chartered Accountants, that the cost could jump to between $20-billion and $50-billion within two or three years.

That estimate could well be too high. Nobody knows just how much wealth would be redistributed under such a plan.

But there's no denying the fact that such new bureaucratic program—no matter how noble its aim—requires an equally new bureaucracy to administer it.

And that's where the finance minister and his cabinet colleagues have—with not-so-laudable intent—put a ripple of cast spending restraint.

The new anti-inflation program, for example, will cost about $10-million a year to administer.

About the same amount is being spent by Information Canada—although you are unlikely to find anyone in the communications business whose access to government information has improved thereby.

The cost of issuing cheques for family allowances and to old-age pensioners was running at more than $5-million a month in 1974.

That's just the paper-shuffling cost. The total of actual benefits paid out has taken an enormous jump since the monthly family allowance was increased to $20 per child from $12 at the beginning of 1974.

This year's family allowances will total more than $2-billion, partially offset by some $400-million in income tax clawbacks payments. The net figure is about three times the pre-1974 cost.

As the finance minister conceded in his presentation to the conference of institutional investing, pay increases for public servants this year have been about one and a half times the average hike in the private sector—more than 20 per cent vs. 14 per cent.

"We are accepting responsibility to cut back on this," he said.

Mr. Macdonald thinks the federal government's "actual cash requirements" (a euphemism for deficit) will be under $6-billion this year.

Some non-governmental forecasts have suggested a whopping deficit of more than $7-billion. The finance minister said these projections are "rather wild."

But even the unprecedented deficit figures proposed by Mr. Macdonald and his predecessor, John Turner, of between $5-billion and $6-billion would suggest that government spending is out of control.

Worse still, our political leaders show no real interest in bringing it under control.

Nor, of course, do the bureaucrats. It's country has roughly three federal employees for every two in the United States, when population differences are taken into account—and the top Canadian civil-service salary of $62,500 is across $2,500 per year higher than the U.S. maximum.

Thriving new share-the-wealth programs are just a start. Ottawa and the provinces must try to keep control of their spending functions, and eliminate the overlapping of the dollar wood, before the deficits become so great as to sink the economy.

Apartment Balcony Hazard

Oshawa Times

Raised in the old school where a cuff on the ear was accepted as being the only way to learn the rules of life, we were somewhat taken aback this month when a coroner's jury recommended that apartment dwellers be compelled by law to put devices on windows to prevent children from falling out of them. The Mississauga jury was inquiring into the death of an eight-year-old who had fallen to his death from an apartment window.

The recommendation recalls a similar proposal made by another coroner's jury hurtling into the death of another tot who had wandered about a mile from her home beside the tracks of a train in Scarborough. That jury recommended that the railway build a chain-link fence along the track boundaries to prevent such accidents again. The fence was built although how such an arrangement would prevent a tot from walking around the end of the fence into the path of a train at a crossing still escapes us.

But, back to the apartment windows problem. As any apartment resident can attest, children there seem to be exceptionally adept at taking things apart — like elevator controls, garbage chute doors, the intercom system.

On the basis of such limited research, we would have to bet that nothing short of a barred window, as in a jail, would prove to be child-proof.

Thus, the responsibility for a child's safety still rest upon the parents. If a child is so immature that he would climb out of a second-floor window, he was he left alone to do so? Or are we justified in ask big government even to be responsible for governing our children within the four walls of home?

The Lost Work Ethic

Canada is one of the most stable, democratic, and prosperous countries on earth. This is on the credit side; but on the debit it is being threatened by twin evils in the shape of too much welfarism and the growth of a populace which, with hand forever out, is never satisfied with what it has got.

It's true that wages should meet the cost of living and rise accordingly, but when the prime motivation is greed or still more money for its own sake — ignoring the fact that this is contributing to the further decline of the dollar — is to question what is behind it all.

The right to strike is all very well, but it should not be regarded as carte blanche to every union or group in the country to down tools and withdraw its quota of effort in the day-to-day business of making the country function. And this, too, at a time when the Government has instituted controls in an attempt to ease inflationary pressure.

In this situation the inside postal workers are sent on the job. How secondary school teachers in Metro Toronto have quit also. Of course they all have a cause they feel is just, but what it all adds up to is "more . . . more . . . more money."

The frightening thing about this is the general attitude prevailing which pule narrow interests before the general good and before the need of a properly functioning society working for the benefit of all.

A reader has sent us an article which envisages what it would be like for families in the event of absolutely everyone giving up on the job — leaving a society without any essential services whatsoever, including food, electricity, police, firemen and so on.

It's all in the realm of hypothesis, and an unlikely enough eventuality, but it does illustrate starkly the essential interdependence of all sections of society. When first one group quits, then another, and so on and on, we have the makings of anarchy and chaos.

Mankind was meant for better things than this. As it is, when most of us have not had the necessities of life, but a lot more besides, where is the need for more — to the detriment of others and the economy as a whole.

This persistent grasping for more and obsession with money per se which is ruining the country and its citizens of much of their former credibility and integrity.

Unemployment Contributions May Rise And It Will Not Come as Easy as Before

Trois-Rivieres Le Nouvelliste: Unemployment remains an acute problem in Canada.

For those who think that now is anything we should require increased contributions to the Unemployment Insurance Commission (UIC) from workers and employers. The bill would also make access to UIC benefits more difficult.

Robert Andras, federal manpower and immigration minister recently told the Commons that the government would save $80 million if the law were passed by Jan. 1.

On the other hand, workers and employers would pay $400 million more in assessments during the current levels.

It would appear that the federal government is trying to delegate one of its most important responsibilities to private enterprise and to labor.

The measure is not unlike a tax increase, if you prefer, a reduction in workers' buying power and in corporate profits.

The government also proposed, in compensation, to make access to benefits more difficult.

Among these measures:

—Persons who voluntarily leave their job would have to wait six weeks instead of the current three for benefits;

—Beneficiaries, even those with dependents, would get 66 2-3 per cent of their former salaries, rather than the current 75 per cent;

—Persons over 65 would no longer be eligible for benefits, and would they have to make UIC contributions.

We believe the eligibility period increase for those who quit their jobs is a good idea . . . but it seems unjust, to say the least, to cut out benefits for those over 65.

These people have in many cases paid UIC contributions all their lives without ever drawing benefits and some have poor retirement funds.

The government must act to stem the tide of increasing unemployment programs. Government sources estimate that UIC cost will be $4 billion this year up from $2.118 billion in 1974.

There is cause for concern.

Instead of penalizing workers, the government should work out some employment policies and it should go after those who don't hesitate to live off the funds of those who work conscientiously.

Olympic 'Hurdle'

It was Rupert Brooke as we recall who came up with the celebrated line that "men seldom make passes at girls who wear glasses."

The point is arguable, especially in these days of attractive eye wear, including contact lenses. But at least it may be said of the poet that it likely was said with tongue-in-cheek, and without malice, to suit one of his more whimsical pieces.

The same cannot be said for the Olympic organizing people in Montreal who told Nancy Gelfand, a 26-year-old bilingual hostess applicant and former Expo 67 hostess she could not be hired because she wears glasses and further, that this rule "really helps to screen out the women who are real dogs."

Mrs. Gelfand was also told women with glasses "don't work out," and particularly because of the hate the women will wear.

Another official of the Olympic organizing committee, a woman, was even more blunt, being quoted as saying — without even seeing the applicant — that she didn't get hired "because she's probably an ugly. . ." Here she used vulgar terminology about her own sex in more common usage by men, and which can only give rise to wonderment about how far equality, women's lib et al is being carried these days.

"They really want the cuties," this same lady is quoted as saying, immersing herself further, if a shade more moderately, in the jargon bit.

Let's hope if there is to be any "charm course" thrown in with this Olympic hostessing job that it will not include the female (or unsex?) equivalent of what once was known as language fit only for the barrack room.

Antique Show Benefits Area Handicapped Adults

By CLIFF KENTON
Staff Reporter

Always striving to find one unique piece — that's the life of an antique dealer — and Dave Walmsley, 17, is starting out early.

He had his collectables, all railroad items, on display Friday and Saturday at Women's Sales and Advertising Club of Belleville antique show an sale.

"If you're going to be in this business you can't learn a little of this and a little of that. You have to specialize," said Dave, who has been collecting railway items about two years.

But antique collecting isn't really a business to Dave, it's more of a hobby. He's a Grade 12 student at Centennial Secondary School.

Eighteen antique dealers from as far away as Port Hope participated in the show at Ben Bleeker Auditorium.

Proceeds from admission fees went to Cheshire Home for handicapped adults. A spokesman said they hoped to raise $1,000 for the home.

It was the club's second annual sale. Last year an auction was held.

Items Dave had on sale included: railway locks, tools, lanterns, switch locks and a railway semaphore priced at $125.

Lanterns, said Dave, are a big seller, and most people buy railway memorabilia as curiosity pieces or for decorating recreation rooms.

"It's an interesting and ever-growing hobby and there's a good supply and demand as Belleville is a railway town. Collecting railway items has already caught on in the big cities. In Belleville it only needs recognition," said Dave.

Wrong Name Given

During an interview on the laying of an oil pipeline link north of Belleville information was given to an Intelligencer reporter by a man who identified himself as Bill Buckaway, supervisor for the contractor, H.C. Price, of Edmonton.

Comments were subsequently attributed to Mr. Buckaway in a story which appeared in Friday's Intelligencer.

Mr. Buckaway, however, later said he was not the individual involved. He is the contractor's purchasing agent, working out of Kingston.

Cyclist Refuses Treatment

STIRLING — A 23-year-old Stirling man was transported by ambulance to Belleville General Hospital but refused admittance and returned home following a motorcycle accident Saturday on Callivan Rd. half a mile east of Highway 14 and its junction south of Stirling.

Ontario Provincial Police at Belleville identified the injured man Sunday as Douglas R. Cumming of RR 4, Stirling.

Police said the mishap occurred when Cummings lost control of his 1975-model Honda-day vehicle while negotiating a curve.

Constable James Devereaux estimated negligible damage to the motorcycle in the 3 p.m. accident.

Guest Instructor

Frances Forstner (right) of Burlington was guest speaker at a macrame weaving workshop ending Saturday at St. Thomas Parish Hall. She is with Ruth Rimmer, president of the Belleville Weaver's Guild.

Probation Officer Defends Use of Report

A Belleville probation officer has defended his inclusion of a psychiatric report in his presentence report on Jeremiah James Arthur Meneely, 19, of RR 9, Peterborough, who was sentenced last week in Ontario Supreme Court here to a year's imprisonment on a reduced charge of manslaughter.

Meneely, convicted on Oct. 29, had been on trial for murder punishable by life imprisonment in connection with the shooting death of his 49-year-old father, James Meneely, in their Rawdon Township farmhouse at RR 4, Marmora on Aug. 1, 1973.

In his address to Justice Lawrence Pannell of Toronto last week, defence counsel Ronald Thomas complained of the inclusion in the pre - sentence report of a diagnosis by the Kingston Psychiatric Hospital (KPH) where Meneely was treated several weeks after his father's death.

Mr. Thomas commented, "It is a report that should not have been taught at all" and added that in 12 years in law, it is the first time he has seen a psychiatric report filed by a probation officer.

Probation officer George Smith of the provincial ministry of correctional services office here said in a weekend interview that the included document was actually a summation of a KPH report dealing with Meneely's stay two years ago.

"It was sent to me by KPH," he said. "It was cleared to be put in."

Mr. Smith explained it is not a common practice to include such documents because probation officers "usually don't get them. We'd have to have permission to include them from the psychiatrist."

Testimony last week by Dr. Robert Hill, a staff psychiatrist at Clarke Institute in Toronto where Meneely was treated a year ago, revealed Meneely was sent to KPH following a charge of wilful damage laid in connection with an incident at the farmhouse a few weeks after his father's death.

Mr. Thomas said the incident arose during a confrontation between Meneely and relatives regarding the disposition of his father's estate.

Driver Injured

BANCROFT — A 24-year-old Belleville man was treated and released for bruises at Bancroft Red Cross Hospital Saturday following a one-car accident on Old Hastings Rd. two miles west of Highway 62 in Dungannon Township.

Ontario Provincial Police at Bancroft indentified the man Sunday as Jack Mayhew of 17 Tracy Park Dr.

Police said Mayhew's car was northbound when it did while negotiating a curve and overturned off the side of the road. Constable S.C. Warwick estimated damage at $1,000.

Train Speciality

Dave Walmsley, 17, said although he was the youngest antique dealer at Women's Sales and Advertising Club of Belleville second annual antique show and sale, Friday and Saturday, he's not necessarily the most inexperienced. More than 600 persons visited the two-day show. Proceeds go to Cheshire Home.

Weaving Interesting And Practical Hobby

France Forstner of Burlington likes her hobby weaving — because it costs no limit to what she can do.

"If you go into pottery, how many pots can you have? You can fill your house with weaving," said Mrs. Forstner, guest instructor at a 2-day workshop Saturday by the St. member Belleville Weavers Guild and Ontario ministry of culture and recreation.

Mrs. Forstner, who has been weaving about 25 years, said she's made items including curtains, rugs and yardage material.

"I went out p-king for curtains and came home and made my own because I couldn't find the right colors or patterns."

Instruction at the workshop Thursday, Friday and Saturday at St. Thomas Parish Hall concentrated on lace weaving technique.

All weaving, said Mrs. Forstner, began in Europe and it's the old techniques that have been perpetrated.

She said there has always been strong interest in weaving in the Belleville area.

Workshop co-ordinator Alma Gasparotto said Guild membership has doubled in the last couple of years.

Police Killer Now Supports Gun Control

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — Bill Rosik is serving a life sentence for killing a police officer and he says he remains then a firm believer in gun control.

Rosik, 36, had a fight with his wife one day in 1970. Within half an hour he had shot three policemen, one of them fatally.

In an interview with The Whig-Standard at Warkworth institution, a medium-security prison 19 miles northeast of Trenton, Ont., Rosik said that gun control is the only way to prevent a repeat of his own story.

"A gun is meant for one thing," he said. "The destruction of something, and whoever has a gun in his hand holds the power of death."

On that day in 1970, Rosik had in his home three registered pistols and two shotguns for skiing, a bow-and-arrow and he used for target practice and hunting.

He said his marriage had been going sour and he was having emotional problems. But he insists the fight with his wife would have gone no further if he had been unable to reach for a gun.

Rosik had taken both alcohol and tranquillizers and under the combined influence he picked up a shotgun during the fight.

His wife told him she was going to phone the police.

"I said I would save her the trouble," he said. "I called them and told them to come over, with the hope they might try to straighten things out for us."

The policemen who came to the door had a revolver in his hand. Seeing Rosik's shotgun, he kept from the porch and ran behind his car. Then Rosik started shooting.

"Many police cars later, but lots were just flying into the house," Rosik said. "It was just unreal, seeing the drapes just buckling and swaying with the rain."

When the shooting was over, one policeman was fatally wounded, another had been shot in his lungs and liver, and a third shot in the face. He lost one eye and had to leave the force.

Convicted of capital murder and sentenced to be hanged, Rosik waited on death row for a year, running through the process of court appeals. All were turned down. Only recently he helped his mother plan his funeral.

Three weeks later, his death sentence was commuted by the cabinet on the grounds Rosik could be rehabilitated.

But the memories of his crime continue to haunt him.

"I still get little feelings of it, time to time, mostly at the point it's nauseating, but now and then it's my mind, on a quiet night, it just comes into my head.

"I just think on what I did. If there was any way I could bring that man back . . ."

Rosik said he was not the criminal person who should have been allowed to own a gun as he could not control his temper.

Now he would like to see strict controls on the ownership and use of guns. Hunters and members of the pistol clubs should leave their weapons at the club or a police station, he said.

Rosik, who had no previous criminal record before the shooting, said too many people have guns in their homes.

Study of U.S. Broadcasting Finds Sex Discrimination

WASHINGTON (AP) — The first major study of the status of women in broadcasting in the United States has found a pattern of sex discrimination at all levels of employment in public radio and television.

"A clear pattern emerges: there is a industry-wide underrepresentation of women in public broadcasting at the higher levels," a report by the Task Force on Women in Public Broadcasting has concluded.

Women hold slightly less than 30 per cent of all jobs in public broadcasting but are clustered at the bottom as secretaries and as "support" personnel, the task force said.

They are outranked 10 to 1 by men in the top jobs. The task force said a double standard for men and women appears prevalent in the hiring and promotion of comparably educated and experienced persons, with men tending to be "hired at more responsible jobs and at higher salaries than women with equal education and experience."

The task force was formed by the Corporation for Public Broadcasting last year after allegations that the public was being shown a distorted image of women and their role in society.

The corporation is a federally funded agency which allocates money to 245 public television stations and 159 radio stations.

The report dealt both with sex stereotyping in public broadcasting programs and with discrimination in hiring and promotion of women workers.

"Women are not 'stereotyped' on public television, they are overlooked" the task force said.

Eleven of the 28 public broadcasting programs for adults monitored during one week showed no women in any role; seven of the 11 public-affairs programs were all male, and only four per cent of the shows had female announcers or narrators.

Sixty-five per cent of the women and 25 per cent of the men earned less than $9,000 a year. Two women and 22 men earned between $21,000 and $22,999 a year. One woman and 6 men earned more than that.

Fifty-one per cent of the women started at secretarial or clerical level jobs, but 34 per cent of the men came in at mid-professional levels.

Stanfield Warns Power Concentration

REGINA (CP) — Progressive Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield says the concentrated nature of the government's stabilization program may lead to a concentration of powers in the hands of a few federal cabinet ministers and officials.

Mr. Stanfield said in a speech during the weekend at a party fund-raising dinner that the program is not short term, as proposed by the Conservatives, but open-ended in terms of duration.

The Conservative leader said he cannot accept the open term of the controls. The distortions and rough justice involved in mandatory controls can only be tolerated for a short time, he said.

"I believe that in the present circumstances to which they have let the country drift, it is the national interest that they not be prevaricatingly inch or taken at face value one iota."

He said his party is seeking changes to the bill at the committee level. Text of the speech was released prior to delivery.

Lougheed Would Be Tradeau's Match

OTTAWA (CP) — Alberta Premier Peter Lougheed can win the Progressive Conservative national leadership if he enters the race soon, but he may have trouble defeating Prime Minister Trudeau in the next election, says leadership candidate Jack Horner.

"I think he may have some difficulty in beating Trudeau — I'm winning the election in '78, no matter who the Liberals have for leader."

The Alberta MP from Crowfoot said he thought Mr. Lougheed could defeat him for the leadership if he enters the nine-candidate race "relatively soon."

He said on the CTV program Question Period, taped for broadcast Sunday, that people shouldn't be relying more and more on government to do things for them.

"That's the trend that I don't particularly like that I've witnessed in Canada in recent years."

On the subject of his fellow candidates, Mr. Horner said he and Paul Yewchuk (Athabaska) "are not too far apart" when it comes to policy questions and he also is quite close ideologically to Claude Wagner (Ste. Broadalbe), expected to declare his candidacy shortly.

But he said: "I think Sinclair Stevens (York-Simcoe) is further right than I am."

As for Joe Clark (Rocky Mountain), Mr. Horner said: "I don't consider Joe Clark a suitable choice for me." He said he feels the same about Flora MacDonald (Kingston and the Islands).

Other candidates for the February convention to replace Robert Stanfield as leader are John Fraser (Vancouver South), Heward Grafftey (Brome-Missisquoi), Brian Mulroney, a Montreal lawyer, and Pat Nowlan (Annapolis Valley).

Mr. Horner said he feels sorry for Dalton Camp, former national president of the Conservative Party, because "he hasn't got what he needs, call a good horse to back" in the leadership contest.

"He's crying in the wilderness and feeling his grip on the party fade."

The split between former prime minister John Diefenbaker and his followers on the one hand and Mr. Camp, Mr. Stanfield and their faction could blow up "if Camp continues his crying in the wilderness . . ." Mr. Horner said.

Gas Will Soon Reach $1 a Gallon: Retailer

TORONTO (CP) — The days of the $1 gallon of gasoline is not far off, Robert Pyke, president of the Ontario Retail Gasoline Association, said Saturday.

"Unless the government is serious about protecting the consumer, I don't see how it can be avoided," Mr. Pyke said in an interview.

The 44-member Ontario government freeze on gasoline prices ended Sunday and motorists will pay 2.4 cents more for a gallon of gasoline if dealers adhere to Queen Park's guidelines.

G. H. Brereton, vice-president of marketing for Sun Oil Co., said letters have been sent advising all dealers that Energy Minister Dennis Timbrell is warning another price freeze will be imposed if the price of gasoline goes up more than 8.4 cents.

You Must Be Joking

ILFORD, England (CP) — Walters and pub owners were amused when a brewery company issued training rules for bar staff. Rule 1 told them to "take a bath as often as possible and change underclothes frequently," while another told them to serve beer "by placing the mug on mat in front of customer."

Health Team Studies Mercury Poisoning

TOKYO (AP) — A nine-member fact-finding mission from Ontario arrived Sunday to study poisoning caused by eating contaminated fish.

The mission, led by Dr. James Stopps, is to discuss the disease and its treatment with officials of the Japanese environment agency and Kumamoto University.

It also is to visit Minamata City in Kyushu, where many residents have been suffering from organic mercury poisoning for years.

A number of Indians in northwestern Ontario were reported to have symptoms similar to those of minamata disease, which causes irreversible damage to the nervous system.

In July, six Indians from Ontario visited Minamata City so that Dr. Allison Smith, wife of photographer Eugene Smith, who spent several years in the Japanese city photographing victims of the disease.

Coast Guard Locates Sunken Freighter

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) — Coast Guard officials in Cleveland, Ohio, are fairly certain they have located the wreckage of the sunken freighter Edmund Fitzgerald, a Coast Guard spokesman said Sunday.

Wreckage was discovered in about 500 feet of water about 40 miles northwest of here and a constant oil seepage has been discovered two miles from where the Fitzgerald sent its last message, he said.

Last Monday the ore carrier sank during a storm on Lake Superior. All 29 men on board were listed as missing and later were declared dead.

Identification of the wreckage so far has been impossible, the spokesman said. He said television cameras or a mid-sea lift may be used in an attempt to identify the sunken ship.

Earlier in the week, a Navy P3 aircraft using magnetic air detection equipment spotted a sunken metal object in the area.

Meanwhile, in Cleveland, a lawyer for the Seafarers' International Union local said he will file a suit questioning the adequacy of the life-saving equipment aboard the freighter.

Ned Mann said the suit also will question the propriety of the special United States Coast Guard board of inquiry which is to convene Tuesday in Cleveland.

He said if there was negligence in the rescue operations, it would be improper for the coast guard to investigate itself.

Soviet Prison Conditions Inhuman

TORONTO (CP) — Amnesty International says in a report to be released today that prison conditions in the Soviet Union are so bad that suicide and self-mutilation are common among prisoners.

The report on treatment of political prisoners in the Soviet Union says some prisoners sew up their mouths and eyes with thread or turned to protest jail conditions.

Amnesty International is an independent, non-government organization involved against torture and political detention.

The report says a hunger strike is the most common form of protest among political prisoners but is risky in Soviet jails where "medical neglect and inadequate diets are standard."

Franco Undergoes Third Operation

MADRID (AP) — Francisco Franco's chief surgeon said today he was "satisfied" with the operation he underwent following his third major operation three days ago. Dr. Manuel Hidalgo Hiertas said the 82-year-old dictator rested a quiet night without further complications.

Quinte Cuisine

Four years in Istanbul, Turkey — spent with her husband Stephen who was working on a Northern Electric project — made Mary Hall a fan of Turkish cuisine. In Belleville for the past year, the Halls still enjoy many Turkish dishes, among them this elegant Walnut Chicken. It's an excellent addition to a buffet. Mrs. Hall, who served the dish recently to her gourmet group.

Walnut Chicken

one boiling chicken (about 3½lbs.)
two quarts water
one large onion, quartered one carrot, scraped and cut into four one stalk celery, cut into four three sprigs parsley salt and pepper to taste
two cups shelled walnuts three thin slices white bread (crusts removed) one clove garlic
one teaspoon paprika
one tablespoon salad oil (or walnut oil)

Wash and place chicken in saucepan with water, onion, carrot, celery, parsley, salt and pepper. Bring to a boil and skim foam off top. Cover and cook on medium heat until chicken is tender.

Remove chicken from saucepan and cool. Remove skin and bones. Cut meat into thin pieces about two to three inches long; set aside. Strain stock and save.

Put walnuts through meat grinder twice. If walnut oil flows out, collect it and use in place of salad oil. Soak bread slices in a little chicken stock and squeeze dry. Place in a mixing bowl, add walnuts, salt and pepper and put mixture through meat grinder again. Then add one cup of chicken stock a little at a time, and work into a paste the consistency of mayonnaise. More stock may be added if paste is too thick. Add crushed garlic. Mix chicken pieces with ¼ of the sauce. Place on a serving platter. Then spread the rest of the paste over the chicken smoothly (like a frosting on a cake).

In a small saucepan over a low flame, heat paprika and oil until the oil turns red. Pour this over the paste carefully, leaving the paprika powder in saucepan. Serve at room temperature as an appetizer with crackers, or as a cold main dish.

(A blender may be used instead of a meat grinder for making the walnut paste. The walnuts need not be ground separately. All ingredients — walnuts, bread, stock and garlic, are placed into the blender at the same time. But care must be taken to follow blender rules. Ingredients, stock first, must be placed in the blender in small proportions and the rest gradually added as the first lump is ground to a paste.)

Serena's Anna and Lionel Frigault share a pleasant moment Friday.

Couple Teaches Family Planning

Teaching a natural and highly effective method of family planning, Lionel and Anna Frigault of Marmora spoke at St. Michael's rectory hall Friday evening.

Advocates of the symptothermal method recommended by Serena Canada, Mr. and Mrs. Frigault have been a "teaching couple for three years. They have been trained in personal counselling techniques and are knowledgeable about all aspects of human fertility in order to answer any questions asked them.

"We're willing to practice what we preach," said Mr. Frigault, in reference to the periodic abstinence that is the basis for this birth control method. "It becomes a way of life, and that why the couple-to-couple approach is used by Serena. It involves values and emotions that are more caught than taught.

"In the past, birth control has been pretty well left to women," he added. "But we feel there should be shared responsibility. When we teach as a couple, I can be very helpful to the men."

Mr. and Mrs. Frigault stressed that the symptothermal method is just as effective as "the big three" — the pill, sterilization or the intra-uterine device — when it becomes a part of a couple's lifestyle. It involves the charting of the female menstrual cycle, using both temperature fluctuation and bodily changes as indications of fertile and infertile periods.

The techniques demand a clear knowledge not only physical but emotional sexuality that can bring couples closer together in their efforts to plan their family, according to Serena followers.

Mr. and Mrs. Frigault illustrated their talk with slides, and answered questions from the audience.

UWC Organizer Julie Brock puts up the last of the posters.

Postal Strike Means Extra Work For Promoter of The West Show

The postal strike has made Julie Brock's job more time-consuming, but she thinks it has also caused her to be more efficient.

As the chief organizer of the Canadian Federation of University Women Belleville branch people — bringing Theatre Passe Muraille's production of The West Show to Belleville — Mrs. Brock has been responsible for publicizing the events.

"With no advance mailing possible, we've had to rely on phone calls," says Mrs. Brock. "There have been between 15 and 20 women making hundreds of calls to let people know about the show. It takes hours getting all the calls made.

"But perhaps in the long run it's more effective, since it's a more personal contact."

Mrs. Brock hab also been busy placing posters around the city and in the nearby towns such as Marmora, Madoc and Stirling. Although She and the rest of the CFUW members are confident that there'll be a good turnout, they're working hard to insure that the venture pays off.

"This is the first time we've tried anything like this," says Mrs. Brock, "and we're very enthusiastic about this particular play. We'll use any profit from the performance for the club's scholarship fund."

The West Show, she hastens to explain, is not a "French western," since the Theatre Passe Muraille is not a French-speaking group, but rather a professional troupe of young actors from Toronto. The name of their company means "theatre without walls."

Director Paul Thompson, founder of the company, specializes in productions based on Canadian historical events. Through "workshop rehearsals" he and his actors build plays that are the result of co-operative effort and bear the mark of every player. To date there is no printed script for The West Show, which is still growing as the actors settle into their parts.

The play is a humorous documentary drama, composed of sketches dealing with the settling of the Canadian prairies. Like other recent Theatre Passe Muraille productions — The Farm Show, and 1837 — The West Show lets Canadians learn something about their heritage in an entertaining way.

There will be one performance, at 8.15 p.m. on Monday, November 24 at Centennial Secondary School.

Echoes of a Gentle Era

I stepped into Villeneuve House on the South Shore of Picton Harbor on a recent evening, and moved gratefully back into a gentler and more spacious time. Villeneuve House? It's now generally known as the Inn On The Bay, created circa 1860 by the addition of four French Gothic Towers to a splendidly situated farm house. The atmosphere nowadays is cheerful and cozy, and quite different from anything for miles around. You'll appreciate it this winter, and its always a lot nicer to deal with someone you know locally, than to be just another listing in a computer printout.

$4,000 Meal: Gourmet Unsatisfied by Ultimate Extravagance

NEW YORK (AP) — What with the rarest of wines and bite-size birds that ate only berries, it was hardly a simple little supper. And even at a cost of $4,000 for two, it was hardly perfect.

That was the assessment of Craig Claiborne, resident gourmet of the New York Times, who partook of what must be the world's dearest repast. There were 12 dishes consumed over a whole evening and accompanied by nine choice wines.

It all began when he entered a high $300 bid last June at a fund-raising auction for WNET-TV, a local public broadcasting station. American Express had donated a dinner for two anywhere in the world with the proviso that it be eaten in a restaurant that takes its credit card.

After months of reflecting about what to eat and where to eat it, Claiborne said in the new Times that he decided on Claude Denis, a Paris restaurant with no laudatory stars from Guide Michelin.

Was it a perfect meal?

"The answer is no," Claiborne says. "The crystal was Baccarat and the silver was family sterling but the presentation of the dishes, particularly the cold dishes such as the sweetbread parfait and quail mousse terie, was mundane.

He says the food "was generally exemplary, although there were regrettable lapses there, too.

Such as?

"The lobster in a creamy cardinal sauce heavily laden with chopped truffles was chewy. And the oysters broiled quickly in the shell and served with a thick creamy hot-pepper sauce were almost inkewarm. So was the chaud-froid of pheasant."

Claiborne dined with colleague Pierre Franey. The wines included a 1929 Romanee-Conti, a 1928 Chateau Latour and an 1878 Moderie.

He says a highlight of the feast was tiny ortolan embrette—small birds that live on berries for a brief life that ends with their being cooked whole, without cleaning and with their head on.

"They are as fat as butter and an absolute joy to bite into because of the succulence of the flesh," Claiborne reports.

"Even the bones, except for the very long bones, are chewed and swallowed. There is one bird to a person."

As for the firm that picked up the tab "we were mildly astonished at first but now we are cheerful about it," a spokesman said.

Jocks and Hoods Outrate Nobodies

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a faithful reader and so are most of the kids I know at school.

I'm a sophomore this year and very unhappy about the way the students around here are divided into three groups. These are the Jocks, the Hoods and the Nobodies.

The Jocks are the popular good-looking athletic kids—both boys and girls. They win all the elections and everybody looks up to them.

The Hoods are the smokers, drinkers and make-outs. They have trouble with teachers but stick together and seem to have fun.

The Nobodies are the friendliest and most decent, but they don't rate with the other groups. I'm a Nobody and it bugs me. I just don't fit into the other two categories! Any suggestions?—Bayview Blue-Jay

Dear Jay: Sounds as if the last two categories are misnamed. The Hoods should be the Nobodies and the Nobodies should be the Somebodies.

Being good-looking or athletic are accidents of fate. The Jocks may appear to have it all together but let me assure you they are just as insecure and unsure of themselves at times as you are. What's more, decency and friendliness are by far the greater virtues. In the long run you'd do better than most of the others. So rise and shine, Blue-Jay.

Dear Ann Landers: Since the death of his wife, Uncle Bo has taken "Mrs. Companion" (she's a widow) to all family gatherings, picnics, parties—everywhere. We like her and are pleased that Uncle Bo has found a compatible friend, but . . .

Problem: There are many functions where the number of guests must be sharply limited. This sometimes means leaving out a cherished friend or a favorite (but not as cherished) relative. Bo never consults anyone. He simply returns his acceptance with "and guest" written in.

We wish he'd make it "and wife" but we suspect he has no intention of taking that step. What can we do about it?—Yearnoll In Newark

Dear Y.: You can accept the fact that it's double or nothing if push comes to shove. Uncle Bo will tell you they are "a couple" and if Mrs companion is unwelcome he won't come either. So, unless you want to face the choice, simply assume that his Lady Fair is a permanent attachment and be as gracious as possible.

Dear Ann Landers: I've just met the most beautiful family and I'd like to share them with you.

I'm an RN in the cardiac care unit of a large hospital. Mr. K. came into my ward after suffering from a severe heart attack. I have never seen a closer family. They were by his side the 40 hours he lived. I would have given my own life if it meant Mr. K's widow and those festive kids could have had their dad back.

When Mr. K. died the nurses wept in each other's arms. But we know this wonderful woman and her children will make it. They can't fail with so much love.

On the day Mr. K. passed away the nurses on the floor received six red roses and a thank-you card from that wonderful family.

Please print this letter Ann. Maybe they will recognize themselves and realize they are something special.—Touched

Dear Touched: Thank you for telling us about that beautiful family. They ARE something special, and could serve as a model for us all.

Dear Ann Landers: Last night our handsome, bright, 18-year-old son told my husband he is gay and we must accept him as he is because he has no desire to be anything else and is tired of pretending.

Is there any chance that this could be a passing fancy? Is it possible that our boy will outgrow this phase and end up falling in love with some nice girl?

We see a life of misery ahead for him and plenty of heartache for us.

Please, Ann, as city or state, I am afraid to sign this. Just print my letter and your answer.—Sis Mather

Dear Mother: Anything is possible, but it is highly unlikely that an 18-year-old boy who makes such an announcement has any interest in changing from homosexuality to heterosexuality.

His life might not be as miserable as you think. Some gays do well in their chosen fields and are quite content. You and your husband, however, should seek counselling since you are in such a state of suffering from anxiety. Unless you have a better understanding of your son's homosexuality and learn how to accept it you ARE going to have plenty of heartache.

Luanda War Slogans Predict Long Fight

LUANDA (AP) — The slogan uses—is written on walls, windows, trees and even auto windshields throughout Luanda. It is "A Luta Armada Continua"—the Armed Struggle Continues.

A grim reminder that Angola's agony shows no sign of ending.

Portugal gave her last African colony independence Nov. 10 after 13 years of bloody guerrilla struggle. The nation was wracked by a civil war between three rival nationalist movements before it was even born.

Usually reliable sources estimate more than 20,000 persons have been killed in the last eight months. Some diplomats believe the carnage may be worse than that in The Congo after Belgium pulled out in 1960.

"The war of resistance could last for many years," said Lopo do Nascimento, the 35-year-old premier of the People's Republic of Angola set up by the Soviet-backed Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola (MPLA) when the Portuguese quit.

"Our cities could be destroyed. Many of our comrades will die. But we will never let ourselves be intimidated."

The leftist MPLA is led by Agostinho Neto, a poet-philosopher jailed for several years by the Portuguese. It controls Luanda, the capital, the center, and the diamond-rich northeast.

Ranged against it are the Liberation Front (FNLA) backed by the United States, China and Zaire, and the Union for Total Independence of Angola (UNITA), supported by South Africa and considered the most moderate politically.

The FNLA and UNITA, joined in uneasy alliance of military expediency, hold the north and the south and are trying to crush the MPLA between them.

The MPLA's northern front is only about 15 miles from Luanda along the Dangue river. Heavy fighting is reported around a key road junction at Caxito, 35 miles northeast of the capital. But the MPLA issues only sporadic communiques on the military situation.

The MPLA is drafting thousands of young men. Crowds of youngsters training in mottled combat gear jog daily along roads east of the city. After hasty training they are armed with Soviet automatic rifles and shipped to the front.

The MPLA appears to be holding its own in the north. Officials here said that several strategic villages have been recaptured from the FNLA in the last 10 days.

There is also fighting east of Luanda around Cazombo, 150 miles northeast. MPLA officers said they still hold the town despite fierce FNLA assaults.

Luanda itself is quiet. Occasionally the sound of mortar fire drifts across the Atlantic bay from the battlefield across the water.

Thieves Steal Valuable Paintings

LEAMINGTON, Ont. (CP) — Police said Sunday that about $20,000 worth of paintings, some by members of the Group of Seven, were stolen during the weekend from the Leamington Art Gallery.

The 16 paintings were among a collection of 36 pieces of Canadian art on loan to the South Essex Art Association by the London, Ont. Art Gallery.

Paddy O'Brien, curator of the London gallery, said in an interview that the pieces were cut from their frames after the exhibition closed Friday night.

The stolen pieces include works by A. Y. Jackson, Lawren H. Macdonald and Lawren Harris of the Group of Seven.

Police said thieves broke into the three-storey community centre through a basement window and forced the lock on a door leading to the third-floor art gallery.

Chief Murray Whittle said that if Leamington police had been informed there was a valuable exhibit in town, extensive security checks would have been made.

Donald Ames, president of the South Essex Art Association, said although no formal security arrangements were made with police, the department should have realized the exhibit was important.

Mrs. O'Brien said the thieves apparently knew little about art because they took the smallest and least valuable pieces.

She said the London Art Gallery has cancelled the second part of the show, which was to have started Monday. The first part of the exhibit—a history of Canadian landscapes—was on display for two weeks.

Budget Slashes Security Measures

WASHINGTON (AP) — A U.S. Customs Service plan aimed at preventing terrorists from slipping across the border into Canada during the 1976 Olympics and America's Bicentennial has been slashed by White House budget-cutters, a source said Saturday.

The office of management and budget eliminated all but $2.7 million of the $23 million requested by customs for increased personnel and equipment at eastern border points, the source said.

The equipment was to have included magnetic and seismic sensors planted in the border area and radar-and sonar-equipped aircraft flying overhead to detect persons trying to sneak across the border at unguarded points.

Several U.S. government agencies and their Canadian counterparts have been working on ways to prevent a repetition of the terrorist attacks that killed 11 Israeli athletes and two West German policemen during the 1972 Olympics in Munich.

"Preventing terrorism is the No. 1 concern for the Olympics" by both American and Canadian officials, one source said.

Officials estimate that 50,000 persons will be crossing into Canada daily to attend the Olympics in Montreal next July 17 to Aug. 1, and that thousands of others will be entering this country from Canada throughout the summer for Bicentennial events.

The U.S. immigration and naturalization service announced plans last September to install between 25 and 40 of its own sensors along a 165-mile stretch of the Canadian border between New York State and Maine.

The idea by customs to set up its own devices was still in the discussion stage at that point. But it later was made formal as part of the overall plan to cope with increased tourist traffic and potential terrorism next summer.

The sensors record motions in the earth and interruptions in the magnetic field and are intended to supplement the less-sophisticated vehicle detection devices that have been used for some time on unguarded border roads.

Nixon Doubts Ford

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — The St. Louis Post-Dispatch says former president Richard Nixon has said privately he is not certain President Ford is measuring up to his White House job.

The story, published in The Star, also says a visitor at Nixon's home of San Clemente, Calif., quoted the former president as saying: "It's a big jump from Congress to the presidency."

The story, which carries a San Clemente placeline, also reports that the visitor said Nixon feared that state secretary Henry Kissinger would have too much power in the Ford administration.

The visitor, who declined to be identified, said the implication was that Nixon, with experience in foreign affairs, had the expertise to outflank Kissinger, but that Ford could not, the newspaper adds.

The reported remarks by Nixon were made before Ford stripped Kissinger of his second role as assistant to the president for national security affairs earlier this month.

Number 38 Unlucky

Stirling Streak Ends

By MIKE BRADSHAW
Staff Sportswriter

Stirling's Jim Ten Fools rolled into Belleville Sunday afternoon with the confidence of a 37 regular season game undefeated streak under their belts. Two hours later they were shaking their heads in bewilderment as they strolled to their cars in the Dick Ellis Rink parking lot.

Their Quinte Ladies Hockey League rust had been knocked out by a 5-3 Belleville Combines victory.

"It feels great to beat them after all this time," said Belleville coach, Bernie Coughlin. "we have an awfully good team and this proves it."

The Stirling ladies skated through 34 regular season games last year and carried that mark over to the first three games of this season. The most recent of their victories was a 4-1 margin over the same Belleville team in Stirling on Saturday night.

"This is going to work wonders for our confidence," said Coughlin, "we've had to come a long way in the past couple of years."

It was just two years ago the Belleville team was the doormat of the league.

Barry Wilson, Coughlin's assistant, was the whole thing rather lightly. "We've won one a-piece," he said, "I'm surprised, but not shocked. Everybody's at it for the first time."

Wilson's prodigies have captured the league championship six times the last eight years. They also sat out a year of league competition in that time period opting for exhibition games against some of the provinces highly touted women's teams such as Toronto, Burlington and Oshawa.

"Belleville has a good club," said Wilson, "as a matter of fact the whole league has improved considerably in recent years."

This season Napanee and Picton round out the schedule in the four team loop. However, Trenton, one of last year's entrants, has left the league. That matter has yet to be ironed out by the association's executive.

Meanwhile, with Trenton on the sidelines, the Combines have been piled to strengthen their ranks. They picked up three players from the defunct club, including goaltender Karen Noakes, and between the pipes is where the help needed the most help.

"We only had one netminder until this year," said coach Coughlin, "but having Karen here has really made a difference in the team's output."

Noakes came in at the beginning of the second period Sunday, replacing starter Bernie Hannah. At that time the score was 1-1. The Trenton girl shut the visitors out until the final minutes of the contest. On several occasions she robbed Stirling players from close range and, in the middle frame, stopped sharp shooter Sharon Lessard on a breakaway.

Lessard had opened the scoring just 30 seconds after the opening faceoff. Belleville mounted a scrambly comeback drive and evened things back up with 3:30 remaining the first frame. Joanne Tidmarsh, another Trenton transfer, tallied that one with Wanda Clapp scoring the assist.

Stirling controlled most of the second period, but it was the Combines who led by the scoreboard. Geraldine Westerveld put the locals in front 2-1 with help from Carol McFarlane.

Belleville was in trouble right from the start of the final period. They spent the first six minutes shorthanded. But some heads-up forechecking by Norma McQuarrie and several key saves kept the Stirling ladies off the scoreboard.

Then the tables turned. Stirling took a penalty — their only one of the game — and Carol Merrill potted an unassisted powerplay goal.

Thirty seconds later, at 2:18, Stirling pulled back to within one goal when Georgia Morrison tallied. With just over a minute remaining the visitors opted for a sixth attacker and left their net empty.

Despite several strong drives they were unable to beat Noakes and time ran out on the game and the undefeated streak.

In Saturday's contest, Lessard fired a hattrick and Sandra Fleming added two for the Belleville it was Sue Robert supplying the singleton.

Sharon Lessard scored three times Saturday night in leading her Stirling Quinte Ladies' Hockey League team to a 4-1 win over Belleville. However, Sunday she managed just one goal and the Stirling squad went down to defeat 3-2 against the same Belleville club. Here, Sunday at Dick Ellis Rink, Belleville goalie Karen Noakes comes up with's save on Lessard's second period breakaway. The stop was instrumental in sparking the locals to the win.

Winter Soccer Ready to Roll

If your name is Kevin Kirby or John O'neill the soccer season never really ends. The pair, who spearhead the Belleville Olympic Soccer movement, are currently in the midst of forming year round soccer league for the winter months. If they're successful it will mean the second consecutive season of operation for the winter loop.

So far things are going rather slowly, but that is expected to change as the wrinkles are ironed out.

At present Belleville Olympic soccer players are practicing on Sunday morning from 8 - 10 at Sir James Whitney School. Approximately twenty players turn out for these morning workouts.

Actual league activities will not begin until after Christmas, however because of lack of facilities.

"We will be using Loyalist college on week nights after Christmas and we'll still take care of our facility problem" said O'neill.

"Last year things went rather well as each of four teams in the league lined up with over 30 players.

"We can't expand to six teams this year, depending on the interest" said Kirby.

Participating in last years campaign were: the Olympics, Moira Secondary School, Cozy Grill and John's Variety Store. The Olympics, comprised of the Premier Soccer League and Bay of Quinte Soccer Association Olympics of summer months, captured the pennant and championship in the Indoor league's initial year.

Lancers Lose Third Straight

Loyalist Lancers suffered their third consecutive setback in Eastern Ontario College Athletic Association action, Saturday. The Lancers went down 81-66 at the hands of St. Lawrence College, Brockville.

The Bulls, at home, waited until the final 10 minutes of the contest to pull in front and secure the victory. To that point the lead had seesawed throughout the game.

Ken Wilchand had an equally big day for the Lancers hooping a total of 2 points over the course of the game. The Brockville Lancer to hit the double figures was Dave Culmer, who sank 14 points.

Fred Tarlington led the way for the visitors picking up 20 points. Rob Ward racked up 17 points and Ron McDade and Jeff Bulsvert added 13 and 11 points, respectively.

The Loyalist Lancers next game is Thursday when Durham Lady Lions travel to the local college.

Bobcats Get it Royally in Markham

East Northumberland Secondary School centre, Mike Eby (33) defends against Trenton Tiger in Saturday's second round senior Black and Gold Tournament contest in Trenton. The Tigers eliminated Brighton with a 69-25 victory in this game. Trenton also won their semi-final contest, but bowed out in the championship round to BCI

BCI Takes Both Titles

TRENTON — A well-coached, highly disciplined Belleville Collegiate senior basketball squad captured its third Black and Gold Championship here Saturday, trounning the home town Trenton Tigers 70-41 in the final.

Nearly 300 fans watched as the visiting Bellerille team blew the Trenton squad out of the game in the first half, outscoring the Tigers by 28 points.

Man for man, the Trenton squad appeared to have as much depth as the BCI team, but it was evident that the Belleville contingent, which has been practicing for more than a month while Trenton participated in an elongated football season, was better prepared mentaly and physically for the tournament. They continually executed fast breaks and set offensive plays and a pressing defence that held THS in check.

In the junior half of the Black and Gold Tournament, BCI once again demonstrated that good coaching and discipline breed confidence. This ingredient paid off in dividends as the Belleville team captured the title in the closing minutes of the final game against Cobourg West 34-33.

"It's not that we've had many practices," explained BCI's senior coach Bill Miller, even though we don't have a football team many of ourboys participate in cross-country and soccer."

"A lot of our success here today is simply due to the fact that the boys spend most of the summer working out on their own timeand our entire system, at BCI, is built on fundamental basketball. Therefore," he added, "the boys are able to work well together."

During the first half of the senior contest, Trenton was forced to take long, poor-percentage shots as the Collegians cut off the key and[illegible] protected their boards.

Despite a more consistent attack in the second half, the Tigers were unable to overcome the lopsided margin mounted by BCI through the first two quarters.

First year seniors John Guthrie and Mike Kirby came through big for the champions, in the final, with 18 and 17 points, respectively. Gord Wright, one of just two experienced seniors on the BCI squad, put his playmaking ability to work in the championship game and drew 14 points as well.

Kirby Wright, Mitch Hannah and Brian Bell, the other veteran on the club, were top scorers over the course of the day. Kirby totalled 52 points, Wright 47 and Bell and Hannah 33 each.

"If there was a key to our victory," said Miller, "it was our rebounding and well balanced scoring. We don't rely on one player to come up with all our points." All nine members of the Collegian squad registered double figures in their four victories.

Prior to the championship win, BCI defeated East Northumberland 75-32, Bayside 67-35 and, in the semi-final, Cobourg West 49-35.

Bob Thompson and Blaine Rittinger were top scorers for Trenton in the final with 11 and 12 points, respectively.

For the Collegian Juniors it was their fourth consecutive Black and Gold championship. Bruce Leadham netted the goal for Belleville in the first period with help from Mike Kirby and Ron Harris. Matt Leslie and Steve Tarr responded for the home team.

Confusion reigned in the penalty department as referee Doug Woods handed out a total of 37 minutes in penalties, 18 to the Boys and 19 to the home team. Two game misconducts to the Tigers, Ray Rozendaal and Carl Bell.

Belleville also lost the service of Leadham in the second period with a shoulder injury, but he is expected to return by Friday.

The next game for the Cats is this Friday night when they travel to Pickering for a match up with the division leading Panthers.

Belleville Bobcat Booster Club will be sponsoring a bus for Friday's game with tickets available from Mctickets Variety store. The bus will leave at 5.45 p.m. sharp from the Quinte Mall area and a "call-per" person will be $4.50 which does not cover game admission. The next meeting of the Booster club is this Wednesday at the arena at 7.30.

Eskimos Are Rough on Riders In 22-point Fourth Quarter

EDMONTON (CP) — Two players who spent much of the season in the sidelines sparked a second-half surge Sunday as Edmonton Eskimos rallied to whip Saskatchewan Roughriders 29-16 for the right to represent the Western Football Conference in the Grey Cup for the third successive year.

The Eskimos, who have lost two years in a row in the Canadian Football League — they overcame an all-time third-quarter deficit on the passing of Bruce Lemmerman and a 75-yard interception return by Wayne Mathews for the final touchdown.

Edmonton's fans—a sellout crowd of 25,671—rolled "We're number one" in their final seconds. Their joy was based on a fourth-quarter burst that netted 22 points, including a 13-yard touchdown pass from Lemmerman to George McGowan, a two-yard plunge by Roy Bell and Mathews' interception of Ron Lancaster's pass.

Starting quarterback Tom Wilkinson threw six yards to Larry Rumbernatt for the opening touchdown.

Steve Cosler kicked four converts and a single and Gerry Ledgerwood got the single on a punt single with 16 seconds remaining.

Ted Dushinski returned a Wilkinson pass 75 yards for one Saskatchewan touchdown and George Reed plunged one yard for the other. Jack Abendschan completed the Saskatchewan scoring with a 37-yard field goal, two converts and a single.

Although Lemmerman was instrumental in several Edmonton victories, he has been a second-stringer most of the season behind Wilkinson. Matherne has been on the injured list much of the season. He was out early in the year when he failed as a cornerback but beat coach Ray Malach made no secret he hoped to use Matherne at a deep inside spot as a safety.

Wilkinson suggested that he come out at halftime to see if Lemerman could get his offense running smoothly. The ploy agreed later. It doesn't matter who started in the Grey Cup Sunday in Calgary against Montreal as long as the Eskimos win.

Lancaster completed only 17 of 38 passes Sunday for 213 yards and had three intercepted. He showed surprising speed to knock Larry Highbaugh out of bounds on what would have been a touchdown-inter an interception late in the first half, when Lancaster completed only four of 14 attempts. His statistics might have been worse but an interception by Highbaugh on the first play was wiped out by a roughing penalty against Dale Potter, who cracked Lancaster as he released the ball.

Reed also had a sub-par day, with 66 yards rushing on 18 carries. Both veteran stars were refused to come back after the game that they have retired.

Wilkinson praised the Edmonton defensive unit which gave his team the points than any other club in the West this season.

Lemmerman, sharp despite a circulatory problem that makes the fingers of his throwing hand numb, completed 16 of 36 passes for 223 yards while Wilkinson was good on nine of 17 for 82 yards.

Bell led Edmonton rushers with 64 yards in 11 carries against the rugged Saskatchewan defense.

Top receiver for Edmonton was Kostbowski with 72 yards in six receptions. Brett Johnson, shot out in the first half, caught six for 61 yards in the last half for the losers.

Edmonton was penalized nine times for 70 yards—most of the infractions coming on no-yards penalties following short kicks by Lafleur. Saying his first game since he broke his leg in the season opener, Saskatchewan was penalized four times for 15 yards.

Vikings and Cardinals Stumble Way to Wins

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

In the National Football League, winners don't count. AFC Central lead for the first time this season by one-half game over Cincinnati. Roger Staubach threw three scoring passes as Dallas moved to a tie for second in the Eastern Division.

Jackie Harris passed for 241 yards, 131 to Ron Jessie, as Los Angeles defeated Atlanta. Ken Stabler hurled four touchdown passes, leading Oakland past winless Cleveland.

Only three times on field goals in the final seconds, Philadelphia turned the tables, knocking off the Giants on a 36-yarder by Horst Muhlmann with 28 seconds left to play.

Jim Cole's passing wizardry and a good rushing Saturday morning appeared to have left them more than ready.

The Lancers started strong and boxed the Gee-Gees deep in their end zone. A short Lancen punt gave them the ball on the Ottawa 39 yard line.

Quarterback Bruce Walker hit end Ron Gardner with the two-yard line and Sievano scored on the next play.

Colion's defense continued to dominate the game offensively as well as defensively. Stunting and blitzing by the linebackers kept the "Gee-Gees" offense off balance.

But Dave Wh's turned the game around when he hauled in a Windsor punt near his goal line and turned down the field only to be ruled to have stepped out at centre field.

The first-up Gee-Gees responded and Colion found receiver Jim Gardner behind the Windsor linebacks for a 46-yard passed-run play for a touchdown.

Wayne Smith Wants Out

Ottawa Players Bitter Following Loss to Als

OTTAWA (CP) — Montreal's 20-10 win over Ottawa Rough-Riders Saturday cost more than gives the Alouettes the Eastern Football Conference title and a berth in next Sunday's Grey Cup in Calgary.

It exposed an undercurrent of bitterness and brought out charges of discrimination from several of the Riders.

Defensive end Wayne Smith said after the game "the management here takes me and all the black players for granted."

Smith shocked Ottawa fans Friday by saying he wanted to be traded because he felt he was not getting the recognition he deserved. He received loud cheers from the 32,609 fans as he trotted on to the field.

But he told reporters he hoped the Riders' management took his trade request to heart, "because I have to get out of here."

Defensive back Al Marcelle said the Ottawa coaching staff was inattentive to the teams black players. He got support from other black team-mates.

Meanwhile middle linebacker Jerry Campbell complained about the officiating.

"I just don't think the better team won out there today . . . After a while we got frustrated, more by the officiating than anything else.

One of the key plays in Montreal's hard-fought win was Johnny Rodger's 95-yard punt return for a touchdown that gave the Alouettes a 13-3 lead in third quarter.

Campbell said he saw "at least one clip on the play and alot of most of the people in the stadium, but (rid the refs? No way. You've got to call those."

Campbell said he was sure he would "get a reprimand from someone for this but every player in the CFL would probably back me up on the lousy officiating this season."

Ottawa coach George Brancato had little to say about the game but his Montreal counterpart, Marv Levy, said it was "a muddy football."

Such quality football saw Montreal retire to the dressing room at halftime with a 3-0 lead on a 10-yard field goal by Don Sweet. Gerry Organ pulled Ottawa into a tie with a 13-yard field goal midway through the third quarter but Sweet soon made it 6-3 with a 36-yard kick.

Moments later Rodgers took a Dick Adams punt at his 15-yard line and left behind a wall of blockers, found daylight and a couple more blockers and dashed down the field.

In the fourth quarter, Ottawa quarterback Tom Clements was intercepted by Montreal's Dick Harris who returned the ball to the Ottawa 18. Several plays later fullback Steve Ferrugbolo bulled his way over from the two-yard line. The Als led 20-3.

Molly McGee returned the ensuing kickoff to the Montreal 39 and the Ottawa offence came alive. Passes to Jim Foley and Tony Gabriel moved the ball to the four and McGee carried over for Ottawa's only touchdown.

Organ followed with a short kickoff that Al Bremer caught and ran to the Montreal 25. But Phil Price intercepted a Clements pass that sailed over Gabriel's head to snuff out the scoring bid.

Ottawa had another chance late in the fourth quarter but Clements' pass deep in the end zone was intercepted by Harris as the Riders' season was at an end.

Dinosaurs Smother Axemen

WOLFVILLE, N.S. (CP)—University of Calgary used a physical defence and a generous mixture of running and passing Saturday as the Dinosaurs whipped Acadia Axemen 34-1 to win the Atlantic Bowl college football championship.

The Dinosaurs, Western College conference champions, began moving the ball after receiving the opening kickoff, and had little trouble conquering Acadia's attempts to mount an offence.

After a field goal less than five minutes into the game, the two teams played a standoff until midway through the second quarter when Calgary quarterback Greg Watson hit Gary Kaufmann with an eight-yard pass which Lindsay Hay converted.

It was one of seven successful completions by Watson made in seven attempts and the only major the Dinosaurs picked up through the air. Watson and his alternating partner Don Silver, who was the only seven in passing, collected a total of 119 yards in the air.

The Calgary running game which was impossible for 34 yards on 32 attempts picked up the other major scores.

Calgary got a pair of its other touchdowns late in the second quarter including one by running back Don Diduck with four seconds left. They picked up their other touchdowns in the third and fourth quarters.

Diduck, chosen the game's most valuable player, scored twice on runs while quarterback Watson and fullback Gary Jackson ran over for the others.

Stingers Pack Punch

Neale's Eyes Opened By New Kid on Block

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Cincinnati Stingers don't look like an expansion team to coach Harry Neale of Minnesota Fighting Saints.

The Saints avenged an earlier loss at home to the first-year franchisers with a 3-2 Sunday in a World Hockey Association game that was full of fireworks for Cincinnati.

"Cincinnati does not play like an expansion team," he said. "We found that out when they beat us at home, and I think we felt like we owed them one for that loss.

"Unless they get hit with injuries, they're going to be a pretty tough to handle in their division."

The loss was Cincinnati's first at home in seven outings and left the East Division leaders three points in front of the idle New England Whalers.

In Sunday's other games, Winnipeg Jets edged Indianapolis Racers 5-4, Calgary Cowboys beat Houston Aeros 3-1 and Cleveland Crusaders tied Phoenix Roadrunners 4-4.

On Saturday, Paul Holmgren scored three goals to lead the Jets Saints to a 5-7 win over Indianapolis, Gordie Howe scored two New England Whalers 3-1, Toronto Toros dropped San Diego Mariners 6-4, Cincinnati stopped Phoenix 4-3 and Denver Spurs edged Cleveland 5-4.

The officialing in the Saints-Stingers game drew a sharp rebuke from Cincinnati coach Terry Slater.

"The refereeing was brutal," he said. "There were no penalties they should have called in the last period and didn't."

He said But Pelle, the Saints's director of hockey operations, attended the game and "I'm sure he's going to have something to say."

Slater said the Saints' aggressive skating made the difference.

"They were really flying today," he said. "I thought John McKenzie played a hell of a game.

"He was the agitator out there, and really skating. He wasn't moving the puck as fast as we usually do and we were checking with our sticks instead of our bodies."

At home and in minutes in penalties were called in the last two periods, including 70 minutes in the fight-filled second period. Jacques Lemaire and Dave Jakopin of Cincinnati and Minnesota's Curt Brackenbury drew game misconducts.

Henry Boucha scored a pair of second-period goals for the Saints, while Kent Ecker and Mike Minnesota scorer while Dennis Hull scored twice for Cincinnati goals.

Winnipeg goalie Curt Larrson blocked Ron Buchanan's point-blank shot with less than 6 seconds remaining to preserve the Jets' win.

Peter Sullivan scored for Winnipeg in the second period and Andre Norberg in the third before Rick Harbaruk got the lone Indianapolis goal.

The surprising Cowboys moved ahead of Houston Oilers into third place in the Canadian Division standings. The Cowboys, who have played two more games than Calgary, trail the Oilers by one point.

Terry Caffery and Danny Lawson each had a goal and two assists for Calgary. Larry Lund scored three for Houston, who lost the third period to give the Roadrunners a tie in Cleveland.

Tuesday's schedule has Indianapolis at Toronto.

Barclay Injects Punctuation Into Post-game Interviews

NEW YORK (CP) — Sunday night definitely was a night coach Doug Barkley of Detroit Red Wings would like to forget about.

The Wings lost a 3-0 decision to New York Rangers, Detroit forward Dan Maloney and former Ranger goalie Eddie Giacomin came up with another fine effort for the Red Wings, but couldn't stop Pete Stemkowski, Steve Vickers and Walt Tkaczuk from scoring for New York.

In Sunday's other NHL games, Philadelphia Flyers defeated Montreal Canadiens 3-1, Boston Bruins dropped Kansas City Scouts 4-2 and Buffalo Sabres beat California Seals 4-1.

On Saturday, the Rangers defeated Minnesota North Stars 5-2, Vancouver Canucks beat New York Islanders 4-3, Detroit surprised Philadelphia 3-1, Boston Bruins defeated Atlanta Flames 3-3, Chicago Black Hawks tied Montreal 4-4, St. Louis Blues whipped Washington Capitals 8-2, Buffalo topped Pittsburgh Penguins 5-2 and Toronto Maple Leafs beat Los Angeles Kings 1-1.

Despite the defeat, Barkley seemed pleasant enough as he answered questions for reporters, including Walt MacPeek of the Newark, N. J. Star-Ledger.

After the interviews, Barkley was asked if the reporters could enter the Detroit dressing-room. He asked them to wait until pitcher Lefty Wilson was finished moving out the club's gear.

The reporters pressed Barkley on the issue and when MacPeek insisted that as NHL rule required Det-Wings to grant access to the writers within a certain time span, Barkley became angry.

DAN MALONEY

"I don't give a . . . about the rule," said the Detroit coach.

A heated exchange of words followed that remark and the two men wrestled before Barkley appeared to swing at the writer.

MacPeek said he was hit on the lower lip and when MacPeek insisted that as NHL rule required Det-Wings to grant access to the writers within a certain time span, Barkley became angry.

"I don't give a . . . about the rule," said the Detroit coach.

A heated exchange of words followed that remark and the two men wrestled before Barkley appeared to swing at the writer.

MacPeek said he was hit on the lower lip and when MacPeek insisted that as NHL rule required Det-Wings to grant access to the writers within a certain time span, Barkley became angry.

"I thought him first and he turned around and went for my throat and his shoot got me," the goalie said. "The last time we played here he was hit in the eye and screamed me on two goals and knocked my leg out.

"So I saw him standing there and I'm going to make him pay for it. But I did kim first and the next time he plays in there I'm going to do the same thing again."

The Flyers outshot the Canadiens 42-27 and won the game in the second period when they scored on a 3-0 edge in shots and Bob Kelly and Rick MacLeish scored their first two goals.

Boston goalie Gilles Gilbert recorded his fourth win in a row and one-time 30-goal scorer Ken Hodge scored his first goal of the year for the Bruins.

Jean Ratelle Robert scored two second-period goals and Rick Martin and Danny Gare added a goal each for the Sabres, who extended their unbeaten streak against the Seals to 10 games.

Tuesday night's schedule has Boston goalie at the Islanders, Vancouver at Atlanta, Washington at Pittsburgh and Minnesota at St. Louis.

Clark scored twice in the last 19 minutes of the opening period to give Rochester the lead. Hynes, then Gibson, as Rochester took a 4-2 lead early through the period.

Central League Has a New Look

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Central Junior Hockey League leaves the impression it is being watched through a dark mirror.

Although there are only five points in the standing between the top and bottom club in the six-team league, all the leaders from last year are at the bottom and tail end teams from last season now are on top.

Rockland Nationals top the standings with 18 points, one more than Brockville Warriors and two more than Gloucester Rangers. Nepean Raiders and Smiths Falls Bears each have 14 points, one more than Pembroke Lumber Kings, playoff champions last season.

In league action Sunday the Nationals and Kings played to a 5-5 tie in Pembroke while Gloucester drubbed Brickville 7-3 in Gloucester. On Saturday, Nepean made it three in a row without a loss with a 7-3 win over Smiths Falls.

John Jesson, with four goals, and Dave Blandin with three handled Nepean scoring while Tim Terrance and Jim Venne replied for the Bears.

Sunday the Nationals were unable to put three good periods together, leading 2-1 and 5-4 through two periods but allowing the Kings to come back in the third.

Rockland got two goals from Mike Brisebois and one each from Terry Paindell, Andre Pilon and Gilbert Lessaville, but were unable to hold off Kim Minsis, with two goals, Steve Waddington, Dave Jackson and Mike Harrington of Pembroke.

At Gloucester, the Warriors took two periods to even get started. Steve Dawe, Kevin Benson, Bill Lertie with the first of two goals and Hugh Rham scored for Gloucester before John Judge broke the ice for Rockland to open the third period.

Brad Maxwell and Kevin Lee scored later for the Nationals, but by then Lertie, his brother Andy and Larry Parks had scored for the Rangers.

Next league action is Tuesday when the Rangers host Smiths Falls.

Knicks Are Close but That's All

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Atlanta Hawks had a win their pockets Sunday night and almost let it get away.

New York Knicks wiped out most of a 17-point deficit in the final seven minutes and had the chance to win, but blew three easy close shots in the last two seconds. As a result, the Hawks escaped with a 97-96 win in their National Basketball Association game.

"The play went the way we planned," said New York coach Red Holtzman. "The shot just didn't drop."

Shots by John Gianelli and Phil Jackson hung tantalizingly on the rim, then dropped off to finish the Knicks once and for all.

"They had three shots and I still can't figure out how the ball didn't go in," said Atlanta's Connie Hawkins. "But it should have never been that close."

In Sunday's other NBA games, Los Angeles Lakers downed Chicago Bulls 114-89 and Golden State Warriors trimmed Golden State Warriors 102-98.

Sport Briefs

FIRST DOUBLE WIN

PRAGUE (AP) — Charlie Tickner and Priscilla Hill triumphed Sunday in the international Prague Skate figure skating tournament, marking the first time ever the men's and women's divisions of the tourney were won by U.S. skaters.

BING SIDELINED

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dave Bing of Washington Bullets will be sidelined for two months with a knee injury suffered in Saturday's triple-overtime loss to Philadelphia 76ers, the National Basketball Association club announced Sunday. Bing, acquired from Detroit Pistons in August, broke a bone in his right knee in a collision with Billy Cunningham with 28 seconds left in the fourth quarter of the game.

TWO EXPELLED

MILAN, Italy (AP) — The Italian Ski Federation expelled two downhill specialists Sunday who threatened to go to court and show that the whole Italian team, including four-time World Cup champion Gustav Thoeni, broke Olympic amateur rules.

Derby County at the Top

Charlie George Proves His Worth

LONDON (Reuter) — Derby County, English soccer champion, feared it was buying trouble when it signed up Charlie George earlier this year; it need not have worried.

George came to Derby from Arsenal with a reputation for being something of a trouble maker but he has behaved himself perfectly with the Midland team and Saturday scored the goal that put his new team on top of the First Division.

With a more mature approach than he sometimes showed in his younger days, George is proving to be one of the most dangerous strikers in the English League and must soon come under the scrutiny of England team manager Don Revie.

In the recent European Cup tie against Real Madrid, George scored brilliant goals in each of the two legs and was Derby's outstanding player.

He is a player with natural skills who is as clever at creating goals as he is at taking them. He can carve open defences with long accurate passes while in the penalty area he is an ideal finisher with a hard shot in either foot.

His goal Saturday was on a header, firmly placed in the 84th minute to earn Derby a 3-1 win over West Ham United. West Ham had led the First Division before the match, but with so little separating the top teams, the losers dropped to fifth place.

Derby is on top with 24 points, Liverpool and Manchester United have 23, and Queen's Park Rangers and West Ham have 22. Rangers' goal record is a traction better than West Ham's.

Liverpool scored a spirited 3-1 win at Newcastle. It was a goal down midway through the first half, but Brian Hall tied the score just before the interval. In the closing minutes, Ray Kennedy, like George a former Arsenal player, scored Liverpool's winner.

Manchester United had little difficulty in denying Aston Villa—first away points of the season, goals from Steve Coppell and Sammy McIlroy clinching a 2-0 win. Queen's Park Rangers came back to tie Ipswich 1-1.

It was a measure of Manchester United's popularity that although all home in the city were cancelled because of soccer hooliganism, a crowd of more than 50,000 packed their Old Trafford ground.

Wolverhampton Wanderers, surprisingly, were the day's top scorers in the First Division.

Wanderers had not won away from home for a year and on their home, Burnley, must have looked vulnerable in their game with confidence instead. Wolverhampton Wanderers is a 5-2 win, spacked by two goals by centre-forward John Richards.

Trudeau Disappointed Over France's Slight

RAMBOUILLET, France (Reuter) — Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau, excluded from the six-country economic summit here, said Monday he is disappointed but not angry about not being invited to take part.

In an interview on French television, he said President Valery Giscard d'Estaing's opposition to his participation "has not prompted any tension between our two countries or any desire for vengeance."

Trudeau, interviewed in Ottawa, said his country would very much have liked to be present.

"I know that the other participants, except France, wanted this as well," he added.

Mastoid Surgery Affects Balance

By G. C. THORSTEDEN, MD

Dear, Dr. Thorsteden: I am a disabled woman, 60-years-old, and have been bothered with motion sickness since I was a young child. During the past few years my husband and I have gone on cruises. But in a garden of few long or short steps or a few miles in a car, I get my be. I am bothered by dizziness. I have to take pills. They seem to help some, but I'm never completely free of nausea and the dizzy, swaying feeling.

Every so often, while at home, I find on awakening I'm feeling sick, dizzy headedness and nausea that lasts from a couple of days to a week. When I was two-years-old I was operated on for double mastoids, but since then I have not been bothered with earaches except on very rare occasions.

My husband and I are planning another cruise soon and I would like to be able to enjoy myself the whole time. Is it possible? Could retiring late at night a week trigger them? sick, dizzy headaches, even at home?—Mrs. E.D.

Your childhood mastoid surgery indicates you were at one time subject to infections of the middle ear. Mastoids are the bony prominences which can be felt behind the ears. You would be wise to see an ear specialist to see if this earlier problem is not a factor today.

The mastoids are relatively close to the middle ear, where the body's equilibrium is maintained. Your vision should be checked for a refractive error. This can be a factor in motion sickness.

Discounting this as a source of your seasickness, there are many physical factors you can try to help make your voyage a bit more pleasant. Take a few of a couple of days before you board can help. Motion sickness is aggravated by fatigue.

You should not eat heavy meals. Stay away from alcohol during the trip. Get out in the air as much as possible, especially in the daytime, when most motion sickness seem to be exaggerated.

Find the most position board ship for sunning, preferably midship with your deck chair facing inboard (to avoid horizon-watching). Don't read while at sea.

Make sure you get sufficient liquids. If you feel nauseous, lie down or slouch down in a deck chair with your head firmly supported by a pillow.

If your medication doesn't seem to help, others that can be used in its place or in conjunction with it. Pill sedatives can make your trip more enjoyable.

Most motion sickness results from the head being rotated on more than one plane, as in up-down-sideways or up-sideways movements of ships and planes. It is not a natural experience for the body and the balancing mechanism of the ear sends distress signals to the vomiting center in the brain.

Dear Dr. Thorsteden: For nine years I have born contact lens without problems. About four years ago I had unusual occurrences. I've changed lenses several times and they all do the same thing—burn and sting.

I've had my eyes checked and the only problem seems to be that the vision is getting worse. Any ideas? Suggestions?—Mrs. A.C.

If you are using oral contraceptives, this could be a factor. A cream is a publication by the U.S. department of health, education and welfare mentions a connection between the Pill and some cases of difficulty in wearing lenses.

It is also possible you may have become sensitized to lens material. You should not use the lenses with your symptoms.

B.T.R.: If no defect is found in conjunction with a thorough vaginal canal, try a non-medicated lubricant or one of the "feminine jellies." In the U.S., a mere stiffenty woman who was asked the same question, an examination is in order. While the genital structures tend to become drier and smaller after the menopause, a problem could be due to a rear formation within the vagina. Surgical adhesions could be snipped and gentle dilation performed.

Birds Still Hinder Supersonic Flights

NEW YORK (Reuter) — In an era of supersonic flights and highly sophisticated gadgetry, the world's airlines are still at the mercy of birds.

But the U.S. Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) hopes Canada may provide a solution. While little has been done to keep the birds away, the FAA is studying a new system developed in Canada in which a remote-controlled model plane shaped like a hawk is flown around airports to scare the damaging flocks.

"If it works, we'll certainly try it," says FAA spokesman Irv Ripps.

The costly damage caused by birds was dramatically demonstrated at Kennedy airport last Wednesday when an Overseas National Airways DC-10 jet exploded and caught fire after a flock of seagulls was sucked into its right engine as it was taking off. All 139 persons aboard escaped unharmed.

It was not the first such incident. Between 1964 and 1973, there were 63 "bird strikes" against aircraft in the U.S. Engines involved commercial planes, while the others were private aircraft.

Most of the private planes crashed after colliding with a variety of birds, killing 11 persons.

An untold number of commercial crew members were injured, some seriously, during the same period when birds crashed through aircraft windshields.

In one case, a bird slammed through the windshield of a United Airlines DC-8 as it was taking off in Des Moines, Iowa, resulting in serious injury to one crew member and minor injuries to three others.

The worst accident attributed to birds was at Logan airport in Boston on Oct. 4, 1960, when an Eastern Airlines Electra flew through a flock of starlings seconds after its wheels left the ground. Scores of the birds were sucked into an engine, sharply reducing the plane's power. It crashed into the bay, killing 62 of the 72 passengers.

Two years later, two swans slammed into the tail of a United Airlines Viscount at Elliott, Md. Its horizontal stabilizer tore apart, the plane crashed, killing 15 passengers and four crew members.

For years, the FAA has been trying to deal with the birds.

But at Kennedy airport, as at other major air terminals, measures to cope with seagulls and other birds are, at best, primitive.

Two airport employees wielding shotguns tried unsuccessfully to rout a flock of seagulls from the runway here where the Overseas National Airways jetliner later exploded. The two men were forced away at the flocks, but the gulls returned minutes later.

By Oswald and James Jacoby

When should you make a partial-slam bid in order to sit back and wait for tricks to come in?

The answer is very infrequently. The man who sits back and waits is very likely to still be waiting after his opponents have fulfilled their contract.

There is one classic exception. When your opponents have reached a game and you don't appear that they have any long suit to work with, in this instance it is up to you to make the lead that is most likely to help them.

West holds three jacks. Not much in the way of defense against a slam, but his partner may have some cards and it is up to West to find the lead that is least likely to help declarer. That safest possible lead is a spade. If West makes this lead, declarer will struggle along. As long as the defenders take care, declarer will only collect 11 tricks.

A lead of either red suit gives him a 12th. A club lead won't help him, but there is no reason for West to do any guessing.

Ask the Jacobys

The Jacoby transfer bid is used in response to notrump openings. The transfers to majors are two diamonds to hearts and two hearts to spades.

Our Florida reader wants to know how you transfer if there is an overcall. The answer is that you just don't. When we discussed the bid early next year we will show how you can do this, if you wish.

Cutting Noise

LONDON (CP) — Radio engineers announced recently that they are attempting to make the House of Commons Bandstand sound less like a pub at closing time. This follows a four-week experiment last summer in which debates were broadcast live. In the Commons, MPs make a noise between Hear, Hear and "Hooray" when they agree, but on air it came over as a drunken rumble.

Covering Too Much

HARLOW, England (CP) — Mary and Eddie Benion were thrown from a swimming pool here recently because they were too well covered. Pool attendants said excessive clothing causes a health hazard. Mrs. Benion wore a one-piece swimsuit and a sweater and Mr. Benion wore swim trunks and a T-shirt.

British Course Offered On Resource Management

LONDON (CP) — Growing concern for the affects of economic industrial society on the environment has prompted the Open University, Britain's pioneering experiment in mass higher education, to offer a course in environmental control and public health.

The course is designed to provide a basic understanding of the ways in which natural resources can be managed and how problems of pollution, waste disposal and recycling can be tackled.

It is one of a series of 24 "foundation courses" offered by the university, varying from five to 19 months in length. These are non-degree courses for people who want to extend knowledge of their own field or acquire knowledge of a new one.

Some of them, including the environmental one, carry credits that may count towards a bachelor of arts degree if the students wishes to continue studying. In any case, a course certificate is awarded to all students who complete the work and pass a final written examination.

The course, which begins by tracing the history of public health management and legislation in Britain since the early 19th century, is intended both for those with a professional interest, such as public health inspectors and sewage plant managers, and lay students.

Like all the Open University's curriculum, it is taught by means of a multi-media system mailed to the student's home, set books and self-assessment tests. These are all linked to radio and television programs, which are transmitted nation wide at one of the 300 study centres scattered around Britain.

It is what the university calls an "interdisciplinary" course, covering in detail public health, the management of sewage facilities, the disposal of solid and toxic wastes, air pollution and noise.

Six of the 16 fortnightly units of study, some requiring up to 14 hours' work by the student, are devoted to water management. This covers such areas as supply, treatment, distribution and consumption, the disposal of water-borne wastes and the recycling of "polluted water" to make it safe for use again.

Other parts of the course deal with air pollution and how it can be controlled, enabling the student to weigh the social cost of damage to the air against the cost of alleviating it. Noise is the subject of two units, which review its effects and how measurement of noise and legislation for its control are interrelated.

In the section on waste disposal, emphasis is placed on the need to conserve potentially scarce resources. Students also learn of new procedures which could contribute to the world's dwindling supplies of energy-giving materials.

As well as the usual batch of set books and teaching texts, the course includes a home experiment kit which enables students to analyze air pollution, measure water pollution and monitor noise levels, especially of traffic.

A slide viewer demonstrates examples of airborne damage to plant life and there are also samples of a long section attached by air pollution. Also included are the effects of excessive noise on the human hearing system.

The course runs from February to November, 1976.

The Open University itself has been described as the most important innovation in British education for half a century. Its "distance teaching" methods succeed in reaching a widely dispersed body of students, most of whom work part-time at the courses while running a career or raising a family.

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (CP) — Plague is endemic in Rhodesia.

Since the first recorded outbreak a year ago at Wankie, in the country's western area, there have been 400 suspected cases of these 67 have been confirmed and 15 victims have died.

Dr. A. C. Pugh, provincial medical officer of health for Matabeleland, gave the figures recently at the annual conference of the Rhodesian Association of Public Health Inspectors.

"We have plague now in Rhodesia in our rodent population and it is here for keeps," Dr. Pugh said. "We will always have plague.

"There is no reason why someone who has been bitten by an infected flea can't get on a bus and travel to any part of Rhodesia and start his own little epidemic in his own farmlands.

"Plague often occurs two years in succession, then there is a break of a few years before it returns.

"So we can expect more plague this year," he said.

In the area where a recent plague death occurred, Pugh said the houses now were "ankle deep" in DDT powder.

He said it seemed that we are going to have human outbreaks from time to time. We must remember this and we must educate the public and our staffs, and we must reinstitute rodent control."

He said rodent control had been allowed to slip.

"I believe we will have to be much tighter on it in all parts of Rhodesia."

Asked about the possibility of plague spreading through public transport, Pugh said: "The railway lines run right down the plague areas and right into Bulawayo's railway stations, which is a fact worth worrying."

But he said this had been a cause for concern already and all sidings and buildings had been sprayed.

"I think the railway line is pretty safe, but I'm still worried about the trucks going up and down, bringing in odd rodents in, as well as the transport vehicles and African buses. Anyone could bring in rodents, fleas and patients."

Although only 13 plague deaths have been reported, Pugh said he was sure there had been many more that had not been reported.

"The answer we get birth and death registration among Africans in Rhodesia is very poor, because we haven't a clue what is going on," he said.

An early sign of plague is a heavy rodent die-off and there was a seven year rodent death before the plague broke out at Wankie last September.

There are three main types of plague — bubonic, septicemic and pneumonic. The latter can be transmitted by coughing, this was the "black death" that swept Europe in the Middle Ages.

Self-rule Not Always Answer to Problems

MORONI, Comoros Islands, (Reuter), The Comoro Islands brought to world notice by their Unilateral Declaration of Independence (UDI), swiftly followed by a coup d'etat, find self-rule has not produced an automatic panacea for their problems.

The perfume exporting islands, which broke from French colonial rule on July 6 this year, are hard hit by lower world prices for their products, inflation and unemployment.

In addition, the reluctance of one of the four Indian Ocean islands, Mayotte, to join with the others and break from France has frozen French aid which would have eased the problems.

The Comoro Islands broke peacefully from France after seven months of wrangling over the status of Mayotte. The overwhelming majority of the islands' 300,000 inhabitants voted last December for independence.

But final moves to self-rule were held up because 60 per cent of the 40,000 people of Mayotte (the Mahorias) voted to remain French. Their leaders declared their continued intention to be ruled from Paris and not UDI.

Less than a month after UDI the government of President Ahmed Abdallah was deposed in a bloodless coup d'etat led by Ali Soilih, a former minister of public works.

Soilih declared that future relations with France would be closer than under the former government and added: "We want France, given the situation in which President Abdallah placed the Comoros Islands."

Nearly three months later, the financial situation reportedly found itself in urgent need of money to pay civil servants and start the new school year properly.

France has effectively recognized the islands' independence which it was prepared to give anyway—but the pro-UDI problem of Mayotte remains a sore point in the Comoros' relations with Paris.

On Oct. 6, a delegation from Moroni met French officials in Paris to resolve outstanding problems.

These were suspended nine days later to allow more time for the Comoro representatives to report back to the new leaders. No date was set for their resumption.

Normally after independence, a former French colony would be eligible for aid from the French government, but Paris has made it clear that aid depends on a "satisfactory agreement on Mayotte.

Once Paris and Moroni have come to an accord, France may grant new aid.

Police Find 400-pound Explosives Cache

SOUTHAMPTON, England (AP) — About 100 troops, police and customs men searched the Queen Elizabeth 2 today after police questioned 41 persons rounded up after discovery of a 400-pound cache of explosives near the dock where the liner is berthed.

The police refused to comment on newspaper speculation linking the explosives to the outlawed Irish Republican Army.

"There are soldiers all over the ship," said a workman who came ashore from the closely guarded QE2. "They are searching the public rooms and cabins and seem to think that an explosive device may be on board.

"Some of them have dogs which they say have been trained to sniff out explosives."

Other crew members said the police used explosives to blow open locked trunks and cases.

The 65,863-ton Cunard liner has been at the Southampton docks for the last three weeks undergoing her annual refit. She is scheduled to sail Thursday for New York to begin five months of Caribbean cruises.

The search began late Sunday night some hours after the announcement that police discovered the stock of explosives in a store in a 15-story apartment house overlooking the docks.

Police said there was enough explosive to make 20 bombs of the type that has been used recently in London. Police blame the IRA for bombs that have killed six persons and injured more than 150 in the London area since Aug. 27.

One tenant in the apartment house reported she heard the sound of drilling at all hours of the day and night. Irish red soaps could also be heard. Workmen seemed to be coming and going at all hours at one of the flats, she said.

Last Christmas Eve police had a gun battle with suspected IRA men less than two miles from the apartment house, and later recovered a bomb factory in a house.

In May, 1972, four bomb-disposal experts were parachuted onto the Queen Elizabeth 2 in mid-Atlantic after an anonymous caller said that the liner had been planted on board. No explosives were found.

In April, 1973, extraordinary security measures were ordered to protect the liner against Arab guerrilla attacks when she took 400 Jewish passengers to Israel's 25th anniversary celebration. Again there was no attack.

Saskatchewan NDP Want To Challenge Federal Restraints

SASKATOON (CP) — The Saskatchewan NDP convention called on the provincial government Sunday to "consider a constitutional challenge to the federal program of wage and price controls, but Premier Allan Blakeney rejected such action.

The compromise resolution smoothed over a sharp division that developed at the convention Saturday over the controls.

But Premier Blakeney made it clear before, during and after debate on the resolution that his government will not make any such challenge and is bound by the party's resolution.

"Different interpretations will be put on that very long and in some ways contradictory resolution," the NDP premier told reporters after the convention.

He said both the cabinet and the provincial labor movement agree that parts of the federal anti-inflation program are unfair to workers.

"The trade union people think a great many parts of it are unfair. I think some parts of it are unfair. We were able to find a wording which covers both positions."

Before the wording was found, there were sessions of sharp debate in which several speakers accused the provincial government of co-operating in federal removal of the right to free collective bargaining.

The clash over anti-inflation policy, however, was balanced by unanimity and expressions of pride over the provincial government's recent decision to take over the potash industry.

"This will be the battle of the 1970s for democratic socialism in Saskatchewan and perhaps in Canada," Mr. Blakeney told delegates after his routine re-election as leader Sunday morning.

He told reporters "vigorous debate" is traditional at NDP conventions, adding he was pleased at the large turnout this time—1,114 registered delegates and observers.

There was contentious debate on a resolution that would have compelled all hospitals to provide abortion services. Health Minister Wes Robbins said such service is not practical in small hospitals and Roman Catholic hospitals are not required to violate their beliefs.

Another resolution called on party leaders to explain inaction on convention resolutions when called upon to do so by future conventions.

The convention defeated a resolution calling for wide nationalization of resource industries, although on Friday, several speakers recommending the potash takeover said they would like the same principle applied to other resource fields.

Banker Predicts Moderate Recovery

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP) — Inflation will moderate only slightly and the prime interest rate will likely increase by one per cent or more in 1976, a senior economist with the Royal Bank predicted Saturday.

Daryll Waddingham said that despite the government's wage and price guidelines, the Canadian economy will make only "an average recovery" next year and inflation will continue in the prices of food and petroleum.

Increases in the prime interest rate—currently 9¾ per cent—were likely because of increased costs to the banks in borrowing from corporate sources the money it will lend to the public.

Mr. Waddingham, speaking to reporters attending a seminar on labor and business reporting, said the bank was predicting a 5 per-cent increase in the gross national product for 1976, a recovery that would be led by an increase in consumer confidence and spending.

Unemployment, however, would remain virtually the same—about seven per cent—and might even rise slightly.

One Up, One Down

WELSHPOOL, Wales (CP) — The townsfolk were adamant that the pub sign at the Angel Inn, showing a rather heavy-set figure, had to come down. But they approved a sign outside the Mermaid Inn, showing a topless mermaid. The landlady at the Mermaid, Cynthia Whitehouse, said: "Mermaids are meant to be topless, and anyway she isn't very busty."

Be Quiet

ST. NEOTS, England (CP) — Local people complained that a factory here, turning out soundproofing materials, was making too much noise. The factory now has been soundproofed.

Ontario Cabinet May Impose 60 m.p.h. Speed Limit on Highways

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian Press has learned that the Ontario cabinet has decided to set a lower limit on highway speeds.

Sources indicate that after a year of deliberation the government is planning to impose a speed limit of 60 m.p.h. on major highways. The present limit on a number of highways is 70 m.p.h.

Government sources say the province will also introduce legislation to impose mandatory seat belts for drivers.

The legislation lowering the speed limit and calling for seat belts should be introduced before the end of this week, government sources say.

The legislation comes after a cabinet split which has raged about a year.

Health Minister Frank Miller has often spoken in favor of seat belts but the problem of drafting mandatory legislation has been quite within the cabinet.

Government sources indicated that officials in the ministries of transport and communications and health, responsible for the measures, are in the United States, various studies have both praised and criticized the speed limit of 55 m.p.h. set in the U.S. during the energy crisis.

However, indications are that Ontario is ready to accept that a lower speed limit will reduce traffic fatalities.

Energy Minister Dennis Timbrell has waffled over lower speed limits, saying they need further study.

Sources say the annual $100-million cost of traffic accidents in Ontario is a strong factor in favor of the lower speed limits.

The problem of enforcing mandatory seat-belt legislation has been a problem but statistics from Australia during the last few years show that mandatory seat-belt legislation was obeyed by an estimated 75 per cent of the population.

Victoria Ave. Project

Ratepayers Win Sidewalk Battle

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Victoria Ave. residents Monday night won their court battle to keep sidewalks in their present location — a stand in direct opposition to the advice of professional planners and city hall staff.

Professional staff urged council to move sidewalks closer to property lines and create a grass boulevard between sidewalks and the roadway — a move that would reduce future costs of road widening to four lanes.

With scarcely a word of debate city council Monday night decided in favor of residents in rebuilding an eight-block strip of Victoria — from William St. to MacDonald Ave.

The decision came after it accepted a petition signed by 218 property owners and household-ers stressing their preference in two reconstruction plans drafted by the city's engineering department.

At the same time, city councillor Brian Knudsen chided official planning proposals which could route major traffic collector streets through the city's residential core.

And the man who rallied Victoria householders — city dentist Dr. Paul Dupuis — said the result of council's decision could set a precedent for similar projects in future.

Before council was a choice formally between Plan A and Plan B.

Both concepts would have left the road width the same — for now. But the issue hinged on moving sidewalks and creating boulevards.

Plan B, recommended by city engineer Joe Angelo, and earlier adopted in principle by council — would have moved sidewalks closer to property lines and created an intervening boulevard by the streetside.

But, advised the engineer, this would permit less costlier street-widening in future — estimated at 14 years from now when projected traffic pressure would warrant a four-lane street.

But householders opted for Plan A — without boulevards and leaving new sidewalks undisturbed in their present alignment.

Present cost difference between both plans was small — $6,500.

The now-approved Plan A — which leaves sidewalks where they are, is estimated at $313,500.

The alternative Plan B favored by the engineering department is $320,000.

The wider cost margin is projected for the future.

Having to widen the MacDonald strip to four lanes could cost $189,000 under Plan A. With Plan B the cost would be $102,000 — a saving of $87,000. But these are based on 1976 cost estimates.

Council first heard objections to the Plan B concept a month ago from Dr. Knutson.

A public meeting Oct. 30 showed Victoria residents give "overwhelming support" to Plan A, Dr. Knutson reminded council as he presented the petition he and a group of other involved householders had since organized.

The petition represented 80 per cent of those on the municipal voting list in the area, he said.

Also residents in the block between Coleman and William where the Plan B concept already has been installed — signed the petition, he told councillors.

Later, Dr. Knutson called city council "very co-operative in this whole thing.

"They once or less accepted the will of the people on the street," he added.

But, he agreed, it "kind of sets a precedent" for any future similar projects in the city. Other neighborhoods could "benefit from our experience."

He said he agreed with Ald. Knudsen.

There is no rhyme or reason to contemplate four-lane streets in residential areas," said Dr. Knutson.

Ald. Knudsen said he wanted to go on record as opposing any sections of the city's new official plan which envisage final provincial government approval — where it proposes major collector streets in the city's residential core.

Ald. Jean Smith added a footnote to the Victoria issue: She commended city hall's engineering department for a job "nicely done" on that council had "two" schemes to choose from.

Later Mr. Angelo said the Victoria project would start next spring.

Smoke Signals

Britain's Prime Minister Harold Wilson, left, and President Gerald Ford both smoke pipes as they attend a news conference at Rambouillet City Hall after the final session of a three-day economic summit meeting. The leaders of the world's six major industrial nations agreed, at the close of the summit meeting, to work together to provide more jobs, lower prices and greater economic security for their people. Davidson Called 'Buzzard'

OTTAWA (CP) — Stan Darling (PC—Parry Sound-Muskoka) blasted the leaders of the Canadian Union of Postal Workers (CUPW) in an emotional Commons speech Monday night. He called union president Joe Davidson a "buzzard" and vice-president Jean-Claude Parrot "a sweet-talkin' parrot" and said both men "should be sent packing." "When I see them prancing and preening on television I can't believe they have anyone in mind but themselves," he told MPs during a special debate on the country-wide Postal strike.

Ottawa to Appoint

OTTAWA (CP) — The government will appoint a senior civil servant to head its anti-inflation board as soon as legislation to put the wheel ad wage and price controls into full operation passes Parliament, Corporate Affairs Minister André Ouellet said Monday. He suggested it will be someone at the level of deputy minister or assistant deputy minister. Since the administrator must be familiar with tax information, the revenue department would be a likely place from which to make the choice.

Summit Reaches Few Economic Conclusions

RAMBOUILLET, France (AP) — The 1,200-word Declaration of Rambouillet that the six-nation economic summit produced charts no clear route out of the world's worst slump since the 1930s.

The leaders of the United States, France, West Germany, Japan, Britain and Italy offered only a familiar catalogue of shared hopes, ideas and assertions.

"We did not meet to take decisions," Prime Minister Harold Wilson said at the window. "Nor did we think that an short a meeting would constitute a turning-point in the world economy."

But U.S. President Ford said: "We can master our future."

His purpose—shared by the other leaders at their three-day seminar at the Chateau de Rambouillet—was to give the people of the industrial democracies the feeling that their rulers have charted a way out of the economic perils threatening their standards, values and political systems.

It was to persuade them that their leaders and lawmakers are not subject to "blind forces beyond their control," as U.S. State Secretary Henry Kissinger put it recently.

Issues omitted from the declaration seemed to be quite as significant as its contents.

Some examples:

—There was no word on the future of gold in the world's changing money system. There have been deep differences between the U.S. and France on this.

—No concerted program was offered to heed unemployment projections that pledges by each of the six leaders to move beyond policies of expansion as swiftly as is sensible. A total of 12.5 million persons are jobless in the six countries.

Maskasey Rejects Mediation in Talks

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Postmaster-General Bryce Mackasey rejected appointment of a mediator as a possible solution to the postal strike Monday as the Canadian Union of Postal Workers (CUPW) announced latest plans for 48-hour-week strike pay to members.

Mr. Mackasey continued his hard-nosed approach to the bitter strike as the Commons held an emergency debate on the walkout, which began Oct. 26.

As union negotiators watched from the visitors' galleries, Mr. Mackasey said the postal workers are "dreaming in technicolor" if they think they can get more than the latest government offer—$1.70 an hour over a 30-month contract.

"The trouble with this union negotiating team is that they don't know when they've got a good bargain," he said. "The government has tried to be fair and firm no matter if the strike lasted a year.

Mr. Mackasey termed a proposal for appointment of a mediator for 72-hours "ridiculous" after New Democratic Party Leader Ed Broadbent made the suggestion.

But the union reaction to the suggestion was different.

Jean-Claude Parrot, chief negotiator for the 22,000-member union, said in an interview he has no doubt a mediator will help.

"If it means the resumption of negotiations even for 48 hours it is better than nothing," he said. "It is important to get back to the bargaining table. That's where this will have to be resolved anyway."

The union announced Monday it will begin strike pay to members of $40 beginning next Friday. The money has been borrowed with interest from private non-union sources as the union had no strike fund.

Union President Joe Davidson said in a statement that the pay will go to members who take part in union duties—such as picketing—assigned to them by local strike committees.

Striking union members have been hard-pressed for money and some have returned to work. But union spokesmen stress those who have gone back are a small minority.

The fund is said to be large enough to last past Christmas but because it has been borrowed from private sources could place strains on the union.

Northern Electric Union Will Disregard Guidelines

BY COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

The 550-member union of hourly-rated workers at Belleville's Northern Electric plant will disregard federal wage and benefits guidelines which would hold any negotiated settlement to a maximum gain of 12 per cent.

Lorna Moses, president of local 1839, United Auto Workers said she could not disclose exact union demands but that they would accumulatively exceed the government guidelines.

Miss Moses said her local has already submitted its fringe benefits demands to the company along with pension demands — seen as the major issue of the negotiations.

The union will complete a two-year contract with the firm Feb. 26.

Miss Moses said late in January the union will present its wage demands to the company's negotiating team. She would not say how much the union would be asking for.

"Our wage demands will be formulated once we have consulted the rest of the employees of the new fringe benefit and pension contributions," she said.

Pension "is the major issue this time around," said Miss Moses.

In 1973, the union struck for 10 weeks in support of a cost of living clause and a new pension arrangement.

Miss Moses said her union won a cost of living clause last time but failed in its bid for a revised pension set up.

The company has made a commitment that it will negotiate the pension plan," said Miss Moses. "It needs to be completely re-vamped. It's a bad deal right now."

During the past year, some 300 members of Miss Moses' union local have been laid off due to a softening of business and the company's United States market.

At present the remaining 555 members of the hourly-rated group earn and average of $4.30 an hour.

In a union release, it is stated 50 local leaders representing all Northern Electric office and production workers are unanimous in defying wage controls as proposed by the federal government.

The unions representing 15,000 Northern workers "condemned the wage guidelines as destructive of collective bargaining and totally favoring companies."

Surgeon Supports Family Requests

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. Robert Salter, surgeon-in-chief at the Hospital for Sick Children, said Monday that families doctors probably would grant a family request to discontinue use of artificial life-support systems for a patient who could not live otherwise.

Dr. Salter said this ethic applies only to cases such as turning off a respirator attached to a patient "who would be dead if we had not interfered and who will never be alive" again, no matter what we do."

Such cases are different from euthanasia, which is still murder, he said.

Sky Shops Company Donated Yearly

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail says Sky Shops Ltd., which operates chain hold the duty-free concessions at three federal airports, gave Christmas gifts yearly between 1964 and 1973 to federal and civil service the company regularly dealt with.

In a copyright story by reporter Peter Moon, the newspaper said several government officials at first denied accepting gifts from Sky Shops but later admitted they had after reports had been aired of the persons involved and that the gifts were illegal.

Gifts included liquor, radios, watches, clothing, free meals, electric razors, a camera, umbrellas, perfume, and gold-plated pen and pencil sets, the newspaper said.

Mr. Atkins was not available for further comment Monday night.

Lahr Committee Postponed

Formation of a committee to organize the visit late next year by 300 people from Lahr, Germany has been postponed.

City council Monday tabled a motion from Ald. Stu Meeks seeking to set up an organizing group headed by former mayor Robin Jeffrey, which would co-ordinate events involving the visitors from Belleville's twin city, Lahr.

Two weeks ago he served notice to council he would introduce the proposal.

The Lahr visitors are scheduled to arrive next September—reciprocating a friendship flight of Belleville residents earlier this year. It included then-mayor Jeffrey, who later resigned to run unsuccessfully as Progressive Conservative candidate in Quinte riding.

Ald. Meeks, who also was on the trip, said local residents were very, very impressed with the arrangements made for them in Lahr. For the reciprocal visit "there is a lot of work to be done...," he added.

To head the committee "I couldn't think of a better person" than Mrs. Jeffrey, since she is familiar both with exchange programs between both twin cities and Lahr centre.

Ald. Jack Ireland, however, said he was "greatly concerned" organizing a committee now would put "the cart before the horse."

He suggested city manager Wilbur Purcell and Mayor Ben Corts should first discuss what program could be evolved — and the expense involved — before a committee was formed.

Ald. Ireland said he didn't want "to stir a storm", but the moved had to be "handled diplomatically".

Six members of council voted to carry the tabling motion.

Sidewalk Hits Snag

A proposed sidewalk on Sidney St. to protect child safety near a separate school has gone back to the traffic committee for more consideration.

The sidewalk originally was part of a safety plan including traffic lights for Lady of Fatima separate school.

The lights now are operating.

But there's been a delay over the sidewalk. Originally, its construction was predicated on the possibility that the five-foot strip of land required extending along the school front to Wilson Ave. could be donated. The Hastings — Prince Edward separate school board agreed. But a neighboring industry, with a frontage of more than 300 feet, felt it couldn't surrender the land without compensation.

This would mean land acquisition and a local improvement project.

Meantime, there's another complication.

The sidewalk was to extend along the north side of Wilson Ave. to a laneway leading to Elgin St. But Ald. Jack Ireland noted this mean youngsters crossing the Wilson intersection — often busy with heavy-truck traffic.

Sidney Work Continues

The final phase of rebuilding Sidney St. to four lanes should start next spring—ending a project that started eight years ago.

That's the word from city engineer Joe Angele after city council Monday night converted its approval of the program's last stage into necessary bylaws.

The step involved extends reconstruction of Sidney from Tracey St. to the Highway 401 overpass, north of Bell Blvd.

It's the last stage in a program converting Sidney to four lanes that started at West Dundas St. in 1967.

The final phase includes a storm sewer and sidewalk planned for the east side of Sidney from Tracey to Bell.

The provincial government will pay $139,400 in subsidies on road and sewer costs of $446,500—leaving the city's share at $265,100.

"This could also pose a hazard. Therefore why not continue the Wilson sidewalk around the corner off Sidney—thus saving youngsters from crossing at the intersection," he said.

"I'd liked to see this looked at again (by the committee)," he told council, which agreed with his suggestion.

Postal Dispute Doesn't Hamper Parade Preparations

TRENTON — Santa is not scheduled to arrive by air until Christmas Eve but he will travel into the homes of children throughout the Quinte area on television airwaves as Trenton's annual holiday parade on Saturday Nov. 27, is televised for the first time.

The Santa Claus Parade, sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, will also herald the arrival of a new television personality as Root Beer, mascot of the Montreal Alouettes and representative of A and W Restaurants will be touring the downtown streets entertaining Trenton residents.

The postal strike could have had a large impact on the parade but wild not permit it to interfere with preparations said Don Ogden, parade committee member and producer of CFB Cavalcade which will be aired.

"Jack Wilson and his staff at the Chamber of Commerce were forced to work harder than in past years, over the telephone and through personal contacts, ensuring the proper forms were received and returned," said Mr. Ogden.

There will be five bands in this years parade including the Trenton's Citizen Band, the Legion Band from Cobourg, Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Band from Trenton and two representatives from CFB Trenton, the Pipe and Drum Band the Brass and Reed bands.

Mr. Ogden said, along with the 20 floats, there will be three majorette groups one from Merrill Centennial School, Trenton Majorettes and the Stirling High Steppers.

Clowns will be walking along the parade route and dispensing balloons to children as the floats, representing civic clubs, schools and local business' march for the crowds.

Representatives of government will be present for the festivities as Hugh O'Neil, MPP Quinte Riding, will take part in the parade. Pete Ashe will represent Trenton council.

"It should be a good parade not only during the actual event, but when we interview it on Monday and Tuesday (Nov. 24 and 25), on Cobourg channel 4," said Ogden we will have a special guest commentator who should add to the enjoyment of all those watching," said Mr. Ogden.

Use of Nature Trails On Rise Says Official

PICTON — Nature trails at Macaulay Mountain, a Prince Edward Region Conservation Authority site, this fall have attracted hundreds of hikers says PERCA secretary Helen Duggan.

Mrs. Duggan recalled that last year the new network of walking trails received little notice from the public until advertised through the press. Shortly after the ads appeared more and more outdoor enthusiasts began to enjoy the trails.

This fall the trails remain popular especially as an area for walking dogs and allowing them to run free.

Mrs. Duggan said Monday that pet owners use the trails on a regular basis to exercise their dogs.

She observed that PERCA regulations state that animals must be leashed to protect any newly-planted tree seedlings. There have been no signs to this effect posted at Macaulay Mountain as yet, however, and dog owners are welcome to give their pets their freedom there.

Mrs. Duggan said that dogs can do little harm if allowed to run free on the trails. It is only in areas where new trees have been planted that damage could occur.

Few students groups have walked the five mile trail network this fall because of the uncertainty of the weather.

Festive Lights Approved

TRENTON — The municipal government is making preparations for the holiday season and has ordered a large light display for the town hall and an artificial Christmas tree that will be placed on the roof of the building for the first time.

The light display, spelling out Season's Greetings, is expected to arrive and will be placed on the building within two weeks, said Arie Hoornweg, public works commissioner. Cost for the display will be shared by the town and the parking authority.

Students to Carnival

PICTON — Approximately 44 students at Prince Edward Collegiate Institute will attend the Quebec Winter Carnival on February 4 accompanied by four chaperones.

The trip which will cost each pupil $24 has been approved by the Prince Edward board of education.

Bah, Humbug!

TRENTON — "While Christmas, I hope not. I hope we have a green Christmas and it carries into January and February," says Trenton public works commissioner Arie Hoornweg.

"I'm not against pretty scenery or the holidays but it would certainly help the town budget if we didn't have to pay for all that snow removal," he said.

Harder Than Cement

Grant McMullen saws a hole in the cement sidewalk in front of Century Square on Bridge St. The pavement was being cut and removed so the Belleville PUC could install lines to provide the necessary service to the area.

Bird Banding Outlined

PRINCE EDWARD POINT—Over 1,100 birds representing approximately 70 species have been banded so far at the new Prince Edward Point Bird Observatory, says Helen Quillam, a member of the Kingston Field Naturalists and one of 38 banders this year at the point.

The observatory, completed in June, is based at the defunct lighthouse at the point. From there detailed observations are made throughout the spring and fall migration. The point, situated at the southeastern tip of South Marysburg Township, in Prince Edward County, is a famous focal point during migration.

Only one such observatory exists on the Canadian side of the lower Great Lakes, and the Prince Edward Point Observatory complements that of the Long Point Bird Observatory on Lake Erie.

Guidelines Outlined

BLOOMFIELD — Prince Edward director of education John McNeil has outlined new guidelines for bus patrolling that recently were approved by the county board of education.

Students appointed as bus patrollers will be named by their principal or a teacher designated by the principals in co-operation with the bus driver and parents involved. Names of the selected students will be forwarded to the board of education offices here as soon as appointments are made.

Blaze Levels Cottage

TWEED — Fire destroyed a Stoco Lake cottage situated five miles east of here Saturday night despite efforts by the local volunteer fire department.

Deputy Fire Chief Ken Fisher said the blaze was reported shortly after 10 p.m. but by that time, the roof had already collapsed.

There was no one in the cottage at the time of the fire, the department reported.

Mr. Fisher said the building "is a complete loss."

While at the scene, fireman watered down neighboring cottages where paint was blistering from the intense heat of the burning cottage.

The cottage is owned by Michael Gaborie.

Cause of the blaze is not known.

"How Did The Fire Start?"

If every family will practice fire prevention: remove newspapers and rubbish; have the furnace pipes cleaned; see that hot pipes and chimneys are insulated from combustible partitions and ceilings; plan with your children how they can escape from each room in the house — then one or more fire tragedies with loss of life may be avoided this winter.

Rival Factions Fight Over Angola as Big Power Politics Also Intrudes

By JOHN D. HARBRON

Foreign Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

After five centuries in Africa, the flag of Portugal came down the other day for the last time, lowered over the ancient fort at Sao Miguel in Luanda, the capital of Angola, now an independent republic.

Admiral Leonel Cardoso, Portugal's last African governor general, gathered up the flag, marched his 3,000 Portuguese marines to a waiting frigate and sailed home.

Not with a bang but a whimper, as the classic phrase goes, the oldest European empire in Africa has come to an end, one which stretched in time from explorer Vasco da Gama's first way to India in 1497, to the recent rightwing dictatorship of the late but unlamented Antonio Salazar.

Only two years ago Portugal's African heritage was still intact and apparently indestructible. Salazar expressed in all her glory, Portugal territorially boasted of cruel guerilla wars.

Angola was the treasure of the collection, a vast rich region with the largest overseas Portuguese population and the potential to be one of the great new nations of the continent. It looked like a Portuguese-speaking Nigeria.

But tragically, if Admiral Cardoso left with a whimper, the beaux were those of the continuous fighting between the three warring liberation movements, each laying claim to the new republic.

The admiral did not leave the new nation to any one group, but in effect ignored them all by a declaration of independence made about 12 hours before the planned date.

The Portuguese homeland, itself deeply split by political strife, would wipe its hands of Angola forever, leaving the dirty jobs of a new failed empire to the Angolans.

At this point, that legacy looks frightening. In Luanda a liberation movement has a claim to the vast nation, in the south another movement claims, and the third movement is advancing against the capital.

And in the century-fastness of this coffee and sisal-rich nation, another liberation movement, supported by neighboring Zaire is determined to talk.

Because Angola is strategic, (she is the world's eighth largest oil producer), and holds other key natural resources, she is already a pawn, like other emerging African nations before her, for big power politics.

American funds are supposed to be at work for arms or any other immediate needs. Russian and Chinese arms, weapons, hand grenades, small arms, are being used by these liberation movements seems to be running over the weapons.

The Portuguese left none and cared none where they were. The admiral was accepting the Angola's vast and perhaps intensible borders and by Sayid abdy Leonid.

The white settlers, most of them either native born or immigrants from the former Portuguese islands of Sao Tome in the nearby Gulf of Guinea, are being evacuated at a record rate.

They are going to an impoverished Portugal, there to join the ranks of other dissilusioned groups, but sharing a rightwing view of what has happened rather than the leftwing one revealed by the rebels.

Angola will not be another Nigeria, moving peacefully and through constitutional means from one stage to another.

United Way 'Support'

Giving the United Way involves some sacrifice not only of money but time and effort as well.

This is implicit in the very title of the campaign, involving a joint effort to assist community organizations and those citizens for whom Christmas for one thing would be less of a pleasurable occasion otherwise.

But some are not pulling their weight, including members of the business community. According to Wendall Reynolds, vice-president elect of the Quinte district labor council, 25 per cent of the 50 small to medium-sized plants he approached on behalf of the United Way, would not co-operate. He estimates that at least 3,000 employees are never reached because the appeal never gets beyond the boss' front door.

Some of the reasons: too many deductions already . . . don't believe in the campaign . . . employees give at home . . . it's disruptive of work time and productivity.

What they are really saying is, "It's too much bother . . . get lost!" Which is a negative attitude and one that is little removed from the sort of reckless and destructive shenanigans that are causing so much trouble on the work scene these days. Mr. Reynolds makes it clear that if labor has been accused of lack of co-operation in past campaigns, this time they simply cannot be reached in many instances.

However it is not exactly a new problem, as UCS executive director Gordon Mullin points out, and he suggests continuing promotional work is needed. Meanwhile, all sections of the community, whether at the individual or corporate level, should give further thought to their own responsibility in this matter.

Inflation Catches Up With Salvation Army's Journal

The War Cry

As we warned our readers in July, this week the price of our periodical goes up to 15 cents. In spite of inflation and the staggering increases in production costs in recent years, we have managed to keep the selling price at a dime ever since July 25, 1962, when we made the last hike — from six cents. In recent years we have used a little more of the larger print out of deference to our aged readers and 12 months ago began to introduce color. We have also tried out a few other ideas which we hope may be considered improvements. But we have lingered so long at the tail of the line for more money that some of our more enthusiastic supporters are wondering why we have not put the price up sooner. Now we have bowed to the inevitable.

The dime is not what it was, and doubtless never will be.

The cause of the increase is probably partly pain and partly pride. It the state of your physique is bad and even for Vic Tanny, then it's not worth a nickel to buy yourself a new agonizing knots in order to go grubbing about on the ground for puny purse-droppings. And, now that a haircut costs ten bucks and a boat are required to keep up a good PR image with the neighbors, who wants to bother with chasing the dime quarter? The housewife who protests about a cents-per-copy on the price of a dozen eggs wouldn't be caught dead looking for a dime on the floor of the store. Sweepers will soon be collecting more tips than taximen.

Yet this blithe casualness towards our coinage has a more serious aspect. "Waste not want not" is still true today; the flaw in the philosophy, however, lies in the fact that those who want are not always the same folk as those who waste. The Bible says that 80 per cent of the world's 3,000 million people, but it has also said that 20 per cent of the income, 80 per cent of its gold and silver, 80 per cent of its scientific knowledge, 70 per cent of its land area, 80 per cent of its protein.

On the home front, the well-heeled try to comfort themselves with the thought that their hard-earned wages are being heavily taxed to support idle, improvident people on welfare. The facts are that the poorest Canadians pay disproportionately more in taxes than do other citizens; that two-thirds of the poor in Canada work and more than three-fourths of the poor work full time. Yet if they gave up their jobs and flooded on to the welfare rolls; that welfare allowances are geared to family size, whereas a bachelor welfare recipient gets the same salary no matter what he or his financial situation.

Maybe some of these people could adopt an even more frugal attitude — for example, living under our present social standards, when an every side they are being cajoled to spend more of the store, borrow more from the bank or pay more to the government through its taxes. Whether they should give up their few luxuries is another question. Inflation is bringing these families to the place where they have their house, furniture and electrical equipment paid, not yet paid for — and now cannot afford decent food to put in the beautiful refrigerator, or gasoline to put in the brand-new automobile.

Wages and Profits

In a recent letter to the editor a reader described what he termed the concept of unions being the cause of inflation as "pure fallacy." He went on to cite substantial raises afforded civil servants and federal MP's and substantially lies to school teachers, steelworkers, and letter carriers while at the same time corporation profits over the same period "rose 237 per cent."

There is some interesting comment on this general theme in a letter to The Globe and Mail, some of it running counter to the letter, backed as it was by statistics, that corporations are making large profits.

In the Globe letter, a Mr. P. A. Spark of Islington cites the traditional villains of inflation as unions, governments and corporations equally, but adds that this is not so today. He sees one of this trio (the corporations) as "already suffering an inevitable hangover that follows a period of excess," thus: "Profits declined 27 per cent for 103 major corporations in the third quarter of the calendar year compared with a year ago, and this after a 20 per cent decline in the second quarter."

Meanwhile, Mr. Spark views what he calls the other two villains "apparently still living high off the hog," with federal spending increasing at a 25 per cent rate and Ottawa — means for rate and Ottawa — having the highest per capita income of any city in Canada.

Wage settlements too, he notes with regard to the third quarter, saw increases averaging 16.8 per cent a year over the life of the contracts, "far in excess of living cost increases and about double those of the United States."

Mr. Spark portrays the "real villains" as the public service employees who enjoy security of employment and who have been retaining increases in excess of those in the private sector unions.

As for controls, he believes it would make more sense if the government recognized that giving monopoly unions the right to strike was a mistake and "realize that some form of compulsory arbitration is a better solution." This, he says, coupled with curbs on the growth of money supply and rigorous restraints on government spending, would do more to reduce inflation than wage and price controls.

It's an interesting thesis, if not a new one. We are also left with a firm reminder that the blame for inflation cannot be laid entirely at the door of the corporations.

Hydro Costs and Reserve Capacity

By DON O'HEARN

Queen's Park Bureau

Thomson News Service

TORONTO — Notes on the times:

Downstairs a select committee is trying to decide what Hydro rates should be.

The key question is what reserve capacity the corporation should have.

It wants 30 per cent or more. This means it would have the plants to produce this much more than it needed to supply its top demand.

Which would mean huge spending on new plants.

The corporation says it needs this for security. To avoid brown-outs. If there should be a long break-down it could maintain full service.

Not so long ago Hydro operated on reserves as low as seven per cent and had a target of 15 per cent for a safe supply.

Why the big increase now?

The committee hasn't got into this yet. It should. And hopefully will.

The star of the government side to date has been Attorney-General Roy McMurtry.

This hunky 43-year-old who looks like an overgrown boy and is a boom pal of the premier, has been launching a crusade against violence.

Guns, hockey players and hate calls; they've been making him headlines.

Yet to be seen is if Mr. McMurtry is for real. Merely a professional Mr. Clean or a solid attorney-general and minister.

It will take time to know.

Dealing with Vandalism

The Globe and Mail

Most taxpayers will understand the impatience, anger and frustration that arise from the wanton destruction of public property, for example, in cases of school vandalism, where the smashing of equipment simply for the sake of destruction offends the senses.

Some of this is done by students in the evenings of Judge Joseph Gardiner as he considered possible penalties for a 16-year-old youth who pleaded guilty to breaking into a Wexford school, causing an estimated $600 worth of damage. The judge said he was reaching the conclusion that young people convicted of similar vandalism should be given time in jail to think about their actions.

The trouble with such a conclusion is, of course, the considerable doubt that people in jail think about their actions in a penitent way at all. Young people in prison there is generally better hope of adjustment, should it generally become better prospects for them by being thrown into a community in which the rudiments of book-keeping, car theft, and remedial bank holdup.

Judge well consider school vandalism to be beneath him, but it may be that he may better for that! We would prefer to see the courts in the case of violence more often made to clean up the mess and repair or make good the damage.

Dollar-averaging Investment Technique is Advocated

By VINCENT EGAN

Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

The investors who hold Canadian stocks there wasn't much to cheer about in a recent report of a group of international investment professionals.

On balance, the forecast for continued churning of stock prices, with the prospect for a decline being at least as great as the chances of an advance.

This was parallel at the Pittsburgh 1975 conference on investment strategy, meeting in Toronto, was clearly bullish on stocks.

He was the chief economist at a large stockbroking house. (That house, according to the complaint of one professional portfolio manager in the audience, is invariably bullish.)

In that economist's opinion, a recovery is under way in North American economies and in corporate profits—although not in profit margins, incidentally. He was optimistic about the outlook for increases in dividends, stock prices and bond prices in 1976.

The treasurer of a major Canadian life-insurance company said he could see no financial base that might support a broad recovery in equity prices, "so we will continue to bump along."

He admitted that professionals are going the more gutsy and fashion-conscious of investors, and that most of the rules of investing that they learned during the 1960s have proved to be unreliable.

He thought investors would do well to return to the old technique of dollar-averaging—investing a fixed number of dollars at monthly intervals, regardless of price level.

That technique tends to remove the emotion from the timing of investment decisions. But it still requires the investor to select specific stocks.

His choice: Banks and trust companies, gas and electric utilities and pipelines, oil and gas producers, retailers—only 10 per cent of the portfolio in U.S. stocks preferably consumer-oriented issues.

Overseas investors favor U.S. stocks rather than Canada, if they are going to invest in North America at all, said Rodney Dennis, head of an investment management firm in London.

Before returning to his native England five years ago, Mr. Dennis helped to manage a group of Canadian mutual funds during the boom years in that industry.

He said British and European interest in Canadian stocks was keen two years ago, when the Arab-dominated oil cartel quadupled the world price of crude oil and imposed export embargoes.

That interest has virtually vanished now, he said, because of the Ottawa and provincial government's expropriation, through sharply increased taxes and royalties, of oil-industry earnings.

A Wall Street veteran—Guy E. Noyes, senior vice-president and economist for Merrill Gerasty Trust Co. of New York—noted that the cumulative impact of the U.S. anti-inflation program (which began in 1971) didn't offer much guidance for a forecast of Canadian stock markets.

Prices on the New York Stock Exchange tended to rise and fall fairly sharply during the various phases of the U.S. controls program, as public sentiment swung back and forth between enthusiasm and disenchantment.

Producers Propose Film For City's Centennial

By BARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Two young film-makers are out to record the moods of Belleville — an image they hope will also help project promotion of the city's 1978 centennial.

The imaginative project is the conception of Jan Zachilinski, 22, and Thomas New, 24, partners in Genee Films.

The young producers — who met while attending Loyalist College — already have a local theme on film.

Last year, under the provincial SWEEP program involving students, they produced Moods of the Moira for the Moira River Conservation Authority.

Their current inspiration is to produce a film on Belleville.

They first talked it over with former Mayor Robin Jeffrey back in June.

Now they have a formal presentation ready with which to discuss their proposal with various agencies and groups — including the city's centennial committee.

With the centennial's approach a vehicle is required to portray the city as a "vibrant and cosmopolitan centre, while promoting its potential for lifestyle enjoyment and industry, they say.

They plan a 30-minute film — tailored to fit television programming, promotional presentation, or as an education-history package.

They even propose a public contest for a song about the city as part of the sound track.

Both men estimate total cost of the film at about $25,000.

They are exploring financing — including an application to the province's culture and recreation ministry for $14,000 from Wintario funds.

So far, they feel the response is "simply enthusiastic" from discussions they've had with various local spokesmen on their proposal, says Tom.

"We're much more optimistic than we were a few months ago," adds his partner.

If it proceeds, shooting the film will be spread across the four seasons of the year — starting in winter.

This will give "flexibility" to project an image of the area's "natural beauty", its community facilities and citizens' activities throughout the year, explains Jan.

"We want to show a balanced city with a rounded view of Belleville — not just, say, the industrial side," he adds.

Belleville on Film?

Local young movie producers Tom New, 22, (left) and Jan Zachilinski, 24, have plans for capturing Belleville — on film. Their documentary would also be linked to the city's 1978 centennial.

Damage Extensive in Mishap

Total property damage was estimated at $4,500 but no one was injured when a dump truck struck two parked cars, a light standard and a fuel tank breather on North Front St. early Friday.

City Police Chief Douglas Crosbie said Monday the accident occurred when the truck, driven by Robert Carlaw, 20, of Rr 2, Codrington, had its air brakes fail while southbound at the Quinte Mall entrance.

He said the truck veered right, crossed the median, went onto the curb of the Quinte Shell Car Wash at 266 North Front St., struck the parked cars, the light standard and finally the breather.

Chief Crosbie said damage was estimated at $2,000 to the truck, $1,000 to a car owned by Grant Chalmers of RR 2, Stirling, $700 to the standard, $300 to the breather and $150 each to a car owned by Pamela Bridger of 221 Ann St. in Belleville and the car wash lawn in the 10:45 a.m. mishap.

"It was very fortunate that he (Carlaw) was able to manoeuvre so no one was hurt," he commented.

Project Gets Review

Belleville's board of parks management will meet in city council chamber Tuesday at 9 a.m. One item to be discussed will be a report on the garden allotment program undertaken by the board during the past summer. More than 60 area resident took advantage of the program.

Camera Purchase Delayed

Belleville Police Commission is reluctant to approve purchase of about $2,500 worth of used color camera equipment for city police due to the city's financial situation.

"Every department in the city is going to feel the pinch next year," commented Mayor Ben Corke at last week's meeting. "I'm not generally known as a free spender."

Chief Douglas Crosbie explained many police departments are switching to color in assault investigations.

He noted the police budget is currently "in good shape. "We're underspent in certain areas." If purchased now, the same equipment would cost about $5,000, he added.

However, Mayor Corke remarked that any surplus in any city department budget this year will be necessary in 1976 to offset cuts in city financing.

Thieves Foiled

An automatic outside alarm is credited with preventing a robbery at Gales Jewellers in Belleville Plaza late Sunday.

City Police Chief Douglas Crosbie said Monday an unknown, would-be thief entered the store by removing the front door lock at 7 p.m.

He said no items were stolen and it appears the alarm frightened the intruder away.

Windows Smashed

Rock-throwing vandals broke four windows at two Hastings County Board of Education schools in the city during the weekend.

Police Chief Douglas Crosbie said this week two windows were broken at each school — Hillcrest Elementary School on West St. and Moira Secondary School at the corner of Farley and Victoria Avenues.

He said the Hillcrest damage was estimated at $70 with $65 damage estimated at Moira.

Fact-finder Recommends Toronto Salaries

MISSISSAUGA, Ont. (CP) — Ontario's provincial government fact-finder's report recommends that secondary school teachers in Peel County receive a contract settlement comparable to those likely to be achieved in adjacent areas such as Metropolitan Toronto.

The report, prepared by Earl Palmer of the University of Western Ontario law department, did not make specific recommendations on salaries. He said he found distrust, confusion and bargaining inexperience on both sides.

However, it did suggest that an agreement be based on salaries "at a slightly lower level than Stanley Hartt's recommendations for Toronto." That report recommends a 43-per-cent salary increase.

Faces Charge

TORONTO (CP) — Dan Maloney of Detroit Red Wings will appear in court in Toronto Dec. 1 charged with assault causing bodily harm, Attorney-General Roy McMurtry said Monday.

Timbrell Warns

TORONTO (CP) — Energy Minister Dennis Timbrell warned Monday that excessive increases in the cost of gasoline and home heating fuel might force the government to impose another price freeze on petroleum products.

Rich Suffer

TORONTO (CP) — Malnutrition in Canada might be caused by affluence, Health Minister Frank Miller said Monday.

"People who are suffering from malnutrition are not necessarily poor," he said. "In fact, malnutrition is a national disease, I think, of affluence—not necessarily of poverty."

Gains Popularity

LONDON (CP) — In two years more than 3½ million sets of a board game called Mastermind have been sold throughout the world and the British manufacturer, Invicta Plastics, thinks it will equal the popularity of Monopoly and Scrabble. In Mastermind, one player sets out four pegs on a board behind a screen and the other player tries to work out, by trial and error, their color and position.

Davis Refuses

TORONTO (CP) — Premier William Davis refused Monday to participate in a meeting with Opposition Leader Stephen Lewis and the two sides in the dispute which led to the strike by Metropolitan Toronto's secondary school teachers.

Mr. Davis told the legislature during question period that such a meeting would serve no purpose. Mr. Lewis, NDP leader, said the meeting is necessary to bring representatives of the teachers and school board to the bargaining table.

Defends Spending

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario labor proceeds will continue to be spent on such projects as wine-tasting activities and barbershop singing, Robert Welch, culture and recreation minister, said Monday.

Sexual Offenders

OTTAWA (CP) — A directive from Penitentiaries Commissioner Andre Therrien states that inmates declared to be dangerous sexual offenders by the courts shall not be granted "temporary absences" by prison officials.

Won't Interfere

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau sees no need now to intervene personally in the Westinghouse dispute that may affect 2,300 jobs in Hamilton.

He indicated this in the Commons Monday when Bill Kempling (PC—Walton - Westworth) said that although industry Minister Don Jamieson was handling the situation well, personal intervention by Mr. Trudeau might result in faster settlement of the dispute.

Police Inquiry Focuses on Activities Of Paolo Violi in Extortion Attempt

MONTREAL (CP) — The activities of Paolo Violi became the focus of attention for the Quebec police commission inquiry into organized crime as it began a new five-week series of public hearings Monday.

Witnesses alleged that Mr. Violi, a former business associate of Vincenzo (Vic) Cotroni, was the guiding force behind one attempted extortion and intervened for a friend in another incident.

Cotroni, 64, was identified at earlier hearings of the inquiry as the "unelected chief" of the city's underworld families.

Testimony linked Mr. Violi with Antonio (Tony) Mucci, now serving an eight-year sentence for shooting and wounding Le Devoir crime reporter Jean-Pierre Charbonneau two years ago.

Eolo Turio, a Montreal Urban Community (MUC) policeman, testified he transcribed the wiretap of an alleged phone conversation in which Mr. Violi and Mucci discussed the possibility a Montreal restaurateur would have to be "healed up."

The intended victim, Giuseppe (Joseph) Petrozza, owner of a suburban pizzeria, testified he was visited in February, 1974, by two men who asked him for $5,000 in "protection" money.

"I couldn't afford that kind of money, my restaurant doesn't bring in that much," Mr. Petrozza said.

The restaurateur, who said he notified police immediately and has had no trouble since then, later identified Mucci as one of the men who visited him.

Constable Turio said Mr. Violi was at the time an associate of Cotroni in Reggio Foods Inc., a meat-processing firm which was implicated in an earlier phase of the inquiry as a prime trafficker in tainted meat.

Mr. Violi's name also came up later in a complicated debt-collection incident.

Luigi Salvatore, a brick contractor, testified he was owed $8,700 by a Montreal builder.

In December, 1973, Mr. Salvatore said, he was threatened by a telephone caller with "having my legs cut off" if he did not accept a settlement of between $1,000 and $2,500.

Construction worker Pierre Gagnon and self-described "advertising representative" Pierre Begin then testified they tried to help settle the account for the contractor.

Mr. egin said he was told through a mediator Mr. Violi was at the time an associate of friendly manner because Mr. Salvatore was a friend of Mr. Violi.

Mr. Salvatore was placed under police protection by Judge Jean Dutil after admitting he was afraid his testifying had placed his life in danger.

Australia on Verge Of Political Crisis

CANBERRA (Reuter) — A new row erupted today in Australia's political crisis over a newspaper leak that Solicitor-General Maurice Byers had said, before the Whitlam government was dismissed, that such a move would be unconstitutional.

Gov.-Gen. Sir John Kerr, who fired the government last week, called in the solicitor-general and two other senior law officials and told them that the leak, to the influential Financial Review, seriously embarrassed him, informed sources said.

The newspaper said Byers, a civil servant, gave an opinion that Sir John would have no constitutional authority to dissolve Parliament on the advice of the Liberal minority side of the House of Representatives.

The opinion is understood to have been prepared by former attorney-general Kep Enderby and then passed on to Sir John on Nov. 6, five days before he dismissed the Labor government, led by Gough Whitlam.

The electrical rush hour—5 to 7 p.m. Try to avoid it.

In the winter months, early evening is the rush hour for electricity. Families returning home from work and school place extra demands on the electrical distribution system between 5 and 7 p.m. Lights are turned on; the heat is turned up; meals are cooked; radios and TV sets come on. These all add to the rush hour 'traffic'.

Your Hydro has to supply the power to meet this extra demand. The higher the demand, the more fcilities are needed; more transmission lines, transformers, generating units...all contributing to the cost of power.

Anything you can do to avoid the rush hour will lighten the load.

Of course, you can't turn everything off at this time, but there are some things you can do. Try not to use the clothes washer, dryer, dishwasher and other big appliances during rush hour. Don't turn on TV until you are ready to sit down and watch it. Switch off lights that are not needed.

Take baths or showers later in the evening, or first thing in the morning.

If enough of us use less electricity during rush hour, it will help to conserve valuable resources, and to keep costs down.

PLO Leader Asserts Movement

OTTAWA (CP) — A representative of the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO) took on supporters of Israel in a sharp, arm-waving exchange Monday night in a packed auditorium.

Later, the representative left for the more friendly confines of an Arab-owned restaurant where 300 mostly pro-Arab reporters waited, for a second meeting.

At both meetings Shafik Al-Hout, vice-chairman for the PLO United Nations delegation, said his organization will continue fighting until it wins its struggle against Israel; reiterated the PLO call for a new state of Palestine for Jew and Palestinian; and repeated a charge that Zionism is racism.

He exchanged barrages of murder with pro-Israeli members of his audience and heard accusations accused of everything from causing the trouble in Lebanon, to terrorism, to starting a Third World War.

The meeting, picketed by Jewish elements here, was the end of a day in which more fuel was added to the controversy developing over the PLO and passage by the UN General Assembly last week of a resolution linking Zionism with racism.

In other developments:

—The Canadian Zionist Federation announced an emergency national Jewish leadership conference will be held Wednesday drawing 40 leaders from Jewish organizations across the country. The closed meeting, would discuss the UN vote.

—External Affairs Minister Allan MacEachen reiterated a statement from John Diefenbaker (PC—Prince Albert) that certain countries should be pushed with their vote in the UN. The minister said this would be unacceptable with Canadian consultation and Mr. Diefenbaker and Canada should not take some unilateral action.

—Mr. Al-Hout said in an interview in Montreal that the PLO will attend all UN conferences to which it is invited, particularly the conference on human rights scheduled for Vancouver next June. The latter was because of the Canadian attitude to the PLO.

Today, the Palestinian, who said he was born in Jaffa, in what now is Israel, will address a morning news conference. Twenty-four hours later the 25-member PLO delegation will be at a conference.

Mr. Al-Hout is scheduled to speak in Toronto and London, Ont., later this week.

At Monday night's meeting sponsored by the Voice of Women, Mr. Al-Hout expounded the theory of terrorism with charges that the Palestinians are victims of terrorism, that the Zionists started terrorism.

He said Zionism falls within the scheme of racism mentioned in two UN documents. The PLO was not against Jews, only Zionists who drove them out of their country.

In the first meeting two members of the audience got respectful hearings.

Today's Child

By Helen Allen

WAYNE

That questioning look is typical of Wayne. This 11-year-old is an inquisitive youngster, especially about mechanical things — he wants to know how everything works and why.

Though he doesn't put his wonderings into words, Wayne must also have questions about his future because he knows the foster home where he is living is not a permanent home for him. He wants very much to have a family of his own in a home where he will stay, but he doesn't know where or when, or indeed if, this dream will come true.

Wayne is in good general health but has a moderate hearing loss which has resulted in his being slow in speech. It's hard to learn to talk when you hear other people talking. He is wearing a hearing aid and having speech therapy and is now able to communicate much better than he did.

Because he is small for his age, and diffident, Wayne cannot keep up with the average energetic born of his age. While friendly with all ages, he is most comfortable with playmates younger than himself.

Wayne is a good-looking young fellow with beautiful dark eyes, brown hair and olive skin. He is French, Scottish and English in descent with some remote Indian ancestry.

Presently in a special class, he also attends a children's achievement centre where the emphasis is on speech development and physical co-ordination. Tests indicate he is probably low average in ability.

Affectionate, co-operative, eager to please, Wayne is a loveable child who very much needs a family where he will be warmly and lovingly accepted and where the parents will have the time and the interest to help him handle his hearing and speech difficulties. Wayne will enjoy having brothers and sisters but there should be special attention for Wayne.

To inquire about adopting Wayne, please write to Today's Child, Ministry of Community and Social Services Box 888, Station E, Toronto M4P 2E3. In your letter tell something of your present family and your way of life.

During the mail disruption, contact your local Children's Aid Society.

Ann Landers

Love Lowers Grades, Parents Irate

Dear Ann Landers: The problem is—it exists. Our son, 18, went to college overseas last year. His girl, 18, joined him at midterm.

Eyewitness reports: Tremendous incompatible personalities. Grades dropped from A to D. He is placed on "probation" before regarding low marks. Son changed majors twice this fall. We learned the girl planned to inlaw, we should her parents and all. "Our son's education is of utmost importance. Please send our daughter to another school." They were furious.

Of course the boy and girl are together again. Question: How far can we go in our demands? If our son's grades are poor at semester's end, can we insist that the girl's parents send her elsewhere? Should we tell our son that if his grades aren't decent we will refuse to pay for his education and he'll have to take a job?

Your opinion is requested.—Suffering In Stonville

Dear Suff: You cannot demand anything of the girl's parents. They have a right to send their daughter to any school they choose.

You can, however, inform your son that you will no longer support his education if he can't make respectable grades. A college education is a privilege—and a darned expensive one these days. A student who goofs off is squandering money shamefully and his parents should tell him—either, or. And make it stick.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm writing in response to the letter from the woman who was "abnormally tall." She was told to be "abnormally tall" and was afraid to have children because they might look like giraffes. She's got to be crazy to worry about such things.

First of all, I'm 5-feet-10 and don'tconsider myself a freak. Although I am taller than most girls in my class. My mother taught me to stand straight and be proud of my height. Too bad the young lady who wrote didn't have a mother as smart as mine.

I hope you will print my letter for the benefit of all tall people. If they feel good about themselves, the battle is won.—Above The Crowd

Dear A.T.C.: Nice of you to give your mom the credit—and of course she deserves it.

A note to all you tall gals out there who are wearing flats and remarking down trying to look shorter: Did you see that the recently crowned Miss America is an 18-year-old Skidmore college sophomore who is 5-feet-10½? And she's a real beauty!

Dear Ann Landers: I hope you can read this letter. I have two black eyes and one of them is completely closed.

I married this man after a whirlwind courtship. He was so sweet to me I was shocked when he damaged my bridgework on our honeymoon. I spent most of my afternoons in a dentist's chair.

We've been married four months and he has knocked me down three times, dislocated my shoulder and cut me over 200 with the dentist. I've had to buy special makeup to cover the black eyes.

Please give me some advice. I DON'T tell me to leave him. I could never bring myself to do it. He's wonderful except when he loses his temper.—Love Hurts

Dear Love: O.K. I won't tell you to leave him. Stay with Mr. Wonderful until he scrambles your brains and rends you to the hospital. You must enjoy being beaten up—so accept the fact and wear a crash helmet when around your beloved. It might help cut down on the doctor bills.

More Women Now Take Part Plotting Political Strategy

OTTAWA (CP) — Traditionally "backroom politics," the politics of formulating party policy and planning election strategy, has been an exclusively male concern.

But women have begun to challenge the men who used to bar them from the wheeling-and-dealing aspects of party politics.

"I know they are out there because I'm married to one of them," said Eileen Scotton in response to a question at a recent panel discussion on Women and the Political Profession conducted by the National Secretaries Association.

Mrs. Scotton, a member of Algonquin College's board of governors and an unsuccessful provincial New Democratic Party candidate in Ottawa South, told the gathering her husband, Cliff, in his role as NDP federal secretary, is part of the anonymous "grey eminences" that charts the course of Canadian politics.

Another woman panel member, Marion Dewar, deputy mayor of Ottawa, said that the question of a woman's place in politics is hardly a complex dilemma.

"In the house, if your child has an accident and the babysitter phones about bringing the boss home for supper, you have daily things happen to women don't go out and hire babysitters."

Albert Roy, Liberal member of the Ontario legislature for Ottawa East, agreed that the backroom strategy system is a basic ingredient in Canadian politics and that women have begun to hold some of government's policy-making positions.

"Many campaign team strategy sessions, whether it's for federal leaders or at the riding level, and more than ever that work is going over to women."

York West MP Jim Fleming said experienced politicians, male or female, are scarcely distinguishable.

"What's the difference between male and female politicians, besides the numbers?

"Well, women chain look and dress differently and sometimes smell different too, but I find they are just as silly and as wise, just as capable and as incompetent as any male politician I've ever met."

Consumers and Manufacturers Ignore Aerosol Controversy

By NORMAN GRAHAM
The Canadian Press

The controversy over the use of fluorocarbons in aerosol products such as deodorants and hair sprays, have not had a major effect on Canadian consumers or manufacturers, industry sources say.

The controversy, based on the scientific hypothesis that fluorocarbon-based aerosol sprays damage the upper atmosphere and eventually increase the incidence of skin cancer, reached publicity earlier this year.

In July, Johnson Wax of Brantford, Ont., announced it was removing all fluorocarbon propellents from its products but no other manufacturers have followed suit. Johnson Wax says it is impossible to gauge whether its decision has had any effect on sales because other factors are involved.

Manufacturers of fluorocarbons say sales are down this year but for reasons other than the controversy.

Jim Wagg, chairman of the aerosol division of the Canadian Manufacturers of Chemical Specialties Association, said the industry is awaiting a major report on the subject being prepared by the National Academy of Science in the United States. It is expected in April.

He said the industry is concerned and is working with various government agencies but at present there are no findings to prove the theory that fluorocarbon gases from aerosol products damage the layer of ozone that surrounds the earth in the upper atmosphere.

The ozone layer reduces the ultraviolet radiation that causes skin cancer.

Mr. Wagg, technical director of Conn Chem Ltd. of Toronto which puts products and aerosols into cans, said the industry is seeking alternatives to fluorocarbons as propellents but substitutes sometimes create undesirable properties in the product. One reason for the search for substitutes is that fluorocarbons are somewhat more expensive than compressed gas.

About half of all aerosol products sold in Canada contain fluorocarbons while the remainder use other kinds of propellents including hydrocarbons and carbon dioxide.

D. E. Grant, marketing director of Johnson Wax, said his firm "received a positive consumer response" in the form of congratulatory letters after announcing in newspaper advertisements its decision to stop using fluorocarbons.

However, he said it was difficult to tell what effect, if any, the decision had on sales because other factors such as the economy and the marketing program are involved.

The company said in the past three years that fluorocarbons made up only about 10 per cent of propellents used in its Canadian aerosol production.

In its newspaper ads, Chairman Samuel Johnson said the action was taken "in the interest of our customers and the public in general during a period of uncertainty and scientific inquiry."

But some industry sources, who asked not to be identified, suggested the action was taken as a marketing gimmick to boost sales.

Sianey Township Takes Steps to Guarantee Water Supply

By AL EARAS
Staff Reporter

Sidney Township council Monday moved to the demands of 23 homeowners in Quinte Heights and agreed to ask the provincial environment ministry to proceed immediately to provide a municipal water supply to the subdivision.

Quinte Heights Homeowners Association president Lavern Hatcher attacked council in a strongly worded letter, signed backed by 30 subdivision residents in council chambers.

He maintained council, and Noramco Corp., the builder of the subdivision, with court orders for not supplying enough water to the homes of association members.

Council and the provincial environment ministry have been "sitting idly by and condoning" "procrastinating" and Quinte Heights residents have been low on water since the dry spell this year, he said.

In response to Mr. Hatcher's charges, councillors moved quickly to accept a modification of the latest suggestion for a solution by the environment ministry.

Following a ministry proposal, councillors decided to tell the ministry to order Noramco to proceed immediately with hooking a fourth well into the subdivision water system, now operating on three wells.

Once such work, ordered by the province, is done to the township's satisfaction, it will take over the water system. Sidney Township would continue to keep in its control three subdivision lots, that it now holds, till Nov. 1, 1976.

If the hook-up of the fourth well — estimated to cost between $15,30,000 — is deemed inadequate prior to that date, the township would sell the lots valued at $25,000) and use the proceeds to make necessary corrections.

The matter came to a head Monday because, according to Mr. Hatcher, "we don't have time to play anymore."

Winter freeze-up is a month away, and with the water bills low, the township homes could be without water this winter, the first time in the several years the problem has existed, he said.

Quinte Heights residents have said they do not feel they should pay for additional costs to improve a water system they claim was inadequate in the first place.

Noramco, meanwhile, has said it is prepared to make the water available, provided an agreement is reached over payment for the necessary work.

Over the course of the stalemate this summer, lack of water pressure resulted in inoperable taps, showers and toilets. At one point, Sidney council ordered trucks carrying water into the subdivision to alleviate the shortages.

Sewer Expansion Costs Worry City Councillors

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Extension of sanitary sewer services to a portion of Belleville on the city's western limits could run even much higher than the current controversial Hillcrest installation, Mayor Ben Corke warned Monday.

The area centres on Peppers Ave., west of Sidney St., and yet outside of sewer services, although there is city water on the street.

"There's no doubt this is an area that surely needs development — " said the mayor.

But cost of extending the sewer — which also would require pumping services — to the Pepper area, are believed to run as much as 85 per cent higher to local property owners than in Hillcrest, he added.

Hillcrest already is fighting to get help to ease sewer service costs to its householders.

Later, Mayor Corke said costs of up to $21 a foot on property frontages on Pepper have been "envisioned."

His comments came as city council debated a request for a land split of two lots from a property site on Pepper on which residential reconstruction is planned.

Quinte Planning Board (QPB) staff has already recommended against the severance because the zoning bylaw requires lots be serviced by municipal water and sewer services in the zone.

The intention also is that further severances would be sought on the site to construct other homes — which also would be - hooked into city water.

Mayor Corke reminded council that the QPB warned the application contravenes the zoning bylaw.

But council sent the application on to the committee of adjustment.

Mayor Corke Still Waiting

Mayor Ben Corke — still waiting to hear from provincial government officials Monday — was woo mother adjournment for a petitioned meeting with Hillcrest residents fearing costs of upcoming sanitary sewer installations.

A petition from Hillcrest homeowners in the southend of the district — faced with sewer installations that has spurred tax protests from neighbors already serviced — was first submitted Oct. 20. It asked a meeting with council to discuss the costs of installations planned between Byron and East College streets.

Council deferred a decision two weeks ago when the mayor said he was hopeful of meeting provincial government officials in a bid for aid to ease the costs.

Monday he again asked council to give him authority to further define the situation.

He said he hoped this week he would discuss the situation personally with Environment Minister George Kerr.

He asked it council permitted him to "carve the ball" hopefully "by some time next week", there could be a move to answering the petition.

Council agreed to once again table the petition.

Tires Missing

City police are investigating the theft of eig. tires and wheels from two new cars at Fry Ford Sales Ltd. at 221 North Front St. during the weekend.

Chief Douglas Crosbie said today the items are valued at $900 and the lo0f-cut occurred between 8 p.m. on Saturday and 8 a.m. on Monday.

The Co-ordinator

Veteran city councillor Arthur Keegan finds himself playing a major organizational role for Ontario Traffic Conference convention in Toronto early next year. He's been named protocol co-ordinator to supervise programming at the three-day conference of local government representatives.

Keegan Playing Major Role in OTC Meeting

Belleville's veteran city councillor has a new task.

Ald. Arthur Keegan is co-ordinator of programming for a convention early nex: year of the Ontario Traffic Conference (OTC) in Toronto.

Monday night he told city council he has been appointed protocol co-ordinator of the Feb. 25-28 conference involving 100-150 representatives from Ontario municipalities.

This means Ald. Keegan will supervise program arrangements — including speakers, workshops and panel groups.

Among topics being lined up for the convention — and in which he urged fellow councillors and members of involved boards and committees to take an interest — are: parking, rapid transit systems and school bus safety.

A key discussion will involve bicycle safety — including federal legislation to ensure foreign-made machines are up to Canadian standards, he said.

Levies Dropped

City council Monday moved to end a lingering argument with Belleville General Hospital over charges for municipal services.

It decided to stop charging BGH for sewer and garbage collection services.

Simultaneously, however, council acted to seek redred elsewhere-by having legislation changed which presently permits such tax exemptions.

The city has been billing the hospital $14,000 a year for sewer and $7,000 for garbage services.

Best of Friends

Pet, a domesticated rat about two years old, and Baby, a cat of about 10 years old, spend a bit of time together each evening. Owner James Lott of Bleecker St. said the two get along well. Pet, he said, sometimes plays just like a kitten.

Ambulance Operators Take Wait-and-see Attitude

Both of Belleville's ambulance operators are taking a wait-and-see posture following the province's weekend announcement that services here will operate on substantially less money next year.

During the past year, the ministry of health's department of ambulance services has been surveying ambulance service in the city to make the local system "more cost effective."

The department finished its study last week and concluded Belleville is spending too much for ambulances. It listed four cost-cutting options. These include arbitrary cuts made by the province, budgets cuts as proposed by local operators, amalgamation of the two companies or municipal take over of the ambulance system.

Because of this last alternative, LaSalle operator and city alderman, Stu Meek says he can make no comment about the report.

"With the council option of takeover, I now have a conflict of interest which I must clear up with legal advice," he said.

Len Steele, operator of City Ambulance, said today he is not "overly excited" about the report and will wait for the province to call a meeting to deal with the report's conclusions.

"I don't think a municipal take-over is likely," he said. "There's just no reason I can see why the city would want to get involved in ambulance service."

Mr. Steele also said he expects the idea of amalgamate his firm with that of Mr. Meeks.

Township May Pipe Water to Residents

Sidney Township councillors Monday outlined what may be a solution to the contamination of wells on the property of nine rural homeowners west of Frankford.

Instead of directing its efforts to pushing provincial authorities into cleaning water described as undrinkable by homeowners, the council decided Monday to try to get clean water to residents from Frankford.

Council assured a delegation of the RR 1 Frankford residents that it will approach Frankford with a request for an extension of an existing water line to their homes, a most one mile from the village western limits.

In its turn, the village, council must petition the provincial government, the owner of Frankford's water treatment plant, for permission to okay an extension of the service.

Sidney reeve Gord Wilman warned costs to individual homeowners could be high. "I have no idea of what the cost will be," he said. "You may change your minds when you find out".

Responding to Reeve Wilman's warning, Rose Olasaky, spokesman for the nine homeowners, told council, the resident had no choice.

She cited the "yellow gunk" as the cause of severe body rashes, needing expensive medication to correct; the drying up of one well entirely, thus depriving one homeowner of any water; and numerous cases of "burning blisters."

Residents have said they suspect seepage from a nearby farmer's earth silo, where about 400 tons of corn silage is stored, as the contaminant of their wells.

Gordon Thom, an industrial abatement section district officer with the ministry, was present at Monday's council session and in a letter told council the city would want "does not meet our criteria for private (well) water supplies."

"It should not be used without some form of pre-treatment", Mr. Thom said.

Arson Suspect Remanded

A 24-year-old Belleville man will appear in provincial court here Thursday for the first time to face three counts of arson in connection with as many fires in the city during the past four months.

Daniel Hieatres of 117B Victoria Ave. was remanded during a bail hearing Monday. He was charged Friday in connection with two fires in buildings on Victoria Ave. and one on Cannifton Rd.

Damage to a 100-year-old apartment block at 90-92 Victoria Ave. was estimated at $40,000 following a two-alarm blaze in the early morning hours of Oct. 17.

A 1½ hour fire damaged a two-storey home on Cannifton Rd. on Nov. 3. The third blaze involved in a fire in a garage off Victoria Ave.

Hitchin' a Ride

This trucker had triple trouble driving through Belleville Monday when he tried to find a parking spot. He used up much of the market square trying to find a spot to rest his piggy-back rig.

Council Briefs

City Bonds Sold

Belleville's municipal bond issue for the year has been sold.

Adn city treasurer Frank Morrell indicates satisfaction with the results.

The city's debenture issues this year totalled $1,313,611. The 10-year issue sold at par at 10.5 per cent said Mr. Morrell Monday night after city council approved bylaw formalities governing the debentures.

Parking Change Rejected

City council Monday night drew back from altering parking patterns in the core sector of Belleville's East Hill.

Up for approval was a recommendation from the city's traffic committee on new parking restrictions on six residential streets from William to Lingham.

But the committee's decision when reported publicly prompted protest along Albert St.

As a result, council sent the new parking proposals packing back to its traffic committee.

Service Reports Passed

City council Monday night approved two reports — totalling close to $1.5 million — on two proposed sewer and water services towards Belleville's northeast industrial park.

They are routing a trunk storm sewer for almost a mile along the proposed East College extension — estimated to cost $1,196,000, and a gravel road along the same route, estimated at $215,000.

Walkway Approved

Two of Belleville's major commercial - industrial developments were granted city council approval Monday on two minor requests.

Council gave permission for a semi-circular walk to form part of the public sidewalk in the East Bridge St. entrance to the Century Place downtown shopping-business centre.

Procter and Gamble Co. received approval for a safety guard rail on a street allowance to protect a water tower and pipeline at its new plant in the city's northeast industrial park.

BGH Projects Outlined

Appropriation of almost $202,800 from endowment funds to pay for several building projects at Belleville General Hospital this year was formally approved by city council Monday.

The funds come from what originally was $2 million bequest to BGH from the Charlotte E. Sills estate.

Municipal approval for such funds is required since the hospital is publicly-owned.

The projects include a standby chiller for the hospital's air conditioning system, nursery renovations, parchitric clinic, an auxiliary steam line and costs of a 1974 expansion study.

Games Request on Way

Belleville had taken the first steps to offering official celebration as a site for the 1978 Ontario Summer Games.

Council recently adopted a recreation-arena committee recommendation that the city play host to the games in its centennial year.

Ald. George Zegouras, committee chairman, told city council Monday, a letter of intent on the city's request has been sent to the province's culture and recreation ministry — which sponsors the games.

Fair Date Set

The 1976 Quinte Exhibition will be held in the fall.

City council was told by Ald. Stu Meeks Monday — its representative on the Belleville Agricultural Society — a recent meeting of the group finally settled on the week of Sept. 13.

Ald. Meeks said he requested the date because it would co-incide with the planned friendship flight of citizens from Lahr, Belleville's twin city in West Germany.

Fourth Inside Worker Back at Post Office

A fourth mail sorter crossed striking Canadian Union of Postal Workers picket lines around the Bri-ville post office today but the move, according to local CUPW president Walter Yakiwan, is not breaking down the "solid front" otherwise presented by the union.

The union head said he wasn't surprised a fourth inside worker went back to work. Mr. Yakeman described the four individuals as the type that try to "carry favor with the management."

"These were the people who were sitting at home and not picketting," he said.

The addition of another worker to post office staff will mean more mail will be sorted today, the second day letter carriers have been called in to deliver mail in city and rural homes.

Assistant city postmaster George Burchell said street letter boxes will again be cleared of mail today. The lock box lobby in the post office will also be open.

Rural delivery into Ameliasburg Township and into Point Anne has remained, but no inter-city highway deliveries have rtarted, he said.

Suspect Remanded

A 23-year-old Belleville man appeared in provincial court here Thursday to set a date for trial on a charge of robbery.

Gordon William Graham of 1 Ezra St. was remanded in provincial court here Monday. He has made his first court appearance here last week.

Arnold Bruce Thomson, 18, of 22 East Moira St. in Belleville was sent to Belleville General Hospital with a stab wound in his lower back and a broken hand following a fight in his apartment on Nov. 6.

Doctor Urges Study Into Road Mishaps

By CLIFF KENYON
Staff Reporter

An expert in treatment of accident victims Monday appealed to Belleville Rotary Club to initiate a study and an organization to raise money to fund research into car accidents and educate drivers about motoring dangers.

"Road accidents are preventable, but to do so, a campaign must be mounted to study the epidemic scientifically," said Dr. Whitham Ghent, professor of surgery at Queen's University and chief surgeon at Hotel Dieu Hospital in Kingston.

"That's what propose to you," he said to club members, "that the medical profession enlist a body of lay support in formation of a Canadian Trauma Foundation."

Club president Neil Britton responded to the request. "The ball is in our court and we'll have to see what we can do without making promises we can't live up to.

Two weeks ago, said Dr. Ghent, he presented the idea to a meeting of federal-provincial emergency health directors in Arnprior. They supported the concept, he said.

"The next step is to have a large group of dedicated citizens such as a national service club, join with the Canadian Medical Association's emergency medical services committee in pressuring the federal minister of health for his participation in such an undertaking," Dr. Ghent said.

'Senior A' Racers Show Toros How

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Indianapolis Racers don't appreciate criticism of their playing capabilities, and proved it to Toronto Toros in a World Hockey Association game Monday night.

Indianapolis coach Jacques Demers said following his team's 6-2 win over the Toros that he had used the words of Toronto coach Bob Baun to motivate his team.

"Our scout Garry Moore saw in a newspaper where Baun had described our team as little more than a bunch of Senior A players and sent the clipping to me," said Demers.

"I showed it to the boys just after we got off the plane and on to the bus here in Toronto and it got them worked up."

"Athletes in general are all the same. They've all got a lot of pride. It was the motivating factor I could use."

Nick Harbaruk scored two goals to help the Racers defeat the Toros for the second time this season. Indianapolis beat Toronto 4-3 two weeks ago.

In the only other league game Monday night, Edmonton Oilers downed San Diego Mariners 4-3.

Baun blamed the ice conditions at Maple Leaf Gardens and the officiating for his team's loss.

"There's just no excuse to have to play on that kind of ice this day and age," Baun said. The weather was unseasonably mild in Toronto on Monday, causing the ice to be extremely slow and resulting in a bouncing puck.

Bob Woytowich, Ted Scharf, Reg Thomas and Bill Prentice scored the other Indianapolis goals, while Jim Turkiewicz and Peter Martin replied for the Toros.

Mike Rogers scored two third-period goals to lead the Oilers past San Diego.

Rogers, recovering from a slow start in his sophomore season, broke a 3-3 tie by batting a rebound past San Diego goaltender Ernie Wakely, then drilled a 25-foot shot past Wakely with two minutes remaining for the clinching goal.

Norm Ullman, Tom Sheehy, Ken Baird and Blair MacDonald also scored for the Oilers. Gene Peacock, Andre Lacroix and Dave Walter scored the San Diego goals.

PETE MAHOVLICH

USSR Touring Teams Will Be Bolstered

OTTAWA (CP) — Many familiar Soviet hockey players are coming to North America for an eight-game series against National Hockey League teams in December and January.

But most of them are on the Wings of Moscow squad in Anhain, Alexander Bodunov, Sergei Kotov and Sergei Kapustin, defencemen Yuri Shatalov, Viktor Kuzneisov, and Yuri Tyurin and goaltender Alexander Sidelnikov.

In articles written by Vladimir Pakhomov of the Novosti Press Agency, Boris Kulaghin, coach of the Soviet Union national team coach and the Wings, said both his team and the Red Army club would be reinforced for the series.

The Wings will get four players from the Spartak team, all veterans of the two Soviet series with the National Hockey League in 1972 and the World Hockey Association last year. They are the towering left-Vladimir Shadrin, Viktor Shalimov and Yuri Lyapkin. Also on the Wings will be Alexander Maltsev of Dynamo, another international veteran.

The Wings will meet Pittsburgh Penguins Dec. 29, Buffalo Sabres Jan. 4, Chicago Black Hawks Jan. 7 and New York Islanders Jan. 10.

The Soviet Red Army team, bolstered by defenceman Valery Vasiliev of Dynamo, play New York Rangers Dec. 28, Montreal Canadiens Dec. 31, Boston Bruins Jan. 8 and Philadelphia Flyers, the defending Stanley Cup champions Jan. 11.

Army coach Nikolai Epishein rates Canadians as wonderful skaters and strong on the power play. To meet them is "a sort of test of the character, courage and fighting traits of any hockey player."

Kulaghin says both the Wings and the Red Army team have been disappointing in Soviet league play this year.

Skelly Sets Scorching Pace

RAY SKELLY

It takes most hockey players a game or two to break in a new pair of skates. But Jim's Pizzeria Juveniles' forward Ray Skelly down as an exception to the rule.

Skelly donned his new blades for the first time, Sunday and promptly went on a scoring spree. He led his club to a 13-5 exhibition win over Belleville by scoring no fewer than six goals.

Gord Mole was a two-goal shooter for the Belleville sextet. Mark Fusher and Marty Lowry had the others.

Showing the way for the visiting Stirling team was Doug Bastedo with two goals. The other counters went to Paul Murray, Dale Kirkpatrick and Kevin Solmes.

Belleville's Lions Midgets also came out on the long end of the score in an exhibition meeting with Quinte.

Three goals by John Jiagnoulis led Lions to a 8-3 win. Glen Gibson checked in with two while Paul Higgins, Peter Hall, Randy Hotchkiss and Gary Goegan added one each.

At the Major Bantam level, Kingston fought to a 6-6 draw with Oshawa in Ontario Minor Hockey Association AAA action. Kingston also had a 9-4 win over Kingston to show for a profitable weekend.

Two goals by Mark Crawford led the Belleville team in the tie with Oshawa. Singles went to Steven McIroney, Clarence Breakman, Barry Dafoe and Jeff Simpson.

Bobby Hedge closed the door on Kingston. He got support on the scoreboard from Crawford who made his first two, and Bill Rowe.

John Richards fired three goals and Jamie Robertson one in McIlroy-Makes Minor Bantams' 4-4 tie in Oshawa.

Dixie Lee Minor Peewees dropped an 8-7 decision to Trenton. Kirk Baker was good for three goals in defeat. David Meagher, Jim Ness, Paul Bellivesu and Chris Coates had the other Belleville goals.

Counting for Trenton were Jay Stefaes with two, Jim Rasside, Kevin Jackson, Jeff Charlesud, Derrick George, Darrell Shiels and David Gourlie.

Rollins Construction Major Peewees split a pair on the weekend, topping Kingston 7-4, Saturday but dropping a 10-4 decision to the same team, Sunday.

Mike Sandrow scored three times to go with one each by Matt Whitley, Darcy Meagher, Steve Molnahl and Rich Masderville in the Belleville win. Counting for Rollins in the Sunday setback were Steve Thompson, Masderville, Molnahl and Neil McKeown.

Towers Major Atoms came out on the short end of a 4-3 score in a match with Peterborough. C. Cowan and A. MacKenzie shot the Towers goals. McIlroy-Makes Minor Atoms lost to Kingston Township 5-4. Todd Cook scored the loss Belleville goal.

Randy Uess and Kevin Reed scored Salmon River Moist goals in a 9-3 loss to Kingston, in Novice play.

Bob's Won't Give an Inch

Bob's Sports isn't running away and hiding on the other teams in the Gas House Hockey League. The team has plenty of company in the battle for first place in the standings.

But Bob's, and goaltender Vern Whalen in particular, is living up to a reputation as a stingy league entry.

Whalen scored his fourth shutout of the season as the team notched its sixth win in seven starts, Monday. In the goals against department, Bob's has a superlative mark of four.

Victim, Monday, was the Chuckwagon Foods squad which dated defeat for the second time in a row after logging six victories. Final score was 3-0.

Wayne Storms and Frank Wiles were the marksmen.

Rollins Lumber crept up in the standings to gain a share of fourth place with Idle Belleville Yardmen, beating off a determined challenge from Murray's Food Market to pull out a 5-4 win with a late surge.

Bruce Pascoe and Mike Watt each scored twice for the Lumbermen who got singles from George McGeachy and Jeff Soule. Big in the playmaking department were Vic McLean and Dale Tuxmore who each collected three assists.

Looking after the scoring for Murray's were John Nell, Leslie McGeachy and Doug Smark.

Procter and Gamble, shooting for its first win of the season, fell short of the mark when the team was squeezed out 4-3 by Bel-Con Engineering. Robert Foster did most of the damage for the winners, finding the mark for three goals. Brian Tyrwhitt scored once and Paul McLellan drew a pair of helpers.

Pat Driscoll, Mark Bradshaw and Burton Sims replied for Procter and Gamble.

Lions Edged

KINGSTON (Special) — Visiting Belleville Lions got a solid effort from goaltender Terry Thompson in Ontario Minor Hockey Association Midget AAA action here Monday night but couldn't pick up a win in their match with Kingston Township.

Thompson, still on the mend from an arm injury, was tested 45 times during his club's 5-4 loss. The visitors managed 30 shots on goal.

Kevin Sands supplied the winner with only 15 seconds remaining in the game. Sands took advantage of a Belleville minor while his team was playing a man short.

Luigi Venturi was good for two Kingston goals.

John Jiangnoulis, Randy Hutchison, Bobby Crawford and Bob Bunton took care of the Belleville scoring.

Lions were in front 1-0 after one period and the teams were tied 2-2 heading for the final frame.

You can go economy first-class. Dodge proves it.

Economy class used to be pretty dull. No frills. No extras. No fun. True, unless you were talking about Dodge Dart, Coronet and Charger.

Dart is the compact Dodge. Coronet and Charger are the mid-size Dodge cars. And all three can be very classy, even though they're very good at minding the budget.

For instance, they give you a choice of either a 318 CID V8 or the famous 225 CID Slant Six as standard economical power.

They also give you a handsome model choice. Dart is available in coupes, hardtops and sedans; Coronet offers 4-door sedans and wagons; and Charger comes in a sleek 2-door hardtop.

For the sake of class, you can order your Dart sport coupe or Charger hardtop with a sunroof. And for a real touch of class and comfort, ask about the cool air conditioning option.

For the sake of economy, Dodge Dart models equipped with either of the standard engines can be yours with the new overdrive-4 transmission option. When you're cruising on the highway, the overdrive reduces engine speed by 27% while maintaining highway speed, so understandably you get better fuel economy. There's also the optional Electric Fuel Pace which helps you drive with optimum economy.

And inside these fine Dodge cars, there are first-class accommodations. Deep, comfortable bench seats. Wood grain instrument panels. Smart interior appointments.

If you're the kind of person who wants to add a few extras, Dart, Coronet and Charger let you have your way with things.

Things like Torqueflite automatic, speed control, vinyl roof, special interior and exterior trim packages—are some of the options you'd like to consider. So, you can be just as classy as you like.

But underneath it all, they still maintain their economy personalities.

The body is welded into a solid, rigid unit. We call it Unibody construction. It's stay tight and strong for years.

Every Dodge car gets a special seven-stage rustproofing treatment to help keep it looking new.

There's the Electronic Ignition System for fast, sure starts and lower tune-up costs.

The brake system has been improved for more peace of mind. Making a good thing even better.

There's plenty of sound-absorbing materials for good old peace and quiet.

All covered by the Chrysler Warranty: the first year's on us.

We're confident that the Dodge Dart, Coronet or Charger you buy is going to be a good one. So, we're backing them with a one year, unlimited mileage warranty. No matter how far you drive during the first year, if something goes wrong, it's our problem, not yours. (Taxis and police cars excepted.)

Dodge Dart, Coronet and Charger for 1976. They let you go economy first-class.

Beniquez to Rangers

Red Sox Get Jenkins

BOSTON (AP) — Boston Red Sox, who missed winning the World Series by one game last season, have acquired veteran pitcher Ferguson Jenkins, a veteran right-hander with a habit of winning 20 or more games a year.

The Red Sox announced early today that they acquired the 31-year-old Jenkins, a Cy Young award winner in 1971, from Texas in a deal that sent outfielder Juan Beniquez, and pitcher Steve Barr to the Rangers.

The Red Sox also traded in a minor league prospect to be named later and an estimated $250,000 for Jenkins, who has won more than 25 games a season from 1967 through 1974.

Jenkins, a native of Chatham, Ont., had a 17-18 record last season, his first with the Rangers. The Rangers acquired Jenkins in 1974 from Chicago Cubs, where he joined the majors as a rookie in 1966.

He had 197 strikeouts last season while giving up only 84 walks. He surrendered 40 home runs, but went the distance in 24 of 37 games.

He and Bob Lemon are the only two right-handers since 1920 to win as many as 20 games in seven seasons.

Jenkins' lifetime won-lost record is 191-129. His best season was 1974, when he had a 25-12 record with the Rangers.

Jenkins joins right-handers Luis Tiant, Rick Wise and another Canadian-born player, Reggie Cleveland, a native of Moose Jaw, Sask., native in the Boston pitching staff. With left-handers Bill Lee and Bruce Ment, they should give the Red Sox good pitching depth.

Beniquez, who joined Boston in 1971 but spent a couple of seasons in the minors, is leaved a team that is certain to sell. He faced stiff competition from rookie sensations Fred Lynn and Jim Rice, from veterans Carl Yastrzemski and Dwight Evans, and from Bernie Carbo and Rick Miller.

Dodgers, Braves Swap Players

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Los Angeles Dodgers announced Monday a National League baseball trade sending centerfielders Jimmy Wynn and Tom Paciorek plus infielders Lee Lacy and Jerry Royster to Atlanta Braves for centrefielder Dusty Baker and infielder Ed Goodson.

O.J. Does His Thing But...

Cincinnati Quarterback Puts On Dazzling Display

CINCINNATI (AP) — O.J. Simpson had one of the great games of his National Football League career Monday night — but when the game was over, he had to doff his helmet to someone who had an even greater one.

"That Ken Anderson is real," O.J. said after the Cincinnati quarterback, overcoming Simpson's 197 yards rushing, riddled Buffalo's pass defense for 407 yards and two touchdowns to lead the Bengals to a 25-24 victory over the Bills.

"We knew we'd have problems with the pass, but he just picked us apart," added Simpson.

Anderson completed 30 of 46 passes, including touchdowns of five yards to Lavell Elliott and 20 to Charlie Joiner. His passing also set up two short touchdown bursts by rookie running back Stan Fritts and a pair of Dave Green field goals.

That enabled the Bengals to raise their record to 6-1 and moved them back into a first-year tie for first place in with Pittsburgh in the American Conference Central Division. The Bills, suffering their fourth loss in the last five games, fell to 5-4 and remained two games back of front-running Miami in the AFC East.

Bengals coach Paul Brown said, "Anderson was superb." But he also said he had been concerned that it would take that kind of record performance to beat the Bills. "The game went the way we were afraid it would go," he said. "We couldn't stop them and they couldn't stop us. We threw a lot because seven points came so suddenly so often."

Simpson wound up three yards shy of breaking the NFL record of four career 200-yard games, which he shares with Jim Brown of Cleveland Browns.

"I didn't know I had 197 or was close to 200," he said. "I'd have liked to have gotten the record. But there'll be other games."

It was the seventh time this season that the 31st in his career that he has gained over 100 yards in a game. It gave him 1,235 yards for the year, well ahead of his 1973 pace when he crashed through another of Brown's records, amassing an incredible 2,003 yards in one season.

Except for Simpson, the Bills had virtually nothing going for them on offense. Jim Braxton was the only other Buffalo ground-gainer of note, picking up 40 yards on 10 carries. And Bills' quarterback Joe Ferguson was no match for Anderson. He completed only nine of 12 passes for 108 yards.

Anderson's 407-yard explosion shattered his personal single-game high of 32 yards set a year ago against Houston Oilers. His favorite targets were Isaac Curtis, who caught seven passes for 128 yards before leaving with an injury in the third quarter, and Chip Myers, who hauled in seven for 70 yards.

Anderson's aerial show helped Cincinnati to a 340-325 edge over Buffalo in total yardage.

Plunkett Sidelined

BOSTON (AP) — Jim Plunkett, the New England Patriots' quarterback who returned to the lineup Sunday after sitting out for a separated shoulder, is back on the National Football League team's injured list with a strained knee.

Coach Chuck Fairbanks said Plunkett hurt his knee during the Patriots' 34-31 loss Sunday to Dallas Cowboys.

It's Three in a Row For Canadian Squad

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (AP) — Jamie Russell of Burlington, Ont., scored 20 points to lead the Canadian national basketball team to its third consecutive win on its seven-game tour of the United States — 75-65 conquest of Hofstra University on Monday night.

Rickie Laurel was high for Hofstra with 23 points.

The Canadians play Fordham University at Madison Square Garden on Thursday night and then wind up their tour with games against St. John's, Fairfield and Duke.

In earlier games, Canada defeated Siena University 80-79 and Niagara University 65-63.

DONATES WINNINGS

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Golfer Lee Trevino says he is donating his $6,000 winner's purse from the Mexican Open to "my good friend Father Wasson, who has an orphans' home in Cuernavaca." Trevino carded a two-under-par 68 Sunday for a 72-hole total of 275 and a one-stroke victory over Mexico's Ernesto Perez Acosta, who also had a closing-round 68.

Canadian Universities Losing Battle Against Mounting Financial Pressure

By BRIAN McKENNA
The Canadian Press

Canadian universities taking courses in austerity this year in order to meet the threat of inflation and recession.

But a survey by The Canadian Press indicates most of them believe they will survive healthy full the financial grade unless they receive more help.

It is not that the universities cannot remain solvent. They can. But some will have to do cutting required in the face of rising inflation and demands for expanded programs will so stretch ends scarcely stand.

"Extremely grim" is the way John Evans, president of the University of Toronto, describes the financial prospects of Canada's largest post-secondary educational institution. The university, with 28,000 full-time and 14,000 part-time students has cut its budget by $8 million this year and still expects to run an operating deficit of $1 million.

The problems at University of Toronto are not isolated. The survey showed that the typical Canadian university, whether large or small, is struggling to cover its commitments with a rapidly shrinking dollar.

Most are looking for government help, either through additional financing or strict enforcement of the federal wages and price controls guidelines.

A major increase in government funding seems unlikely however. Government grants already provide about 70 per cent of operating revenue at most institutions surveyed. Ontario pays 80 cent of its cost at Simon Fraser University in Burnaby, B.C.

H. W. Bliss, vice-president of finance at University of Calgary, said: "Because such a large proportion of university revenue is from government grants, the general and taxing public is sensitive of government spending will continue to be felt in a significant manner by the universities during the next five years."

Mr. Bliss and many other university officials are planning at least some of their hopes on Ottawa's wage guidelines. Salaries yield teaching, administrative and maintenance staff accounts for more than 80 per cent of operating revenue. In some cases, the survey showed.

Jim Basham, information officer at University of British Columbia in Vancouver, said the guidelines will have a significant effect on the future of Canadian universities.

Bs said UBC, which now has 23,500 students, expects to have to keep its size at about 20,000 and 22,000 within five years. Unless more money was found, the school would have to forgo a number of planned academic programs.

University of Manitoba, which has accumulated a $4-million deficit in the last two years, reflects concern felt on the Prairies.

Under pressure from the provincial government via the university grants committee, the grant request by $2 million to $61.4 million for 1976-77. University President Ernest Sirluck, has called for stringent cost-saving measures. These include outright staff reductions and a decision to let at least some vacancies go begging.

At University of Regina, a spokesman said a stand-pat budget is holding up new programs. The university, faced with a choice of priorities between increased enrolment or research, was seeking funds from outside agencies.

Nowhere is the clamor for more government aid greater than in Ontario, a fact underscored by a recent study published by the Council of Ontario Universities: The study shows that Ontario ranks sixth among the 10 provincial governments in annual per-student spending. At the university level, although the province is Canada's rich-est.

The study says the Ontario government would have to increase spending by $82 million annually to reach the national average. It would take $402 million to catch British Columbia, the national leader.

William Farr, vice-president of York University in Toronto, said the budget was balanced this year only with extreme difficulty.

"We expect to be in business five years from now, but I don't think we can continue to pare them each year," he said.

Jacques Pallasco of the financial department of Laurentian University in Ottawa agreed that "the non-academic costs have reached their limit and we don't see how we will have to increase next year unless more money is found."

In Quebec, spokesmen for various universities were a bit more optimistic.

"We'll have a small deficit this year, but next year we hope to break even," said Allan McCall, vice-president for finance at McGill.

McGill has been preparing itself for an austerity period for several years, but the outlook for the next five years depend largely on government priorities, he said. The Quebec government has, in the last several years, treated its universities more favorably than the Ontario government has.

"It's almost ludicrous, the number of post-secondary students in this province that we don't seem to be getting," Brenda Gaudet, president of University of Trinton Memorial in Newfoundland, said in complained of shrinking resources.

"We're in a bind right now," he said. "We are going to find it tough in the next few years."

Gaudet, vice-president of finance at University of New Brunswick in Fredericton, said UNB is "looking down the road faced with a whole lot of uncertainty."

It still is too early to determine what effect the anti-inflation program will have, he said. One indication food prices are levelling out have eased costs, he said his university located.

Five years ago rises made up between 35 and 40 per cent of operating revenue at UNB, but now the figure is down to less than 14 per cent and financially strapped students are unable to pay more.

A spokesman for Memorial University in St. John's, Nfld., said confusion in the economy makes it impossible to determine what economic conditions will be like in the next five years.

"It is likely the next five years will be a period of severe austerity, with the government and university sector, as well as the private sector, will be seeking remedies to provide the maximum benefit for society within the financial conditions then prevailing," he said.

What that means is the universities are in for some stormy weather and may expect little relief until the economic bleaker rises.

Against Sex Classes

GOWANSTOWN, Ont. (CP) — About 300 people at a meeting told Perth county school board to keep its nose out of sex education. The message followed a curriculum guideline for teachers of kindergarten to Grade 8. The parents said sex education should be taught in the home but the reason for reporting the courses was that sex wasn't being taught in the home.

Dishwashers Needed

TORONTO (CP) — Arthur Carman wonders why it took so long to hire two dishwashers for his restaurant. He says the job pays $10,920 a year, including $150 for a 48-hour week, a $1,000 bonus for staying a year, two free beers a day and free meals, including a weekly steak. The Unemployment Insurance Commission is investigating nine persons who turned it down.

Rainbows Caught

TORONTO (CP) — Bill and Verna Savoury of Toronto have been fishing on the Saugeen River and having great luck. The couple caught six rainbow trout by trolling a green flatfish. The largest was 18 pounds. Mr. Savoury will mount his 18-pound trout and his wife plans to mount the 13-pound fish she caught.

Simon and Garfunkel Reunite for One Song

NEW YORK (AP) — A new Simon and Garfunkel single, My Little Town, is on the charts, bumping on at No. 48 on the best-selling list the very week it was released. It's the first Simon and Garfunkel single in five years, since Bridge over Troubled Waters. By its third week it was No. 19.

However, it doesn't mean the old team is back together. It means that Paul Simon wrote a song for Art Garfunkel and Garfunkel suggested they both sing on it.

Simon said: "He was singing a lot of very sweet songs. I said to him, 'I'm going to write a really nasty song for you so you will have something nasty to say.' That's this song.

"It's about somebody who hates the town he grew up in. It's in no sense autobiographical. The town I grew up in is New York City, which hardly qualifies as a little town, and I don't hate it.

"When we sang the song together, it came out so good and we thought of the attention Art Garfunkel and Simon and Garfunkel would get, so we thought it would be better to put it on both albums." It's Art Garfunkel's new Breakaway and Simon's new Still Crazy After All These Years, both of which are on Columbia.

On the last Paul Simon single, Gone at Last, which was on the best-selling charts in September and October, getting to 39 on Sept. 27, he had Phoebe Snow and the Jessy Dixon Singers.

He started writing that song about two years ago for a lone he was doing with Aretha Franklin which never came off. Simon said he'd sing it with Bette Midler but that couldn't be worked out between their record companies.

He met Phoebe Snow when Phil Ramone, his record's coproducer, was producing an LP by her and they were alternately using the same recording studio.

"I made the last changes on the song over the phone in the studio. I would prefer to do it with her rather than either of the other two. I think she's a great singer."

Simon agreed is be the host of the second Saturday Night Live TV show, on Oct. 18, because he knew the director and producer. "I hadn't been on TV in years. I don't want to be a regular TV host; I'm not a TV personality."

He filmed a one-of-one basketball game with Tommy Hawkins of Atlanta Hawks, who is 6 feet 8, and for the rest of the show invited Garfunkel, Miss Snow and Randy Newman.

"Randy I had never met, I just admire his work and called him up and asked him to come on the show. He lives in Los Angeles and is very happy there and that's how I am about New York. I don't hang out too much and he doesn't hang out too much."

At present Simon is getting ready to tour until the middle of December.

"I'm going to end up the tour in England. My passport has run out. That's how long it has been since I was there.

"I'm taking most of the musicians who played on the album and Jessy and the group with me, altogether about 11 musicians and four singers. I've never done anything this big before. I already did everything with solo guitar. I'm trying to make a departure for the sake of interest—to do something different. Now I'm rehearsing for the first time, really.

"It used to be, all I had to do was sit down and review my songs with myself. Now I have to come in and work every night for three weeks in rehearsal."

He has developed calcium deposits on his guitar-playing index finger so he no longer takes lessons in classical guitar.

"I have to be very sparing on how much I play guitar. I use it to compose. I have to go gingerly on how much I play it. I'm bad.

"At one point, until they discovered what was wrong, I couldn't bend my finger and couldn't play, period. It was a very painful thing. I don't know what happens, I know how to fix it. Eventually, the doctor says I'm going to lose mobility in that finger. I hope that won't be for 30 or 40 or 50 years.

Simon said he is going to study piano, partly because he is curious about learning it and partly to see whether he can learn to compose on it.

"It is very good for arrangements and sounds much better on a piano than a guitar. But I'm going to have to start from scratch. So what! I want so badly to do it. I know if I could learn to play piano with enough skill to compose on it, I started playing guitar when I was 13; that's 20 years ago."

Drama Show Returns

OTTAWA (CP) — Performances of the CBC's drama show Canada, returns to the English network Sunday on a semi-periodic series on life in Kaiser Wilhelm's Prussia before the First World War.

The Captain of Kopenick, by Carl Zuckmayer, stars English actor Donald Pleasence with a cast of prominent Canadian actors directed by David Gilles, who was a co-director of the highly praised Canada series The Forsyte Saga.

During the following months, CBC-TV will broadcast a wide variety of Canadian dramatic studies and dramas on Performance, which the network calls "Canada's national television theatre." It is the major work of CBC-TV drama chief John Hirsch in trying to revive theatrical works on television.

In the Captain of Kopenick, Pleasence plays Wilhelm Voigt, a mild-mannered petty criminal with a Walter Mitty turn of mind, who is confounded by red tape and other Prussian governmental irritants. He can't get a job because he hasn't a permit, and he can't get a permit until he has a job.

Hirsch, here to promote the show, said it was rehearsed for three weeks before it was shot in four days in the CBC's Toronto studios.

Performances began to draw impressive audiences last season, and included shows concerned with attempts to raise prests in Parliament—a kind of Canadian Bill of Rights.

Both are based on books by Harry Broadfoot of Vancouver, who interviewed hundreds of people about their recollections of the Depression and of the Second World War.

THE UNEXPLAINED

by Allen Spraggett

Little Men from Outer Space

Pat Burns, Canada's high priest of the hotline, has a reputation as a hard-nosed broadcaster.

On his daily phone-in program, on Vancouver station CJOR, Burns blasts businessmen, politicians, bureaucrats, game and hunge up on "nuts." He has been "one of North America's highest paid broadcasters."

But occasionally, Pat Burns, who has heard just about everything about the peculiar side of human nature, meets something that stops even him.

That's what happened when he encountered the lady who invoked little men from outer space to cut his phone line.

The story, as Pat told it to me recently, is the sort which, he ruefully admits, he would be the first to scoff at anyone else told it.

"Which I swear it's the absolute truth," he said.

And there were witnesses, Pat Burns' listeners, thousands of them.

The lady, explained — surely, one of the craziest in the history of radio — broadcast at 1:00 when Burns was host of a hotline show on Canada's Montreal station CKGM. During his four years in Montreal he received an air marriage proposals, booth warnings and bomb threats. But none of these compared with the little men.

One of Pat's frequent callers was a woman who claimed to be in her forties, "a Dutch immigrant with an Irish name, cute as a tulip," as he put it.

"She must have spent hours dialing the hotline and all too often she got through. Her heroine had only one object she wanted to talk about, her little men from outer space.

"Mr. Burns," she would say, "have you seen the little men from outer space?" Or she would say, 'Dell, I've seen a lot of guys spaced out but nobody from outer space.

"Don't be sarcastic, Mr. Burns," she would say, "this is serious!" So I'd say, 'Well dell, where do you see them?'

"'Downtown,' she'd say, 'you can tell them by their eyes. They're a brilliant mauve and you can talk to them they change to a bright pink.'

"Now this sort of nonsense was good comedy relief from time to time and my listeners got to expect these regular calls from the outer space lady, as they dubbed her.

"Then," said Pat Burns, "came the piece de resistance — the part you don't believe of this absolutely true story."

The outer space lady made the mistake of calling one day when Pat was in an irascible mood (he's been known to have them) and not prepared to indulge the middle-aged crackpot's fantasies.

"Dell," he grueled, "I can't let you talk about your little men from outer space."

"Don't put me on the off," she threatening "or the little men will cut you off."

Pat Burns chuckled stylyr "Honey, call me tomorrow night and I'll be sure to have a little spacemen let you down."

Immediately he pressed the button and cut her off.

"But nothing happened."

Silence. The line was dead. Everything was dead. Station CKGM was off the air.

"Now in radio six minutes off the air is a disaster," Pat Burns said, "but—and I get this — we were off the air six hours!"

The next evening at almost exactly the same time, Pat Burns pressed the button and said: "Burns' hotline. Go ahead." The Dutch accent blared with the Dutch accent lilted: "Well Mr. Burns, I told you the little spacemen would cut you off. What do you say now?"

"You and your rotten little spacemen," our genial host snarled. "Try for two in a row. Goodbye!"

When he pressed the button to cut the next call, a cameo. "Dead as a doornail," he said, shaking his head at the recollection. "We were off air for six hours."

This second inexplicable power failure was the talk of the town — in radio, still an eternity. Station manager Ken Soper called Pat into his studio demanding to know what Pat was going to do about it.

"Honest, Don," he pleaded, "I don't know how in the hell it does it."

Freak coincidences? Two freak coincidences?

Well, Pat Burns decided not to put the coincidence theory to the test when, the next night, the lady called again.

"Honey," said Canada's king of the hotline, "I'm not going for three in a row. Now you were saying about the little men from outer space.

Locked Out

LONDON (CP) — Raiders filled empty-handed after unsuccessfully trying to break into a post office train outside a London suburban goal of the city. They fired six shots into the lock but the door would not open.

Forging Ahead

LONDON (CP) — There are forged notes and forged notes — but the £1 note handed to newsagent Francis Nash took his breath away. Not only was it just a poor imitation, it also bore the words "FORGED NOTE" in big letters. Mr. Nash took the note to the police station and said: "Someone passed it had real check—and all the evidence is the words."

Bird Hazard

Birds surrounded a jetliner as it lifts off from a runway at the Tokyo International Airport. Officials said the birds banded together by jet engines have been reported at the airport this year and officials have decided to attempt to kill or frighten away the intruders. Last week a DC10 jumbo jet exploded at New York's Kennedy International Airport sling seagulls were sucked into a jet engine during takeoff run. There were no fatalities. (AP Photo)

Stars Carry British Theatre

LONDON (AP) — The stars are out in glittering galaxy on London's stage.

The writers and directors, in recent seasons the dominant theatrical forces, seem mostly to be hiding, brooding or suffering from creative blocque.

To be sure, there are still far more shows than Broadway offers for drama buffs. But few of the new plays that tourists are eager to see these nights in the West End could survive transatlantic transplant.

Among performers causing the main box-office stir are the knightly foursome, Sirs John Gielgud, Ralph Richardson, Alec Guinness and John Clements. And also Dame Edith is sure to be a sir some day too, and a gaff visiting American cousins who have just wound up triumphant visits, Henry Fonda and James Stewart.

Among top distaff lures, count Diana Rigg, tapped by many critics as England's emergent superstar by virtor of her latest role: imperious Margaret Leighton, redoubtable Maggie Neagle; Mia Farrow in a star major debut, and Shirley Mitchell latter-day Shirley Temple, now grown into more adult non sense.

Although commercial managers mean about spiralling costs, insiders say no shortage of production funds has yet developed. Ticket prices are still bargain to overseas visitors, at $3 to $6 for musicals as well as straight drama.

Caught in a tighter bind are the major subsidized National Theatre and Royal Shakespeare Company (RSC), along with provincial troupes. Private government Arts Council aid keeps dwindling in relation to costs and everyone keeps talking about more parliamentary latitude in the not too distant future.

"Provided we don't go under, I believe in living on the edge," cheerfully rationalizes David Jones, artistic director of the RSC's London theatre.

Attracting the biggest crowds currently are a drama quartet comprising Otherwise Engaged by Simon Gray and spotlighting Rates; No Man's Land by Harold Pinter, enacted chiefly by Richardson and Gielgud; Phoenix Britannica, a revision of Jarlee's version of a myth borrowed from Euripides, in which Miss Leighton vitalizes, and A Family And A Fortune, which thrives because of Miss Leighton and Guinness.

Both Pinter's opus and the Gray piece, which Pinter served as director, seem echoes of Beckett.

Otherwise Engaged, like its predecessor Butley—in which Bates also appeared—concerns middle-aged male disenchantment. Butley was a university don who tore associates apart; Simon in the new drama is a prosperous publisher seeking escape by ignoring reality and listening to Wagner.

Gray's writing style, character analysis and sense of humor oddly parallel Pinter's, at least in the latter's staging. It makes one wonder whether negative cross-influences are at work between the two authors.

No Man's Land, directed by Peter Hall, comes across as a technical mechanical exercise of all which makes Pinter's plays so fascinating and which makes Hall him as a master.

The story concerns a bibulous hackman (Richardson) and a seedy poet (Gielgud) who may or may not be old friends.

The author's obligatory menace is provided by a pair of thuggish servants. Stripped of Pinter, the text wouldn't hold most viewers past the intermission.

The same verdict applies to A Family And A Fortune, which Guinness quides brilliantly as a loser-egotist back at the core of the portfolio of Victorian India and set the dialogue in uneasy rhyming couplets that at times approach genuine banality, even with John Exter directing.

Two hours of less box-office grace at the Old Vic are the visiting Nottingham Playhouse troupe in Comedians and Engaged. The first, by Trevor Griffiths, concerns some blue-collar workers who study to become nightclub comics, but the whole affair suffers from a confusion of pedantry as Manchester liberal impenetrable to an alien ear.

Fired Thinker

WALSALL, England (CP) — Whenever brake-fitter Howard Clarke had a tricky mechanical problem to sort out at work, he would sit down in an armchair and think it out. It may have been inspiring for Clarke, but his employers fired him. A Birmingham tribunal ruled that his dismissal was unfair and awarded Clarke £139 in damages.

Canadian Mime Theatre Completes Its Reconstruction

NIAGARA-ON-THE-LAKE, Ont. (CP) — The Canadian Mime Theatre has completed a $310,000 reconstruction of its home theatre, The Royal George, and will open for the season May 31 with a show of four new vignettes.

The show, filled Old and New Faces, commemorates not only the mime company's work for the last seven years in Niagara-on-the-Lake, but the face-lift it has given the old movie theatre, formerly called the Brock.

The mime company bought the Brock in 1972, believing it could be refurbished with a new facadade, lobby, box office, and reception area for about $40,000. Delays and inflation multiplied the cost almost fourfold.

Weight Reduction After Pregnancy

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What do you think about reducing while pregnant? I have gained 35 pounds and am eight months pregnant.—Mrs. K.F.

It would be best to wait until after your baby is born to begin reducing. Weight reduction during pregnancy can be dangerous.

It is not unusual for a woman to gain 25 to 30 pounds during pregnancy. Most of this is lost at delivery, but some which any sensible reducing and exercise regimen will correct is the problem of lingering excess poundage.

The growing fetus is of course very dependent on an adequate maternal nutrition. In attempting weight reduction during pregnancy an inadequate nutrition can cause problems.

Weight gain usually comes from fatty and high carbohydrate foods, especially, sugar, cakes, and the like. These should be reduced. Adequate protein, essential for proper fetal growth is available in such foods as skim milk, eggs, fish and fowl, animal and veal being general.

Fruits and vegetables provide vitamins and minerals as well as bulk to avoid constipation.

Frivolous dieting should not be undertaken during pregnancy. But weight gain which goes beyond that expected under reasonable dietary control may pose a different question. Such a problem should be carefully delineated and supervised by the doctor.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it dangerous to have three abortions? If so, what are the complications? I need this information quickly.—W.H.

There is always a certain amount of risk involved in any abortion, so it ranks lowest medically among birth control methods of birth control. It is difficult to answer your specific question. The method employed can be important. Another factor is your experience with your previous two. (I'm assuming that this is your third that you are considering.)

I also assume you are talking about a legal abortion, in which event the physician involved would have final say after carefully examining you.

You are living dangerously if you plan to use this as your sole method of birth control. I strongly recommend that you look into other methods.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have been bothered with constipation. I am 66-years-old. I do take bran with a little milk every night, and also eat prunes daily. I am still constipated, except for about once a week when I do have a movement. The rest of the time I am constipated. I use enemas to relieve the situation. I wish you could tell me what's wrong.—Mrs. A.J.J.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: For years I was bothered with constipation and had to take a laxative several times a week. You have stated that a normal, healthy person may go as long as five days without a bowl movement.

I stopped taking a laxative, and had a bowl movement at least every three days and thereafter every two days. I haven't taken a laxative in over a year and feel like a new person. Thank you.—C.M.

As interesting pair of letters. Perhaps C.M. has answered Mrs. A.J.J.'s question. It is possible that a once-a-week bowel movement is perfectly normal for Mrs. A. ask what is wrong. She is not giving nature a chance. The enemas and bran are "on," but the enemas throw her bowel rhythm off. A glycerin suppository occasionally would be better than the enema.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I plan to marry soon. I have had my tubes tied and my husband-to-be has had a vasectomy. Any chances of us having a child?—Ms. D.M.

In my opinion, the odds of remarriage, an operation on one mate are very, very low. With both mates being sterilized, the odds would roughly double against reversal.

Indians Need Not Eat Poison Fish

TOKYO (AP) — Canadians should give Indian natives special economic help so they can stop eating fish containing high level cause of symptoms similar to those of Japan's Minamata disease, Ontario officials said yesterday.

"This is an interesting problem that includes economic, social and medical measures. I think the federal government should give Indians, for whom the fish is a vital part of the diet, so that they can buy beef, for example," said Dr. G. James Stopps, an Ontario health ministry medical consultant and chief of a team studying mercury poisoning.

The nine-member Ontario group is on a 15-day tour to study how the Japanese are coping with mercury poisoning.

"We want to achieve two things. To get as much clinical material as possible, and to get much information on the long-term effects as possible," Dr. Stopps told a news conference.

The mission is to meet government officials, doctors and patients suffering from mercury poisoning in Tokyo, Minamata and Niigata.

"We are trying to get a cross-section of views by meeting people—officials, doctors and patients," Dr. Stopps said.

Dr. Henry Landis, general counsel of Ontario's ministry of environment, said he is interested in Japan's laws on compensation for such poisoning's economic and physical damage.

"We don't have such laws in Canada," he said. "But obviously such statute laws have precedes and minutes, for example, that they are retroactive to damages before the legislation get through."

Dr. Gerard Ronan, director of the Ontario government's laboratory services, said he is highly interested in Japanese reclamation programs for once polluted rivers and bays. But Canadian regulations on permitted levels of chemicals are much stricter than in Japan, he added.

The delegation was sent after scores of Indians in the Grassy Narrows and White Dog reserves in Northern Ontario showed symptoms similar to those of Minamata disease. Some of the Indians had unusually high levels of mercury in their blood, up to 285 parts per billion.

One of the old clichés is: "When in doubt—lead trump." We want to amend it to: "When not in doubt—lead trumps."

West should not be in doubt today. He has four small trumps and only one ace, but he has one thing. Every time he leads one he makes declarer use two high trumps.

Suppose, West opens a diamond. South might well fall short of 10 tricks, but he can collect them if he knows how. He takes dummy's ace of diamonds and ruffs another diamond. Then he leads his king of clubs.

West takes his ace and decides to lead a trump, but it is too late. South wins in dummy, ruffs another diamond, cashes his queen of clubs and ace of hearts and ruffs a club. Now he ruffs another diamond with his last trump and has eight tricks in. Let's count them. One trick in dummy, three diamond ruffs, one club ruff, the ace of hearts and diamonds and the queen of clubs. He still has two good trumps in dummy to give him the 10 he needs.

If West opens a trump he is sure to get the lead again to be able to lead a second trump. This will cut South down to a maximum of nine tricks which aren't enough.

Ask the Jacobys

A Florida reader has two questions about the Jacoby Transfer Bid. We will answer one today and one tomorrow and will discuss the bid at length early next year. The first question is: "How do you transfer to the minor suit?"

The simplest way is to use the two-spade response to one notrump as a transfer to clubs and the three-club response as a transfer to diamonds.

(Do you have a question for the experts? Write "Ask the Jacobys" care of this newspaper. The Jacobys will answer individual questions if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are enclosed. The most interesting questions will be used in this column and will receive copies of JACOBY MODERN.)

Steel Producers Report Lower Earnings

By THE CANADIAN PRESS
Canada's three major steel producers reported lower third-quarter earnings than many analysts expected and, consequently, profit estimates for the year have been reduced by about 20 to 25 per cent.

However, some analysts say steel stocks are attractive investment because there are indications of a gradual recovery in demand which may push profits in 1976 close to last year's record levels.

Norman Moffatt, analyst with D. A. Daly and Co. Ltd. in Toronto, said earnings in the fourth quarter are not expected to be as high as those reported for the same period last year but should be much better than in the third quarter of 1975.

In addition to the recovery in demand, as customer inventories are depleted, steel producers will benefit from recent price increases of about 10 per cent, said Mr. Moffatt.

From a pricing standpoint, the companies are in pretty good shape," he said. "We've seen the trough in earnings."

In the third quarter, Stelco and Dominion Foundries and Steel Ltd. (Dofasco) of Hamilton fell 67 per cent from year-earlier levels, compared with a 48-per-cent decline for Steel Co. of Canada Ltd. (Stelco), Toronto, and a drop of 23 per cent for Algoma Steel Corp. Ltd., Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

Mr. Moffatt estimates Stelco's earnings at about $2.20 a share, Dofasco at $2.30 and Algoma between $1 and $1.10. His earlier estimates for the three companies had been about 30 cents a share higher.

He said a reduced demand for steel, particularly in the automobile industry, accounted for most of the demand to third-quarter profit. Strikes in Canadian iron ore mines and U.S. coal mines also were significant problems, he said.

Gerry Gray, steels analyst at Baker, Weeks of Canada Ltd. in Toronto, said third-quarter profits for the three producers were "all lower than expected by a considerable margin."

Japan Opposes Bombers

NAHA, Japan (AP) — Okinawa's prefectural assembly unanimously adopted a resolution Monday opposing the stationing of U.S. B-52 bombers on the island.

The resolution was in reaction to the arrival of 15 of the big bombers from Guam early this month. The U.S. Air Force said the planes were seeking shelter from a typhoon.

But Okinawans believed the bombers' arrival was a demonstration of U.S. determination to defend South Korea from Communist attack.

Magazine Charges Commons

OTTAWA (CP) — A prolonged Commons debate on the future of Time magazine and Reader's Digest ended under closure Monday amid charges by a Time executive that the government distorted the law to speed plans for forcing the Canadian edition of the magazine alive.

Telegrams containing the accusation were delivered to all 263 MPs shortly before government-imposed closure abruptly ended second reading debate on tax legislation denying Canadian advertisers in Time, Reader's Digest and several smaller foreign-owned publications 100 per cent tax deductions for advertising costs.

The bill would place similar restrictions on Canadian advertisers who now spend about $28 million to use TV advertise on border U.S. television stations.

The telegram signed by Stephen S. LaRue of Toronto, Time Canada Ltd. president, pleaded for a delay in the Jan. 1 implementation date of the legislation. It also charged that the government's editorial content quota has added "a dangerous and destructive new dimension" to its magazine policy.

Mr. LaRue said a requirement that magazines be at least 80 per cent different in content from foreign publications to be classed as a Canadian for tax purposes apparently was aimed at thwarting Time's plans to continue publishing its 350,000-circulation weekly Canadian edition.

"It seems to us to distort the meaning of the law to serve an essentially political and discriminatory end—namely to put beyond reach our ability to turn Time Canada into a quality Canadian magazine," the telegram stated.

Acting under closure, a controversial procedural tactic to limit debate, the Commons gave the bill second reading approval in principle—and sent it to the International committee.

The committee is expected to begin Wednesday or Thursday when Progressive Conservative opponents and possibly some disgruntled Liberals will suggest reductions in the 80-per-cent content requirement.

Executives of Time, Reader's Digest, three foreign medical journals and several U.S. border television stations are also expected to appear before the committee.

The Commons voted 123 to 80 to give the bill second reading with the Liberals supported by New Democrats in favor and the Progressive Conservatives and Social Credit opposed.

Five MPs broke party ranks: Liberals Jacques Trudel (Montreal Bourassa) and Joe Flynn (Kitchener) voted against the bill while Conservatives Flora MacDonald (Kingston and the Islands) and Otto Jelinek, Social Credit Gilles Grégoire and Social Credit Leonel Beaudoin (Richmond) voted for it.

Both the Time telegram and a more strongly-worded letter which the company delivered by hand to Secretary of State Hugh Faulkner and Revenue Minister Bud Cullen charged that the company never received a satisfactory explanation of what it must do to qualify as Canadian and continue benefitting from advertiser tax exemptions.

Front St. Explosion Injures Area Man

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

A 33-year-old Pine St. man, John Sliecil, remains in hospital today with second degree burns to his face and hands after a furnace explosion tore through King Sol Discount Store on Front St. Tuesday night.

Police and fire officials said Mr. Sliecil, an employee of the store, had spotted smoke and smelled oil and went downstairs to check the furnace.

An hour earlier oil fumes had been building up and a repairman was called.

Fire Chief Leo Culhane said a repairman indicated the furnace had been put on "safety" and then left to get some replacement parts. The fire department subsequently left the scene after the first oil build up only to be recalled a short time later to handle the after effects of the blast.

The explosion tore the front door off its hinges and shattered a large window at the store front.

Thelma Ianeke, manager of the store, said damage to goods in the store is not extensive and confined mainly to areas hit by flying glass.

Chief Culhane says his department has the cause of the fire as faulty safety controls on the furnace. The Ontario Fire Marshal is expected at the store today to complete his investigation.

Strike Fund?

Postal Union Will Pay $40 a Week

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

As the postal strike entered its 30th day today, both sides appeared firm that they will not change their current positions.

While Prime Minister Trudeau told the Commons once again the government has no intention of increasing its pay offer because it would be contrary to the good of the country, union leaders began working out details for the distribution of $40 in weekly strike pay that will begin Friday.

Announcement of the strike fund appeared to have had some effect on reducing the trend of postal workers returning to their jobs.

The post office said Tuesday that about 1,600 members of the Canadian Union of Postal Workers (CUPW) were back on the job, about the same as Monday.

The union has declined to disclose the source of the amount of the strike fund—the first since the unions formation in 1966—albeit than to say there will be enough money to last until a settlement is reached.

The strike pay to about 20,000 of the 22,000 union members still off the job will amount to about $800,000 a week and will be paid to every member regardless of marital status or whether the member is a full or part-time worker as long as the member carries out strike duties.

While the government has been firm on its wage offer, union leaders have been just as adamant that they will not accept it and will not put the matter to a membership vote.

About 10,000 of the workers now earn the top hourly rate of $4.50. The union wants that rate increased $2.73 over 27 months, a work week shortened to 35 hours from 40 and a cost-of-living clause in their new contract.

Mailmen Will Deliver Security Cheques

By AL ZABAS
Staff Reporter

Old age security and veterans pension and allotment cheques will be delivered to city homes tomorrow by letter carriers, says a post office spokesman.

The cheques, part of federal government social benefit payments to Canadians, are part of six million that will be distributed nationwide within the next couple of weeks.

In Belleville, the old age and pension cheques will also be placed in the lock boxes in the post office lobby, now open to city residents.

The spokesman said Tuesday one wicket inside the Pinnacle St. post office will also be open to handle general delivery distribution of the cheques. However, he added that no other postal business will be done at that wicket.

A federal government release says family allowance cheques which normally fall due tomorrow will not be distributed till early December.

But, when they are, they will include both November and December payments.

The government says that "normal post office channels will be used wherever possible". But where inside workers are still out on strike across Canada, church basements, schools and other federal buildings will be used as distribution points.

In Toronto, Charles Darrow, president of the Ontario Public Service Employees Union, called upon the provincial government Tuesday to establish welfare cheque pick-up depots across Ontario instead of asking field workers to hand-deliver cheques to recipients.

Mr. Darrow said that in most cases recipients are able-bodied people who could pick up their own cheques.

Asking case-workers to deliver cheques to a recipient's door is "tantamount to strike-breaking".

Normally, welfare cheques are mailed, but during a strike, the government instructs case-workers to hand sort and deliver cheques.

Highway Speeds Reduced
Seat Belt Rule Enforced Jan. 1

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario government moved Tuesday to crack down on traffic accidents by introducing legislation to reduce highway speed limits and to make mandatory the use of automobile seat belts.

Under amendments to the Highway Traffic Act, maximum speed on freeways would be reduced to 60 from 70 miles an hour and on other highways to 50 from 60 or 55 miles an hour.

Municipalities would be asked to reduce speeds on sections of highways under their control.

The seat-belt legislation, introduced in the legislature Tuesday, would apply to all persons except infants, those with certain medical problems and persons whose jobs require them to be in and out of their vehicles often.

Persons convicted of breaking the seat-belt law, an amendment to the Highway Traffic Act, would be liable to a fine of from $20 to $100.

It would become effective Jan. 1. Date for the new speed limits would be announced as soon as highway signs could be changed.

Premier William Davis said the proposed legislation is designed not only to cut traffic accidents but also to conserve energy.

An energy official said, however, that the actual saving in fuel would amount only to about one per cent a year.

However, an insurance official said the amendments might result in an "obvious reduction in the insurance level."

Daniel Dawes, president of the Insurance Bureau of Canada, said it would take about two years to assess the probable saving.

The seat-belt legislation came about 1½ years after similar suggestions were rejected by the government. The earlier bill was replaced by a $650,000-program to educate the public in the merits of seat belts.

Transport Minister James Snow, who introduced the legislation Tuesday, said he would like to see it apply to as many people as possible.

He began wearing seat belts himself after being slightly injured in a head-on collision last June.

Among those he would exempt from the law would be police cars, fire department vehicles, rural-route mail drivers, and delivery trucks that do not travel faster than 25 miles an hour.

Bus drivers, but not passengers, would be affected, Mr. Snow said. And he saw no reason why taxi drivers or their passengers should be exempt.

Federal Aid May Give Quinte EMO New Life

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

The Quinte Emergency Measures Organization (EMO) may breath new life later this month with major funding from the federal government. The Intelligencer has learned.

In a hand-delivered letter to city mayor Ben Corke, the federal government offers 75 per cent funding of emergency measures programs providing both gets first meet with government approval. The funding comes under the program Emergency Planning Canada, the letter from the solicitor general's office said.

The funding is being made available to all emergency measures organizations across Ontario. Federal authorities must have responses from all interested groups by the end of November.

Until last June, the federal government had participated in local EMO operations to the tune of 25 per cent of operating budgets.

The provincial government which annually contributed $2 million to EMO programs withdrew its 50 per cent support and snowed the death knell for organizations across Ontario.

Mayor Corke said he received the letter Tuesday afternoon from former EMO co-ordinator Col. Angus Duffy and confirmed the federal support is stated in the letter.

"Our thinking right now is a modest budget with no full time employees," said Mayor Corke.

Col. Duffy, today, said "I am not too optimistic about the grant in light of earlier refusals by Hastings and Prince Edward County Councils to increase their contributions to the organizations."

When word first came that the province would withdraw support, both councils voted only in advance enough money to finish the year.

"Now with the federal government picking up 75 per cent, the municipalities still have to pick up the remainder," said Col. Duffy.

He said the EMO committee will meet in Bata Bleeker next Monday night to discuss the new grants.

He said Col. Duffy has offered to assist the committee in working out details. Mayor Corke says he does not envision a full time director of the revitalized program.

He said he hoped all area municipalities would co-operate in re-opening the organization.

When the EMO was formally disbanded last Aug. 1, Col. Duffy was highly critical of the provincial government saying "the province has abdicated its responsibility of taking care of the people."

He also warned committee members at that time not to disband the committee which administrates the EMO until December. He said Duffy said that "verbal" contact with the federal government indicated new support might be coming later in the year.

In the meantime however, the EMO has liquidated many of its assets including much radio equipment.

Col. Duffy said that under provisions agreed to when equipment was liquidated, all EMO equipment is to be returned to the organization if operation is resumed.

Quebec Moves Closer to Trusteeship of Olympic Construction

QUEBEC (CP) — Normal procedure was to be suspended in the Quebec national assembly today as the government could give priority to a bill placing Montreal's Olympic construction projects under virtual provincial trusteeship.

Legislation settling up an Olympics installations Act which would take over the project from the City of Montreal, was introduced in the national assembly Tuesday by Dr. Victor Goldbloom, municipal affairs minister.

Creation of the seven-member board is designed to ensure that construction deadlines are met and that costs for the project are kept in rein.

The bill provides that ownership of major facilities such as the 70,000-seat stadium, the swim hall and velodrome will be transferred to the board from the City of Montreal.

In addition, "the income and sums of money to which the City of Montreal is entitled under the agreement between the City of Montreal and the Games organizing committee belong to the board except any receipts paid to the City of Montreal before Nov. 18, 1975," the bill says.

The government's action greatly diminishes the role of Montreal Mayor Jean Drapeau as far the driving force behind the Games, from the 1976 Olympics picture.

Dr. Goldbloom later told reporters that creation of the board was made necessary by the "reticence" of Montreal authorities to eliminate non-essential features which might have hindered construction deadlines.

Montreal will be compensated for the funds it has already invested, though not on a priority basis, Dr. Goldbloom said.

The bill provides that ownership of the various facilities will revert to Montreal once the government is satisfied that any loans granted or guaranteed are paid.

Possession, however, will be transferred temporarily to the Olympics organizing committee for the duration of the Games, scheduled to start July 17 and end Aug. 1.

Dr. Goldbloom said Montreal authorities have accepted to continue paying off loans contracted for Olympics construction even though the city will be cut off from the revenues produced by the completed facilities.

Subject to cabinet approval, the new board will have the power to buy, lease, manage and sell immoveables as well as to lend or borrow money for the staging of the Games.

The board will also examine all documents pertaining to the fee to be paid to French-architect Roger Taillibert.

Work Under Way

Phase two of reconstruction of Hill Street in Picton was started this month and on Tuesday trees were cut to make way for widening of the road. Sanitary and storm sewers, curbs, and gutters will be put in this fall. Estimated cost of the project is $129,700.

Authority Limits Access to Land

FRANKFORD — Snowmobiling will be prohibited on all land reserves under the authority of the Lower Trent Region Conservation Authority (LTRCA) in an effort to prevent ecological damage, said Brian Boyce, director of the agency.

"The use of snowmobiles on the authority's land is a major concern because of the indiscriminate use of the vehicles which have proven to be disruptive to other users of the preserves and hard to regulate and control," said Mr. Boyce.

Mr. Boyce said as the development of the land increases, 14 properties currently are under LTRCA jurisdiction, more regulations will be imposed to maintain the delicate ecological balance.

"It is very difficult to enforce the regulations because we do not have any protection officials employed by the authority but if anyone is seen or caught mis-using LTRCA land they will be charged under the petty trespass law if they refuse to leave," he said.

Mr. Boyce said use of the land would be limited to hikers, cross country skiers and other groups participating in day outings.

"The 1976 program calls for the development of trails throughout LTRCA land, interpretive trails, which will be used as nature walks," Mr. Boyce said. "These trails will be used, we hope, by families and groups during the winter months for cross-country skiing and hiking," he said.

There are some areas containing streams on the property and Mr. Boyce said this calls for more careful use because damage to the banks of the waterways might affect fish and wildlife.

Winter camping will be restricted on all the properties continuing the summer camping ban on LTRCA land.

"We can not enter into the camping business and compete with the provincial parks because it is too costly, both for the development of the land for that use and in the enforcing of all the regulations imposed on campers," said the director.

Canada — Lacking Economic Savvy — Would Have Been of No Use in Paris

By VINCENT EGAN

Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

Before Canadians are overcome by enormous waves of self-pity at being snubbed, let's ask:

—Just how much could Canada have contributed to the recent six-nation economic summit conference in France?

—Does Canada have the right to be co-chairman of the forthcoming 27-nation economic conference in Paris?

A diplomatic rebuff is sure to arouse public indignation and distract attention from the real issue.

Our prime minister has professed disappointment and sorrow at France's refusal to invite him to join the heads of six other governments—Britain, France, Italy, Japan, the United States and West Germany—at the Rambouillet economic conference near Paris.

But the real question is whether Canada, with the best record of economic management, could have contributed anything to the solution of international trade and monetary problems.

And Canada's qualifications to be co-chairman of the mid-December Paris economic conference can be questioned on the same grounds.

Over the last decade, government spending in Canada has quadrupled.

Much of the increase has been due to inflation, which has averaged nearly one per cent a month over the past two years.

But a substantial part of the increase comes from the rise in government expenditures. Ten years ago, governments spent 31 cents out of every dollar spent in Canada. Two last year, that had grown to 39.3 cents.

One big reason has been the sharp increase in unemployment and the even greater rise in unemployment benefits.

Out of every 100 Canadians in the labor force, about 72 have been out of work at any given time since January. The comparable figure was below 40 from mid-1965 to mid-1969.

Any country that can achieve record inflation and very high unemployment at the same time doesn't have a valid claim to international economic leadership.

But Canada's economic record doesn't stand there. For decades ago—or less—Canadian industry was prospering. New markets were being found and new jobs created.

That imparted a spirit of confidence to Canadian generally. The public shared in the country's economic growth by investing its savings directly in stocks of Canadian corporations, or indirectly through such intermediaries as mutual funds.

In the last half-dozen years, however, the political climate has turned against the corporate sector, investor confidence has been crushed, and the resulting collapse of bond and stock markets has left the retirement plans of countless present Canadians in jeopardy.

Filling the vacuum is a burgeoning state sector, fuelled by the new Anti-Inflation Board, planning to spend $1-million a month.

It's easy enough for the government to speak of national pride and whip up public concern about an international trade war. Unfortunately, it's probably profitable in political terms, too.

But it would be far more useful if the prime minister were to direct public concern toward our economic problems. They will still be with us long after the Rambouillet economic conference is forgotten.

Canada is in trouble when an ever-increasing share of its economic activity is being taken away from risk-takers and put into the hands of bureaucrats and social do-gooders whose only gratification comes from spending public money, whose powers are unchecked and who need never admit failure nor pay for their errors.

Let's take a tip from the French — Voltaire, specifically and cultivate our gardens. We don't have much to teach our neighbors.

Action on Road Toll

The Ontario government is contemplating the only practical solution to the escalating carnage on provincial highways.

Legislation is envisaged which will reduce the highway speed limit to 60 m.p.h. and make the wearing of seatbelts mandatory.

Of course there are those who say such a step is an infringement on personal freedom — but what is the alternative?

Innocent people are losing their lives, along with the foolhardy who regard motor vehicles at best as playthings and at worst as deadly weapons.

Such legislation is being drawn up not a moment too soon, given an accident alarming and a death toll out of control and has been in tragic evidence of late in both Hastings and Prince Edward counties, as well as farther afield

Reduced speed and use of seatbelts have had significant results in saving lives in Australia. It will be the same here, if proposed legislation is passed. Similarly with regard to medical and insurance costs, not to mention its full savings. We hope all parties in the legislature will rally behind this government move.

Going to the Movies

What has become of the movies?

We know that an important aspect of a strong downtown is entertainment and that traditionally, in the smaller centres especially, this has focused on going to the movies.

Times have changed though, and particularly with the growing popularity and influence of television. Moviegoing has suffered in consequence and Larry McMurtry's "The Last Picture Show" (which, incidentally, was made into a film) has had real meaning in the Quinte area.

No more, an evening at the movies at the Belle theatre here, or at the Regent in Picton.

Locally, the Park theatre keps its end up where downtown moviegoing is concerned. A number of fine films going back a decade come to mind from the Park's roster. Some titles elude the memory, but there was a fascinating Swedish film which, combining a story theme with semi — documentary material reflected the life, mores, and environment of that country. Back in the sixties too, there was a comedy featuring the beauteous Elizabeth Montgomery whose "Bewitched" series still runs with repeats on what must be one of the longest-running shows on television, and on Friday, Bonnie and Clyde to The Exorcist and today's crop. On indeed to something of a minor miracle as people queued in the chill early evening winds at the weekend, for a film with a contemporary theme — outer space. Ever since Eric von Daniken's "Chariots of the Gods" caught the public imagination, controversial as its theories on outer space were, the whole subject has been of consuming interest.

This new film, The Outer Space Connection, which is giving life to the cinematic scene locally just now, is showing in Trenton too and is enjoying a similar response. It's good for an industry which has been undergoing its own brand of struggle in recent years — and good for the community as well.

Prefab Homes Can be Costly

Prefabrication is not a new idea where house construction is concerned. Contrary to what might be expected, it is not all that inexpensive either.

The president of a Windsor firm working on a modular home which may be assembled on a building site in less than a day is quoted as saying the three-bedroom home with just over a 1,000 square feet of living space, will sell for $34,000.

This could still be out of the reach of the average buyer Rick Macdonald says he is concerned about.

The place to save, Mr. Macdonald is quoted as saying, and having regard to the rising price of land, "is on labor." Yet that $30,000 plus is still a hefty amount of money. Note that the ceiling in Belleville for what the government regards as "modest-ly-priced housing" under the newly-announced federal subsidy program is $31,000 — a figure incidentally small builders reportedly are having difficulty staying within.

Whichever way you look, the ideal of plentiful and inexpensive housing, if it ever existed at all, is not just around the corner.

Shah Points the Finger At Canada's Unresponsiveness

The Globe and Mail

Granted, it's a long way to go for a slap on the wrist — and to the most likely source, at that. But, with Ottawa apparently not interested in the subject, maybe we do need the Shah of Iran to lecture us on oil conservation.

Within 25 years, he warned CBC's Adrienne Clarkson, oil may be finished. In which case, as he bluntly put it: "You would be completely finished — you would become a fifth-rate nation — and we would get anywhere either."

But the Shah was not forecasting our doom. He was simply pointing out the possible results of continued petroleum waste, on the one hand, while arguing for a more selective use of oil on the other.

"I call oil a noble product," he said, "because you can derive 70,000 by-products from it. And how many derivatives can you get from atomic electricity? Not many . . . So why should you use it fast for heating houses or making electricity when you can do those things so much more easily by burning coal, using atomic energy, or even solar energy?"

A good question, and one to which Canada has provided little in the way of an answer. Even compared to our northern neighbor, generally conceded the greatest power in the world energy fountain, our record is abysmal.

While major United States industries have reduced energy consumption 7.4 per cent in the last year (according to Commerce Department figures), our industry has reported no such improvement. To the American 55-mile-an-hour speed limit, and new tax laves favoring small cars, our reply is similarly non-existent.

Indeed, our boldest efforts so far have been typified by a federal directive that government vehicles be smaller.

That may pass for restraint and innovation in Ottawa, but it obviously hasn't made much of an impression in Tehran.

Striking Teachers

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

Dedication is a word that the teaching profession loves to use. Usually it is resorted to when they have an axe to grind in relation to pay and working conditions. Of course most teachers are dedicated individuals — they have to be to last in the profession.

However one has to incline to the opinion, that as professionals they should be expected to also be responsible people.

This is not the case in the current Toronto teachers strike.

The offer made by the school board is not, and it is hard to see one that many would consider excessively generous.

Now both sides, the board and the teachers association are in for a long strike, while the pupils who are so frequently referred to as the focus of teacher dedication are for the aside until greed can be satisfied. There is no excuse for the teachers stand in this instance. They come out as a greedy, self-centred and unprofessional bunch of bandits willingly to walkout on the classroom only if they have licked it clean.

Perhaps it was the wrong to legislate them back to work — so I hope that parents and others in Toronto who can contribute their time and skills will help to keep the schools open. The prospect of Santa Claus dropping round with welfare cheques instead of two weeks paid holiday may inject some sense into their heads.

If these people contributed as much to the national good as those who risk life, limb and health in the mines, industry and other associated activities upon which the wealth and strength of the nation depends their case might be better understood.

As it is, we are being asked, ah too often to contribute to already overpaid and in many cases, underworked professional drones, who seem to feel that society owes it them and their wealthy professional association to set them up in ideal conditions that will ensure they are kept in the manner of ease, comfort and status.

Well, I for one, stopped pandering to this philosophy — one third of Canada's population lives below the poverty line. They have no 12 weeks holiday with pay, no professional development days, and have to scratch to survive for 365 days every year. Toronto teachers are in the classroom only for out of 365. There has to be something wrong when the bar this bunch asking to be allowed to "reach up". Maybe they should stand still while the rest of us reach up.

"THANK YOU FOR YOUR WARM WELCOME AND CO-OPERATION!"

Speaker Russell Rowe Curbs Televising Proceedings Attempt By NDP Jumping Legislative Gun

By DON O'HEARN

Queen's Park Bureau

Thomson News Service

TORONTO — This is an unnatural house.

It is dominated by the opposition groups.

They can decide on the action to be taken. But they don't have responsibility for carrying out the action.

This is an open door to a general irresponsibility.

And there was an incident last week which indicated this could be a distinct threat.

The select committee on Hydro rates, under the chairmanship of former NDP leader Donald MacDonald, was starting a meeting.

There were television lights at the side, blasting into the faces of the members.

MacDonald explained that he had given permission for the television cameras to operate.

This was against the precedents and rules of the house, he said. But the Camp commission on the legislature had recommended that proceedings be televised. Another select committee was now studying these recommendations. He felt that pending its report it would be all right to let the cameras start rolling.

Members of the committee were caught completely by surprise. They had no objection, hardly could have under the circumstances, and all they asked was that the lights be turned out as much as possible.

That afternoon Mr. MacDonald asked for an unanimous vote of the house approving his action on the grounds that television was probably coming anyway and that the members of the committee didn't object.

Except for Mr. Speaker Russell Rowe he would have got away with it.

But Mr. Rowe pointed out that not only was Mr. MacDonald slightly out of order, committee, more importantly he was trying the rules of the house frivolously.

He noted that there was a procedure for changing the rules of the house and that this hadn't been followed.

With this, MacDonald didn't get his approval.

But!!!

A house absolutely must have rules, just as all society must have rules. The alternative is anarchy. And they must be firm rules.

To be effective they must be serious, and respected.

Under no circumstance can they be changed on a whim, even if it is an acceptable one.

Mr. Rowe knows this and his ruling was able to carry his point. But one wonders how long and how far he will be able to hold out.

Particularly as he will have weak support, if any, from the government.

Under the same circumstances in other years Premier Davis would have stepped in.

But this time he was silent. And house leader Bob Welch would have bowed to the opposition.

Political Brinkmanship Aussie-style Forces Election

By JOHN D. HARBRON

Foreign Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

Australia is our sister Commonwealth nation half way around the world from us, and like us is a big, expansive, resources-rich and underpopulated country.

Yet we know and hear less about Australian politics than we do about Vietnamese, Lebanese, Mexican or Ugandan public events.

If the Australians have an emerging national culture, a national broadcasting commission almost a copy of the CBC, growing concerns about indigenous peoples like we do (their aborigines, our Indians), and they have all these things, we never hear about them.

But Australian politics has hit the headlines with the unprecedented firing of an elected prime minister by an appointed Governor-General.

His reason was former prime minister Gough Whitlam's failure to move money bills through Parliament.

It is a political and constitutional crisis of the kind not seen in Australia since it received Dominion status in 1901 and involves one of the most flamboyant political leaders of recent years in Australia and his style of politics and attitude.

Sir John Kerr, Australia's Governor-general, specifically dismissed Mr. Whitlam because he could not move money bills through a deadlocked Senate where the majority of seats are held by the Liberal-National Country party coalition.

In addition, he had experienced recent scandals over the raising of huge funds, of Middle East cash for the government which ended with the turking two cabinet ministers, but also making protestations of complete innocence of himself is some shady dealings.

The Senate in Australia is elected, not appointed as in Canada and therefore money bills must be passed by both the House of Representatives and the Senate.

What makes the Governor-General's move doubtful is that Mr. Whitlam held the majority in the House of Representatives.

In blocking the government's money bills, the Australian Senate also made its only unprecedented move in saying it would pass them if Mr. Whitlam agreed to call a general election by June, 1976.

The former opposition leader, rolled to be prime minister a few days ago by Sir John is Malcolm Fraser, 45 dour and uninspiring in person and on the hustings as Whitlam is charismatic, charismatic and arrogant.

Whitlam's election in 1972 after his Labor party had been out of office for 23 years, resulted in whirlwind change in Australian domestic and foreign policy.

Abroad, he moved within weeks of coming to power to recognize the People's Republic of China, East Germany and even North Vietnam, withdrew Australian troops from Vietnam where they had served alongside the Americans, and called for less Australian economic dependence on the United States.

Domestically that meant a new package of restrictive legislation against resident U.S. multinational corporations which have come to dominate Australian extractive industries as they eliminate our own.

He abolished British titles for Australians (a move made here by prime minister Mackenzie King in the late '40s), and announced a competition to compose an Australian national anthem to replace God save the Queen.

So if he wins in the national election which the Governor-General's drastic move made possible Australia is headed for more colorful and brinkmanship, Gough Whitlam-style.

Industrial Report Prompts Debate on County Growth

By MARG BAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — A report on county development submitted to Prince Edward County councillors by economic development director William Duggan forced sharp debate Tuesday night during a county council session.

Picton reeve Larry Richardson stated council should not adopt the report, containing a recommendation for support of a Loyalist Village in Prince Edward, without discussion. Also recommended was council's re-affirmation of interest in obtaining Mountain View airfield and its buildings for future development uses.

"I feel a little too often we accept a document and if we simply rubber stamp it we are not doing our jobs," he stressed.

Reeve Richardson emphasized that without full discussion of the report, fresh thoughts would be stifled and valuable comments suppressed.

Economic development director William Duggan explained his recommendations noting that more than two years ago county council expressed interest in the Mountain View airfield and certain buildings there. The federal ministry informed councillors that although closure of the airfield was under consideration no action would be taken for two years.

The two year period now has expired and the economic development director noted that soon no more major building will remian available for industry at Loch Sloy industrial park here.

He suggested that by re-affirming its interest in the Mountain View site council would provide a starting point for further representation to the federal ministry.

Halkwell reeve Keith MacDonald—stated that he would not support any recommendation to spend taxpayers' dollars on an industrial park. He said that he was "glad" that private money had purchased Loch Sloy industrial park and added that he is unsure of its over-all benefit through job opportunities in the community.

He said that he was not convinced that Prince Edward needs an economic development director and an economic development committee.

Sophiasburg reeve George Foster suggested that the report apparently was being derived from adoption by reeve Richardson.

"I have no intention of delaying the adoption of the report. I just want a discussion of it," replied reeve Richardson.

The report containing three general recommendations and three specific ones for the county was adopted by councillors following the heated discussion of its significance.

Loyalist Village Plan Outlined to Council

PICTON — Prince Edward County councillors Tuesday adopted a report on county development that recommends support of a Loyalist Village to be built as a recreational and educational centre.

The report, submitted by economic development director William Duggan, recommends the village "particularly in view of the nearness of the bicentenary of the arrival of the first settlers in the county."

Enquiries about the village already have been initiated in co-operation with the ministry and the Prince Edward Region Conservation Authority.

Possible sites for the village have been inspected and general discussion held with directors of the Prince Edward Region Conservation Authority.

Mr. Duggan told councillors that the Loyalist Village was suggested by the assistant deputy-minister of tourism who felt it would be even more authentic than Upper Canada Village or Pioneer Village.

The village would act as a hub for tourists and since the Loyalists did land in the county it would be an excellent reflection of local history, he said.

Picton reeve Larry Richardson commented that Prince Edward County already has five museums and the Loyalist Village would tie in well with them.

Ann Landers

Tired of Tales About Former Flames?

Dear Ann Landers: I felt a special empathy with the young woman whose mother-in-law talked incessantly about her son's former girlfriend. I got the same treatment but it wasn't just one girl—it was several.

Every time Bob's mother was present I had to listen to detailed accounts of the females who chased him shamelessly, phoned at all hours and camped on his doorstep. All this was designed to let me know I had married a "prize." Bob never once attempted to stop her. In fact, he filled in the details if she forgot.

After a few months I decided enough was enough. When Bob and I were alone I began to tell him about all my old boy-friends. I started with a kid in the third grade whose name I couldn't remember. I talked non-stop for 30 minutes, dredging up every boy who ever smiled at me. By the time I reached high school Bob said, "I don't care to hear any more. You're boring the hell out of me."

I replied, "Good. Now we know. Let's make a deal." So we did. The very next time his mother started to do her number Bob shut her up and I've never heard a word about former flames since.—Problem Solved Twenty Years Ago

Dear Solved: There's nothing like playing a record back to deliver a message.

International Stews to Make Entertaining Easy

Stews are one of the wisest ways to nourish a family cheaply, as every good cook knows.

But they're just as useful for elegant and easy entertaining, since the before-hand preparation leaves host and hostess free to mingle with guests during the stew's final simmering.

Here's a selection of international-flavored stews using beef, lamb, pork or chicken, the theme from an excellent cookbook available at the Corby Library: Glorious Stew by Dorothy Irvin.

BOEUF A LA HONGROISE
(Hungarian beef stew)

three pounds boneless beef shoulder cut in 1½- inch cubes
two tbsp. butter
two tbsp. oil
four medium onions, chopped coarsely two tsp. Hungarian paprika
two tsp. salt
two garlic cloves
two tbsp. flour
one cup tomato puree
two cups canned beef broth, or enough to barely cover
¼ tsp. freshly ground black pepper
½ tsp. thyme
one bay leaf
¼ cup finely chopped fresh parsley strips of green pepper and pimientos

Turn on oven to 325 degrees.

Trim fat from meat and dry on paper towels. In a heavy skillet, heat the butter and oil. Slowly cook the onions until they are transparent but not brown. Remove them, and place in a heavy, lidded casserole.

In the same skillet, brown the beef pieces a few at a time. As they are done, put them in the casserole. Turn the heat on very low under the casserole, and sprinkle in the paprika, stirring. Mash the garlic in the salt and add it also.

Sprinkle flour into the casserole a little at a time, stirring till it disappears. Then add the tomato puree and broth, a little at a time.

Add the rest of the seasonings, bring stew to simmer, and place in the oven to cook for 1½ to two hours, or until forktender. Skim off fat, check and correct seasonings.

Lightly sautee the peppers and pimientos in butter and scatter on top of the stew before serving. Noodles or parsleyed potatoes should be eaten with the stew, followed by a light lettuce salad.

LAMB AND BEAN KHORESHE
(Persian lamb stew)

four tbsp. butter
two cups chopped fresh parsley two bunches green onions, chopped two cups chopped spinach three pounds lamb shoulder cut in 1½- inch cubes
two tbsp. butter
two tbsp. oil
two tsp. salt
one tsp. black pepper
one tsp. tumeric juice of two lemons
one lemon in four slices water to cover
three one-pound cans of white beans OR cooked dried beans

Turn on oven to 325 degrees.

Melt the butter in a heavy, lidded casserole or Dutch oven. Add the parsley, green onions and spinach and cook gently until they are limp.

Wipe the cubes of lamb dry. In a heavy skillet heat the butter and oil and brown the meat a few pieces at a time. As they are done, remove to the casserole with the vegetables. Sprinkle with salt, stir in pepper and tumeric, and add lemon juice. Place lemon slices on top.

Add the water to barely cover, stir and cover. Place in the oven for 1½ - 1½ hours, or until fork-tender. Remove lemon slices, and skim off fat.

Drain the white beans, reserving liquid. Stir beans into the stew, adjusting seasoning if necessary at this time. Cover and cook until beans are hot. Add bean liquid if stew is too dry.

Garnish with a few fresh lemon slices and serve with salad.

MAILE AFFOGATO
(Italian Pork Stew)

two tbsp. olive oil
two garlic cloves, crushed three pounds lean pork shoulder cut in one-inch cubes two medium carrots, minced
two tsp. salt
¼ tsp. white pepper
½ tsp. dried rosemary
1½ cups dry white wine
one cup chicken broth
three green peppers cut in one-inch squares one tbsp. Olive oil
one can (one lb.) Italian tomatoes, drained
¼ cup finely chopped fresh parsley

Heat the olive oil in a heavy, lidded casserole. (Do not use an iron vessel as it will affect the taste of the tomatoes.) Cook the garlic in the oil until golden, but not brown. Then discard it.

Trim the fat from the pork, and wipe the pieces with damp paper towels. Stir the pork into the olive oil in the casserole. Cook, stirring for five minutes until the pork loses its color.

Stir in the carrots and sprinkle seasonings over the contents of the casserole.

Add the liquids, stir, and bring to a simmer. Cover and place in the oven, and cook for 1½ - two hours, or until pork is tender.

In a skillet lightly saute the green peppers in olive oil, and add to the stew. Stir in the tomatoes and cook for 15 minutes more. Add the tomatoes, drained if necessary.

Sprinkle parsley on the stew before serving, with buttered spaghetti and a side dish of cold asparagus.

CHICKEN TARRAGON
(French chicken stew)

two frying chickens, disjointed five tbsp. clarified butter
¼ cup chopped green onions one tsp. salt
½ tsp. pepper
¼ tsp. tarragon
¼ tsp. thyme
one bay leaf
one tbsp. chopped parsley
two tbsp. flour
¼ cup dry vermouth
hot chicken broth, as needed
½ cup heavy cream

Dry the chicken pieces on paper towels. In a heavy skillet, brown the chicken on all sides in the clarified butter. Add the chopped green onions and continue cooking. Sprinkle seasoning over the chicken, and stir in. Sprinkle in flour and stir until it disappears.

Then add the dry vermouth, scraping the pan to loosen any bits stuck to the bottom. Cover the pan, and turn the heat to a point where the ingredients simmer. Cook for 20 minutes, adding hot chicken broth if needed.

Cook for a total of 45-60 minutes, removing the chicken breasts once they are tender, and then replacing them near the final stages to re-warm them. Allow the liquid to cook down until there is about ½ cup.

Remove to a hot serving dish that you'll use for serving, and stir heavy cream over the contents of the skillet, heating on the stove out without boiling.

Garnish with parsley and serve with rice and a side dish of peas and cauliflower cooked together.

Loyalist Veteran Ends Career

Raymond J.A. Turner of Belleville, teacher and administrator at Loyalist College since its inception in 1967, has retired.

The retirement of Mr. Turner, 65, as director of the Loyalist school of technology, was officially announced at a recent meeting of the college board of governors by Herbert Young, Loyalist president.

Mr. Young said Tuesday that during the college's "crucial, formative period, he (Turner) was widely acknowledged as a tower of strength to his associates and a man of determinant personal credibility."

He commented that Mr. Turner was "a concerned and dedicated man" who began each day of work at Loyalist at 7 a.m.

"Even though he already possessed the designations Chartered Engineer and Professional Engineer and is a fellow in the Institute of Radio Engineers, he never ceased to be a student, completing work on his Bachelor of Arts degree in 1972," Mr. Young said.

Mr. Turner was appointed college school director in September, 1974. He served previously as chairman of pure science and teaching head of electronic technology.

In addition, during the past year, he was chairman of the Loyalist metric committee which is in charge of the metric change-over at the college.

"His subtle humor and his consideration for others have brought him love and respect by his peers and students alike," Mr. Young remarked.

Mr. Turner is succeeded as technology school director by Ed Buckley, who also serves as director of the Loyalist retraining division.

Loss of Access Route May Bring Payment

City council this week found a developer might be entitled to compensation because it decided to close off his property to a possible access route.

Last month, council agreed to close off and sell 200 feet of an unopened road allowance known as North Lane Rd., immediately north of Edgehill Road in the city's east end.

But the move drew a protest from Stanleypark Ltd., — with holdings in the area — whose president John Parrott asked council not to close or sell part of the road.

Among his reasons: His company's proposed plans for North Stanley Park call for a sewer pumping station and main down the road allowance, along with possible water and storm sewer lines. The allowance should also be retained to enhance access to Stanley-Park for present and future residents.

City manager Wilbur Purcell, in a report to council, said if Mr. Parrott lost the allowance as an access he could successfully argue for compensation under the Municipal Act — which forbids such deprivation.

Because of this, it appeared "prudent" that council discontinue with the proposed road closing.

Council agreed with the city manager.

Trials Continue

A 12-member jury was to hear summations from counsel and the judge's charge here today when the autumn sittings of county court continued at Hastings County Courthouse.

Assistant Crown attorney John Wood of Belleville was to wrap up the Crown's case against Gordon John Eastman of Trenton, charged with assault causing bodily harm in connection with a fight between two taxi drivers earlier this year in Trenton.

Eastman is represented by defence lawyer George Boon of Trenton. Judge Russell C. Roney was to charge the jury following summations.

Monday's action saw all evidence presented in the Eastman case plus the selection of two juries — one of them for Eastman.

The second jury was to resume today to hear the case against Joseph Williams of Trenton who is charged with possession of a weapon dangerous to the public peace in connection with an incident in August at the Quinte Hotel in Trenton.

Spending Curbs Stressed

A terse note on the theme of tighter budgeting was struck by Mayor Dan Corke this week.

He warned civic boards and committees Monday to think hard about keeping down budget demands in a year that will see restricted senior government spending.

Councillors on various civic boards and committees should "think seriously" when drafting budget estimates for 1976 about keeping any increases to a maximum of 10 per cent over this year, he said.

Leaders Sought

Betty Fort, assistant district co-ordinator for Belleville cubs and scouts said the organization is having a difficult time getting adult leaders for downtown scout groups.

The scout troops are formed for boys between the ages of 11-14.

Mrs. Fort said it takes a long time to organize these troops and to find leaders for them.

"It needs a special kind of man," she said. "Handling boys that age can be difficult — some men are hesitant about working with teenagers."

She added many troops have been re - activated recently around the city.

"We aren't looking for men who have experience leading a troop — well train them ourselves," she said.

Vocalist May Join Community

A plan to bring a Canadian singer to the Quinte area for a five-month period by the Quinte Arts Council is slowly gaining momentum.

Project Sing — co-ordinated by art council members Diane Atkins, Dave Smith and Murray Irwin, will feature a male vocalist who will live in Belleville and perform at a variety of gatherings, such as the hospital, churches, schools, and factories during lunch hours.

The singer will also assist local church choirs and choral societies.

Mrs. Atkins said Project Sing will cost $8,000. She said the committee will seek funding from Wintario as well as local contributions.

Mrs. Atkins added this is a new venture in Belleville and has never been attempted in Canada before. "It will expose people here to a certain kind of musical talent. Everyone will gain something from it, she said.

Suspect Remanded

MADOC — Gary Joseph Healey, 20, of 500 Dundas St., Tweed, was remanded in provincial court here Tuesday to Jan. 15 on a charge of possession of a weapon dangerous to the public peace after an incident in a Stoco home Oct. 3.

Police have details of the incident and would not describe the weapon.

Tape Deck Stolen

Belleville police are investigating the theft of a tape player and tape from a car owned by Ken Campbell of 29 Glendale Rd.

The items were stolen from a car parked in Northern Electric parking lot.

Peter Richardson, secretary of the Quinte Santa Claus Parade Committee, said Tuesday $1,592.30 was raised during the annual tag days Friday and Saturday by 40 taggers who covered Belleville's business areas. Mr. Richardson said this was an increase of $285 over last year's figure.

The Santa Claus parade will take place Nov. 29 at 10 a.m.

Sidney Endorses Extra Bayside Lane

A special left-hand turn lane should be constructed in front of the Highway 2 entrance to Bayside Secondary School, Sidney Township council decided this week.

In its decision, council endorsed a recommendation of the Hastings County Board of Education to the provincial ministry of transportation and communications.

The board now is taking initial steps to move the province into finding an end to the growing number of accidents at the rural high school's highway entrance.

Most recently, the board, said a spokesman, agreed to one of three alternative solutions offered by the transportation ministry — construction of a dual, left-hand turn lane from Trenton to Belleville.

The board's choice was conveyed by a letter from its superintendent of business, Ken Wormald.

In that letter, Mr. Wormald said the board feels strongly that some action should be taken to reduce the hazard and number of accidents at the school entrance.

But, he added, he is aware a fifth lane between the two municipalities would take a long time to build, and said it is "imperative", immediate construction of a lane at the Bayside school begin.

Previously, staff and students at the school have said they fear a traffic light will be needed to attract attention to the seriousness of the problem.

Stanley Structures Ltd. Workers Ratify New One-year Contract

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

The 10cents-an-hour increase in pay at Belleville's Stanley Structures Ltd. Tuesday ratified a contract giving workers a 20-per-cent increase — eight per cent more than allowed under the federal government's price and wage restraint program.

The union membership met Tuesday to vote on the contract where wages and a cost-of-living clause were central issues.

Bob Miller, president of local 424, United Cement, Lime and Gypsum Workers, said because the company would not give a cost-of-living clause, his negotiating committee voted for a one-year contract.

The pay increase, of which only 6 cents is permitted under the government guidelines, is retroactive to Oct. 20 when the old contract expired.

Mr. Miller said the remaining 2¢ cents of the negotiated hourly settlement still have to be approved by the federal review board. "We should find out from the board within 30 days," he said.

If the board approves the settlement, the 10-cents-an-hour increase will raise the plant's average union pay scale to $5.40.

The membership voted 74 to 36 to accept the offer.

Mr. Miller said he could not say what the union's recourse will be if the board disallows the raise.

"If the raise is cancelled, we will be looking to the Canadian Labor Congress and the Ontario Federation of Labor for guidance," he said.

"Both of those labor groups have chastised the federal government's program saying wages would be controlled but prices would continue to escalate.

"Some action will be taken though," said Mr. Miller.

Tradition Dies Hard

PICTON — Tradition refused to die in tomorrow Prince Edward County councillors Tuesday night when a proposal for a new method of selecting standing committees was rejected.

Hillier deputy-reeve Donald Sutton, a newcomer to council in 1974, suggested the change stating that it was "quite a revelation" for him last year when he watched council members appointing each other to committees.

He proposed a recess session in the last week of December for the selection of a warden-elect. Also a nominating committee would be appointed to select councillors for the standing committees.

A motion requesting the clerk to prepare a by-law for a new method of selecting standing committees, however, was narrowly defeated.

Ballots Counted

Bob Miller, representing union workers at Stanley Structures Ltd. and union member Carl Haines count ballots Tuesday night as workers voted to accept company offer of an hourly increase of 90 cents. The increase is eight per cent higher than allowed under federal price - wage controls, and must be approved by a government review board.

Centre Wants Changes In Proposed Rent Controls

BY AL ZABAS
Staff Reporter

It would be unfair to tenants in Belleville, a city which predominates in small apartment buildings, to be without the protection of the province's proposed rent review legislation, said Bill Hockley, of the Quinte Information and Assistance Centre.

Such a situation will exists unless the province changes a provision in the proposed act that exempts from rent control four-unites and smaller buildings, Mr. Hockley said Tuesday.

"There are landlords in Belleville that rent less than four units," he said. "They would be able to continue to exploit the situation."

Many people in the city are renting from landlords with only one or two apartments in a house converted to apartments, he said. Belleville tenants therefore be said, are more vulnerable to abuse.

But that abuse may, not be given the opportunity to spread, said Mr. Hockley, given the indication that exemptions will be stopped up.

Last week, Minister of Housing John Rhodes told the Legislature he may amend the bill to include some apartment units originally exempted.

He was responding to criticism from Michael Cassidy NDP — Ottawa Centre) that the bill would not affect 40 per cent of Ontario tenants who live in units that would be exempted from the rent controls as proposed.

Mr. Rhodes said he did not realise so many units — between 300,000 and 350,000 in Ontario — would be exempt under the ministry's legislation.

Ministry estimates put the numbers of control-affected apartment units at 400,000.

Mr. Hockley said as now proposed, the legislation is geared to control rents in large centres with large apartment buildings.

Belleville, however, doesn't have the number of large buildings that would fall under such controls he said.

The provincial legislation limits rent increases for lease renewals to eight per cent between the end of July 1975, and Jan. 1, 1976. In addition, an eight per cent limit will be imposed on rent increases between Jan. 1, 1976 and Aug. 7, 1976.

Rape Suspect In Court

MADOC — A 22-year-old Madoc man, charged by provincial police with the rape of a 19-year-old woman Nov. 8, will appear in provincial court here Dec. 16 for a preliminary hearing.

William Marshall Jones, of 94 Hallins St., appeared in court in Madoc Tuesday where he elected to be tried by county court judge and jury in Belleville if a trial became necessary.

Madoc provincial police said the incident took place at a cottage in Huntingdon Township about six miles south of Madoc.

Fifth Worker Back Sorting Local Mail

Belleville residents and businesses can begin to mail letters at the city's post office that are destined to addresses in and around Belleville, George Burchell, assistant postmaster said today.

But dropping parcels into the box at the city's post office is still discouraged, Mr. Burchell said "We haven't got the staff or the facilities to handle them."

The city post office, like numerous others across the country is working at low efficiency due to a strike by 23,000 members of the Canadian Union of Postal Workers, now in its 30th day.

In Belleville, however, members of the 46 member local have begun to trickle back to work. Mr. Burchell said a fifth inside worker was back today.

Last Friday, two postal workers went back and were followed Monday and Tuesday by two other workers.

Mr. Burchell said the workers sorted several thousand pieces of mail Tuesday, and that "a lot of companies are starting to mail statements."

He said that letter mail, coming into the post office by 2 or 3 p.m., will get next delivery in the city or its rural routes.

Court Date Set

MADOC — A 23-year-old correctional officer at the Warkworth Medium Security Institute will appear in provincial court here Dec. 9 to six charges, including one of assaulting a police officer in Marmora Nov. 4.

Peter John Simmons, 178 King St. in Campbellford charged with assault causing bodily harm, resisting arrest, escaping custody, impaired driving and failing to supply a sample of his breath.

The man was charged by Madoc police after an OPP manhunt for a man who assaulted an officer attempting to arrest him in downtown Marmora.

Meeks Predicts Overflow Of Boaters During Olympics

Ald. Meeks warned the Belleville harbor improvement committee additional docking space is a necessity for next year's budget — a measure to prepare for the influx of boaters attending Olympic sailing events in Kingston.

"When the Olympics begin, it will mean the biggest influx of boaters into the area that we have ever seen," said committee chairman Ald. Meeks.

He made the comment while urging committee members to begin thinking of what "we hope to accomplish next year."

"I hope you'll anticipate some of the problems of the harbor and allow for solutions in the budget discussion," he said.

Ald. Meeks said Belleville is in a key location to become something of a marine spring board for sailors from larger centres.

"If we had the facilities, Belleville could be used as a start off point for Toronto sailors looking for dock space," said the alderman. "They could drive from Toronto and begin their sail from Belleville for the weekend."

"They could come here on weekends and spend their money and return to their homes for the week," he said.

"If we had the municipality doesn't have to supply all the amenities such as police and fire protection," he said. "It is a proposition that is only here two days a year."

The committee has already received approval for construction of an approximate cost of two docking facilities which will be capable of handling about 30 boats.

Examine Inner Motives Expert Tells Kiwanis

There's a lot of nonsense in the world and people don't want to change, Toronto man want to, a Toronto motivation and psychocybernetic expert said in Belleville Tuesday.

"Get some of the nonsense out of your head," Tony Burns, marketing director of Canadian Training and Development Group told members of the Belleville Kiwanis Club.

He said 80 per cent of what people do and believe they make are due to habit.

"The subconscious mind will do for us what we tell it to but most people don't really know what they want from life," said Mr. Burns.

A manager, he said, cannot motivate employees: "All he can do is lay out the tools to motivate, people and hope they will pick them up. If they won't there's nothing else he can do."

He said people have to be "positional human beings" by practicing: "If you have enough intelligence to make decisions for yourself then why aren't you?"

The subconscious mind said Mr. Burns, is like a computer. It works with information it is given.

"In that way the municipality doesn't have to supply all the amenities such as police and fire protection," he said. "It is a proposition that is only here two days a year."

The committee has already received approval for construction of an approximate cost of two docking facilities which will be capable of handling about 30 boats.

Paint Set Ablaze

Belleville police are looking for vandals who started a fire on Great St. James St. about 9:30 p.m. Tuesday after breaking into Trudeau Motor Ltd.

Vandals entered the paint shop through a broken window and removed nine cans of paint and one of body filler.

Fire Chief Leo Culhane said today contents of the paint cans were emptied on the roadway and left to burn. Damage was contained to a broken window.

No Nonsense Speaker

Tony Burns, Toronto motivation and psychocybernetic expert told members of Belleville Kiwanis Club that people are like a computer. It operates according to information it is given.

Play Uniforms Real

The three criminals in the production of Belleville's Theatre Guild—The Three Angels wil wear uniforms borrowed from Wakworth Medium Security Institute, says director Ernst Kneisel.

Mr. Kneisel added a special performance will be staged at the Institute Dec. 9 following performances at Pinnacle Playhouse.

Board Approves Late School Bus Run

At the risk of setting an expensive precedent, the Hastings - Prince Edward Separate School Board Monday night approved an additional night school bus run from the Trenton area to areas to carry students to and from dances at Bayside Catholic College.

Parents in these areas, concerned about the safety of their children, petitioned the board to approve the new bus run which will be needed about eight times a year.

The board, not only under pressure from the parents, is also required by law to permit the school buses to be used for any educational or other lawful purpose.

The board passed the recommendation provided that a qualified school bus driver can be hired for these occasions and that some of the parents act as chaperons on the trips. The board will ask for one chaperon per 10 students on a trip.

Director of education Ed Neville said Monday the new service will affect about 63 students from Tweed and about 19 from Marmora.

Mr. Neville also assurred trustees that the trip would be authorized and approved by the principal of the school, which in this case is Nicholson Catholic College.

Trustee Bert Bennet objected to the recommendation on the grounds that in view of recent inflationary conditions and spending restraint by the board the move would cut much good financial sense.

Some other trustees, including Father L.P. Cantrelli, from Bancroft, said the approval of the recommendation would bring requests from other areas, outside of Belleville, for the same service.

Brian Casey, the board's transportation officer, pointed out that the new service would be an extension. He said that several late buses already run to some communities in Hastings, County. This accommodates student involvement in extra-curricular activities.

The board's business superintendent Ed Paquet said the bus run would come under provincial grants.

Pilots to Graduate

A wings parade will be held Dec. 5 for 25 graduating private pilots who have successfully completed flight instruction at the Belleville Flying Club.

The graduation banquet will begin at 6:30 p.m. in the Four Seasons Hotel.

The training course is jointly sponsored by the flying club and Loyal-Air Ltd. — a charter service operating out of the Belleville airport.

Pinning the wings on graduates will be Jim Marker, operations manager at the airport and Bill Anes, chief flying instructor.

Final Fling

Students from the Dufferin School in Trenton, get in one last try at playing in the fall leaves as winter skies begin to threaten Quinte area and promise that soon the ground will be covered with snow.

Rhodesia Has Plague Problem

REGINA (CP)—R. H. (Rusty) Macdonald has always "shot from the hip."

At dawn, at sunset, on muddy backroads and in waist-high wheat fields, the veteran journalist and photographer has captured on film—rare scenes of Prairie beauty.

His 30-year photographic odyssey has resulted in Four Seasons West, a new release by the Western Producer book service in Saskatoon.

All the pictures in Four Seasons West were taken on reporting trips, first for Regina Leader-Post and then for the Western Producer, an agricultural newspaper based in Saskatoon and owned by the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool. Mr. Macdonald is executive editor of the Western Producer.

"I would just boom—take off a day early on an assignment and see the conditions developing . . . start early in the morning and suddenly the sunbeams were streaming out," he said.

Mr. Macdonald sees a "sort of trinity on the Prairies—a trinity of land, light and sky." A photographer has to develop a visual intelligence for the Prairies and must grown a feeling for the weather and the conditions it creates.

"Suddenly they come together; you see the conditions developing and hope you'll have a foreground."

He said foreground has always been a wrench in the works for Prairie artists and photographers.

The absence of foreground forced A. Y. Jackson to throw up his hands in despair and cancel a western tour planned especially to paint Prairie scenes.

"He left without touching a canvas. He said there was nothing in the foreground."

Mr. Macdonald said Jackson was thinking in terms of Eastern and European art whereas Prairie art is something different—something new.

"We've been educated by European standards. In our schools we develop our taste for scenes on a European basis: we tend to think we have to have something in the foreground."

Mr. Macdonald has implemented a new style and created what he describes as a "fourth dimension" of the Prairies—one of gentle, pink dawns, big skies, booming clouds, quiet blues and greens in spring, golden harvests and raging sunsets.

"There is indeed beauty on the Prairies; it just takes a little longer to find it."

Winter occupies a large segment of Four Seasons West, because there is so much of winter.

"It took me 10 years to develop a winter technique . . . those subtle tones of grey . . . . . that's risky."

Mr. Macdonald was introduced to photography in the winter. He received his first camera as a Christmas gift from his mother, who was a painter.

"It was a 616 box camera, the super camera of the time."

He carried the camera from Prince Albert, where he was born in 1915, to the University of Saskatchewan, where he graduated in 1938.

He continued his interest in photography during his reporting days at The Leader-Post and during the Second World War as an RCAF pilot.

"People think you need a million bucks worth of equipment but you don't. I took some of these pictures with a $100 camera, but I also use a Hasselblad."

Mr. Macdonald said Four Seasons West is dedicated to the farmers of Western Canada, "who when they work the land, do so in such a way that it adds to nature's beauty."

Early School Leaving Program Hailed as Success by Educators

By RON CARSON
Staff Reporter

Ontario's new early school leaving system is being hailed by Hastings County educators as a major advancement to a problem that has always plagued school officials.

Provision for early school leaving came into effect last January with the new Education Act. Prior to this piece of legislation, a student was required to stay in school until he or she reached 16.

The new system allows 14 and 15-year-olds to leave school earlier under supervision.

L.F. Reid, deputy director of education for the Hastings County Board, said that each school group or family establishes a committee, composed of a trustee who acts as chairman, the principal, of the student involved, the parents and a layperson from the community, who has a particular interest in this area of education.

"The beauty of the system is that the parents must take the initiative in the process," explained Mr. Reid, who added that this relieves some pressure off school authorities. Parents must make out the initial application form for early school leaving.

Mr. Reid said for years educators have faced the dilemma of 15-year-olds who wanted to leave school but by law were prohibited.

He also said that today educators recognize that some of these students would be better served by leaving school early to gain some practical experience.

Al Payton, the board's attendance counsellor, explained that students must have a job to go to when he leaves school. Mr. Payton then follows the student's progress at his job until he or she reaches 16. If a student loses the job he must come back to school.

Mr. Payton said the committee hopes that the student may return to school at a later time to complete his studies. To date the committees, under the supervision of the board, have granted three early school leavers permission to work. Mr. Payton said there were two applications pending committee decision.

Mr. Reid said the demand for the system has been minimal which many educators consider significant. He also pointed out, though, the program has not had wide publicity.

Politician's Return Causes Conservative Changes

WINNIPEG (CP) — When it became obvious earlier this year that a number of Manitoba Progressive Conservatives were actively engaged in a search for a new leader, former attorney-general Sterling Lyon found himself back in the political spotlight.

The enthusiasm for the 45-year-old Winnipeg lawyer was hardly surprising. Mr. Lyon was a prominent member of two previous provincial governments and had built up a reputation as a skilled politician, an incisive debater and a proven vote-getter.

By the time he officially entered the leadership race in July, an impressive array of party notables was supporting his efforts to dislodge his former cabinet colleague, Sidney Spivak, as Manitoba's top Conservative.

Mr. Lyon's decision to return to active politics after several years in private life was fraught with difficulties. Both he and his party appear to have undergone significant changes since his first bid for the party leadership in 1967.

In that race, Mr. Lyon described himself as "a progressive Progressive Conservative, not quite a Prairie radical." Now he seems more like the traditional Tory free-enterpriser, fiercely dedicated to the eradication of socialism and the province's New Democratic Party.

"It has been an absurd failure everywhere it's been tried," he says of socialism in general. "Socialism isn't so much a political philosophy. It's a disease."

Mr. Lyon entered the legislature in 1958 as one of a number of young professionals attracted by Duff Roblin, and the Roblin administration that came to power that year ushered in a new era of Manitoba politics with its activist approach to a number of social and economic problems.

Mr. Lyon continues to espouse the obligations of government to the disadvantaged as he tours the province in his efforts to attract support at the leadership convention, set for Dec. 4-5. He uses the term "gentle government" to characterize his ideals, but with emphasis on the need to rationalize government programs and end uncontrolled public spending.

"My idea of rationalization is to make enough fat but avoid muscle," he says. "The average citizen is a far better manager of his own affairs than any government can be."

Mr. Lyon says his doubts about a government's ability to spend itself to solutions of every conceivable social problems are a result of his experience as a cabinet member and later as a private citizen.

"When you're in government, you tend to be in a hothouse atmosphere. When you're on the other end . . . you begin to see the utter nonsense of so much of what government does."

Mr. Lyon's views are well received by many of the party faithful, and he appears to be running well ahead of his pace in the 1967 leadership campaign against Walter Weir.

He is supported by most of the party caucus in the legislature and eight of nine Conservative MPs from Manitoba. The rural-urban split in the party, which tend below to establish bid, does not appear to be a major factor this year. At the same time however, he has no assurance of becoming a member of the house in the near future and might have to lead the party into the next election without a legislative seat. He has also had to contend with Mr. Spivak's charges that he is the hand-picked candidate of vested interests seeking to regain control of the party.

Mr. Lyon has dealt with both criticisms during his campaign, but his main effort has been to impress Conservatives of the need for unity. He has assumed the role of a reluctant candidate.

"I have not sought this office, but I believe that what is at stake is too important for the future of Manitoba for any of us to stand by," he said in announcing his candidacy.

Mr. Lyon has a wealth of experience in public life and an eminent opportunity for public interest in politics that is vital to life-long.

He grew up on Dufferin Street in Portage la Prairie, Man., the home of onetime prime minister Arthur Meighen and in a neighborhood that produced more than its share of public servants.

"I was raised on one of the most political streets in Canada," he says. "Politics was always part of the discussions in the family and among our friends."

His 11 years in government included responsibility for several portfolios in the Roblin and Weir cabinets, and he retired from office before the 1969 general election that saw many of his colleagues go down to defeat at the hands of the NDP.

Mr. Lyon remained in the public eye as one of the leading critics of the NDP government's plans for harnessing the hydroelectric potential of the Nelson River in northern Manitoba.

And he came out of political retirement to give Defence Minister James Richardson a close race in the riding of Winnipeg South in the 1974 federal election.

On Short End? Not Nordiques

MARC TARDIF

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

It was a rough night Tuesday for cities in the Canadian Division of the World Hockey Association.

Out of four WHA games, only Quebec Nordiques managed to emerge victorious by dumping Cincinnati Stingers 6-4. In other games, Houston Aeros edged Winnipeg Jets 3-2, San Diego Mariners downed Calgary Cowboys 6-3 and Denver Spurs topped Edmonton Oilers 6-3.

The victory solidified Quebec's hold on first place in the Canadian division with 28 points, four ahead of Winnipeg. Edmonton is fourth with 18 points, followed by Calgary with 17 and Toronto with 10.

At Quebec Tuesday night, 17,078, the Nordiques' largest of the season, two goals from Marc Tardif and Real Cloutier sparked Quebec to victory after trailing an shorted Cincinnati comeback.

Reynald Leclerc and Serge Bernier added single goals for Quebec while Jim Pimm, Dave Inkpen, Dale Smedley and Gene Sobchuk replied for the Stingers.

Quebec coach Jean-Guy Gendron fingered Cincinnati learned something from the game.

"We gave them a lesson in how to play real hockey," Gendron said. "They're not what they're called, the animals. We were waiting for a physical game from them and that's not what they gave us."

Quebec, who outshed the Stingers 40-26, scored the only goal of the opening period when Tardif deflected Serge Bernier's pass from Lapointe at 5:19 for his 14th goal of the season. Cincinnati made it 2-0 at 2:47 of the second period before Pimm's best Stinger goal. Richard Brodeur with his third goal of the season at 10:32.

Cloutier's 16th and Tardif's 15th made it 4-1 after two periods and Leclerc scored at 6:38 of the final frame to push the count to 5-1. Inkpen and Smedley almost blew apart midway through the period and Sobchuck pulled the Stingers to within one goal at 14:45. Bernier fired the final Quebec goal into an empty net with 12 seconds left in the game to secure the victory.

Despite the loss, Cincinnati remained on top of the WHA's Eastern Division with 18 points, two more than the idle New England Whalers.

In Winnipeg, two goals by Len Lund powered the Aeros to victory against the Jets. Murray Hall scored the other Houston goal. The game-winner, while Peter Sullivan with his seventh of the season and Bobby Hull with his eighth countered for Winnipeg. Jets Jet goals were scored in the final period.

While Lund was the scoring hero for the Aeros, it was his play in the face-off circles in the final minute that prevented Winnipeg from even having an opportunity to tie the game.

The Jets had pulled goalie Joe Daley off in the Houston end and the Aeros maintained control to run out the clock.

At Calgary, Mariners jumped into a commanding lead — defeat the Cowboys before a crowd of 4,150. John French scored two goals and one of the goals, while Kevin Devine, Norm Ferguson, Ray Adams and Alec Tidey contributed single goals. Bob Dudley and Butch Deadmarsh and Derek Sanderson.

The Mariners' checking corps had the Cowboys thoroughly bottled for most of the first two periods. San Diego built up a 4-0 cushion before Calgary rebounded with a pair of quick goals to pulled the margin up to 4-2 after 40 minutes.

The victory moved the Mariners to within one point of second-place Minnesota Fighting Saints in the WHA's Western Division. Houston remains on top spot in the division with 18 points.

At Denver Bob Liddington's first two goals of the season helped the Spurs throttle the Oilers. The triumph was Denver's second consecutive victory after they opened the season with a WHA record eight-game winless streak.

Don Burgrenn scored another pair of goals for the Spurs, while Jim Sherritt and Ralph Backstrom added a goal each. Scoring for Edmonton were Dave Baird, Terry Ravett and Tim Sheehay.

Islanders Can't Find Way to Stop Sabres

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Buffalo coach Floyd Smith says this year's edition of the Sabres is better than last year's, but they all look the same to New York Islanders.

Eight goals, eight penalties and last in the Quebec Junior A Hockey League standings, perhaps suspected they were up against more than they could handle Tuesday night in the persons of visit-place Thetford Mines Pionniers.

If the Coaticooks had any misgivings, they were justified in the way they dispelled in the 23-2 rewiling the Fleurs de Lys delivered to Thetford.

Ferguson Jenkins on Firing Line

New Red Sox Pitcher Preferred Tigers, Expos

BOSTON (AP) — Ferguson Jenkins, the newest member of Boston Red Sox, says he's looking forward to playing with the American League baseball champions next year, but he'd rather be wearing a Detroit Tigers or Montreal Expos uniform.

"I'd like Detroit because it's only 50 miles from my home," Jenkins told a Fenway Park news conference via telephone from his home in Chatham, Ont. "I'd also like to play for Montreal because I'm a Canadian."

But comparing the Red Sox with his former team, Texas Rangers, Jenkins said he would rather be in Boston.

"Boston has a better ball club," he said. "I hope I can get them into the (World) Series."

The 32-year-old Jenkins acquired Monday by the Red Sox from the Rangers for outfielder Juan Beniquez, left-handed pitcher Steve Barr, a minor league player to be named later and an estimated $100,000 in cash.

Jenkins, a 20-game winner seven of his last nine years, is respected by his new teammates.

Red Sox general manager Dick O'Connell said, "Since the World Series ended, Ferguson Johnson and I wanted a pitcher who could give us 250 innings, a guy we could rely on every day. Jenkins was our first shot."

Manager Johnson said he is "darn happy" with the deal.

"Fergie is a class pitcher," he said. "He'll be happy in Boston and he'll be a big winner with us.

Jenkins has started four times in Fenway Park, winning three of those four games. His 25 victories in 1974 included five wins against 1974 World Series winner Oakland A's and three against Boston.

Why was he traded?

Texas owner Brad Corbett said: "We didn't need to trade. I wasn't why. We wanted Beniquez and we wanted Barr."

Asked what he thought about the trade, Jenkins said: "I feel like a checker. If the organization wants to move you, you get moved.

"My professional wants to be traded," he added.

Owens Frowns On Pros

NEW YORK (AP) — Former Olympic champion Jesse Owens said Tuesday professional athletes and federal government should not be involved in Olympic competition.

"When you start talking about using professional athletes, what does that do to the kid of 13 with his Olympic dream? asked the former United States sprint star. "What does it do to the kid in the ghetto, the little cat who lives on hope?"

Owens, now 61 and a successful public relations specialist, made history at the 1936 Olympics at Berlin by winning four gold medals.

Owens was in New York to accept a $10,000 cheque on behalf of the U.S. Olympic Committee from the Canadian Olympic Coin Program, which he has been promoting in network television commercials.

Proceeds from the sale of these silver medals, commemorative of the 1976 Montreal Games, has brought $260,000 into the U.S. Olympic coffers, with a $1 million total expected.

"I hope the government never subsidizes our Olympic program," Owens said. "America doesn't send a team to the Olympics. Americans do. The people who chip in their nickles and dimes, the industries which contribute larger sums—they become just as much a part of the team as the athletes themselves."

Eskimos to Stand Pat

Could Be More Juggling But Faces Are the Same

EDMONTON (CP) — Coach Ray Jauch of Edmonton Eskimos has announced the club's Grey Cup game will be the same—barring emergency—as the one which battered Saskatchewan Roughriders 20-14 Sunday to win the Western Football Conference title.

But he isn't saying who will play quarterback, who will handle the punting or how his offensive and defensive lines will be formed.

Jauch's two quarterbacks, Bruce Lemmerman and Tom Wilkinson, say it doesn't matter who starts as long as the Eskimos end their two-year Grey Cup drought. Lemmerman relieved Wilkinson at the start of the last half Sunday and sparked a comeback victory.

Garry Lefebvre produced a dismal 33-yard punting average against Saskatchewan in his first game since recovering from a broken leg. He was not happy with his performance, which contributed to four no-yards penalties on punts.

Jauch said he expects the average to improve Sunday as Calgary is the Grey Cup rematch with Montreal Alouettes, who downed Edmonton 20-7 in a rain-drenched national final last November in Vancouver.

In case Lefebvre isn't sharp, Ron Estay was working as a punter Monday and Tuesday. Estay is the lere significant eg changes in the line also were significant against Saskatchewan. The defensive line was flopped so tackles Dave Fennell and Tom Lapotka could control the Saskatchewan running attack and two offensive linemen, tackle Joe Worobec and guard Larry Watkins, switched spots to counteract the rushing speed of defensive end George Wells.

Jauch retains the option of shifting the linemen back to the positions they occupied during the regular season, when Edmonton finished first by three points.

Jauch repeated Tuesday what he had said in the dressing room following the victory. He said it made no difference whether Edmonton played Montreal or Ottawa Rough Riders in the final.

"We played Ottawa in the Grey Cup game in 1973 and we played Montreal for the Grey Cup last year.

"We got our butts whipped by both teams."

Royal Winter Fair Horse Show

Belgian Giving Jenkins a Battle

TORONTO (CP) — Eric Wauters is making his mark in both the individual and team standings at the Royal Winter Fair horse show.

Wauters, the lone Belgian rider at the eight-day show, captured the Schickendanz Hill and Hurry Stakes on Tuesday night with his high-jumping, record-holder Pomme d'Api.

The win was Wauters' second at the halfway mark of the show. On Saturday, he won the doubles and trebles stakes, also aboard Pomme d'Api.

With a total of 21 points, Wauters now is in second place in the individual standings behind leader Rodney Jenkins of the United States, who has 25.

Wauters is also runner up in the U.S. in the team standings tied with the four-man French team with 21 points. The U.S. has 8 points.

The Hill and Hurry is a speed class over 13 medium height fences with each cleared obstacle counting two points and a knockdown scoring just one.

Being one of 10 riders to cover the course without knockdown, Wauters had 24 points and the fastest time of 51.9 seconds.

Pomme d'Api, who set the world outdoor pulmaster record with jump of seven feet, six inches this summer, was used by Wauters because his speed mount, Uriel, was injured.

Runner-up was Buddy Brown of the U.S. with Sandsablanc, also with 24 points but 2.2 seconds slower than Wauters. Brown, tied with Wauters in the individual standings, was clocked in 54.2. Daniel Constant of France came third on Vicente Aubinier scoring 24 points and 54.4 sec.

Jan Kowalczyk of Poland was fourth riding Darlet, scoring also the maximum 24 points but in 55.2 seconds. Fifth place went to Christopher Cuyer, France, on Rodeo with 24 points and 55.4 seconds while Robert Ridland of the U.S. took sixth with Southside, 24 points and 56.4 seconds.

Kevin Bacon of Australia is third in the individual standings with 14 points. Ridland follows with 13 points, and Kowalczyk and Constant both have seven.

Canada, which failed to pick up a point Tuesday, still has 19 points in the team standings. Poland has 16 and Australia represented by Baconhas 14. The International horse show continues tonight with the Fault and Out class.

Top Canadian rider Tuesday was Terry Lebel of Oakville, Ont. on Wow with a clean round of 34 points in 59.3 seconds good for eighth place. Jan Miller of Perth, Ont. riding Fenfier was 15th, Moffat Dunlap of Newmarket, Ont. on Cousin Albert was 16th and Jim Elder of Aurora, Ont., with Regardez was 18th and last.

Meanwhile, organizers of the show have added two new classes to its International jumping events in the hope of attracting more spectators.

On Thursday night, a relay event will be featured. In the competition, each rider brings two horses into the ring. The contestant rides one from start to finish, jumps off one and onto the other, then takes the second horse from the finish line back to the starting area.

On Friday night, a jigsaw race will be held. Two riders will enter the ring at once and each is required to put his horse over six of the 12 fences.

One Streak Ends, Another Begins

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Calvin Murphy's streak is over, but Buffalo Braves have started one of their own.

Murphy's National Basketball Association record string of 28 consecutive free throws was finally snapped when he missed the first of two trips during the third period, but he went on to score 13 points and help Houston Rockets to a 95-81 victory over Cleveland Cavaliers on Tuesday night.

The Braves, meanwhile, made good on all 36 of their attempts from the free throw line and beat Los Angeles Lakers 139-106.

In other NBA games, New York Knicks beat Portland Trail Blazers 126-92 and Golden State Warriors defeated New Orleans Jazz 113-106.

In the only American Basketball Association game, Indiana Pacers topped Kentucky Colonels 104-97.

Murphy's basket snapped an 87-87 tie and helped the Rockets end a 15-game road losing streak. His team-mate at guard, Mike Newlin, took scoring honors with 22 points, while Bingo Smith led Cleveland with 21.

The man who who held the record before Murphy was Los Angeles Lakers coach Bill Sharman, and he can be excused if he doesn't look at a free throw line for a while. "Murphy got my free throw record last week and tonight Buffalo goes 36-36. It's been some week."

Bob McAdoo scored 38 points and Gar Heard grabbed 19 rebounds for Buffalo, but the decisive statistic was the free-throw shooting. Los Angeles getting just 13 of 16. Randy Smith had 10 of Buffalo's foul shots and McAdoo eight.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar scored 35 points and grabbed 18 rebounds for the Lakers.

Earl Monroe scored 28 points, but it was the play of a pair of reserves, Neal Walk and Phil Jackson, that made the difference for New York. Walk and newc traded scored 15 points and had nine rebounds, while Jackson had 13 points.

Forwards Rick Barry scored 32 points and Jamaal Wilkes added 21 to pace Golden State's attack. The Warriors scored 18 consecutive points early in the fourth quarter for an 85-76 lead

Off-duty Policemen To Patrol Gardens

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Provincial police said Tuesday they have agreed to a request that off-duty policemen be allowed to patrol London Gardens during Ontario Hockey Association Major Junior A games.

Police said the request for police patrols was made by Howard Darwin, owner of the gardens and of London Knights hockey team. Policing will be strictly on a volunteer basis.

"We'll give it a shot," a police spokesman said. "If two (policemen) are not enough, we'll take another look at it."

The Gardens was the scene of a clash between fans and members of the visiting St. Catharines Black Hawks hockey team last Friday.

Police have said the incident is being investigated and charges may be laid.

If you are still a little nervous about the delivery of your Federal Government cheque, read carefully and rest a little more easily.

We know how important receiving your Family Allowance and Old Age Security cheques can be. Yet we both know with the present postal situation how hard it is to get those cheques through.

However The Department of Supply and Services, with the co-operation of the Post Office, has figured out two solutions. One way or the other, your cheques are on the way.

The ideal solution of course, is the Post Office—with your regular mailman delivering your cheque right to your letter box.

The purpose of the rest of this ad; is to let you know what we'll do if things go wrong.

Temporary Distribution Arrangements. Major network of pick-up points can be activated.

If we can't get your cheques to you by post, frankly, we'll need your help. Pick-up points will be set up in your neighbourhood and newspaper ads will give you explicit details on how to find them and what to do next.

Old Age Security first, Family Allowance second

Because of the unusual situation some of the dates when you usually receive your cheque will be changed. For instance, Old Age Security and other pension cheques should be available at the usual time. November Family Allowance cheques will follow later than usual but will also include the December allowance.

Watch your newspapers carefully for further developments

We need your co-operation and understanding. Due to the exceptional situation neither system is going to be perfect, and there may be individual delays. The important thing is to get the cheques out. And that we are doing.

One way or another, your cheque is on the way.

New Challenge for Miller

The Bay of Quinte Secondary School Boys Basketball League has taken on several new twists for the 1977-78 season. The division of teams according to strengths instead of proximities and the presentation of eight-game double-headers for the public's enjoyment featuring the top six senior clubs in the area, are evidence of this.

With all these changes fans might expect to see a lot of new variations in basketball in general. However, in most high schools, the new basketball format has not severed coaches or teams from their regular systems.

On the other hand, there have been a few very important shuffles at the coaching level, the most significant of which took place at Belleville Collegiate Institute.

Bill Miller, a midget and junior coach at BCI for six years, has taken the reins of the senior squad for the upcoming campaign. Former senior coach Brian MacKenzie will guide the midget team.

Although Miller has guided basketball teams for seven seasons he had one year of experience before coming to BCI; he has never done so at the senior level.

"I'm really looking forward to this," said Miller. "It presents a new challenge."

Challenge is something that must have been missing from Miller's coaching chores as head junior mentor. During a short four seasons he established himself as the most successful junior coach in the Bay of Quinte region and near the top of the list in the province. In six years at BCI that includes his two as midget coach he racked up 250 wins against 111 losses. In percentages, that stands at close to 70. He won the Bay of Quinte Championship three times in junior and once in midget. His squads also earned Central Ontario Secondary School Athletic Association Championships three times — twice in junior. He also has to his credit, according to his rough estimation, in the vicinity of 25 junior basketball tournament championships. The BCI juniors have won, at least once, every basketball tournament they've entered and that includes the Orillia Blackhall event.

"The big factor in producing a winning squad here," explained Miller "is the pride that goes along with the team."

"Basketball teams from BCI have been winning since the days of Red Townsend," he added.

"When a BCI team steps on the court they believe they're going to win," he said, "that really makes it easy on a coach."

Yet Miller's teams, experienced or inexperienced, have always appeared to have a winning attitude regardless of how they stood on paper.

He, somehow, has been able to instill an unquenchable thirst for victory in all of his teams. Some years, he has had relatively little to work with in comparison to area opposition. However, when a Miller team took to the court they managed to find their way to the top half of the scoreboard with an uncanny knack.

"It's the kids," he commented, "anyone I've had a group of players they've always played for the sake of the team. There were never any individuals."

That in itself is a reflection of Miller's ability to communicate with his players. He stresses defence and teamwork and his charges respond without hesitation.

While BCI senior have only two players returning from last year's squad, Miller should be able to keep, as is his goal, the Collegiate's highly respected provincial basketball name intact.

Albert 2 for 3

Albert College basketball teams were two for three in Tuesday Bay of Quinte High School play.

Albert girls' team won a Centrals Secondary Schools Association qualifying game for A schools at Cloyne, defeating North Addington Educational Centre 43-29. Lorna Balber led the way with 18 points.

Playing at home, Albert midget boys dropped a 42-21 decision to Centre Hastings Secondary School but the seniors made up for that by whipping the Madoc-based representative 80-45.

Anthony Stuart threw in 22 points and Ed Chus had 12 to lead Albert's seniors.

SAN JUAN, P.R. Escalera sent the Canadian to the floor with a quick combination of punches. Ward's face was covered with blood when he finally managed to get to his feet after being counted out.

Healthy Wilky Ready And So Is Cutler

If one can believe the scuttlebutt coming out of the Edmonton Eskimos' igloo these days, it looks as though the Western representative in the Grey Cup Final will have something extra going in this showdown with Montreal Alouettes, Sunday.

Eskimos have made a habit of coming into the Grey Cup game with quarterback Tom Wilkinson just a shade short of being a hospital case.

Seems to me he was hurting when Eskimos lost to Ottawa, 22-18, in 1973.

And when the Alouettes handed Ray Jauch's troops a 20-7 setback in the 1974 match up, didn't the binder twine and chewing gum used to patch our Wilky up come apart and let us down? Seemed like the game was over?

This time around, Wilky's health is considered good.

But, tempering our optimism somewhat is word that Bruce Lemmerman, who did such a great job in a relief role as Eskimos got by Saskatchewan's Roughriders, Sunday, has been receiving treatment for a circulatory problem in his pitching arm.

That's an alarming turn of events.

Seems Bruce is handicapped by numbness in the fingers of his right hand. But he says he'll be ready for the Alouettes if he gets the call.

Well, Wilky's fit.

And that's encouraging news for those of us who think the Eskimos are the best thing to happen to Canadian football since the forward pass became legal in 1931.

And to think I thought Argos had some Indian problems many years. But the Toronto club has only one thing going for it now. It's almost sufficient history but the last time the Double Blue won the Grey Cup was with a 21-11 defeat of the Eskimos. That was in 1952. Remember?

Of course, all that setback did was trigger a delayed recharge by Edmonton which missed the final in 1953 but came on strong for three straight National titles, all at the expense of the Alouettes.

In 1954, it was a 26-25 decision. The score in '55 was 34-19, and in '56, 50-37.

Our side challenged Ottawa Rough Riders for the cup in 1960 and came away empty. Ottawa won 16-6.

So, with the reversals in 1973 and 1974, our string of cup losses has reached three. That's enough of that. Our side is overdue.

Even a guy of Johnny Rodgers' ability can have an off day, can't he?

And if we can count that super everything individual out, the nod has to go our way.

The talented toe of Dave Cutler will turn the tide in our favor.

Goalies Duel In Squeaker

The Trumpour and Sons 2-1 win over Reid's Plombing in Belleville Minor Hockey Association Pewee Major house league play on the weekend produced a keen duel between rival goalies Gord Thibault and Al Tompkins.

Thibault got the nod but not before both goalies had put in their share of solid work between the pipes.

Michael Schad and Mark Anglin scored the winners' goals. Reid's marker came off the stick of Larry Genesove.

In other games, Circle TV slapped Belleville Conductors 6-2, Eastern Business Equipment turned back Elliott Motors 7-1, Cole's Jewellers tripped Richard Ellis Printing 5-3 and Moreland Chrysler outscored Kings 6-3.

Bruce Harper fired four Circle TV goals and Pat Collins bit for a pair. Michael Atzing supplied both Conductors' counters, one on a penalty shot. The Equipment squad was led by Patrick Sagriff with three goals. Counting singles were Mark Horwood, Dave Cassan, Robert Nauss and Jamie Johnston. Steve Burkitt was the lone Elliott marksman.

Cole's got its goals from Cord Spurgeon who had two, Craig Coles, Jonathan Gee and Steve Miller. Phil Sedore, Ray Lacas and James McIntosh replied for the Printers. Steve Murray was a two-goal shooter for Moreland. Other scorers for the winners were Barry Bayerich, Dennis Smith, Billy McCall and Ken Perlesk. John McMullen counted both Kings' goals.

Bowes and Cocks Atom Major Selects blanked Duby Painting 4-0 in Pewee Minor play. David Wetherall recorded the shutout. Dwayne Emery scored three times, Jim Thompson twice, and David Wright and Brock Barager, once each.

Andy Palmer's two goals led Penguins past Way's Furniture 4-1. Other goals for Penguins were supplied by Neil Maloney and Brad Milligan. Way's got both its goals from Keith McDonnell.

Two goals by Mark Allen showed the way in Daity Queen's 3-2 squeaker over Legion. Mike Gough also scored for the winners. Mike LaBarge notched both Legion goals.

David Phillips and Allen Thompson each potted a pair of goals in Police Association's 5-2 defeat of Cash and Carry. Rob Masterson fired the other goal for the winners. Looking after the losers' goals were Wayne Peters and Gregory Cahan.

Y's Men's Club had its scoring eye, getting three goals from Gerry Buckley and two each from John Scott and Scott Edwards in 9-4 win vs Mobil Plastic. Jeff Miller and Mike Northey had one each for Y's Men. Danny Shorey paced the losers with two goals while Mark DaSilva and Mark Pitchett shot one each.

Taking care of half his team's output, Don Dafoe rattled in five goals as Richard Ellis Printing doused the Firefighters 9-4. In an Atom Major action, Warren Cavalier was good for two goals with singles for Paul Belch, Kenny Wells, Jim and Glen Graham. Andrew Birchard, with two, Tim Casey and Robert Inrad were the marksmen for Firefighters.

BYBF Selects got shutout goaltending from Louis Labelle in a 1-0 squeaker over Hawkins Cities and Dairy Queen downed Quinte Home Builders 5-2.

Brian Clarey gave BYBF the only goal it needed. Five players shared the Dairy Queen goals. Finding the mark were Michael Hull, Lorne Hinchey, Steven Day, John Burke and Andre Leger. Todd Boulier was a one-man gang for the Builders, getting all three of their goals.

Tourney Teams Sport Impressive Credentials

By TOM GAVEY
Sports Staff

If the Belleville Lions Midget Hockey Tournament goes over as well as convenor Don Gavey hopes it will, it should be one of the hockey highlights of the year. The tournament, being held Friday and Saturday, pits some of the top teams in the province, going for the "A" and "B" championships.

Looking at some of the records of teams entered in the tournament, Burlington is 19-1; Cornwall is 24-6 coming into the tournament; Ottawa is unbeaten, with a 20-3 record, while Whitby is 12-3.

The action begins Friday at 6.30 p.m. at the Dick Ellis Rink and the Memorial Arena. Opening ceremonies will be held at the Memorial Arena.

The tournament, in its fourth year, will have some new wrinkles this time around. One of the new ideas the tournament organizers have come up with is the selection of three stars after every game. Selecting the three standouts will be members of the World Champion 1959 Belleville McFarlands. The seven who will be at the tournament are, Floyd Crawford, Lee Sparks, J. P. Lamirande, Lionel Boily, Wayne Strong, Gordie Bell and Ed Marineau.

DON GAVEY

Several new trophies will be awarded, including hardware for the Most Valuable Forward, Most Valuable Defenceman and the Most Valuable Goalie.

Also, certain rivalries between teams should be evident in the two-day event.

"Verdun and Barrie will be looking to play each other, as they met in the Wrigley last year and have a score to settle", said Gavey.

The tournament has had plenty of help from the Lions Club, especially their reporting secretary, Floyd Bell. Also involved will be Larry Hodge, Ted Soule and Binky Moynes, who will take care of referees.

Bob Sanby of McDonald's Family Restaurant is providing a lunch for the Verdun team, which will arrive early in Belleville on Friday.

Admission for Friday night is $1; the same for Saturday, when 18 games will be played, all at Memorial.

The "A" Championship game will be played at 8.30 p.m. at the Memorial on Saturday, with the "B" Championship at 7 p.m.

"I think Burlington and Cornwall or Ottawa should be the teams to beat on the "A" side, while Belleville and Verdun will be strong in the "B" side" added Gavey.

Many of the teams participating are also strong Wrigley contenders, which gives the tournament double meaning.

"I can't really say who the tournament winners will be, but I hope financially it is the Lions Club, since this money will go to the AHC Industries, Retarded Olympics and elsewhere," added Gavey.

No Room at Top

Belleville Yardmen created a three-way points tie for first place in the Gas House Hockey League standings with a 5-3 defeat of Jim's Flamin' Tuesday night at Memorial Arena.

It was Yardmen's sixth win against two setbacks and gave them 12 points, the same total as Bob's Sports and Chuckwagon Foods. Bob's has the inside track since the team has played one game fewer than the other co-leaders.

A pair of goals by Pat Mullins sparked Yardmen who got one each from Terry Rappell, Steve Boardman and Keith Brooks. Dan Lupenette was in on two of the scoring plays.

Jim's goals were supplied by Stephen LaMorre, Terry Trice and Jerry Chapman.

In other games, Crostellis Carpets secured its second victory of the season downing wireless Procter and Gamble 10-2 while Bayview Orchards turned back Murray's Food Market 6-1.

Three players had big nights in the Constellation explosion. Dave Murray collected seven points on two goals and five helpers; Ron Mitchell was good for a goal and five assists while Bill Leitch was top marksman with three counters and he added two assists. Rounding out the scoring were Dale Caul, Keith McConnell, Dick Spencer and Gord Verfeift with one goal each.

Replying for the outgunned losers were Mark Bradshaw and Dave Woods.

George Jacklin's four-point performance led Bayview. He scored twice and helped set up another pair. Hyalie Bryant was another two-goal shooter with one each for Keith Bertrand and Van Sorten. Dave Skelton and Hugh Holmes each drew three assists.

Mike Lynch ruined Ken Genereaux bid for a shutout, combining with Ken Forsythe on Murray's only scoring play.

Rent Legislation Will Be Permanent

TORONTO (CP) — Liberal Leader Robert Nixon said Tuesday that Ontario's rent review legislation would be permanent.

He said anyone who believes the legislation will be "ploughed off with the resurgence of free-enterprise system" is wrong.

The Liberal leader was commenting during debate in the legislature on second reading of the rent review legislation.

The government has set a two-year limit on the rent review legislation which was introduced earlier in the session.

The legislation restricts rent increases to a maximum of eight per cent for the period between last July 29 and Aug. 1, 1976.

Rent review boards will be established to investigate complaints by landlords and tenants. They will have the power to rescind unjustified increases.

Mr. Nixon said he regrets rent control will be needed on a permanent basis but added it is a situation with the legislature must accept.

Another future and permanent reality Ontario must face is its responsibility to use public funds and more public initiative to meet the growing housing crisis.

He said the private sector has had ample opportunity in recent years to utilize the wide variety of public programs, yet the government is forced to resort to legislation to guarantee fair rents.

Anti-inflation Board Outlines Position

OTTAWA (CP) — After a month in existence, the anti-inflation board Tuesday released its first official statement on how it will interpret the selective fixed wage and price controls.

The "interim compensation bulletin" said various salary increases agreed to by a company—in a union contract or through revision of pay scales—will be exempt from the anti-inflation program as long as there is evidence they were set prior to Oct. 14, when the program was imposed. Pay increases are generally limited to 10 per cent in the first year.

A board spokesman said the statement is the first in what will be a series of interpretative bulletins dealing with questions raised by companies, unions and others.

He said the bulletins are to indicate how the board will act in monitoring the program once the enabling legislation, now before the Commons, is passed.

The board is responsible for deciding when wage and price increases exceed the allowable limits. An administrator would then be responsible for ordering rollbacks or imposing penalties.

The bulletin said many companies decide at one point in the year to increase salaries even though the increases may not apply to employees until the anniversary of the employee's hiring date.

Such increases will be exempt from the program provided they were decided upon prior to Oct. 14, as long as the date on which they take effect is no later than Oct. 13, 1976.

As previously announced, the program does not apply to collective agreements entered into prior to Oct. 14.

The board said the exemption will apply where the agreements were signed and ratified prior to that date, signed before Oct. 14 and ratified later or where the board is satisfied that oral agreement was made prior to Oct. 13 and was signed and ratified subsequently.

Tobacco Growers Dispute Continues

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario agriculture ministry is trying to arrange a meeting this week to settle a dispute between tobacco growers and buyers, Agriculture Minister William Newman said Tuesday.

Liberal Leader Robert Nixon asked Mr. Newman during question period what the ministry planned to do about the closing of the auction sales Monday which he said jeopardizes Ontario's $200-million tobacco crop.

Mr. Newman said the ministry has asked the farm products marketing board to arrange a meeting between the flue-cured tobacco marketing board and the buyers later this week.

The minister said the bids on tobacco now are lower than agreed upon earlier. He said the growers closed down sales as a result on Monday.

The growers have asked the ministry to arrange a meeting with the buyers he added.

Supports Spending Curbs

TORONTO (CP) — The report of a committee investigating Ontario government spending contains some "hard-noned" recommendations which the government intends to take seriously, Treasurer Darcy McKeough said Tuesday.

In a speech to the Canadian section of the Society of Chemical Industry, Mr. McKeough said the committee spent five months studying government spending to write the report, which will be tabled in the legislature Thursday.

The treasurer said the province already had embarked on a program of belt-tightening, "which is by no means over yet."

He said that within the last three weeks the government has taken major steps to help control inflation.

The government has reduced Ontario Hydro's planned levels of borrowing for the next year. It has extended the freeze on the civil service complement for another year and is looking for ways of making further reductions, Mr. McKeough said.

Canadian Insurance Bureau President Says Two-way Dialogue with Ottawa Necessary

TORONTO (CP) — The first president of the Insurance Bureau of Canada says if the industry acts in a positive way "governments will not have reason to confiscate our business."

Daniel Damov said in an interview the bureau, which has 180 member companies, feels it must place greater emphasis on its role of improving industry standards and practices while maintaining a two-way dialogue with governments and the public.

Government run insurance companies operate in Saskatchewan, Manitoba and British Columbia.

Mr. Damov, 48, is the first full-time spokesman for the bureau which previously depended on its elected chairman, serving voluntarily, to handle many of the bureau's functions.

He said one of the major tasks facing the industry is "to establish a level of profitability that will generate the funds required to increase capacity" to meet the needs of the growing Canadian insurance market.

The industry suffered a record $300-million underwriting loss last year.

Double-digit inflation, on top of an inadequate premium base, has pushed up the costs of settling claims, he said, adding this in turn has led to hefty premium increases for many categories in many parts of Canada, especially in auto and property insurance.

He suggested that moves this year by some companies to curtail operations in some areas should help bring stability to the marketplace.

In addition to the effects of inflation and the tightening market, the growing expectation by consumers for higher insurance entitlements will help drive premium costs upwards, he said.

"Briefly, governments and the public must realize that a rising level of claims expectations requires a rising level of premiums."

The bureau does not set rates but its statistical division collects the figures used by most companies in setting rates.

Mr. Damov, who was born in Bulgaria and educated in law at the University of Paris, was chosen as bureau president after an eight-month search by the bureau.

He is a bureau director, an executive with Travelers of Canada, Toronto and a director of the Insurance Advisory Organization and a past president of the Canadian Underwriters Association.

First Women's Credit Bureau Now Opened

TORONTO (CP) — The first women face in obtaining credit. The idea for the credit union originated three years ago from Woman's Place, a centre for feminists in Toronto.

Ms. Masters said: "Credit unions are more in line with feminist principles than banks. Each credit union member has one vote, regardless of the amount of money deposited, therefore no one person can gain control."

She said that legal requirements of the Ontario government and the Ontario Credit Union League, which also audit the credit union's books, will ensure the security of a woman's money.

To join, a woman must open a minimum $5 account. This will entitle her to apply for loans, vote and run for office at annual meetings.

The founding group consists of 30 members, all of whom plan to deposit monies when the office opens Thursday morning.

Ms. Masters said that in the initial stage, the office will be open "only one day a week — Thursday from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m."

She said that on all loans, a 15-per-cent-per-annum interest will be charged—one per cent a month.

Ms. Masters assured women their husband's signature would not be required to obtain a loan.

Resigns From Egg Market Board

TORONTO (CP) — George Lindblad of Guelph, Ont., resigned Tuesday from the Ontario Egg Producers' Marketing Board after it was reported that he is one of six directors of the board who violated its quota regulations.

Mr. Lindblad told an egg producers' meeting Tuesday that the report by board inspector "destroys my integrity and credibility in the eyes of those who elected me."

The meeting called for the resignation of Joe Hudson of Lyn, Ont., another director named in the report.

However, there was a more lenient attitude toward the other four directors as they were only marginally over quota.

Mr. Hudson said he will not resign because unlike the other directors named in the allegations, he broke the rules openly and did not participate in board cases judging quota violations.

BP Orders Higher Gas Price

UNIONVILLE, Ont. (CP) — BP Canada Ltd.* has told a gas station operator to raise his gasoline price by more than the 3.4 cents a gallon suggested by the provincial government, the operator's lawyer said Tuesday.

Ian Angus said that a BP representative told his client to raise the price of his regular gas to 77.9 cents from 69.9 cents a gallon, effective Sunday.

After he questioned the representative on behalf of his client, Mr. Angus said an order lowering the price to 75.9 cents a gallon was received by his client.

Energy Minister Dennis Timbrell has said a new price freeze might be imposed if an excessive number of operators raise their prices above the suggested increase.

David Deverell, BP vice-president of marketing, said owners have been notified company-ordered price increases are not binding.

Mr. Angus said the government's position is unclear and operators do not know whether they will be prosecuted if their prices are above the guideline or if the gas freeze will be reimposed.

Unionville is about five miles north of Toronto.

Indonesian Capital Runs Out of Space

JAKARTA, (Reuter) — Jakarta, the Indonesian capital, with a population of around five million and a 2.4 per cent annual birth rate, is running out of space for both the living and the dead.

The living, some crowded in lean-to huts beside canals and rivers, have their problems. But the dead present a more immediate crisis in Indonesia's steamy tropical heat.

Added to the climate are sensitive religious attitudes to burial procedures in this predominantly Moslem country.

Jakarta Gov. Ali Sadikin suggested that Moslem dead be cremated to ease pressure on the city's 27 cemeteries, which cover more than 540 acres and in some cases already have older, unused plots being used for the second time.

But the cremation proposal brought immediate rejection from shocked Moslem leaders on religious grounds.

The leaders pointed out that under Islamic teaching man originates from the earth and must therefore return to it.

Several Moslem leaders have said any alternative to cremation would be acceptable, suggesting burial at sea or in uninhabited, mountainous areas.

Civic officials argued that if something is not done, up to 70 per cent of the city will be covered with cemeteries by the year 2000.

In addition to recycling old grave sites, many of the poorer dead are buried vertically to save space and headstones are erected only inches apart.

But as the argument continues, the death rate is putting a severe strain on the city's fleet of 14 hearses, which are averaging about seven journeys a day.

Man Charged

TORONTO (CP) — Patrolling policemen ran to the rear of a suburban building when they heard glass breaking. They found a man breaking open a piggy bank after an apartment window had been forced. John Thomas was charged with breaking and entering.

Likes Bikes

NEW YORK (AP) — Sgt. Al Toefield, director of the New York City police department's youth dialogue program, enjoys bicycle riding. He is a co-director of the annual Pepsi-Cola Bicycle Marathon, which occurs in Central Park during the May 30 Memorial Day weekend and attracts about 10,000 cyclists including members of his youth program.

BUILD THAT DREAM HOME NOW - THE SELF-HELP WAY

Over the past 11 years, Rollins Lumber have been perfecting the Self-Help Home Plan to help families on a budget build a home of their own. A steadily increasing number of home buyers are finding that Self-Help is the answer, and last year about 80 Quinte area people used the plan build their dream home.

Savings of $5,000 to $8,000 can be realized on the total cost of construction by Rollins Lumbers' modern building methods and owner participation in finishing the home's interior. Quite simply, you have the opportunity to substitute labor for cash to defray expensive installation charges.

Rollins Lumber has a limited number of approved building lots available now on which they will frame in your home and ready it for interior finishing before chilly winter weather.

There's nothing to stop you now.

MORRIS — In loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother, Mrs. Mary Adelle Morris who passed away on November 19, 1974.
God bless her memory dearest mother
Her life was there hard to climb,
To the closed her weary eyelids
And whispered "Peace by thine."
Every in the heart and home of God,
By the valley of rest we lean,
Sweet time, some day, we know not when.
We will meet our loved one there.

HOWARD — In loving memory of a dear father, Harry Howard who passed away Nov. 18, 1965.
Sad memories each day we miss him,
Friends may think the wound is healed,
But they little know the pain
Lying awake in the silent night
Memories unbidden by son, Bob, daughter-in-law Dorothy and grandchild Robert.

Snails Are Escargone

THREE BRIDGES, England (CP) — Christopher Hudson had signed a 10-week contract to show his giant beer-drinking snails in a club. But sadly, two snails of his three were quite hit the big time. Mr. Hudson crushed them when he fell as he got off a train. The surviving snail, slaped his first beer the next day. "He's on the mend," said Mr. Hudson.

Expensive Golf

BLETCHLEY, England (CP) — Not every golf enthusiast can boast a hole-in-one, as residents living near a cow pasture in this town have discovered. Off-target golfers have landed the Bletchley council a £2,000 bill for golf balls that have smashed flower beds and windows and damaged roof tiles.

Sore Tendons Need Heat Treatment

By GEORGE C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My Achilles tendons got sore when I started playing basketball last October. I finally quit playing for the summer, but I play nine holes of golf every day. The Achilles are still sore and my doctor says there is no cure only relief with muscle relaxants.

I am 67, but I do not like the idea of sore tendons the rest of my life. Is there any hope at all for me?—V.W.

This is the tendon which extends from the calf to the heel bone, and it comes under great strain in running and jumping. If you stand on your tiptoes, you will feel the Achilles tendon in action. It is no coincidence that this is the tendon referred to when we speak of athletes whose "legs have gone."

It is also the tendon most subject to tears. Luckily this did not happen to you or you would not now be sipping nine holes of golf a day. Indeed, you would be fortunate to be walking about.

I agree with your doctor. There is little to be done beyond application of heat and use of the muscle relaxants. With winter arriving in your part of the country, this might be a good time to try something you don't even mention that is, rest.

Resting the overworked tendons could have you in prime good shape for next summer.

Your letter will be useful to ening to many senior citizens who feel that 65 is a magic number that forebode a sedentary life. However after ears many exercises not quite as taxing as basketball which are more suitable for a person of 67. I suggest you shop around for one.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have recently had mononucleosis. I geographic tongue some sort of after-effect of this? I am considered a very allergic person. Can this be related to the tongue problem?—R.S.

Mononucleosis could have been an indirect cause, but there are so many other possibilities it is difficult to pinpoint one.

The tongue surfaces consists papillae. For some reason these structures can enlarge unevenly causing the patterns we refer to Irritants such as pipe, cigar or cigarette smoke or spicy foods can cause this, and the tongue can change from time to time.

It is common in any ailment accompanied by a fever, as with your mononucleosis. In this it can be related to a general dehydration of the body as well as to changes in diet during your illness. Allergic reactions to certain foods can be involved.

The tongue normally is a healthy pinkish color. Inspection of the tongue is an important office procedure because it can mirror specific disorders, including glossitis (tongue inflammation). The strawberry tongue is seen with scarlet fever, the smooth red tongue with pernicious anemia, the beefy, red tongue with certain vitamin deficiencies.

Some liquid diets eliminate the chewing action that normally keeps the tongue cleaned and this can result in visible changes.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have read where some doctors say that a girl should be bred early as 35. Can a woman begin early as 35 or less and not be aware of it? Can you still have regular menstrual periods at the beginning and still be starting your change?

I always thought menopause meant discontinuing menstruation as dieting at the end of child-bearing years.—Mrs. C.D.

Yes to all your questions. Some women shut off like a water tap. Others lose ovarian function (menstruation) gradually over years without ever realizing it is happening. More commonly, menstrual cycles become farther and farther apart for a few months before stopping ,together.

Menopause can begin as early as 35 and as late as the mid-50s.

Hermit Winters In Lonely Burrow

TEULON, Man. (CP) — Each year, as winter settles into Manitoba's prairies, Paul Wuketiewitz retires to his burrow and experiences a solitude almost as deep as death itself.

Already cut off from normal contact with the modern world, the 76-year-old hermit will withdraws even deeper into himself as the cold weather approaches.

He spends the winter in a musty underground hideaway with his five or six cats. An old oil drum converted into a make-shift stove provides heat. Straw serves as a carpet. Logs, planks and scraps of wood support a roof of straw, manure and earth.

Every few weeks he ventures into this community about 20 miles north of Winnipeg to pick up his pension cheque or replenish a few simple supplies.

"It's hard in the winter," he says in his broken English. "All around, snow. Have to dig away."

Despite the obvious disadvantages of living in a burrow, Mr. Wuketiewitz proclaims his home "good enough for me" and seems genuinely perplexed that anyone, especially a reporter, would be interested in talking to him.

He offers little insight into the reasons for his spartan and aloof lifestyle.

Mr. Wuketiewitz came to Canada from Vienna in 1927 and travelled around the country in farmers' work for more than a decade. The years of isolation began when he bought a small tract of land near Teulon in 1929.

Five years ago, on New Year's Day, his small shanty burned down when a stovepipe overheated. His neighbors offered to help but he refused. He waited out the winter in a lean-to and started digging a new home as soon as spring softened the ground.

In the summers, he plants a small garden of potatoes, carrots and lettuce and lives off this produce, supplemented by fish, oatmeal, condensed milk and a little canned, food.

His neighbors sometimes see him heading to the store or the mailbox pedalling an old bicycle with cloth wrappings for a tire. After 15 years, they still wonder about the man they call Paul Bogs and what he does alone in the long winter hours alone in a home that is little more than a den.

Mr. Wuketiewitz's own answer to that question is usually direct and totally unintelligible to anyone but himself.

"Cut my wood, eat my food," he mutters. "Nothing is doing here."

Capital Punishment Debate Shaping Up

OTTAWA (CP) — The government asked the Commons Tuesday to clear the decks for what is expected to be a major post-Christmas row over capital punishment.

The statement came from Justice Minister Ron Basford as MPs went to work on a series of Criminal Code amendments introduced in July.

Mr. Basford said the changes, affecting rape, appeal, impaired driving and bail, should be passed quickly to make way for the post-Christmas debate on the death penalty.

The government plans to introduce so-called "peace and security" legislation that would abolish hanging while lengthening murder sentences, and tightening parole restrictions.

Before doing so, it wants MPs dispose of the bill now before the Commons. It is awaiting second reading, approval in principle.

Opposition critics indicated Tuesday they would not block the package but Progressive Conservative critic Elton Woolliams said he will urge some changes.

The bill is expected to get second reading before the end of the week and go to the Commons Justice committee for detailed study. It must be reported back to the full House later for third reading and be last granted Senate approval and royal assent before the coming law.

Mr. Woolliams said he objects to some modifications planned in existing rape laws.

He singled out a change that would give a judge from his current obligation to advise the victim of the victim's evidence is insufficient for a conviction unless the jury concurs are certain beyond doubt of guilt.

"Rape is the ultimate charge to bring and a very hard charge to defend," said Mr. Woolliams, an experienced trial lawyer. "It's very dangerous to convict without corroboration."

He also questioned restrictions the package would place on the freedom defence lawyers have in questioning victims about their sexual habits and past.

"Never forget that in law a prostitute can be raped," he said. "It's all a matter of consent."

Another change would prevent appeal courts from reversing acquittals rendered by lower court juries, as happened in the case of Montreal abortionist Henry Morgentaler. The bill would restrict appeal courts to ordering a new trial when doubtful about a jury verdict.

It would also be possible to make random roadside checks for impaired drivers. At present, they are supposed to have "reasonable grounds" before stopping a driver and demanding that he take a breath test.

A further change would put the onus on repeated sex offenders to convince courts that they should get bail.

Bomb Kills Two

LONDON (AP) — A bomb packed with ball bearings, nuts and bolts was buried through the window of an exclusive restaurant crowded with diners in London, killing a man and a woman and injuring 17 others.

Police said the three-pound a-11-personnel device was tossed into Walton's restaurant, in the fashionable Chelsea district, from a speeding car Tuesday night. There were about 70 diners in the restaurant at the time, and there was no warning.

It was the 14th terrorist bombing in the London area in three months and raised the toll to eight dead and nearly 300 injured. The bombings are blamed on the Irish Republican Army, which has been fighting a guerilla war to oust Britain from Northern Ireland.

The most recent attacks have all been aimed at the homes and haunts of London's rich and famous. Two other restaurants in Mayfair were among previous targets.

Police said the dead man was Theodore Williams, a 49-year-old Londoner. The woman killed was not immediately named.

Several foreigners were thought to be among the injured, but the only one identified was Barbara Maitlwet, 20, of New York City, who was treated at a hospital for an ear injury and discharged.

Marchers Ordered To Break Camp

RABAT, Morocco (AP) — Morocco's 350,000 invaders of the Spanish Sahara were ordered to break camp today and prepare to return home following the Spanish parliament's approval of legislation paving the way for transfer of the territory to Morocco and Mauritania.

Military sources said the first convoys of the civilian volunteers who began arriving in the southern desert four weeks ago would leave Tarfaya, their base north of the border, today or Thursday.

King Hassan in a broadcast Monday said the march ended in triumph.

The Cortes, Spain's parliament, voted 345 to 4 Tuesday to approve a decolonization law ending Spanish rule in the Sahara on Feb. 28, 1976. Spain's ambassador to the United Nations, Jaime de Pinies, said in New York that his government agreed to set up an interim administration in the colony with auxiliary governors from Morocco and Mauritania.

The agreement left Algeria and the Saharan independence movement it backed, the Polisario Front, out in the cold. The UN representative of the Front, Amin Bashir, predicted "a bloody war which would have disastrous consequences on our region."

Evidence Reveals FBI Tried to Destroy Martin Luther King's Role in Society

WASHINGTON (AP) — Evidence made public by the Senate intelligence committee shows that the FBI conducted a 9-year campaign to destroy Martin Luther King Jr. as a leader of the civil-rights movement.

Evidence released Tuesday shows FBI bugging of King's hotel room, a blackmail attempt which King interpreted as a suggestion that he kill himself shortly before he was to receive the Nobel Peace Prize, and an effort to find and promote a replacement for King as a "national Negro leader."

High-ranking FBI officials were scheduled to appear before the committee today to be questioned about the evidence.

Committee lawyers say the FBI campaign against King also included an unsuccessful 1964 effort to prevent King from meeting Pope Paul; a warning to then-New York governor Nelson Rockefeller not to meet King, and an attempt to convince a major university which had awarded an honorary degree to then-FBI director J. Edgar Hoover not to make a similar presentation to King.

Chief counsels F. A. O. Schwarz and Curtis Smothers told the committee the campaign began with a January, 1962, memo in which Hoover concluded that King was "no good." The campaign gained momentum after the August, 1963, civil-rights march on Washington despite a determination by agents just prior to the march that the Communist party had failed in its efforts to infiltrate the movement lead by King, the lawyers said.

At a December, 1963, meeting, FBI officials discussed 21 different tactics for dealing with King, including "the possibility of placing a good-looking female plant in King's office," staff lawyers said.

One month later the first of 16 electronic bugs and eight wiretaps on King was installed, the lawyers said.

Thirty-four days before King was to receive the 1964 Nobel Peace Prize, his wife received an anonymous letter sent by the FBI and accompanied by a tape picked up by one of the bureau's bugs, Schwarz said. The letter read in part:

"King, there is only one thing left for you to do. You know what it is. You have just 34 days in which to do (it). You are done. There is but one way out for you."

Staff members refused to describe the contents of the tape except to say that it contained material embarrassing to King. Smothers said the idea behind the letter was that the FBI had enough material to discredit King should he accept the Nobel prize.

Mondale said King interpreted the letter to be a suggestion that he commit suicide.

Restraint Opponents Find Common Ground

OTTAWA (CP) — Supporters and opponents of the federal anti-inflation program found a common ground Tuesday when they joined forces in attacking government spending.

Two business groups joined the Canadian Labor Congress (CLC) in ciling increased government expenditures as a major contributor to inflation. A third business group, the Canadian Construction Association (CCA), said much of the increased cost of housing has resulted from having several levels of government approve plans.

The groups appeared before four separate meetings of the Commons finance committee, which is dealing with the legislation to establish selective wage and price controls. The measures took effect Oct. 14 but need parliamentary approval to become law.

The construction association, the Canadian Chamber of Commerce and the Canadian Federation of Independent Businessmen expressed general suport for the program, while the CLC continued to attack the measures.

The CLC demanded that the government withdraw the legislation or face a battle with the two million CLC members.

Shirley Carr, CLC executive vice-president, cited the anti-inflation board's initial budget of $5 million for 5½ months as an example of wasteful government spending.

A spokesman for the Independent Business Federation said the government's "incredible bureaucracy and the high-paid civil service" casts doubt on Ottawa's credibility in fighting inflation.

The federation, representing 30,000 small and medium-sized businesses, said the government should roll back the $6,000 salary raises given some deputy ministers shortly before the controls were introduced, imposing maximum increases of $2,400 annually. The government also should reduce the size of the civil service and take a tougher line on unemployment insurance paymentls, the federation said.

Representatives of the Chamber of Commerce, meanwhile, refused to tell committee members which programs should be cut. That decision is up to the MPs, they said.

The chamber, which represents 125,000 businesses of all sizes, said it supports the program "in the national interest" although its own members will suffer financially as a result.

The wage increases of eight to 12 per cent allowed under the program will allow the lower and average-paid workers to stay ahead of inflation, the chamber said.

Meanwhile, Finance Minister Donald Macdonald said his department has not tried to forecast the 1976 inflation rate because it might be influenced by factors beyond the government's control.

He had been questioned in the Commons about a CBC television report which said confidential finance department forecasts show the program will have little effect on inflation next year.

The program is aimed at reducing the 1976 inflation rate to about eight per cent, from its current pace of about 10 per cent. The CBC report said department forecasts showed a 13-per-cent inflation rate for 1976.

Literary Battle Continues

OTTAWA (CP) — A feud started 12 years ago between John Diefenbaker and writer Peter C. Newman, till now a battle on the bookshelves, has boiled over into a boardroom fight that has resulted in the departure of Mr. Newman from the company publishing the Diefenbaker memoirs.

The feud also is continuing in the bookshops with a sales competition between the new Diefenbaker memoirs and a book by Mr. Newman about big businessmen—The Canadian Establishment.

With all eyes focussed on the sales battle, the boardroom struggle went almost unnoticed.

The stage for the book-selling war was set in 1963 when Mr. Newman wrote Renegade in Power, a critical look at Mr. Diefenbaker's years as prime minister.

Latest reports show Mr. Newman ahead in the current bookshelf battle. But supporters of Mr. Diefenbaker are quick to point out that only 40,000 copies of his book were printed on the first run and most stores are sold out. Mr. Newman's book had a first run of 75,000 and copies are generally still in stock.

Mr. Newman had his book published by McClelland and Stewart in Toronto. At the same time, he was a director of MacMillan and Co., publisher of Mr. Diefenbaker's book. And two weeks ago, he published a somewhat critical review of the Diefenbaker book in Maclean's.

Exactly what happened after that is a boardroom secret, but it was learned Tuesday that Mr. Newman no longer is a director of MacMillan. Company official, however, refused to confirm the reports.

One version said Mr. Newman was asked to resign. Another said he offered his resignation. Still another said Mr. Diefenbaker insisted on it.

Mr. Diefenbaker has denied the latter suggestion.

"I never play a part in anything like that."

He said that when he signed an agreement with MacMillan he didn't know Mr. Newman was a director. "But it wouldn't have made any difference."

"If he is no longer a director I had nothing to do with it."

Mr. Newman, autographing books in Calgary, couldn't be reached for comment.

Mackasey Denies Secret Postal Talks Involved in Strike

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A confusing series of statements in the Commons Wednesday by Postmaster-General Bryce Mackasey gave the impression that secret negotiations are underway between the post offices and striking postal workers.

But the minister backed off from his statement when questioned by reporters. While conceding he had left the impression that there were negotiations going on behind the scenes, he said "this is not true."

Mr. Mackasey's statement in the House came in reply to a question from Leo Boudreault, New Democratic leader, concerning the stand the office position on certain wage issues.

He replied that Mr. Broadbent was "simply prolonging the strike unnecessarily," adding that there were "many things that are going on behind the scenes" and that "there are negotiations under way, they were a possibility last long at third reading, and I'm sure you wanted stay the hell out of it."

The strike by the 22,000-member Canadian Union of Postal Workers (CUPW) began Oct. 30.

Negotiations broke off Nov. 6 and since that time, Mr. Mackasey has maintained the government will not move on its final offer of $1.70 an hour over 30 months.

Postal workers have been seeking a $2.21 increase over 27 months as well as a work week shortened to 35 hours from 40 and a cost-of-living clause. The offer was for four work workers is $4.50.

Earlier Wednesday, the Canadian Labor Congress (CLC) pledged moral and financial support behind the CUPW and backed a Broadbent-inspired suggestion earlier this week that a special mediator be appointed to attempt to resolve the strike.

"We are extremely surprised and disappointed by the refusal of Prime Minister Trudeau and Postmaster-General Bryce Mackasey to accept the intervention," CLC vice-president Shirley Carr said in a statement.

She told a news conference that the CUPW had approached the two-million-member CLC for financial aid and that appeals have gone out to CLC affiliates across the country.

The CUPW will begin paying its members $40 a week in strike benefits this Friday from money borrowed from an undisclosed source.

Stanfield Threatens To Buck Guidelines Over Time Dispute

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield Wednesday night drew the line against the federal anti-inflation program, threatening to fight it in Parliament unless it is shortened to an 18-month time limit.

In a speech to the National Press Club, he said he based his stand on his position at a meeting of the 95-member Progressive Conservative caucus earlier in the day.

Only two days earlier, the Conservatives joined the Liberals to crush a New Democratic Party motion condemning the controls by vote of 183 to 19. Mr. Stanfield had said in debate on the NDP motion that it was "premature and clearly destructive."

Wednesday, he said his party's decision to oppose the legislation in its current form may weaken public acceptance of any pay and price restraints.

But he said the Conservatives cannot allow "patriotic consideration" to stand in the way of what he regards as a principle—the fear that "open-ended controls will lead to permanent controls."

If the government pushes through its proposed three-year program, the Conservatives will stop short of supporting any defiance of the selected wages and price controls with guides by organized labor, he said.

The Canadian Labor Congress (CLC), representing 2 million workers, has promised to fight the controls program in every legal way possible. But the CLC has never specified whether it will defy the controls by strikes and back-door ways.

Finance minister Donald Macdonald, questioned earlier in the day, said the government will consider any proposed amendment to shorter controls imposed Oct. 14.

But he added: "we think the length of the program is the right length."

A strong stand by Mr. Stanfield comes only days before the commons finance committee is to rap up its detailed study of the anti-inflation program.

The bill is to be referred back to Parliament Friday. Third reading debate will start Tuesday or Wednesday.

Mr. Stanfield acknowledged he has been advocating control since 1973, and that it was a major election plank in his losing election campaign last year.

But he said he had wanted a 90-day freeze followed by flexible controls for 18 months to two years.

Builders Donate $3,600

United Way Hits 59 Per Cent of Goal

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

Belleville's United Way campaign total reached $90,000 Wednesday after a $3,600 donation made during a meeting of the Quinte Home Builders' Association.

Stanley Structures Ltd. donated 5,000 building blocks to be sold primarily to association members with the total revenue bound for the United Way.

Later in the evening at a mini auction, local electrical contractor Albert Herlock paid $11 for two gold-painted blocks that could be used as book ends. The auction take was also kicked into the United Way kitty.

Gord Mullin, executive director of the United Community Services — administrative body of the fund raising campaign — said while the building block donation, the campaign has realized the new mark of $146,000 goal.

He said by the same date last year, the campaign had reached only 50 per cent of its goal.

The campaign is designed to bring under one roof, all the fund collecting for 15 city agencies.

Mr. Mullin, during an interview following the meeting, said it is difficult to predict whether the campaign will reach its goal and that "the mail strike is hurting fund collections.

"But, in spite of the mail strike, we compare favorably with last year's performance," he said.

In several terms, Mr. Mullin attributed the successful campaign as one of the United Way's success stories this year.

"There are 300 volunteers working on the residential section — 100 more than last year — and the $11,000 goal has already been surpassed by $800," he said.

Mr. Mullin had high praise for the canvassers and all the volunteers connected with the 15 agencies saying "at even the province's minimum wage, we couldn't afford the money to pay — we couldn't afford the money to pay for 100,000 volunteer hours given during the course of a year."

Asked about the goal, he said the over all campaign at some $180,000 from all agencies combined has been "trimmed of at all the fat."

"If we don't reach our goal, we'll be cutting muscle and service will be lost in each of the agencies," he said.

October's Price Index Rises Sharply in Canada

OTTAWA (CP) — Halifax faced the sharpest increase in the cost of living in October as the consumer price index rose 2.1 per cent from September, Statistics Canada reported Wednesday.

The Halifax price performance was in St. John's, Nfld., and Saint John, N.B., where the index rose four-tenths of one per cent from September.

The largest rise in prices over the previous year was in Winnipeg, where the index rose 11.9 per cent from October, 1974. The smallest 12-month increase was in Toronto at 9.8 per cent.

The agency's 16-city survey measures price changes within cities, but does not show where prices are the highest or lowest. Prices were up in all cities.

On a national basis, the October index jumped sharply by nine-tenths of one per cent from September, and was up 10.6 per cent from a year earlier.

The national October jump was attributed mainly to increased prices for food, which had declined in September, and the increased cost of housing, partly due to higher residential property taxes. The agency said these were the main factors in the price rises for most of the cities surveyed.

In addition, the rise in local transit fares to 50 cents a ticket from 35 cents in Halifax was a factor in that city, where the index was up nine-tenths of one per cent from the previous month and 11.3 per cent from a year earlier.

The 13-month rise was 11.5 per cent in Halifax and Saint John, and 11.2 per cent in St. John's.

The October rise was nine-tenths of one per cent in Winnipeg and six-tenths of one per cent in Toronto.

Historical Society Will Consider Research For Centennial Project

By AL ZARAS
Staff Reporter

The Hastings County Historical Society will consider doing the research for any project that is suggested as part of Belleville's 1976 centennial year says its president Judia Carty.

She was reacting to a suggestion by Belleville Centennial Committee chairman Lawrence Kelly, who spoke to society members Wednesday.

Mr. Kelly said many city groups would be interested in some form of centennial activity, but may not have the skill to do the necessary research.

"I think that the special qualities of the historical society as a research group could be of value," he said.

The society's president said any such research project would depend on several factors — interest of society members, and a clear definition of the type of research required.

Research for projects outside the needs of Glanmore House, the county's museum, would also be of internal benefit to the society, Mrs. Carty said.

Many of the 200 members outside the 13 directors have done little work, and participated irregularly in society affairs. Many, she said, have been "ticked off" with the emphasis placed by the society on the county museum.

Such research could serve to rekindle interest in the society and involve more members.

Mrs. Carty said Wednesday that the present board has been considering reassessing its priorities and placing more importance on the society as a whole.

Glanmore House affairs would be handled by a special subcommittee set up specifically to look after the county's museum she said. Such action, however, is only at the talking stage and will, or will not be, implemented by next year's board of directors.

Pepin To Get $1,038 A Week

OTTAWA (CP) — Jean-Luc Pepin, chairman of the federal anti-inflation board, gets paid $1,038 a week, the Commons was told Wednesday.

Vice - chairman Beryl Plumptre gets $770 a week and the five part-time regional members of the board are paid $300 a day when they meet.

Consumer Affairs Minister Andre Ouellet announced the pay rates. When the board was set up a month ago, Mr. Pepin said he could not be precise about his salary and as late as last week board officials told a reporter they did not know how much their boss was being paid.

Mr. Ouellet said Mr. Pepin, at an annual rate of $54,000, is receiving less than the top scale for his rank. He has been designated the pay of a second-level deputy minister or DM3 category, with a salary range between $47,200 and $60,200 a year.

Mrs. Plumptre is receiving the same annual $40,000 she was paid since her appointment two years ago as head of the task forces review board, which the board has been absorbed by the new organization.

Mr. Ouellet said the $300-a-day rate for regional members, equivalent to $1,200 a week, is less than many consultants and professional people are paid.

Manitoba Gas Prices To Jump

WINNIPEG (CP) — Controls on the price of gasoline in Manitoba were lifted at midnight Wednesday, paving the way for an expected increase of 3.4 cents a gallon within the next few days.

Consumer Affairs Minister Jean Turnbull told a news conference Wednesday the cabinet's decision was influenced by "reasonable assurances from oil companies the retail price of gasoline would not increase more than 3.4 cents a gallon.

The current price of gasoline in Winnipeg is about 70 cents a gallon.

Franco Dies Leaving Spain in Turmoil

MADRID (AP) — Gen. Francisco Franco, Western Europe's last surviving dictator, died shortly before dawn today after a 34-day illness, settling the stage for a power struggle between his supporters and advocates of democracy in Spain.

The five-foot-three general, who ruled Spain with an iron hand for 36 years, died just two weeks before his 83rd birthday.

After becoming ill Oct. 17, he suffered repeated heart attacks, massive abdominal hemorrhages which three operations failed to stop, kidney failure, and lung complications. For days he was kept alive by a respirator, an artificial kidney machine and other mechanical devices.

But late Wednesday, a highranking government source said brain activity had virtually ceased and death was near.

Information Minister Leon Herrera announced the death in an early-morning broadcast and said Franco succumbed to "heart arrest following toxic shock from peritonitis."

The government announced that Prince Juan Carlos de Borbon, who has been acting chief of state since Oct. 30, will be installed Saturday as Spain's first king in 44 years. A grandson of King Alfonso XIII, the 37-year-old prince was educated and trained in Spain under Franco's supervision from the age of 11. Franco designated Juan Carlos as the next chief of state in 1969.

He will take the name King Juan Carlos I since his father, Don Juan, the Count of Barcelona, has refused to renounce his own claim to the throne.

The government said Franco's body would be taken today from La Paz Hospital where he died to the chapel of the Pardo Palace, his residence north of here. It will be brought to the National Palace in downtown Madrid Friday morning to lie in state from until early Sunday.

A requiem mass will be celebrated Sunday in the Plaza de Oriente, in front of the National Palace, and then the body will be taken for burial in the Valley of the Fallen, the vast underground cathedral which Franco built into a mountainside 35 miles north of here as a monument to the dead of the Spanish Civil War.

The funeral is certain to bring out a demonstration by thousands of supporters of the political right, a show of strength by ward Juan Carlos against the liberal reforms which may expect him to initiate.

The right-wing drive against political change has already begun. Conservative leaders are making speeches demanding that the authoritarian system established by Franco remain unchanged. The police are arresting scores of opponents of the regime, political leaders say the civilians of the right have been armed.

Trenton Man Gets 18 Months for Theft

A 21-year-old Trenton man was sentenced to 18 months definite and six months less a day indeterminate by Judge R. C. Jackson in Trenton provincial court Wednesday on a charge of robbery.

Brian Cannon of 32 Stanley St. had pleaded guilty to the charge earlier. He was escorted to the Quinte Regional Detention Centre at Napanee to await transfer to one of Ontario's reformatories.

Cannon was originally charged by Trenton Police Department with armed robbery and attempted armed robbery. The reduced charge was laid in connection with a holdup at Birt's Handy Stand at 118 Byron St. on Oct. 30, 1976 in Trenton.

Police said two men threatened J. A. Walker, owner of Walker Food Variety and Meat at 135 West Dundas St. in Trenton with a knife but were forced to flee when Walker also displayed a knife.

Less than 30 minutes later, two men escaped with more than $140 from Birt's Handy Stand where three employees were threatened at knifepoint, police said.

Also charged in connection with the same incident is Terry Arnold Goodrich, 21, of RR 2, Brighton. He faces charges of robbery and attempted robbery and will appear during the autumn sittings of county court at the Hastings County Courthouse in Belleville.

Dumping the Dump

Murray Township reeve Harry Lafferty gets information about the closing of the municipalities to landfill sites and the opening of another in co-operation with Brighton Village and Township from deputy reeve James Quinn. The old landfill site will no longer be used after November 27.

County Needs Larger Tax Base Report Stresses

PICTON — Prince Edward County is not growing economically say a report on county development submitted to Prince Edward County councillors this week by economic development director William Duggan.

In 1974, total tax revenue in the county was $2,281,130.

"At zero growth and with an increase in costs ... it is necessary to find a further $114,656 in a year from exactly the same taxpayers as before," noted Mr. Duggan.

His report stated only a broader tax base or increased assessment can keep such increases within bounds.

"In rough figures it would require the taxes from a further 500 houses of $30,000 each or from 100 new medium sized canning factories or over 200 new medium sized tourist resorts or more than 16 new medium sized factories to copy with such an increase," stated the economic development director in his report.

He added that only planned development in all available areas can provide the extra revenue required.

Mr. Duggan stated that each year over 300 students leave the county system and enter the labor market. This exodus leads to heavier tax burdens for older community residents.

An industrial job available for those requiring work provides benefits with a "ripple effect." A general tax burden in the form of unemployment benefits or welfare is removed.

Lighting Damaged, Cause Still Sought

PICTON — An emergency lighting system at the H.J. McFarland Memorial Home for the aged has been badly damaged and repair work is expected to cost from $600 to $900.

"It doesn't seem to be too clear cut just how the damage occurred" chairman of Prince Edward County council's social services committee and deputy-reeve of Sophiasburg Jack Sprague told councillors this week.

He said there is a great deal of confusion concerning the possible causes of the damage and the company that installed the lighting system in the new home has indicated it is not responsible.

"It should be under warranty from the architect" said deputy-reeve Sprague.

Prince Edward County clerk Thomas Walker was instructed to contact the various parties involved in an effort to ascertain the county's position in relation to the damage.

Organ May Be Restored

PICTON — The large organ from the Old Church of St. Mary Magdalene now owned by the Prince Edward County Museum can be restored in the time of from $10,000 to $15,000.

At a recent meeting of the museum management committee it was noted that if restored the organ possibly would be valued at about $25,000.

Museum curator James Gooding observed that many provincial government grants are available to assist in projects such as restoration of the organ. He agreed to investigate possible assistance in relation to the work.

Bloomfield Sees the Light

BLOOMFIELD — Village residents this month have seen the light with the installation of 80 new street lamps here.

Bloomfield reeve Ben Printen this week stated that the lights will cost the village about $8,500 plus installation charges.

The street lights have been installed during the past month by Ontario Hydro workers under the supervision of the Bloomfield utilities department.

Murray Again Delays Decision on Arena

WOOLER — Murray Township council has once again postponed any decision on joining in the building of a new arena with the Brighton village and township until after the mail strike has ended and all ballots in a referendum poll are in.

The decision, reached a regular council meeting Wednesday night, will stand until more complete mail delivery is resumed. A public meeting will then be called ten days after the end of the strike.

Brighton Township and village decided two weeks ago to proceed with the $400,000 arena project without waiting for the Murray decision and have said that when and if Murray joins it will probably be able to maintain the original 25 per cent partnership in the facility as per the expected agreement. The old Brighton arena was ordered closed by the ministry of Labor at month's end.

Council said they will begin to examine the ballots they have already received to try to learn how the general public feels about the project.

"Many of the ratepayers in the northern part of Murray don't want the township to become involved in the project because it will be to far from their homes and some may have to travel 15 miles to get to the arena," said Ken Rose, township clerk.

In other business, council has announced the closing of its two landfill sites in the township, one in Carrying Place and the other in Wooler, effective Nov. 27 for private uses and immediately for commercial companies.

A new landfill site has been opened in co-operation with the Brighton township and village on Highway 25 in Brighton township. Hours for the disposing of garbage will be Monday - Friday 8 a.m. - 5 p.m., Saturday 8 a.m.-12 p.m. and closed on Sunday.

Memories of JFK and Fears the 'American Sickness' May Catch Up with Canada

By JOHN D. HARBRON

Foreign Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

Where were you on Nov. 22, 1963, and what were you doing on the day he (or was it they) killed John Fitzgerald Kennedy on the street in front of the book depository in Dallas?

Watching the TV families of How The World Turns perhaps while doing the dishes? Hearing the event on a radio rushed into your classroom for the occasion? Coming back from work after lunch?

This columnist was in Japan. In Tokyo, the day it took place, lying in bed at four in the morning with my radio tuned to the U.S. Armed Forces network in Tokyo to hear the funeral and burial far away of the 35th president of the United States.

In the late 1960s, like a public places in Japan where Americans stayed, worked or congregated, blown-up photos of President Kennedy had suddenly appeared framed in black crepe, time-to-death countdowns as the centerpiece. In high places and mill are pitched at the Yakasuni Shrine by Japan's three-million war dead in central Tokyo.

In its own way, this was more telling than the remembrances rushed around the U.S. and I suppose here in Canada for the murdered president.

Americans will always remember this tragic event, certainly the living ones of this generation not only for its great human sadness and poignancy, but because it was the precursor of the decade when the United States lost the innocence it had known since the sacrifices of World War II and Korea.

Add to the Kennedy assassination, the equally fatal ones of Martin Luther King and Robert Kennedy in 1968, the bestiality and day-to-day killings of Americans and nameless Vietnamese peasants in the bloody trauma and national terror of the Vietnam war.

In late November, as the annual American Thanksgiving impinges on the Kennedy assassination anniversary, thoughts turn back to the event and to its greatly belated biographile Americans that John Kennedy was murdered because of a master plot and by more than one killer.

From one annual anniversary of his death to another, since 1964, the Warren Commission convinced itself, and it thought millions of Americans, that he died the way it looked on the Dallas street that day.

But on this late November anniversary, Americans in their secret hearts wonder about the basic authenticity of the official tale rather than about the dream of a hope and optimism which was the historic American dream.

In our determination of the late 60s and early 70s, we have arrived at in the past of events and influences from the United States, the assassinations of the Kennedy assassinations, in '68 as well as '68 affect us almost as much as our American neighbors.

This is because we are, in moments of remembrance like this, what's had propriety neighbors and friends.

In the mid-'70s we are also afraid when we will inherit something of the whirlwind which the events surrounding John Kennedy's murder made possible in America.

The shadow of the future is the Mansfield Olympics and a growing national fear the American sickness will be ours too.

Canada's Defence Role

AN OBSERVER

The storm signals are out where Canada's defence role is concerned. The concern which many feel is reflected in the public feel in this regard has been articulated on a number of fronts of late.

Belleville Rotarians recently heard Col. E. J. Healey of CFB Trenton say: "Many of us are forgetting the present posture and strength of forces in Canada." Col. Healey noted that war "could happen again," yet this year the armed forces ceiling is down to 78,000 from 83,000.

Most of us have heard the laments about Ottawa reducing Canada's commitment to NATO and about our antiquated equipment, including the U.S.-made Starfighters which columnist John Harbron notes the Americans dumped eight years ago, and second world war Centurion tanks.

Harbron quotes no less a personage than NATO secretary-general Joseph Luns as saying we are relying too much on the Americans for our national defence. So much for the spirit and the letter of our national anthem: "the true north strong and free . . . we stand on guard for thee."

Mr. Luns is not the first outsider to have spoken some home truths in this direction. Former U.S. defence secretary James Schlessinger tried to get the same message across to Prime Minister Trudeau on his recent Ottawa visit.

To quote Col. Healey again: . . . we shouldn't let our guard drop too far."

But will anyone in government realize that if anything is to be cut in the interests of economy, it should not be the armed forces, or our commitment to overall western defence.

More Pay . . . Less Work

"Let's Hold Out for as Much as We Can Get."

This pretty well sums up the attitude of many in our welfare ridden and strikebound society.

Not the majority fortunately, for if the attitude were more prevalent than it is, we could be in danger of reaching that crippling stage of general breakdown. As it stands though there is damage enough occurring from the potsand strike — many small businesses depending on mail service repeatedly have gone under — and there is no encouragement in the spectacle of teachers on strike in Metro Toronto.

There is a need for more of the attitude implicit in a statement of recent days by Belleville's Max Haggerty.

"The major, if not the only component which the trucking industry has to sell is the individual capacity of all employees and management and the sum total of their time, ability and experience."

Mr. Haggarty is president of the Ontario Trucking Association and he was talking of the need for upgrading the industry's managerial skills and of the emphasis which will be placed on this at his group's upcoming convention.

He might have been talking about any job in this day and age which far too often is being sold short by indolence and a lust for more monetary return for less work.

Note moreover that Mr. Haggerty was calling in effect for a greater effort all round, including management.

Who Speaks for the School Kids?

The Globe and Mail Metro Toronto's high schools are closed by a teachers' strike. Does anybody speak for the 140,000 children who are without classes?

There have been members of the opposition parties who have argued almost from the beginning of the dispute that the minister should intrude himself into the negotiations. It is difficult to see how such an intrusion would have made a bit or little difference. Mr. Wells had already provided the legislation which permitted the teachers to strike. The sole question that remains is how much the school boards will or can pay. The boards have already committed themselves to paying amounts well in excess of the federal anti-inflation guidelines, well in excess of the average industrial wage, well in excess of the expectations of most other working people.

On the eve of the strike, however, he might have taken a definite position about what might be done for the 140,000 students who are victims of the strike.

This is the largest disruption of education Ontario has ever suffered. At some point, early on, the Ontario Government will be asked what it intends to do to end the disruption.

Until that time parents and students will look for some guidance on what they can do while the crisis boils. How the students can, to the best of their abilities continue their studies. How they can make some sense of the education plant in which we have invested so much money. They can expect little in the way of direction from local boards.

The Nuremberg trial of 20 major Second war criminals following the Second World War opened 30 years ago today—in 1945. The international trial occupied nine months and ended with the conviction and sentencing of most of the surviving leaders of the Third Reich for their part in preparing and waging war and for crimes against humanity.

S. Africa Fights Inflation

is

The South African Financial Gazette

Austerity has at last hit South Africa.

Price, value and efficiency will be the watchwords of the future, anything to buy one must be an investment. It's got to be guaranteed to last.

Jack Grobelaar, one of South Africa's top marketing consultants, agrees 100 per cent. Recently back from the U.S., Jack says: "People are no longer interested in glamour products. Their only concern is value for money. All the way round the Americans are busy taking the chrome off their society. The same thing is about to happen here."

In sounding the "inflation alert" politicians and others are urging South Africans to cut back, to adopt a more austere, no-nonsense life-style. This, many point out, is good advice, but usually easier said than done. "At middle-income level most people are already committed. They have bought their houses, have club memberships, have their children at fee-paying schools or at university. They can't just drop these commitments overnight — sell up, move into cheaper houses and stop clubs.

They can however, take their children out of private schools — and more and more are doing just that. In the Northern suburbs great numbers of parents are arguing that it is ridiculous to pay taxes as well as school fees, are transferring their children to Government schools, often today far better equipped than private schools can afford to be. Private education, it is predicted, will soon be the exclusive preserve of the very rich."

As the squeeze tightens so are more and more wives and pensioners rejoining the national work force.

This is a greater disruption and security by cutting them on the streets instead of in a job.

Canada is a good place to live in, let's keep it that way, and get rid of the agitators.

Economics of a Strike

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

Reading of Mr. Wallace Yeamans's statement that the postal workers on strike are feeling the pinch financially, where some have had to dip into their savings etc., to keep them going, prevents a good question — if the workers are so pinched, how can they afford to save money for a future emergency? At the same time, welcomed a nice loan from the Post Office and when they return to work a small portion of the pay cheques will be deducted each pay day till the government is reimbursed.

I wonder how many strikers have sat down and counted up all the money they have paid the unions from their pay cheques and why there are no funds to pay them, other than twenty dollars a week for single men and twenty-five dollars for the married man. This is not enough to pay a week's room and board, let alone support a family, yet there seem walk the streets not counting the hundreds of dollars they have already lost, plus what they will lose in pay cheques in the future and how long will it take to replace the lost wages by the increase in the proposed future pay cheques.

When I went to work years ago, if an employee didn't like his or her job, they quit and went to another one, where they were more satisfied; we didn't have unions tell us what we should or should not do, we had enough brains to get out on our own and make a change. We didn't strike and try to tear Canada apart. That gives us our freedom to work where we choose.

One only has to watch the news coverage on TV to assess how the workers feel about this strike. I feel sorry for those who have returned to work, they have the good sense to see where these union are leading them. It's time the people started thinking for themselves and not depend on unions doing their thinking for them, jeopardizing the workers homes

The Strike Syndrome

Editor,

The powers behind the strikes in Toronto, Toronto, behind the striking postmen and other professional strikers yet to join the fray, remind me of this:

These cars must fight each other, greed alone

So said too the J.C. Galbraith's sanctimonious uplift sermon recently published here.

'No Bias' He Says

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

Taking up budgets on behalf of landlords, Elizabeth Morton insides, quite wrongly that the Quinte Information Centre is the champion of tenants against landlords. Of course the lady has no evidence upon which to base her assertion.

However, in fairness to Mrs. Morton I have to point out that few landlords ever avail themselves of the services of the Centre.

We must assume therefore they either don't think them worthwhile or they haven't the same spirit of oppression which Mr. Ballard exposes. Further more, Mr. Ballard's claim that sex is a subject which he knows how harmful is a totally unsupported and idiosyncratic opinion.

My enthusiasm for such programs is, of course, tempered only by the fact that I must admit honestly say that they will definitely be beneficial, but the need is so great, the degree of suffering due to sexual problems is so widespread and severe, and the risk so small, that I feel it is worthwhile thing to do is to go ahead with them, and see what happens. For them to disagree, Mr. Bugs Bunny are available on other channels.

Case for Sex Education

Letter in The Globe and Mail

I am a psychiatrist who treats many patients with sexual problems. I read with the comments of Russ Ballard on the proposed Ontario sex education (Sept. 11) I and professional colleagues, far from being harmful and unnecessary, are urgently needed and potentially helpful.

Open discussion of sexuality is not offensive to most people. Adaptive sexual conduct is a necessary behavior in human beings; it must be discussed freely if it is to be learned correctly. Mr. Ballard makes reference to an ideal world in which he and his wife raise their children about sexuality. We do not live in such a world. In the real world, sexual misinformation, and even guilt and shame are the teaching tools of far too many parents.

Mr. Ballard refers to "an unnatural emphasis on practices which many children are not aware of and do not need to learn about." Whatever is he talking about? Sexual intercourse is not an unnatural practice, and is for most of us instruction can in no way constitute an unnatural emphasis.

The need for widespread dissemination of correct sexual information is great. There have got to be millions of people in Ontario and Canada with various degrees of sexual dysfunction, which is a tragedy, most, much of it directly caused by the same spirit of oppression which Mr. Ballard exposes. Further more, Mr. Ballard's claim that sex is a subject he knows so somehow harmful is a totally unsupported and idiosyncratic opinion.

My enthusiasm for such programs is, of course, tempered only by the fact that I must admit honestly say that they will definitely be beneficial, but the need is so great, the degree of suffering due to sexual problems is widespread and severe, and the risk so small, that I feel it is worthwhile thing to do is to go ahead with them, and see what happens. For them to disagree, Mr. Bugs Bunny are available on other channels.

Relics of the Past

Quinte connoisseurs of the arts including handicrafts have had a variety of opportunities to enjoy this aspect of creativity of late.

It has been intermixed too with the artifacts of centuries past — in the case for instance of the one-time far-flung Spanish empire. Such as the Mexican potters at work in Romain Wilhelmsen's film in the Kawanis club's travel and adventure series. And the remains of helmets and other pieces of armor left behind in remote Mexican mountain country by the conquistadors and unearthed by Wilhelmsen and a companion.

It was a reminder of those other extraordinary discoveries of Spanish treasure by Belgian diver Robert Stenuit on the ocean floor off the Antrim coast of Northern Ireland in 1968, and which had lain there since 1588 when the Armada vessel Girona went down in raging seas.

Closer to home, and of more recent but still historic significance is the 19th century Indian see emanuelware from the Couldery collection of local legend. Part of a 600-piece collection, it is on exhibition at Glanmore House.

From far or near, these pieces of art are part of an enduring heritage of human creativity. That they and the artifacts seen on film have come to our own doorstep is symbolic of the immediacy of communication today and of the permanence of historic fact.

Look at Politics as You Would Observe a Hockey Game

By DON O'HEARN

Queen's Park Bureau

Thomson News Service

TORONTO — Years ago I asked a wise editor how to observe politics.

He said look at it and write about it as if it were a play or a sports game.

It is a game in which they are playing overtime.

Overtime in a sense that the winner of the current game, the session, goes into a second game of a play-down.

What strategy would you use if you were the government, the champions who have been taking a bit of a beating?

Do you remember kitty-bar-the-door hockey. Made notorious years ago by the old Montreal Maroons and other teams.

They put up a hard-rock defence and sat back and waited.

This is the game that government has been playing.

And when you look at it you can figure that it isn't the right game.

First of all it doesn't have a rock-hard offence.

And then in this case it's more than one goal to win.

The goal-net in this case is the public and goals are registered when a point is made with it.

The team on the offensive has a much greater advantage in this game.

With the public the judge, it can register points just by trying.

The government hasn't realized this.

It doesn't know that to score it must go on the offensive.

It must start undercutting the opposition, particularly the NDP, its main threat.

When it realizes this, it will make headway.

We will watch for it.

Singing Blues Lucas's Life

By SUE McCONNELL
Staff Reporter

Matt Lucas a white soul singer with a southern twang in his voice has been called a fat phenomenon, an incurable optimist and a man always on the verge of a comeback.

Lucas describes himself as a "psychiatrist's delight".

"My doctor had a buddy who said he'd like to talk to me for free," he laughed.

He was in town until Wednesday night to exercise his slow-moving voice at the Four Seasons Hotel.

He's tired, he explains during his break, but it didn't stop him from pulling out piles of press clippings and pictures of him that he carts around in a big briefcase.

His hit record I'm Moving On sold 3½ million copies and was the peak of his career that has sufered since until the recent release of I've Paid My Dues and You Gotta Love. "The sky is the limit" he laughs.

The outspoken singer whose friends range from Xavier Hollander the once said she was the kind of girl he'd like to take home to meet his-mother to Pierre Berton (". . . I get along good with everybody . . . including Berton. And nobody gets along with him"), has earned him the reputation of a story teller.

He has been everywhere and done everything, he says proudly. "You can't sing the blues unless you've been there," he says.

He doesn't make a real effort to entertain his audience — they strain to listen to him. "I put them on a lot" he says.

Williams Gets Three Months

A 43-year-old Trenton man was sentenced to three months in jail and placed on one year probation by Hastings County Court Judge Russell C. Honey during Wednesday's autumn sitting at the Hastings County Courthouse in Belleville.

Joseph Williams changed his plea Wednesday to guilty of possession of a weapon dangerous to the public peace. The charge was laid in connection with an incident in August at the Quinte Hotel in Trenton.

Parks Board Plans More Garden Plots

More city residents will have a chance to grow their own vegetables next year.

The city's parks board plans to increase the number of plots available from the municipality for those wishing to grow their own food.

One reason is the parks department initial venture in grow-your-own-food this past summer met successful response.

And by next summer more elderly people will be living in apartments close by the garden site with completion of the 81-unit senior citizens' housing project on Wellington Cres.

The four-acre site for the allotments was made available by Albert College on vacant land between Sidney and Wellington streets.

Originally, the department planned to make only 26 plots available as a pilot project. Due to demand, 64 allotments were prepared and eventually 60 were leased.

The department thus considers the project "very successful" says horticulturist Gene Gemmell in a report to the parks board.

At the end of the summer one third of the gardeners indicated intentions to rent a plot next year.

With more senior citizens in the area the department now plans 71 plots in 1976.

Mr. Gemmell reported vandalism was "negligible" with only a small amount of vegetables stolen. But there were complaints about water supplies — with unusually warm weather a factor — and now their is a second water installation on the site.

The Belleville Garden Club also was active in the project and helped first-time gardeners. The club also took a plot and grew vegetables for the Cheshire Home for handicapped adults. It also salvaged vegetables left on lots after the season ended and sent them to the home.

The 20 by 50-foot lots were leased for $15 apiece.

Annual Cheese Show Attracts Record Entry

The British Empire may be no more.

But the British Empire Cheese Show goes on and on.

Now in its 48th year, the annual exhibition opens in Belleville next week stronger than ever.

"It's now the largest cheese show in Canada-and getting bigger each year," says Lillian Matthews, secretary manager of the Central Ontario Cheesemakers Association which sponsors the show.

Evidence that its appeal continues to spread throughout the trade will be seen when the show opens its doors at 313 Front St. Monday.

Along with Ontario and Quebec cheeses, there will be first-time entries from Wisconsin-a major cheese-producing area of the United States-and from New Brunswick. Cheese also is expected from Manitoba.

In all, expects Mrs. Matthews, there will be about 100 cheese samples entered for judging.

In keeping with tradition, the public will have a chance to sample the choice cheese sent to the show for judging.

The judges will start the task of selecting the prize-winning entries Monday.

At noon Wednesday cheese will go on public sale until noon Saturday.

Prizes will be presented next Thursday night at a banquet at the Canadian Legion hall.

Meanime, the cheesemakers' association will hold a two-day convention at the Sun aVlley to discuss trends in the industry.

The convention — scheduled for Wednesday and Thursday afternoons — will include talks by provincial and federal government agricultural experts and Ellard Powers, Canadian Dairy Commission chairman.

Stricter Laws May Not Be the Answer

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — Would stricter laws regarding drinking and driving help reduce the number of traffic deaths in Canada?

Dr. G. J. S. Wilde, a professor of psychology at Queen's University, said his research into the problem makes him skeptical of the idea.

Dr. Wilde said the leading cause of death among persons under 40 years of age in most Western countries is a road accident and alcohol is involved in about half of all traffic fatalities in North America.

But research has indicated that between 40 and 70 per cent of drivers whose licences have been suspended still drive and the longer the period of suspension, the greater the chances that the offence will be repeated, he said.

Dr. Wilde cited research in Holland as an example. In a study there, 40 per cent of the driving convicted on a drunk driving charge repeated the offence at least once over a 12-year period.

Sweden has been one of the most successful countries in cutting down the number of second-time offenders, he said.

There, fines are calculated proportionally to the offender's income and research has shown that the heavier the fine, the less likely it is that the offence will be repeated.

But Dr. Wilde said a little recognized fact is that only a small proportion of all accidents occur to individuals who have prior accidents or violations.

Massage Therapist Concerned Over Image

BARRIE, Ont. (CP) — When you think of a massage do you conjure up images of a sleazy backroom run by one of those notorious sultans of sin you read about in the newspapers?

If so, you are not unlike many people who associate massage with body-rub parlors and this makes a massage therapist like Rochelle Berry angry.

Mrs. Berry is an accredited professional masseur who graduated in September, 1974, from the Canadian College of Massage and Hydrotherapy in Toronto.

She operates a clinic which caters to those who suffer from such common complaints as backache, stiff and aching shoulders, sharpshared muscle pain in the legs and arms, migraine headaches, breathing difficulties, arthritic symptoms and related joint pain and swelling.

Along with the other 110 members of the Ontario Massage Therapist Association, she is frustrated that the public and many medical groups look down on massage therapy in Canada, while in many European countries its benefits have been acknowledged.

Mrs. Berry said a deep muscle massage works to loosen tight muscle fibres which often act as a clamp on blood vessels and cause constriction of blood flow in arteries and veins.

A 45-minute massage helps relieve pain by separating, loosening and softening the muscles and restoring circulation, she said.

But she added that miracles are not possible from massage since such therapy "can only help promote the right internal environment needed for the body to heal itself."

Delays in Police Investigation Cause Low Morale Among Forces

OTTAWA (CP) — Long delays between investigations of crimes and convictions of the guilty have caused low morale among police and a feeling among criminals they have immunity from prosecution, Justice Minister Ron Basford said Wednesday.

Winding up Commons debate on second reading of a government bill making job changes in the Criminal Code, the minister vowed action will be taken soon to reduce long delays in the administration of justice.

Mr. Basford also promised action on recommendations of the law reform commission, set up in 1970 as an advisory body to bring the law up to date.

The minister said amending the law from time to time is not enough to deal with changes needed in the justice system. He already has announced plans to bring in a package of "law and security" legislation before Parliament which includes a proposal to ban the death penalty, longer jail sentences and tighter parole procedures.

One of the proposed changes debated Wednesday and given approval in principle would allow unwarranted random breath tests by police in search of impaired drivers.

The government heard conflicting opinions from the opposition on that change.

"It's a beautiful way for a cop to get his quota," Arnold Peters (NDP—Timiskaming) said. It would be like "waiting for the customer to come to you." Patrol cars could part outside a hotel or bar, wait for a customer to get behind the wheel, and then move in.

The existing law restricts spot checks for impaired driving to cases where the police have reasonable grounds to stop a motorist.

Mr. Peters said the breath analysis statute, which judges all drivers drunk if their blood-alcohol level exceeds .08 per cent, is "a terrible kind of law" because there is no defence against it.

David MacDonald (PC—Egmont) said the important thing is to cut down on accidents, injuries and deaths caused by impairment. Spot checks—even extensive campaigns, such as those often conducted by police at Christmas—are not enough.

The breath-test modification is only one of several changes proposed in the legislation.

PLO Leader Drowned Out By Israeli Shouts

TORONTO (CP) — Palestinian and Israeli supporters screamed so wildly at one another Wednesday night that the vice-chairman of the PLO delegation of the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO) had to abandon any hope of addressing them.

The guest of honor, Shafik Al-Hout, didn't even approach the microphone where he had been invited to address the audience of about 400 at the Ontario College of Education.

He watched the crowd from the stage and then left by a side door under heavy police escort, about 1½ hours after arriving.

The unruly crowd, as well as hurling insults at one another, drowned out repeated attempts by speakers to quiet them. On several occasions, the confrontations stopped just short of fist fights.

One young man unbuttoned his shirt in front of television cameras to reveal a swastika on his T-shirt. The T-shirt also had "white power" written on it.

The young man, who identified himself as a member of the Western Guard, yelled, "PLO, PLO."

An Israeli supporter, who screamed at the young man when he saw the T-shirt, was led away by police.

Most of the noisy protests came from teen-agers, but a large number of well-dressed adults also attended and joined in the arguments.

The meeting was called off at about 9 p.m., but about 400 supporters of both sides continued long after to argue inside and outside the building.

Police said packages of water had been thrown from Ryerson College, a co-operative residence across the street, on a group of pro-Israeli demonstrators marching on the sidewalk. No one was injured.

Letters Just as Good Second Time Around

The combination of two events — the postal strike and cleaning up a closet — led me this week to a happy evening. I think I should share with you. It just may stir you to enjoy the same experience. That is, if you're also a packrat.

Confused? Let me explain.

I am a chronic saver. Although I did a major sweep through my paraphernalia on the eve of my marriage — "You simply can't burden a groom with three trunks of souvenirs," my Mother said — I still have tucked away a number of shoe boxes full of old letters. To part with these would be too much to bear, and I've carted them around, from closet to closet, for years.

Getting out the winter coats from the den closet, I had to step over and around these shoe boxes, all labeled "Letters! Do Not Throw Out." As luck would have it, I tripped over, spilling the paper contents all over the floor.

Maybe without the postal strike I would have gathered all the sheets and envelopes together and stuffed them back in the box. Maybe I would just have thought, as I've done since I first packaged them, that I really should go through those old letters some day.

But after these several weeks without postal delivery, I've been getting a little hungry for mail . . . and here was a box of it, all addressed to me.

Don't ask why I save letters. If you have to ask, you'll never understand. It's a saver yourself, and couldn't possibly understand. And listen, most of the time I'm in complete agreement that it's a ridiculous habit, dragging along the past like this.

With that in mind, I save only representative letters, the especially long or descriptive ones that have been written about a special event or from a special place. The only exception to that rule are letters from my parents, and the little ribbon-tied bundles of love letters that chart the beginning, and ending, of long-ago romances.

Well, as a result of stopping to look at "just one or two," I spent hours sitting on the closet floor, opening shoe box after shoe box.

It would be futile to try to tell you how clearly memories came to mind, through their own written words. But it was lovely to encounter again those friends who have drifted away through time. It was even lovelier to read letters from those who have remained friends, to look back and see the pattern of their lives.

Perhaps the most fascinating were the family letters. Read at this point, they show subtle shadings in relationships that were invisible when the letters were written. But from this distance in time, a more objective view is possible.

My grandmother (whom I'm said to resemble) saved every letter my Father ever wrote her. On her death, my parents found in her attic suitcases of letters, neatly tied in packets, year by year.

Eventually, over many winter evenings, they read through them and re-discovered their life together. Their first meeting, their courtship, their early years of marriage and the children coming, the first car, the new house, the bits and pieces that go into letters all came back, packet by packet.

It seems to me that in our lives we're always moving forward, always making new friends, always changing our position in the family structure. Old letters hold us for a moment at the meeting points, and tell us a little about where we've been.

But to be perfectly honest, I'd rather read new, fresh-from-the-pen letters. And now that the mail is trickling in again, I've put away my shoe boxes for another decade or two.

Sports woman Accepts Award

Hockey player, softball player and all-round athlete, Carol McFarlane of RR 1, Shannonville received a box of Laura Secord chocolates and a special award Tuesday in recognition of her achievements.

The award is one of several being given to commemorate International Women's Year by the Laura Secord Company. Its National Women's Award Program was instituted this year to pay tribute to successful women in various fields of endeavour across the country, explained Violet Bowerman, manager of the Laura Secord Shop in the Quinte Mall.

Mrs. Bowerman presented the award to Carol, who was chosen from those received earlier this autumn, the Judy Johnson Memorial Trophy from the Belleville Yardmen. The trophy was given for her outstanding contribution as catcher for the Belleville Yardmen Benefit Fund Girls' Softball team during the six-team softball league's 1975 season.

Carol, a grade 11 student at Quinte Secondary School, has played for the Belleville Yardmen's team for one year, and is presently playing right wing for the Belleville Combines Girls' hockey team. She has won hockey awards previously, but the Judy Johnson trophy was her first for baseball.

Special Dinner Marks Business & Women's Week

The Belleville branch of the Business and Professional Women's Club met Monday evening at the Sun Valley Motor Hotel to celebrate two special events — International Women's Year and Business Women's Week.

Over 80 women attended the dinner meeting at which two new members — Betty Sine and Sandra Wood — were initiated into the club.

Special guests for the evening were B and P District Director Theresa Ault of Kingston and her assistant, Elise Cathcart Preston.

Guest speaker was Tony Burns, Canadian representative of the Successful Motivation Institute and Chairman of Cybernetics for Ontario. Mr. Burns, principal of the Oshawa Business College, is known in Belleville for the seminars he has conducted for industry and service clubs.

Mr. Burns spoke about motivation and personal development, stressing the importance of all-round success. "The most exciting trip you can ever take," he said, "is the journey into yourself." People should become aware of their habits in order to become fully conscious that there are choices available — the only limitations are the ones people place on themselves, he said.

A reading of Rudyard Kipling's poem "If" closed Mr. Burns' talk.

For Business Women's Week, the club members will be attending services on Sunday at Christ Church followed by a luncheon at the home of Ruth Falwell.

Chairman of the week-long observance is Barbara Marack. A special window display has been arranged by McIntosh Bros.

Social Conditions Affect Adoptions

VANCOUVER (CP) — Birth control, easier-to-get abortions and unwed mothers keeping their babies have led to a decline in the number of infants put up for adoption in British Columbia.

And as the number of babies available for adoption has come down, so has the age of the natural mother. A few years ago the average age was 18 or 17; today it is 16 or 15.

Hazel Clarke, consultant to the B.C. department of human resources adoption placement service, attributes much of this to the greater freedom given to youth.

"In spite of all the publicity, a lot of these kids don't know about contraception. They have the idea if they take the pill for one week they are home-free. We find an amazing lack of knowledge."

Mrs. Clarke said there are hundreds of adoptive parents and few babies; the myth of the blonde, blue-eyed baby for the blonde, blue-eyed parent was dispelled long ago.

"At the end of September we had 511 homes waiting for an infant and that's down quite a bit from the usual number. We have approximately 25 infants a month."

Mrs. Clarke said the homes come from all social strata and healthy, newborn infants are given only to those who have taken fertility tests and whose doctor is satisfied they are unable to bear children.

"The relinquishing mother wants for her child what she can't provide—security, stability, parents and a warm, loving home. We would accept a single parent but have yet to place a newborn with one because the natural mother doesn't see this as any different from her own situation."

A working mother is also acceptable, although the agency would prefer that the mother take six months at home with the child. If the natural mother wishes, she may have a say in the placement of her baby.

"If she wants a rural home with Protestant Parents, we find a home geared to her wishes. If we come up with two, we choose the one who applied earlier."

Mrs. Clarke said some adoptive parents think they are being open by taking a child up to the age of two years. "But this age is not as difficult a placement area as after age four when the adopted child must be younger than any other children in the family.

"They have special needs because of their life's experiences."

The agency usually tries to place children of mixed race parentage in a home of its own origin.

"We have no problem placing native Indian babies—but we don't have enough Indian homes," Mrs. Clarke said.

She said people are becoming more realistic in their adoption views because they are competing with hundreds of others. But homes are needed for "children with medical, emotional or behavior problems which can sometimes be overcome by the placement."

People are more realistic in their adoption views now, says Hazel Clarke of the B.C. adoption placement service, because they realize they are competing with hundreds of other would-be adoptive parents.

Personal Study Area Helps Homework Habit

TORONTO (CP)—Space was a problem in the tiny townhouse shared by Lisa Tilian, 14, and her mother. There was nowhere for Lisa to study, Marlene Tilian, she said. Until she came up with an ingenious idea.

"I knew that in some homes closets had been converted into studies, so that sparked the idea."

Mother and daughter sawed out a single panel but have yet to place a newborn with one because the natural mother doesn't see this as any different from her own situation."

A working mother is also acceptable, although the agency would prefer that the mother take six months at home with the child. If the natural mother wishes, she may have a say in the placement of her baby.

Exclusive Merino Wool More Rare Than Ever

LONDON (CP) — A gossamer-like yarn, claimed to be the most exclusive and luxurious in the world, has been shown in London by a consortium of British weavers who believe there is a real danger of it disappearing forever and have banded together to save it.

A small, highly bred type of Australian merino sheep produces the wool, the quantity of which is steadily decreasing because of high production costs and the consequent tendency of Australian farms to switch to other types of farming.

Less than 100 bales a year of wool contain any of the secretary quality which then has to be sorted by hand from the less fine wools.

Surgery May Help 'Unbalanced'

Dear Ann Landers: Our next-door neighbors are rather nice people and we have become somewhat friendly. It seems they fell behind in arrears with the telephone company about four months ago and their phone was disconnected.

My husband and I didn't mind too much when they asked if they could use our phone several times a day. But now it seems they're given our number to several of their friends and relatives. We have been receiving calls for them at all hours of the day and night. This means we must send one of our children to their house to get them—or we have to go ourselves, if it is after the children's bedtime.

Frankly, it's becoming a terrible nuisance. How can we tell these folks we don't wish to continue the arrangement without altering our relationship? We don't want to make enemies.—Walking On Eggs

Dear Eggs: Your neighbors have gone far beyond the boundaries of friendship. They are exploiting you shamelessly and you must be saints or fools to tolerate it. Tell them at once you are not able to continue the paging service because it is too disruptive, and it also ties up your line. If this announcement alters the relationship, in my opinion you're lucky.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a 19-year-old girl with a terrible problem. I'm normal in every way but one—my breasts are much smaller than the other. When I say "smaller," I mean half the size.

I'm sure there is no way to get the larger one to shrink, so the best solution would be to get the smaller one to grow. Is there such a thing as a hormone cream that might do the job? Please give me an answer. If you say the cream will work I'll send away for it so eager my expenses it is. Thank you. Ann—Unbalanced — In Alaska

Dear Un: Your problem cannot be solved by a hormone cream, so please don't throw away money on useless junk.

My advice is to see your family doctor. Ask him to recommend a plastic surgeon who does silicone implants. This procedure on the smaller breast could be a godsend to a young woman such as you. Good luck.

Dear Ann Landers: While walking home from the library today I passed a group of young boys. They fell behind me and started to yell out gutter language—four-letter words.

I've always believed that the best method of handling an insult of any kind is to remain silent. I did just that—proud as a peacock that I didn't respond to my tormentors in any way. Instead, I turned off the path at the first opportunity and took an alternate route home.

I'm putting aside the old axiom—that their parents have failed in their responsibility to these twisted kids. What I want to know is this: did I, as an adult, do the right thing by ignoring their crudity? Should I have turned around and reprimanded them somehow?—Troubled In Retrospect

Dear Troubled: You don't say how old those "kids" were—but in this day and age, youngsters have been known to carry knives, and even guns. In my opinion you were smart to keep walking.

Some people think all humidifiers are the same.
This ad will change their minds.

Outside all humidifiers look good. Inside it's a different story. And that's a big reason why Wait-Skuttle Dramatic wholehouse humidifiers outsell all their competitors combined.

When people shop for a humidifier, they're not always thinking clearly. They've been irritated by a parched uncomfortable feeling in their nose and throat. They're uptight from getting electrical shocks every time they touch a door knob. And they're frustrated by warped floors and furniture that's coming apart at the joints. No wonder they sometimes make a hasty decision.

When you are ready to buy a humidifier, take your time and compare to make sure you're getting the best value for your money.

the case
Some competitors use plastic (looks good, but con warp or melt in intense heat) or painted metal (vulnerable to rust).
The Dramatic case not only looks good, it keeps on looking good. Sturdy stainless steel can't corrode. It opens wide to give access to every part of the humidifier. Maintenance instructions are printed on the inside cover so you can't lose them, and all outside edges have been rolled and smoothed out to eliminate injuries.

the drum
Dramatic makes their drum from durable Noryl, a material specially formulated to withstand heat and has a slippery finish that resists mineral build-up. Its two-piece design stops rust at the touch of a spring clip, so changing the pad is a lot easier than with the old one-piece wire drums. The Dramatic pad is specially coated to last longer and provide maximum humidification power.

the motor
The motor is the heart of a humidifier. Yet Dramatic is the only manufacturer who builds a clutch into every motor to prevent premature burnout if something accidentally stops the drum from turning. Plus it has a heavy duty geartrain that assures longer life than most others.

the pan
The Dramatic pan is made from polyester reinforced with fibreglass. It's heat resistant, non-corrosive and it won't warp.

the float and valve
The Dramatic float is super hard polyurethane and the valve assembly is nylon. Because they're not made of metal, they can't corrode. The float can't sink and the valve won't leak.

the works
When you buy a Wait-Skuttle Dramatic wholehouse humidifier everything you need is included. Universal humidistat, by-pass pipe and collar, transformer, colour-keyed wiring, water tubing and connections, sheetmetal screws, self-adhesive templates and even staples for stapling the wires in place. Competitive models may require a by-pass pipe, water tubing, wires, and staples in addition to the cost of the humidifier itself. The Dramatic also comes with comprehensive instructions that show you step by step how to install your humidifier with only tinnips, 1/4" drill, a screwdriver, a small adjustable wrench, and a hammer.

Comparison shopping is easy, once you know what to look for. So remember this ad when you go to buy a humidifier. They're not all the same. The extra quality that's built into every dramatic of every Dramatic humidifier is a difference you'll be able to feel, year after year after year.

Sony
Professional Recording Tape

Why compromise great sound! If you've taken the time and money to set up a truly fine stereo system you should use a truly fine tape . . . Sony. Over the years the development of Sony Quality Recording Tape has kept pace with the development of Sony hi-fi and stereo components. They compliment each other and are made to exacting specifications. That's not to say Sony tape only works well in Sony equipment. Any system or tape recorder would sound its best with Sony tape. And Sony makes a full range of tapes for every application too,—cassettes, 8-track cartridges and open reel tape. Sony has specially developed tape, like SHL—"Super-Low Noise High-Output"—used by professional recording studios and audiophiles who require only the most faithful reproduction. Another Sony breakthrough is the Feri-Chrome Cassette. By combining the normal tape coating with the new chromium dioxide type Sony has created a cassette that will record the full musical spectrum, from the lowest note on a cathedral organ, to the highest overtone of a piccolo. If you've treated yourself to a top quality stereo then treat yourself to the top quality tape. Sony . . . your sound is only as good as your tape.

Invalid Police Commission Arguments Continue in Quebec

OTTAWA (CP) — Final arguments were to be presented today in a Supreme Court of Canada appeal aimed at having the Quebec police commission crime inquiry declared invalid.

Elaboration of what Ottawa thinks Quebec has done wrong in establishing the inquiry into organized crime was expected to be given this morning by Louis-Philippe Laundry, assistant federal deputy attorney-general.

Mr. Laundry told the nine-judge court Wednesday that Ottawa does not dispute Quebec's right to investigate organized crime. But such inquiries exceed provincial power if they force witnesses to testify.

He was arguing in the appeal of Nicola Di Iorio, 38, and Gerard Pontaine, 31, sentenced to 12 months each earlier this year for refusing to testify before the Quebec crime commission. They say they were sentenced unjustly because the inquiry is unconstitutional.

Ottawa is siding with the two men in the constitutional issue but federal officials have said this does not mean it opposes the crime inquiry. Justice Minister Ron Basford has said he will introduce legislation giving provinces power to conduct inquiries if the court rules the Quebec inquiry invalid.

Mr. Laundry was careful Wednesday not to align himself too closely with arguments by Leo-Rene Marsada, a Montreal lawyer acting for Di Iorio and Pontaine.

He said Ottawa objects to Section 19 of the Quebec Police Act, under which the inquiry was established, because it takes on powers exclusive to the federal government. He is contesting nothing else.

Mr. Marsada has argued that the powers given the inquiry by the Quebec Police Act compete with those in the federal Criminal Code.

But Gerard Tremblay, acting for the Quebec attorney-general's department, said the inquiry has a legal right to swear witnesses and jail those who refuse to testify. There is nothing in the British North America Act, the country's constitution, that prevents a province from doing this.

The power to punish has to be part and parcel of the inquiry process, he added.

Morris Manning, acting for Ontario, said that declaring Section 19 of the Quebec Police Act invalid would withdraw from the provinces a vital part of the administration of criminal justice. Provincial power would then be limited to civil matters, and this was not the intent of the BNA Act.

Ships Built

NEW YORK (AP) — The Japanese built more than half the world's new shipping last year, The Compass, a publication of marine insurance underwriters, says. Japan launched 21.6 per cent of the ship tonnage worldwide with Sweden coming in second with 6.4 per cent and West Germany third with 4.1 per cent or 2.1 million tons.

Waterloo University Gains New Fame

OTTAWA (CP) — New ways of punishing criminals and preventing crime must be found, says Dr. Gordon Richmond, former senior medical officer at British Columbia's Oakalla Prison Farm.

Advocacy of the deceptively simple remedy of bringing back the noose and the lash "is largely due to lack of knowledge of the crime and deeper aspects of crime in society," he said in an interview.

Dr. Richmond favors the creation of special assessment prisons. Upon conviction, a criminal would be subjected to a battery of psychological tests and a total sociological investigation to determine what caused his urge to crime and whether he would be potentially dangerous in the future.

All convicted offenders should go through this screening process, he said, in order to decide where each individual should be imprisoned and what rehabilitation procedures are appropriate.

Slowing the increase in crime will require intense research into the personality of the criminal, how it was formed and what influences shape the criminal mind, says the doctor.

Nor does Dr. Richmond believe society can evade its responsibilities in judging criminal action.

"It is not as if we are dealing solely with a criminal. He reflects the state and guilt of society as a whole, so the criminal and his crimes are only one facet of a lack of stupendous magnitude."

Common Law Couple Fired from Project

MONTREAL (CP) — A couple who have been living together for five years say they recently were fired from their jobs on the LG3 site of the James Bay hydroelectric project after they were caught sleeping together in a trailer on the campsite.

Danielle Bechard and Andre Vincent said their bed-sharing violated rules forbidding men and women in outer camp dormitories of the opposite sex.

The rules were drawn up by the James Bay Energy Corp. (JBEC) which runs the camp in northwestern Quebec.

JBEC official Guy Lefebvre confirmed Wednesday that Mr. Vincent and Miss Bechard were fired, but said their lovemaking was not the only factor in the case. He refused to elaborate.

The couple said they were fired by their employer, Crete Inc., which is the kitchen. Mr. Vincent said that even married couples working on the site can make each other only at a private club.

At least 100 couples are employed at the LG3 site, Mr. Vincent said. Most of them, like Miss Bechard and Mr. Vincent, work in the kitchen. Mr. Vincent said that even married couples working on the site can make each other only at a private club.

JBEC officials were not available for comment.

FBI Director Dismayed By Bombings

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — FBI director Clarence Kelley said Wednesday that bombings by left-wing revolutionaries are on the increase in the United States and he cannot understand the lack of public outrage.

"Decent Americans were outraged over (Ku Klux) Klan bombings, beatings and killings," Kelley told a Senate internal security subcommittee. "Where is that outrage today?"

He said there were 6 bombings in the first six months of this year, one more than in all of 1974, and cited the decade he claimed by ur ultra left revolutionary groups in 1971.

Chamber Wants Bylaw Delayed

Belleville Chamber of Commerce board of directors decided Thursday night to ask city council to defer passage of its minimum building standards bylaw until they have "a chance to study it.

"I believe it is a serious matter," said Ald. George Zegouras.

Wage Study Proposed

Belleville Chamber of Commerce want to know who is being paid what.

Directors decided Wednesday to ask other chambers if they have held wage surveys in their areas to get an idea of how such a project should be handled.

"It would be good information for employers to have so they know if they are paying fair salaries," said president George Thompson.

Retail and manufacturing companies would be included in such a survey. Results, said the chamber official, would remain confidential.

Zegouras, member of the board of directors.

"Enforcement people will be sorry if it is passed in its present form," he told directors.

President George Thompson said the chamber will request copies of the proposed bylaw from city council and ask Ald. Joe Cox, subcommittee planning advisory committee chairman, to attend the chamber's January meeting to explain the proposals.

"I would like to see the chamber take a position," said Ald. Zegouras. Earlier in the meeting directors had decided not to take a stand due to the complexity of the proposed bylaw.

Yet the public meeting (Nov. 12) the bylaw didn't get any support from the public," said Mr. Zegouras.

At last week's public meeting residents sought clarification and modification of virtually every clause.

During the three-hour meeting the bylaw was called "savage, irrelevant and stupid," by one resident.

A spectator said it was another form of communism council could use to force people out of their homes.

Thieves Finding Cars Attractive

The recent rash of thefts of items from motor vehicles in Belleville continued during the past five days with 1947 worth of goods stolen from cars parked in lots of AOCO Ltd. at 181 West Bridge St., and Northern Electric Co, Ltd. at 250 Sidney St.

City Police Chief Douglas Crosbie said today an eight-track tape deck and 12 eight-track tape cartridges worth $150 were taken Wednesday from a car at AOCO around 7 p.m. Monday.

Meanwhile of 41 Johnson St. in Belleville.

And five cars were entered at the Northern Electric lot sometime between 12 noon and 3.30 p.m. Tuesday, Chief Crosbie said.

Incident at College Results in Two Charges

A 19-year-old Foxboro man has been charged with possession of a weapon dangerous to the public peace and wilful damage over $50 following a police investigation by Quinte-area Provincial Police at Belleville late an incident at Loyalist College on Nov. 13.

Police identified the man Wednesday as Rodney Cameron Reid of 88 Main St., who was apprehended in Belleville by city police at 1.20 p.m. Wednesday.

Cameron will appear in provincial court in Belleville for the first time on Dec. 1.

Police said they were summoned to the college during a Keg and Barrel Night.

Earlier in the event, student council's security force — the Blue and Gold Society — were forced to eject a person who was "acting up," police relate.

Police said the man attempted to return to the dance, was confronted by society members and displayed a knife. The man was not a Loyalist student, police added.

Police estimate $200 damage each to two main outside glass doors which were broken during the incident.

Five Workers on Job

Mail Still Getting Through

By AL ZABAS
Staff Reporter

The city's 41 letter carriers were likely their way to Belleville homes through today's heavy load of delivering old age, security, and veteran pension and inducement cheques, says a post office official.

Assistant postmaster George Burchell said all federal government allowance cheques as well as all mail posted by 3 p.m. Wednesday, is being delivered today.

But he could not give any figures on the number of pieces of mail handled by the five inside workers that crossed Canadian Union of Postal Workers picket lines Wednesday to process mail.

About 40 local CUPW members maintain picketts around the city's main post office as the union moves into the 31st day of a nationwide strike.

Mr. Burchell said normally the post office keeps track of its mail volume, but during the strike, has concentrated on keeping the mail flowing.

Otherwise, one postal worker would be kept running around counting mail.

The fifth inside workers crossed union picket lines Wednesday, the fourth consecutive working day that the solid front the union had presented, showed a crack.

The situation today, said Mr. Burchell, is "pretty stable."

Mail is also being delivered in Picton and Trenton and on many Quinte rural routes.

Homebuilders React Sharply To Self-interest Charges

Quinte Home Builders Association members Wednesday night challenged Bill Hockley to either substantiate his abuse of the association or "shut up."

In the Oct. 29 issue of The Intelligencer is a letter to the editor. Mr. Hockley wrote the minimum standards bylaw "is a windfall for builders. They stand to make a fortune in forced repairs and renovations."

Mr. Hockley went on to say the public should not allow council or a committee of council in partnership with builders and developers to formulate such a major piece of legislation."

Reg Bressell, home builder and chairman of the association's committee to consider the building standards bylaw, said "we feel we've been hard in hand with the city to demonstrate to Belleville so we can re-develop it."

"It's time Mr. Hockley substantiated his claims or shut up," he said.

Association members said they felt Mr. Hockley's words should not go unanswered.

The members voted to retain a lawyer to draft a response to Mr. Hockley's criticisms and explain the homebuilder's position.

Mr. Hockley's contention is that developers worked with a council committee to draft a document that will make a level of home maintenance mandatory — leading possibly to more business for the building members of the committee.

Mr. Bressell countered the criticism saying "I don't know any homebuilder who makes his money repairing eaves troughs or any other minor repair work," as would be necessary under the bylaw if it is passed.

Seminar to Outline Goals of Business

Belleville Chamber of Commerce will be meeting with education supervisors to determine how to get business input into the school system.

"I'm hopeful of setting this in motion in the next couple of weeks," said Cecil Brown, chairman of the education committee, at a board of directors meeting Wednesday.

The meeting with supervisors, said Mr. Brown, will help chamber members decide what they want to say to teachers and balance counsellors.

The Chamber board of directors decided Oct. 15 to arrange a seminar with teachers to make them more aware of what business and industry is all about.

"Teachers feel business people lack integrity," Chamber president George Thompson said Wednesday.

Mr. Brown told directors he has been approached by Loyalist College and Quinte Secondary School expressing interest in meeting with local businessmen.

Mr. Thompson said meeting with teachers and students would hopefully make students aware there are jobs available in the Belleville area and they don't have to go to Toronto for work.

"The more important group we have to reach is the teaching staff," said Mr. Brown.

When the decision was first made to meet with teachers Mr. Brown said teachers traditionally "resist and resent" input from business and industry.

"They think the business community is trying to rip people off," said Mr. Thompson.

Ready to Help

Margaret Zweck checks out location of next assignment with Maurice Overton as they set out to help senior citizens. Under Local Initiatives Program grant they run a service to help with work around the house.

LIP Project Eases Burden On Seniors and Handicapped

A project aimed at helping those who can't help themselves is under way in Belleville.

It's aimed mainly at senior citizens on fixed incomes who may not be able to afford jobs around the house.

Not all elderly folk can or want to—transfer their abodes into government-subsidized senior-citizen housing or homes for the aged, says Margaret Zweck.

"There are still many who want to stay in their own homes and cope," says the Keller Dr. housewife.

Unfortunately, not all can meet the demands of daily home upkeep demands—either because it is physically or financially straining, she said.

Handicapped people also have special problems. Earlier this year she and another Belleville woman, Ed de Smidt, talked to the situation over. They decided to apply for a Local Initiatives Program grant.

The end result was a $27,600 LIP grant for a program called Belleville Services for the Handicapped and Senior Citizens.

Mrs. de Smidt runs the services that includes transportation for the handicapped.

Mrs. Zweck this week started on her project—doing home chores for the elderly. On her team are another woman and a handyman, Bill Overton.

They'll undertake smaller household chores—painting, house and garden cleanups, snow-shoveling and other domestic jobs that elderly residents find difficult, or for which they cannot afford outside help.

However, the team doesn't undertake tasks that "interfere with any particular trade," insists Mrs. Zweck.

Because funds for supplies were cut from the LIP grant, householders generally have to obtain any material needed for the workers—although Mr. Overton carries a well-stocked tool kit on each job.

Mrs. Zweck admits the idea isn't original. Local students introduced it last summer under an Opportunities for Youth grant.

Nonetheless, there is a continuing need for such a program in the community, she says.

As yet, demand has been slow since the project began started this week, says Mrs. Zweck.

But, as its existence becomes better known "we'll have a lot to do," she believes.

Those wishing to contact the service should phone 968-5094.

Eastman Acquitted

Gordon John Eastman 34, of Trenton was found not guilty of assault causing bodily harm by a 12-member jury during Wednesday's autumn sitting of county court at the Hastings County Courthouse in Belleville.

Eastman was charged in connection with a fight between two taxi drivers earlier this year at Trenton.

Eastman was represented by defence lawyer George Born of Trenton. The case was heard before Judge Russel C. Honey.

Monday's court action saw all evidence presented in the case plus the selection of two jurors. Summations from both counsel and Judge Honey's jury charge were also heard Wednesday.

Fire Guts Trailer

SHANNONVILLE — A 27-year-old Quebec man escaped injury early today when fire swept through his tractor-trailer unit on Highway 401 at the Salmon River Bridge just east of here.

Ontario Provincial Police at Belleville said Jean Careau of Ste. Barthelemy was westbound when a tire blew on the trailer and caught fire.

Chief Vince Maher of Trenton Township Volunteer Fire Department said due to the extensive overnight fog, firefighters took longer than usual to arrive at the scene and by the time they did, the fire was burning through the floors of the trailer.

Police estimated $18,300 damage to the trailer and its cargo of furniture in the 2.48 a.m. mishap. The tractor portion of the unit was not damaged.

Local Chamber Wants More Action from Parent

Belleville Chamber of Commerce wants its voice to be heard at the provincial chamber level and district representative Tom Hennebery is going to do the telling.

Board of directors decided in a Wednesday meeting to tell the Ontario Chamber they want to play a more active role in surveying business community opinions. They will ask for assistance and the decision be taken to the Ontario level.

Mr. Hennebury termed the decision as "getting down to nitty-gritty." The Ontario chapter, he said, should get down off their "ivory tower" and pay more attention to local chambers.

Surveys would be taken on matters such as the postal strike, said Mr. Hennebury.

"I think it would be a fine project for OMC," said the district representative.

New Wing Opened

Eric Runacres, director of education for the Hastings County Board of Education, officiated at the open house Wednesday of the new additions, including a library wing at Queen Elizabeth Senior Public School. Principal Ross Walmsley (left) also greeted the parents and staff.

Parents Get Glimpse Of New School Addition

An open house was held Wednesday by the staff of Queen Elizabeth Senior Public School to show parents and members of the Hastings County Board of Education the completion of the second stage of construction in the school.

The new $160,000 addition includes showers, a library, research centre, lounge, guidance department and outside recreation area as well as an enlarged gymnasium.

Last year, a heating system was installed and Director of Education Eric Runacres said Wednesday the next and final stage will be the construction of home economic, industrial arts, musical and special education centres.

Incident at College Results in Two Charges

A 19-year-old Foxboro man has been charged with possession of a weapon dangerous to the public peace and wilful damage over $50 following a police investigation by Quinte-area Provincial Police at Belleville late an incident at Loyalist College on Nov. 13.

Prince Edward County Council Wants No Part of Revived EMO

PICTON — Prince Edward County council has voted against further participation in the Quinte Emergency Measures Organization (EMO) despite an announcement that the federal government will fund 75 per cent of the cost of the program.

At a meeting this week council passed a bylaw to rescind a bylaw authorizing the signing of an agreement with Belleville, Trenton, Picton and Hastings to form an emergency measures organization.

Before the bylaw received third reading Ameliasburg reeve Arnold Wetherall informed councillors of the federal funding available.

Reeve Wetherall explained the EMO program has been loaned but could be reassembled if the organization were reactivated.

North Marysburg deputy-reeve Kenneth Hicks observed "I cannot see where the EMO has ever done much."

Reeve of Sophiasburg George Foster suggested council already had made a decision to leave the program and should continue this course of action.

Reeve Wetherall was asked to assess the value of the EMO in Prince Edward and he told councillors this was a difficult job.

"I don't know how much good it does in the lower end of the county," he remarked, finally.

Earlier this week, Belleville Mayor Ben Corke announced he had received a letter from the federal government's solicitor-general that major funding is available for Ontario EMO programs. In his letter, the government stated a 75-per-cent subsidy is available to programs with "approved budgets."

In response, Mayor Corke said the area EMO administrative committee is to meet Monday to decide on re-establishment of the EMO.

Earlier this summer, the provincial government withdrew support and organizations, across Ontario were forced to abandon operations.

Mayor Corke said a revitalized Quinte EMO would likely operate on a "modest budget" with no full time staff.

The EMO has been in operation since 1962, forming disaster planning for area municipalities and training several hundred volunteers who could work as an emergency relief force.

Meanwhile, Hastings County warden William McIlwra has called a meeting of the EMO area administrative committee for Monday, says Carl Bateman, county administrator.

The warden was vice-chairman of the committee until the resignation of former Belleville mayor Robin Jeffrey, who had headed the group.

Hastings County council, however, earlier this year defeated a proposal that it join in providing more funds to keep EMO operational.

Record Proves He's No Saint

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Jack Carlson set a new World Hockey Association standard for truculence Wednesday night.

The 31-year-old native of Virginia, Minn., became the first player ever to draw four major penalties in a single game, sharing Cleveland Crusaders, who beat the Saints 4-3.

Unless the rulebook is changed Carlson's record is one that is unlikely ever to be broken.

Because a third major leads to an automatic game misconduct, a player can accumulate four majors in a game only by drawing a double major after he has already accumulated two majors in the game.

Carlson began by drawing majors for high-sticking and fighting in the first period, then drew majors for cross-checking and fighting in a second-period brawl that also led to the expulsion of Cleveland's Paul Shmyr.

In Wednesday's only other game, Indianapolis Racers downed New England Whalers 3-1.

Carlson, 21, is one of three brothers from Virginia, Minn., in the Saints' organization. Steve and Jeff are with farm teams.

He made a big impression in his professional debut last year, drawing 246 minutes in penalties in 30 games with Johnstown Jets of the North American Hockey League before being promoted to the Saints.

Wednesday's 30 minutes in penalties gave him 79 for the season.

In an earlier game this season, the Saints and Crusaders set a WHA record with a total of 45 penalties, resulting in nearly 300 minutes in the penalty box. In Wednesday's game, there were 33 minutes in penalties in the first two periods.

After the fighting was out of the way, Bruce Boudreau scored for the Saints in the third period to force the game into overtime but John A. Stewart gave the Crusaders the win in the sixth minute of overtime.

Cleveland had taken a 3-0 lead in the first three minutes on goals by Al McDonough, Terry Ball and Tom Edur and outshot the Saints 53-33 in the game.

The Racers won their second game in a row on the strength of goals by Bryan Coates, Reg Thomas and Nick Harbaruk. Wayne Carleton scored for New England.

Problem Found, Henderson Back

TORONTO (CP) — Left winger Paul Henderson returned skating with Toronto Toros and might be back on the WHA's 1-14 Hockey Association club's roster in another week or two. Henderson left the club two weeks ago, unhappy about his performance this season. Later, doctors found he was suffering from a lack of oxygen in his blood which affected his stamina.

NAMED INTERIM COACH

HEMPSTEAD, N.Y. (AP) — New York Jets have fired head coach Charley Winner and named Ken Shipp, the club's offensive co-ordinator, interim coach for the last five weeks of the National Football League season. Jets president Phil Iselin made the announcement in the wake of a six-game losing streak.

HUNGARY WINS

MEXICO CITY (Reuter) — Hungary won the 1975 world modern pentathlon championships Wednesday, finishing ahead of the U.S. and last year's winner, the Soviet Union. Hungary finished with 14,703 points at the end of the five-day competition. The U.S. had 14,644 and the Soviet Union finished with 14,590. Canada, paced by John Hawes' win in the 200-metre freestyle swimming event Tuesday, finished in 14th place with 12,820 points.

GETS GOOD START

CALGARY (CP) — Canadian champion Cill Tetley of Thunder Bay, Ont., got off to a good start Wednesday in the $25,500 Century Curling Classic with an 8-6 victory over Doug Wastell of Elbow, Sask. In other action, Paul Savage of Toronto defeated George Fink of Calgary 9-5, former high school champion Robb King of Edmonton to the sixth seed in the Open section of the Houston Invitational golf tournament.

PAUL HENDERSON

upset Tom Reed of Edmonton 8-5, and three-time world champion Ron Northcott of Calgary shaded Orest Meleschuk of Winnipeg, another former world champion, 6-4. Two of 28 teams will qualify for the championship round Saturday from the 4 section of the three-event qualifying draw.

PLACED ON WAIVERS

FOXBORO, Mass. (AP) — New England Patriots announced Wednesday that they have placed two-year, veteran running back Mack Herron on National Football League waivers. Herron, who set an NFL record for total yardage last season, played with Winnipeg Blue Bombers of the Canadian Football League before he was waived by the Blue Bombers in 1973. Patriots' coach Chuck Fairbanks said he wasn't satisfied with Herron's contribution this year.

Milkshakes Don't Stop Puck But Herron Finds They Help

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Denis Herron is thriving on hard work.

Wednesday was a busy night for the Kansas City goalie and he responded to the challenge by kicking out 42 shots to enable the Scouts to upset New York Rangers 6-4 in a National Hockey League game.

Playing goal behind an often porous defence can be a physically taxing occupation, but the 23-year-old native of Chambly, Que., has been gaining weight since he joined the Scouts last year.

Still a skinny 150 pounds, Herron has used a special training regimen and a diet-loaded with milkshakes to build himself up from the 130 pounds he weighed when he turned professional three years ago.

"The extra weight makes me feel stronger," he says.

Kansas City coach Bep Guidolin says Herron has been playing well all along.

"When he came here he knew he was going to see a lot of shots," he says. "He knows that someday we'll protect him like we should."

In Wednesday's other NHL games, Vancouver Canucks defeated Washington Capitals 4-2, Chicago Black Hawks stopped Los Angeles Kings 4-2, Detroit Red Wings tied Boston Bruins 3-3 and Montreal Canadiens blanked Minnesota North Stars 6-0.

A Ranger defence that frequently found itself out of position left Ranger goalie Dave Wilson unprotected over and over again. Wilson didn't deny he had been let down by his defence.

"They must have had 20 good shots," he said. "Things like that shouldn't happen."

Ed Gilbert and Dennis Ponter netted two goals apiece for the light-scoring Scouts, who entered the contest with a four-game winless streak and just 20 goals in their first 16 games this season.

A Landover, Md., crowd of 6,298 saw Rick Blight, Gerry O'Flaherty, John Gould, Ron Sedlbauer and Dennis Vevergeart score a goal each for the Canucks.

Dennis Hull and Darcy Rota scored goals for Chicago 16 seconds apart in the final period, snapping a 3-2 tie and helping the Black Hawks stretch their unbeaten string to 10 games.

Hull's goal at 2:17 of the third period, his second of the night, beat Gary Edwards on five-foot rebound as the King's goalie was on the ice. Rota added an insurance tally for Chicago at 2:33 on a breakaway to score his sixth goal of the season.

The goaltending of Ed Giacomin, who made 28 saves, helped the Wings move into a tie with Pittsburgh Penguins for third place in the Norris Division.

A goal by Mickey Redmond with 10 seconds on the clock gave Detroit its tie.

Dan Maloney and Walt McKechnie scored the earlier goals for the Red Wings while Bobby Orr, Greg Sheppard and Wayne Cashman scored for Boston.

Yvan Cournoyer scored the first of six third-period goals for the Canadiens, breaking up a goaltender's duel between Ken Dryden of Montreal and Pete LaPrevot of the North Stars.

Steve Shutt added two goals and Guy Lapointe, Guy Lafleur and Doug Risebrough one each for the Canadiens, who had a 43-17 edge in shots.

Voyageurs Roll Clippers Look At Egers, Foley

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Nova Scotia Voyageurs continued their winning ways in the American Hockey League on Wednesday night while the idle Baltimore Clippers signed two major league rejects to bolster their roster.

The Voyageurs defeated Providence Reds 8-4 to increase their Northern Division lead to seven points over the Reds. In another league game Wednesday night, Springfield Indians blanked Hershey Bears 5-4.

Meanwhile, the Clippers announced the signing of Jack Egers and Rick Foley to 10-game try-out contracts.

Egers, 26, who was released outright from Washington Capitals in the National Hockey League last Thursday, plays both right and left wing. Foley was released by Toronto Toros of the World Hockey Association last week. The 30-year-old Foley played with Baltimore in the 1973-74 season and scored 70 points. He played with Syracuse of the AHL last year.

Glen Goldup scored two goals to lead the Voyageurs to victory.

Guy Chouinard, Pierre Mondou, Mike Pulich, Ron Ashruff, Gordie McTavish and Bill Nyrop scored for the Voyageurs who got three of their goals on power plays.

Jerry Byers, with two, Al Simmons and Boyd Anderson scored for the Reds, outshot 40-32.

Hugh Harvey scored two goals, including the game winner in the final period, to lead the Indians past Hershey.

The Indians broke open a 3-2 game in the opening minutes of the third period with Don Seiling and Bob Pedersoth scoring 11 seconds apart.

The Bears pulled to within a goal of the Indians twice, but Harvey put away the game with his second marker mid-way through the period.

The victory snapped Springfield's five-game losing streak. Gary Collerpickel up Springfield's other goal.

Derek Smith had two goals for Hershey, and Nelson Debenedet and Pete Laframboise each scored one.

Datsun is the gas mileage winner again in 1976.*

E.P.A. tests prove it.

Gas mileage tests conducted by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency in 1975 proved that no other car in Canada got better gas mileage than a Datsun B210. The test results on the 1976 cars have just been announced and, once again, the Datsun B210 is the gas mileage winner.* The B210 delivered 40 miles per gallon in combined city-highway driving (getting up to 35 mpg in the city, and up to 49 mpg on the highway). No car in Canada does better.

It's Datsun's aerodynamic styling and efficient engineering that produce the money-saving high gas mileage you need. And there's a B210 for everyone ... including 4-door sedans, stylish 2-door hatchbacks, and budget-pleasing 2-doors starting as low as $3,295.†

Check out all the 1976 Datsuns, and test-drive the one you like, at your Datsun dealer today. If you enjoy driving, you'll love the feel of a Datsun. The '76 Datsuns have all the economy you need, and all the driving feeling you want. That's what the Datsun spirit is all about.

*The Datsun B210, with manual transmission, gets 40 mpg in combined city-highway driving (35 mpg in the City, and 49 mpg on the highway), according to latest U.S. E.P.A. test results, when converted from U.S. to Imperial gallons. In the same tests, Subaru and Chevette tied with Datsun B210 at 40 mpg for top spot in combined city-highway driving. Your own gas mileage may vary from these results, as it depends on many factors, including the kind of driving you do, the condition of your car, and its optional equipment.

Jenkins Takes Charge

TORONTO (CP) — United States professional rider Rodney Jenkins regained his comfortable lead in the individual standings at the Royal Winter Fair horse show by capturing the International Fault and Out event Wednesday night.

The Fault and Out class requires a rider to clear as many fences as he can in 60 seconds. Each cleared obstacle counts two points. If a knockdown occurs the ride is over but the downed fence is worth one point.

Although no fences count after 60 seconds have elapsed, the clock doesn't stop until a rider has covered all the obstacles.

Jenkins, who earned $650 with his victory on Idle Dice, failed to place Tuesday night. He joked Wednesday that a night away from the party circuit helped him win again.

The last to ride in Wednesday's event, he matched the 17 fences cleared by Kevin Bacon on Chichester but beat the Australian with a better time.

Jim Elder of Aurora, Ont., was 11th on Anahi; Moffat Dunlap of Newmarket, Ont., 12th on Cousin Albert and Terry Leibel of Oakville, Ont., and Ian Millar of Perth, Ont., tied for 18th.

Wednesday's event left Jenkins with 35 points and a 16-point advantage over Eric Wauters of Belgium and Buddy Brown of the U. S. Bacon has 20 points.

Series Shares Healthy

NEW YORK (AP) — Cincinnati Reds received 22 shares worth $19,000.46 each for winning the 1975 World Series, baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn said today.

The $19,000.46 was the fourth highest individual share in World Series history, with only the cheques received by Oakland A's in 1973, 1972 and 1974 being larger.

Boston Red Sox, who lost in the last inning of the seventh game, earned $12,326.87 each, with 34 members of the American League champions receiving full shares.

All 25 players on each team who were eligible for World Series cheques took home their full shares.

Boston players Denny Doyle, who was traded from California to Boston early in the season, and Jim Burton and Jim Willoughby, both in the minor leagues when the 1975 season started, recieved a full share of $13,325.87.

Only Cincinnati reliever Rawly Eastwick joined the Reds' roster after the start of the regular season but he came aboard before June 1 and automatically qualified for a full share. Eastwick with his World Series cheque with two victories and a save in the seven-game thriller.

RAWLY EASTWICK

Post-season attendance totalled 594,531, including 308,272 from the World Series, in which four games were played in little Fenway Park with its seating capacity of 35,202.

Rough Stuff Is Out

OTTAWA — The Soviet hockey team Khimik, scheduled to play Ontario, Quebec and Halifax teams during the Christmas holidays, is the youngest of the top 10 Soviet clubs and perhaps the cleanest.

The club, from the chemical city of Voskresensk just east of Moscow, reached the Soviet finals in 1972 but lost to Moscow Dynamo.

Khimik opens its Canadian tour Dec. 26 against a Cambridge, Ont., senior amateur team, plays another game at Whitby, Ont., Dec. 28 and then plays junior clubs in Oshawa, London and Hull, Que., before taking on the Nova Scotia Voyageurs, currently leading the Northern Division of the American Hockey League, in Halifax Jan. 4, 6 and 7.

Nikolai Epshtein, called a "kid glove" coach because of his emphasis on clean play, said in an interview released here by Novosti news agency that playing Canadians "is a sort of test of the character, courage and fighting traits of any hockey player."

The top Khimik players are brothers Alexander and Vladimir Golikov and Viktor Zuchok, a top scorer.

The Canadian Press reported erroneously Monday that the coach and those three players belong to the Moscow Red Army, which with the Wings of Moscow are playing NHL clubs in late December and early January.

What He Got from Sport He's Willing to Return

When most of us talk of quitting something back into a sport we derived so much from, it's a lead pipe cinch that's all it is . . . talk.

Not so with city firefighter Larry Fritz.

In the late '60s when Dave Ball was coaching Moira Secondary School football team to three straight Ontario championships, Fritz was part of the action.

And sitting across the desk from me the other day, Larry left the distinct impression he could still go the distance with a worthy opponent.

Since I'm a newer was' not a "has been", I didn't go into that subject while conferring with the wrestling buff.

Larry is co-coaster for the second annual Belleville Firefighters Wrestling Tournament.

He helped create the event a bit when it first made its appearance on the sports scene in 1974. Since this year's competition, set for Centennial Secondary School, December 13, promises to be even more successful.

"We've already got five more schools entered than we had in our first year," says Fritz "and we may have some additions."

Cobourg East walked off with most of the silverware in 1974 but Fritz figures that school will get plenty of competition this time around.

"People just don't realize that we have excellent wrestlers at the high school level in this area," he says.

Bay of Quinte schools represented in the 1974 affair are Quinte, Trenton High, Moira, Centennial, Bayside, Centre Hastings, Prince Edward Collegiate, East Northumberland, and Napanee District.

"Our tournament gives these young wrestlers a chance for more competition than they would ordinarily get and that's important," explains Larry.

"When we had those championship teams at Moira, we travelled to meets in Guelph and the U.S. and it was a big help," he says.

One of the big drawing cards the local event offers is the fact the top three finishers in the 14 weight classes receive trophies. That's considered a departure from the rule of thumb in other similar competitions where winners are rewarded with ribbons.

Wrestling coaches Ted Fordham (Bayside) and Bob Pyszowski (Centre Hastings) are working on schedules for the December 13 meet. Fordham was wrestling at Moira when Fritz was there.

LARRY FRITZ

Head official for the meet is Bayside's Phil Meeks.

Rounding out the list of schools entered in the hunt for the team trophy and individual awards are Frontenac and Rideau (Kingston) Frontenac, Cobourg East and Anderson High from the Oshawa area.

Pat Carty's Centennial squad is the host team.

Last year, the meet attracted what Fritz terms "a good turnout of spectators".

With an admission price of 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for students, the event has to be one of the bargains of the decade. And it offers spectators a change of pace from the regular diet of hockey dished up at this time of the year.

Action gets under way at 10 a.m., following weighins, scheduled for 9 a.m. at Centennial Secondary School.

Bowlers Taking Aim At Cup in Classic

Entries are still being accepted for the 10th annual Gold Cup Classic, a popular fivepin match play singles event staged at Belleville Bowl-O-Drome. This year's classic goes Sunday with the bowlers taking to the Front St. lanes at noon.

A minimum of 32 entries is expected, making first place prize money of $100. Second place would be good for $30, third and fourth, $25 and $20, sixth, seventh and eighth, $15, each.

Should the list of entries reach 48, prize money will jump to $125, $60, $30, $30, and four awards of $25.

Bowlers will be divided into groups of eight of 10 and will play a round robin schedule of single game matches within their group. Top two bowlers in each division advance to a best of three series and survivors compete in match play until a winner is decided.

Trenton's Bud Pelican has won the classic twice. Belleville winners over the years are Cec Hardwick, Glenn Hamilton, Leo Labell, Bill Bateman, Jack Calder, Ron Saylor and Jim Corlies.

Competes in Florida

Sights Set on Olympics

By TOM GAVEY
Sports Staff

Jean Mainland is finding that the sport of archery can become more than a hobby, especially if you're good at it.

Today she leaves for Gainsville, Florida, to compete in the Field Championships of the Americas. The archery competition features archers from Canada, the United States, Mexico and South American countries.

"That makes the competition a little stiff, but it shouldn't phase Miss Mainland. To qualify for the tournament she had to come a long way. The fact that she finished fourth in the Canadian Field Championships this past summer, prompted the organizers in Florida to invite her.

She will be in Florida for five days, one day for practice and two days will be used for the competition. Eight girls will represent Canada in the event.

Floyd Armstrong of the Belleville Archery Club has guided Jean for the five years she has been involved in the sport.

"I started out in the classes for beats (Bee Bleecher) and got to like archery", said Miss Mainland.

The two-day event in Florida will be different from previous competitions she has been in. Shots will be taken from measured and unmeasured distances, with the format varying.

International competition should be a good experience for Jean, since next year she will be at the trials for the Canadian Field Championships. This year, she will be going against about 30 girls for a spot on that team.

As for her chances in Florida, Miss Mainland hopes to do well.

"I'm not sure at all about how I'll do, it's a new experience and there will be some fine archers competing," she said.

Coach Armstrong was more optimistic as he gave her tips at Bay Riverview Auditorium, Wednesday.

Over the winter Jean practices constantly at the auditorium.

Scoring at the competition will be done by judges, with the regular archery targets being used.

Her next major tournament will not be until the Olympic trials, which means that trip to Florida will help in the experience department as well as in prestige.

Ranking fourth at Canadian Summer Archery Games makes Jean a top contender for the Olympic team, and this new experience can't help but add to her chances.

When Jean returns to Belleville five days from now, she may not have a win under her belt, but she may have the experience needed to put her on the 1976 Olympic team.

Kiwanis Scores A First

Paced by the Randy McFarlane-Danny Wells-Bobby Brand attacking unit which produced a total of 16 points, Kiwanis roared to its first win of the young season in the Belleville Minor Hockey Association's bantam minor house league, Wednesday.

The Kiwanis win came at the expense of Mulmur-Maines which fell 7-2. Wells shot two goals and picked up a pair of assists while McFarlane and Brand each checked in with a goal and two helpers. Darryl Brennan, Mike Genevrant and Dave Coyes were the other marksmen. Replying for Mulmur-Maines were David Jones and Mike Miller.

In other games, Blake Kerr Ken signed Bob's Auto Body 6-5, Ed's Esso stopped Red Ball 9-3, Whitney Rentals Petwee Major Selects shaded Y's Men's Club 5-4 and Drug Store Cowboys shot past Legion 42.

The Blake Kerr team stared defeat in the face, decided it wanted none of that, and responded for five third-period goals, two in the last minute, to squeeze out the win over Bob's.

Shawn Rafferty and John Dent each fired a pair of goals for the winners with one each for Tim Green and Dave Poil. Bob's got a pair of goals from Don Cassidy, Kevin Moore added the sticks of Lloyd Brusay, Lloyd Olsen and Gary Jennings.

Mike Vani went on a scoring spree in pace Ed's in the win. He found the mark for four goals. Gordon Hallam had two while Mike Williams, John Pyzik and Doug Austin also tallied. Putting the teeth in Ed's Esso attack attack were John Mankiktrick, Tony Armstrong and Scott Lissle.

Allen Derry's second goal of the game came with only 4:6 remaining to play and gave Whitney's the nod over Y's Men. Steve Taylor was also a two-goal man for the winners and Craig Saxby counted once. Timothy Legere had a big night in defeat, scoring three times. Jamie Parsley had the other Y's Men goal.

Single goals by Ken Kent, Barry Rachel, Danny McGrath and Rob Inderwey got the job done for Doug Jones Bowlers. David Quincey supplied both Legion goals.

Saints Pour It On

Pressure Tells on Tigers

TRENTON Quinte and Trenton opened the regular season for A Division Bay of Quinte High School Basketball League Tuesday afternoon night here. Home court advantage meant little though as the Saints' senior and junior squads won their respective contests.

The seniors, led by third year player Steve McCracken, downed the home team 87-54. McCracken hit for 27 points.

The game was close until midway through the third quarter. Quinte held only a 12 point edge, 37-25.

"We pressed them all the way through the game and it paid off," said Quinte coach, Jim Murray. The Saints kept a full court man-on-man press going all the time and Murray utilized his balanced 11-mana bench, firing fresh recruits at the tiring Tigers.

In the third period his strategy paid off as the Saints forced a continuous stream of turnovers and scored 20 points. That total put the game out of reach for the home side.

Guards Rick Culkin and Sibling Wilson were next on the Saints' scoring list with 15 and 14 points apiece. Paul Wilson and Steve Jones were the only other double figure scorers with 10 each.

Blaine Rittinger led the home squad with 14 points and Mike Day followed up with 13.

Perseverance was also the case in the junior contest. "We just outlasted them," commented Saints' coach, Paul Paddon.

The visitors held just a nine point margin at the half, but pushed it to a 20 point difference by the end of the game.

Paul Jones topped the Quinte scorers with 17 points. He was followed by Peter Hall with 16, Kevin Ward with 13 and ROb Goodfellow with 11.

Paul Hrywnak scored nine for Trenton and Rob Campbell added six.

The Tigers midget squad saved face for the home teams as they rolled to a 51-36 win.

Salvo Bonarrio was top gunner for the Tigers. He accepted 17 big points and teammate Doug Attwood scored 12. For the Saints, Tim Pomfret and Terry Murphy had eight each.

Alouettes Stick Together

Conrad Says Character Does It

CALGARY (CP) — Character has played a large role in the success of Montreal Alouettes, says centre Wayne Conrad.

"I personally think it is the character of this team that's important," Conrad said after the Alouettes' workout Wednesday in preparation for Sunday's Grey Cup final against Edmonton Eskimos in Canadian Football League action.

"I don't think it's the defensive line or the defensive backfield," he said. "The team as a whole has so much character. When you have character, you have a chance."

"What I mean by character is when you're playing as a team and things . . . are not going well, we stick together and that's what I call character.

"We don't have any of this dissension stuff," Conrad added.

"When we are out in the field during practice, we are having fun. Having fun is very important."

Conrad said another key factor with the Alouettes is their backup personnel.

"I don't think its unfair to make a comparison between this year's team and last year's. We have had injuries to guys like Chuck Zapiec and Dave Braggins. Of course this is a tremendous loss.

"Frank Pomarico is filling in Braggins' spot. We have tremendous backup talent on the Montreal Alouettes. I said our strong point was character, which it is, but one of our strong points is our backup personnel. We have a lot of guys that could start on any team in the CFL."

Conrad said the Eskimos have a "fine football club."

"They have Tom Wilkinson, Bruce Lemmerman and of course George McGown. Should I go on? They have great defence with people like Tom Lax, Dave Fennell and they've added a new linebacker, Dan Kepley. I haven't played against him but I watched him against Regina and he was superb. I'm preparing for playing against him."

Late Additions Play Key Roles

CALGARY (CP) — imports Dan Kepley and Wayne Matherne, two newcomers on the Edmonton Eskimo defensive team, have much in common as they prepare for Sunday's Grey Cup rematch with Montreal Alouettes.

Kepley will work at the middle linebacker spot he grabbed after an injury to Sam Britto. Matherne will play the inside defensive back position he filled brilliantly during Edmonton's 20-18 victory over Saskatchewan Roughriders in the Western Football Conference final last weekend.

Both believed previously this season that they were through with football, at least until 1976, and both needed a stroke of fortune to help them find a place in the lineup.

Matherne failed in a trial as a defensive cornerback when he could not adjust to the outside position and was cut by head coach Ray Jauch, while Kepley, who signed as a free agent, was released by Dallas Cowboys of the National Football League as one of the final Dallas cuts.

After Matherne was chopped, an injury opened a new spot on the Edmonton roster. A telephone call by Jauch found Matherne eating breakfast in Vancouver at the home of British Columbia quarterback Don Moorhead.

Matherne, who attended Louisiana State University, accepted the new Edmonton offer. He returned on short notice but suffered the injury that kept him on the sidelines after that.

Matherne had a deep hamstring pull that responded slowly to treatment. When the leg was ready, so was Jauch, who knew he wanted Matherne in the lineup and who found space on the active list in time for the WFC final.

Quality Pool for New NFL Teams

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Football League moved Wednesday to allow two new franchises to draw players from what NFL commissioner Pete Rozelle called ". . . the largest pool of quality players ever available in (NFL) football expansion."

The move came when current NFL team owners agreed to permit the Tampa Bay Buccaneers and Seattle Seahawks to stock their teams with players from both the active and reserve pools.

The commissioner said certain aspects of the agreement would be subject to collective bargaining between the NFL Management Council, the owners' bargaining agent, and the NFL Players' Association.

John Thompson, general manager of the Seattle team, said that except for the decision to expand, ". . . everything affecting the employees is negotiable. Ostensibly, all of this is subject to negotiations with the players."

"After the start of the sixth round, the two new teams will have made 26 of the first 158 draft choices or 16 per cent," said Rozelle.

In the college draft, Seattle and Tampa Bay will alternate first and second choices in each of the 17 rounds and will each receive 23 veterans and 25 players from the college draft for a total of 64 on their roster.

WINS GAME

BELGRADE (AP) — Yugoslavia defeated Northern Ireland 1-0 Wednesday to advance to the quarter-finals of the European soccer cup of nations. Wales also advanced to the quarter-final round, beating Austria 1-0 in a game played at Wrexham, Wales, to determine a Group Two qualifier.

Fryer Gets Nod Over Lumsden

TORONTO (CP) — Brian Fryer, flanker for University of Alberta Golden Bears, was the Hec Crighton Trophy on Wednesday night as the outstanding Canadian intercollegiate football player.

The award, announced at an awards pretentation by the Canadian Intercollegiate Athletic Union (CIAU), came as a surprise to many among the nearly 300 who attended the function.

Many had expected that Neil Lumsden, who set a national career scoring record for University of Ottawa Gee-Gees, would win the award without any competition from the nominees of the three other university groups.

Fryer, who scored 44 points on seven touchdowns and two singles in his senior year, was a versatile performer for the Golden Bears, returning six punts for 62 yards and nine kickoffs for 306 yards, a 34-yard average.

The other nominees for the Crighton award were Ervin Avery, a defensive halfback-wide receiver from St. Francis Xavier University in Antigonish, N.S., and Bruce Morris, a running back from University of Guelph.

Mark Pollier, a 272-pound offensive tackle from St. Mary's University in Halifax, won the John Metras Trophy as the outstanding lineman in Canadian college football.

Lumsden had scored 130 points this season, including 20 touchdowns, going into Friday night's national football final with University of Calgary Dinosaurs.

Officials of the CIAU refused to say who the selectors were or break down the voting for the awards.

9 OUT OF 10 TOYOTAS EVER SOLD IN CANADA ARE STILL ON THE ROAD.

While most statistics may be pretty boring, we think this one is pretty impressive.

9 out of 10 Toyotas we've sold in Canada in the last ten years are still on the road today.* And we've sold a lot of Toyotas. Over the past five years we've sold more cars than any other import car manufacturer—more than 250,000 of them. And nearly every one of them is still on the road.

All of which makes us very happy. And we're not the only ones. Over the past several years we've received literally hundreds of letters from Toyota owners. And what they have to say, says it all.

1966 Toyota 700 Deluxe.

DEAR TOYOTA:

"In March 1971 when I purchased my Corolla 1200 I had thoughts of trading it in within twelve months—before I ran into problems'.

The fact that I still have the car and have driven it in excess of 106,000 miles, speaks for itself.

Driving the number of miles I do in a year, I am naturally interested in economy. My Corolla provides great mileage while giving a ride which is more comfortable than many standard size cars I have driven. ...having reached 106,000 miles without problems, I should thank you for a quality product at a reasonable price".

Yours very truly,
W.L. Laird,
Keswick, Ontario.

DEAR TOYOTA:

"This is the fifth anniversary of buying our Corona Mark II. It was our first new car and has taken us over 105,000 miles without any major repairs, and is still giving us thirty miles to the gallon of gas.

It has taken us through snowstorms and rainstorms and never left us stranded. Out here on the prairies where winters are bitter it has started on the coldest of mornings.

We think our little Toyota is terrific and we are now aiming for 150,000 miles".

Sincerely,
Jean and Dieter Busse,
Leduc, Alberta.

THANK YOU.

Of course we can't guarantee that your Toyota will last as long as these, but we can assure you that if you maintain it, service it and drive it properly it will last a very long time. Our record speaks for itself.

Thank you Mr. Laird. Thank you Mr. & Mrs. Busse. Thank you all. We think you're terrific.

TERRIFIC TOYOTA COROLLA.

As well as performing and lasting like a trooper, our Toyota Corolla comes with a nice long list of extras that you won't find on Pinto, Vega or Chevette. Electric rear window defroster, power front disc brakes and adjustable, fully reclining bucket seats are standard equipment. And surprisingly, the Toyota Corolla 1200 costs less than Pinto, Vega or Chevette.

And this is why Toyota Corolla (in 1200 or 1600 models) is the top selling model in the world and why Toyota is the number one import in Canada.

Junk Attacked

ST. MARYS, Ont. (CP) — Front lawns must not be graveyards for old cars and washing machines and town councillors have resolved to do something about local eyesores. A bylaw restricting storage of metal waste on front lawns of private homes will be presented to council when it is drafted, town clerk Ken Grant said.

TV Using More Live Programming

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Television, which began essentially as a live-action medium but turned to filming everything on film, is increasingly taking on a live look again.

Very little programming is live, obviously, but more and more shows look as though they may because they are being shot on videotape.

Producers are using videotape for everything from prime-time series like All in the Family to variety shows (Cher, The Tonight Show), dramatic specials (The Missing of Joanna), the Hallmark Hall of Fame productions, daytime soap operas and game shows. Even commercials are beginning to show up on tape.

Some TV industry executives believe it is just a matter of time before most of American television is videotape.

"The technology of videotape has progressed to the point where a large and growing portion of television production is accomplished on tape, rather than on film," said Leonard Goldenson, board chairman of Metromedia Producing Companies Inc.

"There is every reason to expect this trend to continue."

What videotape has going for it is not that it offers a "live" look but rather that it can generally cheaper to use in many circumstances.

Many TV movies and specials would experience large savings by doing the same, said veteran director Fielder Cook.

The difference is that videotape cameras transmit images into electrical signals that are recorded on tape. And just like the tape recorder you have at home, this tape can be played back immediately. That is why television sporting events are perfect for truly "instant" replays.

"The advantage of videotape? In a word, immediacy," says Greg Biller, managing director of compact Video Systems's Inc., one of the leaders in advancing videotape technology.

"What you've got, you've got now. There's no question about waiting for the film to be processed to see if the shot came out. You've shot it, and you have it."

The producer saves money because there is no film processing expense, there is no time wasted on shooting a scene over again for protection and there is potentially less time spent editing.

If more than one camera is being used at once, a scene can actually be edited together as it is being shot. Otherwise the raw footage can be taken into a videotape studio and edited by computer, complete with fades, dissolves and other special effects.

Why should videotape, a medium that's been around for at least 20 years, suddenly blossom in the last five?

Lenses have been adapted from film cameras to provide more photographic variety. Cameras have been made less bulky and the editing process has been refined — so it has been made speedier.

Hexagon on 10-week Tour

OTTAWA (CP) — Hexagon, an energetic troupe of young performers, will tour Ontario by the National Arts Centre, is on a busy tour making history alive for primary and secondary school students.

The tour, covering eastern and northeastern Ontario and southwestern Quebec, is a two-day performances for the five performers working with simple sets and costumes in school auditoriums, gyms, or cafeterias—where the latter are available.

Their productions are Almighty Voice, a play by Leon Petersen for primary school children in Grades four to seven, and 1837: The Farmers' Revolt by Rick Salutin and Theatre Passe Muraille of Toronto, for high school audiences.

Almighty Voice, directed by Marigold Charlesworth of the National Arts Centre, tells the story of the Cree Indian who, in the late 1800s near Duck Lake, Sask., killed a cow for his wedding feast. He was jailed, escaped, shot a pursuing Mounted Police sergeant and eluded police for two years before dying in a fixed battle.

Almight Voice is a participation play in which the junior school students are invited to perform as Indians, settlers and Mounties. It's energetic and noisy, with slap-sticks passed out to the kids to bang on the floor to immitate the sound of gunshots.

At one point in the play, when rifles are promised to anyone who will help turn Mighty Voice in to the Mounties, a forest of young hands go up.

Wayne Bennett plays Almighty Voice and Richard McMillan is Sgt. Colebrook.

They also bring dramatic roles in 1837: The Farmer's Revolt, the story of farmer support for the Mackenzie Rebellion led by William Lyon Mackenzie.

Performed for high school students on a set that is more elaborate than the simple layer and packing box, which is all that is needed for Almighty Voice, the Salutin play is directed by John Gray. It tells the story of how the 1837 Rebellion may have failed miserably to overturn the Family Compact government of Sir Francis Bond Head, but much of Canadian history since then can be traced to it.

In the performance, it has plenty of song, foot-stamping rhythms and action to entertain a student audience, including an hilarious impression of Prince Francis' talking head mouthing the conventional colonial wisdom of the day.

This is Hexagon's fifth season for performances in district schools, and a French language equivalent — called L'Hexagone — is also on the road performing in French schools of eastern Ontario.

The companies get their names from the six-sided figure that forms the roof of the National Arts, and is prominent in its architectural design.

New Program Shows East Coast Humor

OTTAWA (CP) A show which is given a little like Petersburg Frostathers and Running Cons has to be fey, and the producers hope it will be seen Thursday night on a new CKCO-TV network half-hour series fits the description.

It is a production by Codco, the touring troupe of Newfoundland comedians which uses "grilles" acetalim for their actions in Philadelphia last month as part of Canada's salute to the U.S. bicentennial.

Codco is the living embodiment of the Newfie joke.

If their biting satire on life in Newfoundland was performed by anyone other than a group of Newfoundlanders, it would well be rioting in the streets of St. John's—and in front of the offices of the Canada Council Lieut. Cmdr.a Council fends from the federal treatory have helped Codco get established.

Their show for the CBC opens a new winter series called Peep Show which is to be a showcase for new performing and directing talent by artists working in television. Peep Show is to be seen on most—but not all—CBC-TV stations.

Fretering Fretchers and Running Cons is described by Codco as "a rugrefy honest comedy with a gentle and strangely primitive style."

If life is tough like this it is kitchen of an export family, the rest of Canada might wonder what it go, in the bargain that brought Newfoundland into Confederation in 1949.

Members of Codco are graduates of Memorial University in St. John's and their forte seems to be black Newfie humor. Some of the scenes in Thursday night's show border on the macabre, if they were not so clearly outlaw-ish.

John Hirsch, director of TV drama for the CBC, said he wished Codco could produce another show for the rest of the network. But since all the main talent is a part of the Codco performers themselves, they haven't yet built up an sufficiently large book of scripts to do so.

Blind Artist Enjoys Career

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — "Soul isn't something black. It means anything that's done with honest feelings."

That statement was made by Ray Charles, Michael Lewis, a 26-year-old singer, is a perfect example of what he means by words.

Like Charles, Lewis is blind performer who combines solid vocals work with a distinctive voice.

A typical concert includes a native runs the gamut of moods as he can be loud and raucous or cool and sophisticated.

"Everything depends on how I feel at the time I am performing," Lewis said.

But definitions and descriptions of his music make him uneasy.

"Rhainsinger? that's a dirty joke," he said. "I'm a soloist and I work with bands, so I guess I'm a folk singer in the broadest sense of the word . . . I would rather the bill."

Though about to release a single, Lewis makes it plain that recording is not his prime ambition.

"I'm an entertainer before I'm a record artist and I enjoy performing for people," he said.

The single, slated for release in January, includes two of Lewis own compositions, Helpless Heavenly Night and Bordeline.

The latter tells of his hard times in Illinois and his need to escape to Canada, which he did in 1970.

Most of Lewis professional career has been spent in this city

Raquel Missing

TORONTO (CP) — Someone, somewhere in this city is hiding Raquel Welch, and her owner is not amused. A wax model of the Hollywood screen star was stolen from a downtown wax museum recently. David Reddale, the museum's manager, said he suspects someone hid in the museum until it closed, stole the model and fled down a fire escape.

Hair Causes Problems

STRATFORD, Ont. (CP) — Sam Blowes, head of the Public Utility Commission, said some city bus drivers drive around corners too fast. This was one of the reasons why grips should be placed on the seats of the city's diesel-like buses, he said. PUC manager Doug Seath said he would investigate the complaint.

Causes Erosion Of Textile Industry

TORONTO (CP) — An Ontario study indicates that the federal government has not taken full advantage of international agreements to prevent the erosion of the Canadian textile industry's share of the domestic market.

The study, made public last Wednesday, said Ottawa's policy of attempting to restrain disruption of the Canadian market by invoking provisions of the General Agreement of Tariffs and Trade (GATT) has not halted a continuing decline in the Canadian share of the market.

Natural Breathing Eliminates Sprays

By G. C. THOMPSON, MD

Dear Dr. Thompson: I am writing this letter as a sort of follow-up to a letter from Mrs. A.P. on nasal sprays.

I, too, was hooked on the stuff. I couldn't let a day go by without getting relief because I couldn't breath. Well, I was lucky. I made up my mind to die as my nose, lungs and throat man. And am I glad I did.

I can't begin to tell you the relief that was brought on. He examined me and explained that I had so polyps in the back of my nasal passages, and told me of the evils of overusing the sprays.

I didn't know how I was going to make it without spraying something into my nose, but I did. For one night used to spray one any, and then went back and had one of my sinuses drained. That was a big part of my problem. Now I only use the spray (prescribed) when my allergy attacks hit.

Those who do not have sinus difficulty or allergies don't know that breathing naturally for one whole week is not such a big deal. My problem is you can spray your nose as often as I had to. I spoke on second philatment.—R.G.

The amount of mail I received from other people with "junkies" following Mrs. A.P.'s letter surprised me. Some, like you, had weaned themselves away from the overuse of nasal nostril at a time, in some cases.

The sprays have their place and most doctors will give extra warnings to patients about them. I hope Mrs. A.P.'s letter and your own serve to point up the problem to her and others.

There are more sensible methods of dealing with sinus problems than resorting to over-the-counter preparations.

Dear Dr. Thompson: During a recent physical I had a mammogram done. I was told that I had cystic mastitis and should have a mammogram done every year. I had a cyst removed about eight years ago.

Is this condition serious? Is there a possibility that it would turn malignant? If so, should the breast be removed before any danger signals appear, thereby removing all possibilities of cancer in the future?

I am a 36-year-old and my menstrual period stopped approximately 10 years ago. I am my good health. I am 5 feet, 3 inches tall and weigh 110 pounds.—Mrs. M.

This is a common disorder of the breasts, usually occurring in women between the ages of 30 and 50. Periodic mammograms are given in order to observe the progress.

It is related, or thought to be related, to ovarian activity, and it usually does not be activated after menopause. The fact that several you had eight years ago was very likely to develop another there was any malignancy.

Your normal mammogram apparently showed no abnormal Dr. Mackey would be something undertaken only if lumps or other symptoms such as tender, enlarged nipples, changes in the cysts. You would be wise to limit your intake of fatty foods, check-ups.

If you are presently taking hormones for menopausal symptoms, you might want to inquire about the possibility of discontinuing them. They can be a factor.

Dear Dr. Thompson: Is it possible to have a twin pregnancy? If so, please explain.—Ms. F.F.

The supernumerary (extra) nipple occurs in from one in 100 persons at all births, and the incidence is equally divided between males and females. It is thought to be inherited. They are of no consequence surgically if they cause embarrassment.

Dear Dr. Thompson: I have a three-year-old daughter. Is there any harm in using bubble baths on her? Could it cause problems?—Y.Y.

Bubble baths are not advised for young girls because they can cause genital irritation.

Cubans Join Angolan Struggle

LUANDA (AP) — Sources say that about 1,000 Cuban combat troops have been flown here to support the Soviet-backed Popular Movement (MPLA) army in Angola's bloody civil war.

About 1,500 other Cuban infantrymen and "advisers" were apparently during the last few weeks to help the MPLA. Some of the Cubans are expected to lead an offensive to take Carmona, a key road junction 130 miles northeast of Luanda.

MPLA Defence Minister Hermiqua Carreira told reporters:

"We're preparing a northern offensive. Our march northward is in an advanced stage and we're knocking on the gates of Carmona."

The MPLA is also fighting 18 miles north of here against rival forces of the National Front, or FNLA, led by its president, Holden Roberto.

The fighting there has been inconclusive since the MPLA obtained a strong FNLA position two weeks ago. The FNLA was trying to take Luanda, Angola's capital, from the MPLA before the Portuguese gave the big African colony independence Nov. 11, ending five centuries of colonial rule.

Other Cuban troops are expected to be sent to fight MPLA units on the southern front, who are reported surrounded after two weeks of fighting.

The retreating MPLA troops who were reported harried by the Portuguese-backed militiamen flown by South Africans, have fled to a position on the Cuito River after losing seven important towns including the ports of Lobito and Benguela.

"The situation in the south is very difficult," said Carreira. "The distance between straight and there is very great. We weren't ready for this fight there."

The MPLA has lost many of its gains it made several weeks ago. It now holds Luanda and a narrow band of territory running across central Angola to the Zambian border.

The FNLA is armed by the United States, China and neighbouring Zaire and holds the northwest. So far, there have been no reports of U.S. citizens fighting with its forces.

A third faction called UNITA, the Union for Total Independence of Angola, is commanded by Jonas Savimbi and financially backed by South Africa, which controls much of the south and has its capital in Huambo, Angola's second largest city which the Portuguese called Nova Lisboa.

The FNLA and UNITA are joined in a fragile alliance against the MPLA. But despite their big gains, they face a stiff fight from the MPLA, whose veterans of the 13-year guerrilla war against the Portuguese are apparently fighting well.

Santa Suns Sans Suit

The recent spell of warm weather was just too much for Santa Claus, who shed his coat and boots after practising for a mini-parade to be held in Mississauga, Ont., just west of Toronto, Saturday. Portugal Suspends Operations

LISBON (AP) — The Portuguese government announced today that it has suspended all its operations until President Francisco da Costa Gomes guarantees it the army's full backing.

A communique issued after an all-night meeting between Premier Jose Pinheiro de Azevedo and his cabinet said:

"Recent events show that the government, which does not have the armed forces under its jurisdiction, does not have the possibility of effectively "assuring normal government activity in certain zones of the country."

New Technology Thrived in Village

WATERLOO, Ont. (CP)—The University of Waterloo, recognized throughout Canada for its engineering programs, is becoming known in another area—correspondence courses.

A survey conducted by professors at the university showed it had the largest correspondence program in Canada and one of the most innovative as students receive lectures on cassette tapes.

The program began in 1966 with the science department and offered only four physics courses. Now 125 courses are offered and 2,500 students across Canada are enrolled in everything from math to arts courses.

Prof. Jim Leslie, director of the program, said its growth and popularity may be due to its attempt to duplicate a campus situation in the home.

A University of Waterloo correspondence student has the opportunity to listen to taped recorded lectures—there are 40 lectures to a course—and even gets a tutorial from a professor if necessary.

A student pays $120 for each course and is also required to pay a tape deposit fee that is returned at the end of the year.

Once enrolled, a student receives all the tapes and written blackboard notes at the beginning of the course and keeps them until completion.

Mr. Leslie said one indication of the success of the program is shown in its low dropout rate. Only 30 per cent of the program's correspondence students drop out compared with an 80-cent rate for secondary school correspondence courses and 60 per cent at other universities.

The university was the first in Canada to start cassette correspondence courses, but other universities are following the example.

Lawyers May Lower Real Estate Fees

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto-area lawyers are thinking of lowering their fees to persons buying or selling homes and the savings might amount to as much as $250 on a home worth $50,000.

The suggested new fees are contained in a document being circulated by the County of York Law Association, which includes all Toronto-area lawyers.

The association's suggested fees for services such as home purchases and sales, drawing wills, arranging mortgages and the like, are generally regarded as a minimum tariff guide for most lawyers.

Under the current system, buyers and sellers of homes are charged a percentage of the value of the property involved. The proposed fee assessment would lower the percentage.

The fee schedule, if adopted, will be the first tariff revision since December, 1973.

Under the new structure, a person buying a $25,000 home would pay $250 in legal fees as compared with $212.50 in the existing structure. For a $50,000 home, the fee drops to $375 from $425, and the buyer of a $70,000 home can expect to pay $525 instead of $725.

The new fees would apply also to condominium homes and mortgage transactions.

Two Hospitals Face Closure

OWEN SOUND, Ont. (CP) — Hospitals in Windsor and Hanover, Ont., are facing closure as a result of cost-cutting measures announced Tuesday by Health Minister Frank Miller, officials of the two hospital say.

Mr. Miller said in a speech in Peterborough Tuesday that one hospital would be closed and a second might be unless budget-cutting measures are introduced. He refused to name the hospitals.

However, the Chesley and District Memorial Hospital at nearby Hanover released a letter from the ministry Windsor day which informed the hospital board that the hospital institution would be closed March 31.

During the weekend, the Essex County Hospital Planning Board said that it had been given until April 1 to submit proposals for cutting $4 million from the county health budget or that Riverview Hospital in Windsor would be closed.

A board spokesman said the deadline for closing the 90-bed chronic-care institution had been received in a letter from W. A. Backley, deputy minister of health services.

The board has said it will submit a list of proposals to the health department early next month.

Meanwhile, a spokesman for the Chesley and District Memorial Hospital said in an interview that closing the institution may mean the loss of a number of lives each year.

Dr. Walter Thomas, one of the town's four physicians, said the area's record of heavy snowfall may hamper the transportation of injured or critically-ill patients to Owen Sound, about 30 miles northeast of Chesley, or to Hanover, about 13 miles south.

Mr. Miller said recently closing the hospital would only inconvenience a few persons and save the government $440,000 a year.

Schizophrenic Treatment Drug May Also Be Clue to Causes of Disorder

TORONTO (CP) — Researchers have discovered how drugs used in the treatment of schizophrenia work on the brain and believe that in the process they may have found the brain defect which causes the disease, a University of Toronto professor says.

Dr. Philip Seeman, professor of pharmacology, said in an interview that he and his research team discovered that treatment drugs act by blocking dopamine, a brain chemical which transmits electrical messages between brain cells.

In a normal brain, molecules of dopamine are released from small sacs in one cell and lock on to receptors in the next cell.

Receptors are proteins in the cell membrane.

Dr. Freeman said wild hallucinations—whether caused by schizophrenia or drugs such as LSD—are believed to result from defects in brain cell's receptors.

He said the team experimented with tissue from the brains of rats and discovered that the drugs block faulty transmission of dopamine by locking on to the receptors first.

Using human brain tissue, the team now is attempting to discover the areas where dopamine receptors are located. These locations may be the sites of biochemical defects which cause the disease, he said.

As immediate result of the experiments will be better screening of treatment drugs and accurate prediction of how affective each drug will be, he said. Eventually, it may be possible to develop a diagnostic blood test for schizophrenia.

Schizophrenia is a mental disease marked by disconnected thoughts, feelings and actions, accompanied by withdrawal from close relationships with other persons.

Celebration Differs

KANSAS CITY (AP) — In southeastern Pennsylvania, members of the Schwenkfelder religious sect celebrate Thanksgiving Day on Sept. 24, as they have since 1734. This differs from the usual American celebration on the fourth Thursday in November and Canada's celebration on the second Monday in October.

Natural Gas May Be Rationed

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario may have natural-gas rationing before 1980, the Ontario Dairy Council was told Wednesday in a speech presented for Ontario Energy Minister Dennis Timbrell by his deputy minister, Richard Dillon.

In his speech, Mr. Timbrell said he was not using scare tactics but that energy is getting too scarce and expensive to be used carelessly.

"Canadian crude oil production is estimated to be insufficient to meet our total domestic demands by the 1980s," Mr. Timbrell said. "And even earlier it may be necessary to allocate a dwindling supply of natural gas.

He said the dairy industry has moved toward greater use of natural gas.

Mr. Timbrell urged industry associations to establish "energy action teams" to tackle the challenge presented to the industry by "tightening supplies of energy. He said associations should establish a strong framework within which their industries could undertake full-scale energy conservation efforts.

Text of the speech, read by Mr. Dillon, was released prior to delivery.

Castro Assassination Plots May Bring Charges to Those Involved

WASHINGTON AP) — United States justice department officials are considering whether to bring charges against those involved in the assassination plots described by the Senate Intelligence committee.

Department officials are studying a series of statutes for possible use in any prosecution, including a cover-up charge, a spokesman says that Attorney-General Edward Levi either will seek indictments or publicly explain why not in a report on his department's investigation into all categories of alleged CIA wrongdoing.

In its 346-page report made public Thursday, the committee said U.S. officials instigated at least eight assassination plots against Cuba's Fidel Castro and had launched another scheme to kill Congolese leader Patrice Lumumba. The committee also described the U.S. government as implicated in the killing of Dominican Republic dictator Rafael Trujillo.

Of the nine foreign leaders mentioned in the report, only Fidel Castro and his brother Raul are still alive.

But the committee said "no foreign leaders were killed as a result of assassination plots initiated by officials of the United States."

Neither President Ford nor the CIA commented on the report.

The committee noted with surprise that "there is presently no statute making it a crime to assassinate a foreign official outside the United States" and urged Congress to enact such a law.

Justice department officials say they are examining the possibility of prosecutions based on any cover-up of the assassination plots. To bring such a charge they would first have to decide that a crime had been committed.

In considering that decision, the law which justice department officials are examining most closely makes it a felony to instigate, support or take part in "any military or naval expedition or enterprise" against leaders of a foreign country with which the United States is at peace.

The department's investigators also are studying the federal conspiracy laws and the possibility of referrals to the whole matter for prosecution under state laws on which the time-limit for prosecution may not have run out, such as conspiracy to commit murder.

Levi himself said last June: "If we were talking about assassinations, I guess we really don't have a statute of limitations." He said that the complex question depended on what federal laws were deemed applicable.

In its principal recommendation, the committee headed by Senator Frank Church (Dem., Idaho), called for legislation making it a crime for any U.S. official or citizen to conspire, attempt or engage in the assassination of a foreign leader.

Canada Cuts Oil Exports To U. S.

OTTAWA (CP) — Faced with a pessimistic forecast of domestic oil production, the federal government moved Thursday to sharply cut exports to the United States for the second year in a row.

Energy Minister Alastair Gillespie said the exports will be cut by one-third to 530,000 barrels a day on Jan. 1, with a further gradual cut to 385,000 barrels likely by November.

The exports will be eliminated entirely by the end of 1981, two years earlier than previously forecast by the National Energy Board.

There was no immediate U.S. government reaction, but Mr. Gillespie said when he visited Washington 10 days ago to outline contents of the board report he found their energy officials "rather somber; the mood was gloomy."

"It was just about my reaction to the report too," the minister said after tabling the document in the Commons.

A year ago the government cut exports to 800,000 barrels a day from 900,000 and to 750,000 barrels July 1. But because the oil was over-priced in the first six months, turning away buyers, actual shipments for 1975 are about 700,000 barrels a/a y.

Provincial Spending

Report Proposes $630 Million Cut

TORONTO (CP)—A report proposing a series of changes in Ontario government spending was tabled in the legislature Thursday, offering a saving of $630 million in the next fiscal year.

The report, tabled by Treasurer Darcy McKeough, was prepared by a special committee that had been looking into government expenditures since last June.

The 184 recommendations which the report said could save as much as $1 billion by the 1977-78 fiscal year, propose changes in basic priorities in spending in such fields as health care, social security and education.

The 402-page report was prepared by a group of three senior civil servants and three members of the private sector—Maxwell Henderson, former federal auditor-general, broadcaster Betty Kennedy and Robert Blackburn, president of General Foods.

The recommendations would pare $80 million in the health sector, $130 million in social security costs, $230 million in capital expenditures and $190 million in other areas, including education.

The report says those areas would increase substantially in the following year.

In the education field, the report says spending should be reduced in terms of a percentage of the gross provincial product, to reflect shrinking enrolments.

Universities and community colleges should raise their tuition fees to ensure that those who use the facilities contribute more to their costs.

At the same time, the report says the grant portion of student loans should be eliminated. It also calls for increased scholarships and bursaries to help students unable to pay.

In a statement to the legislature, Mr. McKeough said increases in tuition fees are contrary to established government priorities and may even countravene the federal price guidelines. However, he said that recommendations will be studied.

In the health field, the report suggests elimination of surplus hospital beds and duplicate services—especially in urban centres—the curtailment of plans to expand medical schools and action to maintain the current ratio of one doctor for every 595 population.

In the report, Mr. Henderson, once the watchdog on federal government spending, suggested that those who use services pay more toward their cost.

So-called utilization fees are suggested for such things as medical expenses and education.

For example, the report says general-interest courses in community colleges should be made self-sustaining.

Mr. Henderson says governments have to move away from the line of paying for everything.

The report noted that provincial government spending rose to an estimated $14 billion in 1975-76 from $2.3 billion in 1965.

Mr. Henderson said the recommendations offer government a series of options.

PCs Reject Compromise Over Guideline's Timing

OTTAWA (CP) — The Progressive Conservative Opposition rejects Prime Minister Trudeau's compromise offer made Thursday for an 18-month Parliamentary review of the selected wage and price controls imposed Oct. 14, party finance critic Sinclair Stevens says.

This sets the stage for a fight against the anti-inflation bill during third reading debate that starts in the Commons Tuesday.

Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield has warned that the Conservatives would oppose the bill unless it is shortened to 18 months from its proposed 3½-year life. Mr. Trudeau rejected Mr. Stanfield Thursday that the shorter time period was unacceptable.

"An 18-month review would hardly cause the government to break stride," Mr. Stevens said Thursday.

The government still can pass the bill and any review because the standings in the 264-seat Commons are 140 Liberals, 95 Conservatives, 16 New Democrats, 11 Social Credit, one independent and one vacancy.

The last Conservative hope for a shorter controls period lies in the clause-by-clause voting to take place today in the Commons finance committee. But their amendment to limit government spending through the anti-inflation bill already has been turned down.

The New Democratic Party, which already has had one non-confidence motion in the government because of the controls defeated, likely also will vote against the bill at third and final reading.

But while the political opposition lines formed, the government got some indications from labor that they might accept a compromise. Two public service unions said they were ready to co-operate if the prices side of the controls program was tightened.

The 17,000-member Professional Institute of the Public Service of Canada and the 170,000-member Public Service Alliance of Canada (PSAC) said they want inflation curbed. But they don't want an unequal share of the burden to fall on labor.

Trial Bus Run for UIC To Begin in December

BY AL ZABAS
Staff Reporter

The city transit commission will undertake a one-month experimental in December and will change a regular bus route to supply a service for employees of the Unemployment Insurance Commission (UIC).

But if enough bus passengers cannot be generated by the 4:30 p.m. shift of federal government building, the service will be discontinued.

The commission decided Thursday on the one-month experiment after a request for a once-a-day 4:30 p.m. bus service from UIC employees.

Caution in providing the run was suggested by BTC manager Lewis McMillin, who said, a previous attempt to hive employees the service proved costly.

In May this year, the afternoon run sometimes carried only five passengers, he said. The cost of the bus then was light because the UIC had opted for staggered hours for employees, resulting in people leaving at various half-hour intervals at quitting time.

Commissioners decided to alter an existing East Hill bus route—lengthening it by about half a mile—instead of polling on a special bus for the 4:30 p.m. daily run.

BTC chairman Marylea Burtt said the commission will not put a bus stop at the UIC building "if not enough people use it."

Beginning sometime in December, UIC employees will be decided at a BTC meeting in January, after the December, month-long experiment.

Police Here Lay Charges Against Dominion, A&P

By ROBIN CHASE
Staff Reporter

Belleville Police Chief Doug Crosbie said Thursday his department has charged two food chain stores in the city under the Lord's Day Alliance Act for allegedly conducting business on Sunday, Nov. 2.

Chief Crosbie said police received permission from the provincial ministry of the attorney general early Thursday to lay charges against Dominion Stores Ltd. and the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co. ("A and P") both located in the Belleville Plaza, for "unlawfully carrying out the business of their ordinary calling contrary to Section 4 of the Lord's Day Alliance Act."

He said a police investigation followed instructions received from the Crown attorney's office in Belleville after police received two official complaints.

A date for the first provincial court appearance of store representatives has not been decided, he added.

The plaza A and P store became the first grocery chain to open on Sundays in the city on Sept. 28. It was followed by Food City on West Dundas St. on Oct. 5, the plaza Dominion store on Oct. 19 and Murray's Food Market on Front St.

The Sunday store opening issue has seen the office of Belleville Mayor Ben Corke deluged with both verbal and written complaints, protest picketing conducted by the Quinte District Labor Council and official statements of criticism by Belleville ministers.

Belleville city council at its Oct. 20 meeting decided to ask both the attorney general's department for permission to prosecute under the act and the provincial government to give priority to legislation prohibiting Sunday opening of supermarkets.

Lower Speed Limits May Affect Premiums

TORONTO (CP) — The effect of Ontario's proposed highway safety measures should show up in less than two years and will be a factor in discussing next year's insurance rates, Sidney Handleman, consumer and commercial relations minister, said Thursday.

The government this week introduced legislation making it mandatory to wear seat belts and reducing the speed limit to 80 miles an hour.

Mr. Handleman told the legislature during question period that his ministry will be talking to the insurance industry about the effect of the legislation on accident and claims rate.

Mel Swart (NDP—Welland) told the minister he had seen reports quoting an industry told the minister he had seen reports quoting an industry spokesman as saying it would be two years before the effects of the legislation would be apparent.

Lumber Yard Workers Plan Strike Action

Union employees of Rollins Lumber Co. Ltd. will strike at the company's Foxboro lumber yard Monday in support of wage and fringe benefit demands, shop steward Alfred Lawrence said today.
Meanwhile, a spokesman for Maurice Rollins Construction Ltd. — a major customer of the lumber yard — said the construction projects will be interrupted because of strike action. Alternate material suppliers will be found until the dispute is settled, a spokesman said.
Ron Murray, vice-president of Rollins Lumber, said today the company has offered cost-of-living, fringe and wage benefits which would give the 30 union employees a monetary increase of approximately 14.60 per cent.
Mr. Murray said the union — Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, Local 2854 — has demanded a package of benefits which would result in a 40 per cent increase. The package includes a demand of an actuarial-board raise of 97 cents an hour.
Average wage in the plant is $4.88 an hour and drivers earn an average of $4.37 an hour.
Conciliation was held in October and resulted in a no-board report.
M. Lawrence of the union said the company has included the cost-of-living clause in its offer even though it is a "non-negotiable item."
"What the company is really offering is a three per cent raise," he said.
Union members will begin picketing the Foxboro lumber yard Monday, he said. "We'll strike for a week or two and see what happens."
He said a strike vote taken two weeks ago was unanimous in support of the employees' negotiating committee and its refusal of the company's offer.

Delay in Substation Stalls Work on Five Projects

By JERRY BROWN
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — A three-year squabble between the Trenton Public Utilities Commission (PUC) and a local developer has effectively stopped construction on all new subdivisions in the municipalities western section and may put it into a dead end of work.

Currently, work on five subdivisions near the western limits of the town that has been stopped because the PUC refuses to sign any sub-divisers agreements until it acquires a lot needed and builds a new substation. Workers at the sites may be laid off.

The issue was presented to the commission at its monthly meeting Thursday and was brought to public attention by a large sign placed at one of the vacant sites questioning why work has not been allowed to begin on the subdivision.

The issue was presented to builder Albert Defesse, questioned the delay and told all interested parties to seek the answer from Mayor Robert Patrick.

A request by the PUC that it be allowed to expropriate the land has been refused by the Trenton town council, said Dour Manlowe, director of the PUC.

The commission was told by Mr. Manlowe that he has been trying to negotiate for the land since 1972 but that the owners of the proposed substation site, Weaver and Armstrong have rejected all offers. Mr. Manlowe said he has repeated contacts with the owners explaining the land is necessary for the substation so the commission can ensure it will have enough electrical power in the western part of the town for any new construction. Work on two proposed high-rises and a commercial development plan that is currently in the works has also been stopped.

The 80-by-120 foot plot of land has been valued by the provincial assessment office at $11,200 but the PUC has offered the owners up to $18,000 for the land, at one time. But this offer was withdrawn because the two parties could not culminate the deal.

"As it stands now we have withdrawn our offers and will only pay the assessed value of the land," said Mayor Patrick, a member of the commission.

The PUC says it needs the land from the Weaver-Armstrong site because it is on the north side of Highway 2 and it would be too expensive for the commission to construct the substation on the south side of the road where it would have to run additional lines to the site.

Both the PUC and some of the subdivisers claim they are losing money because of the delay.

"We have had the equipment for the substation for a long time and we can't do anything with it until we get the land," said Mr. Manlowe.

Mr. Defesse said he has $70,000 worth of construction supplies stored waiting for the work to begin and that if the situation is not resolved he will have to lay off 20 men for the winter.

Soil Tests Under Way For New Power Line

LONG REACH — Ontario Hydro this fall received approval to proceed with additions to the electrical supply system for Prince Edward County and a preliminary soil survey to determine location of a submarine cable at the power line's crossing here now is in progress.

The project involves construction of a low profile transformer station at Elmbrook, near Picton, and 14.5 miles of 230 KV transmission line between the new station and the Hydro right-of-way connecting the stations at Lennox and Napanee.

About one mile of submarine cable will be used in the Long Reach crossing and the preliminary soil survey now underway will indicate the best location for the cable.

A soil technician with the research division of Ontario Hydro in Toronto, Robert Dowdell, said Thursday the survey involves taking samples at bedrock. Also the depth of water and the depth of overburden are taken.

The barge Dorelin 11 is at Long Reach as crewmen obtain the required survey information. Depth of the water in the area varies from about 15 feet to approximately 25 feet.

Ontario Hydro spokesman Norman Manning said the depth at which the submarine cable will be laid has not been decided. The depth factor will relate to the design of the cable.

Mr. Manning noted that the soil survey now in progress is more difficult than the land survey required for a new power line.

When the new line first was proposed for Prince Edward there was local opposition to use of overhead line at Long Reach. A Save Our Bay committee was organized and the plan was strongly opposed.

Ontario Hydro reviewed the route originally planned for the power line and it was modified to include the submarine cable at Long Reach.

Men at Work

Ontario Hydro this month has started a preliminary survey at Long Reach to determine the best location for a submarine cable that will be part of a new power line into Prince Edward County. Here, a worker takes his turn at the drilling rig.

Two Hurt In Crash

BANCROFT — Three charges, two injured persons and a total property damage estimate of $2,000 resulted early Thursday from a two-car collision on Highway 28 about eight miles south of here.

Ontario Provincial Police at Bancroft said Mavis Bowers, 18, of Snow Road, in Bancroft faces charges of careless driving and operating an unsafe motor vehicle and David Wheeler (age unavailable) of Gable St. in Bancroft is charged with permitting operation of an unsafe motor vehicle.

Police said both Bowers, who suffered minor arm and head injuries and Joseph Burcher, 61, of Pasadak Lake, the other driver who suffered facial cuts and bruises, were treated and released from Bancroft Red Cross Hospital.

The accident occurred when a northbound vehicle went out of control, crossed the centre line and collided with a southbound car, police related.

Constable Craig Warwick estimated $1,400 damage to Burcher's 1968-model Cougar and $600 damage to Bower's 1966-model Ford in the 11:30 a.m. mishap.

Who's to Blame

Work on five proposed subdivision in Trenton west end has been halted because of a squabble between the PUC and a subdivider. The commission refuses to sign any subdivisers agreements for the area until one of the builders sells an 80 by 120 foot plot of land on the north side of Highway 2 that will be used for a new substation the PUC said is necessary for the district. One of the builders questioned the PUC by constructing this large sign.

Resources Prophecy Coming True but Ottawa Curbs Output and Exploration

By VINCENT EGAN

Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

Strange the way prophecies can fulfil themselves.

In 1972, a private international group of big thinkers called the Club of Rome published their big thoughts, under the title of Limits To Growth.

Their study concluded that the world was running out of natural resources.

Now, three years later, commodities such as crude oil and certain metals do appear to be in short supply, and their prices have risen sharply—as prices usually do in a situation of scarcity.

The Club of Rome study had ignored the existence of huge reserves of non-renewable natural resources in low-grade deposits.

But world reaction to the Club's prophecy was something like panic. Governments, which stand of fostering more efficient resource development, instead, with conservationist measures, confiscatory taxes and even expropriation.

As a result, there are few new natural resources development projects under way anywhere in the world.

And when recovery finally replaces the current economic recession, there will necessarily be a shortage of the natural materials needed by industry.

Then the Club of Rome will be able to claim that it was right in its forecast back in 1972.

"The issue is not one literally of running out, but of winning lower-grade resources through other higher costs or greater efficiencies," says E. K. Cork, vice-president of Noranda Mines Ltd., the Canadian copper producer.

"The Club of Rome's observations should have led to a search for greater efficiency, to continue to win resources at reasonable cost."

Governments and bureaucrats seem to have lost all enthusiasm for economic growth, productivity and investment.

Public tax money may no longer be used to stimulate the high-risk search for new deposits of mineral—even though it may be latished in any number of non-productive bureaucratic projects that have, up to now, swell the government share of all spending in Canada to 40 per cent.

The politicians and their advisers have been the most eager converts to the Club of Rome view that the sky is falling.

They have responded by boosting the stumpage fees in the forest industry, for example, and socking the mines with new royalties, super-profits tax, reserve taxes and big increases in mining taxes—not to mention an array of controls on production and marketing.

We are becoming scared at the fine art of paper-shuffling.

Our bureaucrats are skilled at pilot tax upon tax, like acrobats upon acrobat in a circus.

And our political masters are leaders in the craft of building the lower-grade rungs of the ladder.

But we are in danger of forgetting some other things that are essential to society's survival—such as the determination to go out and find oil or make a mine, the willingness to take a risk, the necessity of producing wealth before redistributing it.

Wealth should indeed be shared among the successful and the less fortunate although not concentrated in the hands of a few in the public service.

But current trends in public policy are leading away from productive enterprise.

The further these trends go, the lower our potential for production will become.

That's the way toward final fulfilment of the prophecy that our natural resources are going to run out.

Bureaucracy's Grip

Reference has been made here to the factor of too much welfarism and what might be termed the handout syndrome. Too little concern for work and service and an over-abundance of greed are subverting personal character and national integrity.

Columnist Vincent Egan summed up the prevailing political and economic atmosphere with characteristic insight in recent days.

Canada, he said, "is in trouble when an ever-increasing share of its economic activity is being taken away from private sectors and put into the hands of bureaucrats and social engineers — whose only gratification comes from spending public money, whose careers are secure, and who need never admit failure or cut losses."

Why put our faith in "risk-takers," some may ask. Especially from among a generation which has become accustomed to government overlordship and bureaucratic hands handing out the word in almost every facet of our lives.

Well, risk-taking is the release of personal human endeavor — the very thing which today is being muted by government having a finger in too many pies. It was the vital motivating factor in the rise from pioneer times to nationhood, with the building of the railroads and so on. Government of course played a role then too, but so also did individuality and private enterprise, to a greater extent than today.

It's a new world alright, but not a particularly "brave" one — certainly not one in which men strike out into unknown paths seeking not only personal fulfillment but a better life for their fellows, for society at large. Today, government knows best.

...But You Can Win Too

You CAN fight City Hall.

There is probably enough material from media and municipal files across Canada for someone to write a book on this theme.

Material that would show how individuals and small groups have tackled municipalities on some issue or other — and won.

There have been some significant developments along these lines locally — the successful issue of Victoria Avenue residents' fight to keep sidewalks in their present location, for example, and Sidney township's according to pressure by homeowners in Quinte Heights to approach the provincial government on the question of providing adequate water supply in the subdivision.

This is participatory democracy at its best. It is not often citizens are that successful, but these instances have shown that, properly handled, people at large can ensure that their rights and own interests are not lost or trampled under in the bureaucratic shuffle.

Teenage – and Adolescent – Drinking

By DON O'HEARN

Queen's Park Bureau

Thomson News Service

TORONTO — An increasing number of people seem to be drinking at an ever-decreasing age should be moved back from 18 to 21.

One reason for this thinking is that there has been a dramatic increase in the number of traffic accidents involving teenagers in the 18 to 21 group.

But another, and probably much more compelling reason is the increase in adolescent drinking.

Reports from schools have shown very early teens, and as low as elementary school, being sent home for drunkenness and in some cases having already arrived at alcoholism.

The government in this has a problem; recognizing the threat it is real, which it is.

Undoubtedly if it could go for its inclination it would restore the legal drinking age to 21.

This wouldn't directly hit the very young teen-agers. But indirectly it would.

The whole problem has been an indirect one.

The 18-year legal limit meant that teenagers, many of them still in secondary school, could go into bars and drink.

The younger teens, to whom they were the heroes, then adopted the habit . . . illegally, of course, but very much in tune with the time.

The government is in a spot. There is really no way it could boost back the drinking age without also boosting back the voting age from 18 to 21.

And this it couldn't get away with.

The bowl, from this now important voting group, would be tremendous. And immediately the house would be beleaguered with opposition motions to restore the 18 year old age.

The only alternative left to the government is to start an "education" campaign.

The merits of such campaigns are dubious.

But like select committees they are a handy out.

And it is a good exercise we will see one on teenage drinking.

In the meantime the only real note of optimism is that the next generation may be different and not so concerned with booze.

These things do happen.

A Mild November

Even if we were to be immersed in winter proper tomorrow — and there is no immediate sign of it — this month of November has to be one of the most extraordinary ones in memory.

Usually at this time it is damp, dank, dirty, chilly, raw, gloomy and just plain miserable. Instead we have had an extended Indian summer which still lingers, as if reluctant to let "old man winter" have his head.

Of course there was a Christmas day two or three years ago which was snow free, but then it was cool enough. There have been springlike conditions in January too and while that is anathema to winter sports enthusiasts, to many others there can not be enough of it.

For the elderly and shut-ins, milder temperatures and dry sidewalks doubtless are a boon.

There was even a picture the other day of people frolicking in the water at some New York beach.

Whatever way you look at this particular November, it is rather remarkable.

Gen. James Murray was appointed governor-in-chief of Canada 212 years ago today—in 1763. He had been governor of Quebec when the territory was occupied during the Seven Years' War, but under the Peace of Paris Quebec was ceded to Canada and he became governor-in-chief. Because of his policy of conciliation towards the French he was recalled to England in face charges of partiality. These charges were dropped, but he never returned to Canada.

Manner of Election Call Favors Gough Whitlam

The Globe and Mail

The first round in Australia's constitutional struggle has ended in technical victory for the reenterprise coalition of Liberal and Country parties. They had been attempting, by a Senate blockade of budget legislation, to force Labor Prime Minister Gough Whitlam to call an election, the second general election in Australia in less than two years. That election has now been called.

But the victory may prove costly. For the election call came in a form that could radically upset the expectations upon which Malcolm Fraser's Liberal-Country coalition had based its confidence that dissolution of the House of Representatives and the Senate would lead inevitably to a Labor defeat. For, by dismissing Mr. Whitlam, leader of the majority party in the House of Representatives, from the office of Prime Minister, and replacing him by Mr. Fraser who promptly called the election for which the opposition had been fighting, Governor-General Sir John Kerr has handed Mr. Whitlam a better campaign election in Australia in less than two years. That election has now been called.

The campaign is shaping up to be a bitter one. Had it been called in a less controversial way the side would have been largely against Labor. But, to the extent that Mr. Whitlam can shift the focus of attention from his record to the sterling interventions of the Governor-General, those odds may have to be radically re-written.

Britannica's Accuracy Is Open to Question

Washington Post

From A to B — from Aspirations, lolly, to Bulk, sheer — the Encyclopedia Britannica deserves the awe and admiration of every reader. Unfortunately it falls into difficulties a little further down the alphabet, around C for Candor.

The latest edition, in its 30 volumes, appeared 18 months ago and the scholars have had a chance to immerse themselves in it. Over the years the Britannica has earned a fair amount of genteel criticism, particularly for its choices of authors, but this time it has outdone itself. The editors say that they are only trying to achieve a genuinely cosmopolitan view by getting articles from writers throughout the world. The articles on the Soviet republics, for instance, seem to have been supplied through Novosti (the Soviet government press agency. They offer a description of the remarkable rises in the standards of living under Stalin that are proof that he was the kindest ever went wrong in the Soviet Union (except at the hands of the Germans), Novosti's authors do not seem to have heard about it.

Part of the article on Spain, on the other hand, is contributed by a writer who left Spain several years ago, was head of the Ministry of Information and Information in Generalissimo Franco's government.

There was a time when most readers were inclined to take what it appeared in the encyclopedia. Currently, there is a tendency to do just the opposite. Among people who read books (or at least book reviews) the accuracy of the Britannica has been at issue at least since 1964, when Harvey Einbinder began to point out and find oil or make a mine, the willingness to take a risk, the necessity of producing wealth before redistributing it.

Wealth should indeed be shared among the successful and the less fortunate although not concentrated in the hands of a few in the public service.

But current trends in public policy are leading away from productive enterprise.

The further these trends go, the lower our potential for production will become.

That's the way toward final fulfilment of the prophecy that our natural resources are going to run out.

Should Kissinger Go, What Then in World Politics?

By JOHN D. HARBRON

Foreign Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

U.S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, the super-diplomat of only yesterday, who moved from one international diplomatic triumph to the next, probably sees his days numbered.

The reason is that inevitable scramble to be in the right place at the right time by the candidates for the presidency in 1976.

Only Kissinger is affected by what President Ford plans to do and already has been resigned by him from his long-term function as presidential adviser on the National Security Council.

And there are stories and rumors galore around Washington that Dr. Kissinger will resign as secretary of state before George Ford is too deeply involved in the presidential nomination campaign just around the corner.

The other front-end Republican contender for the presidency is former California Governor Ronald Reagan who takes a stand on foreign policy.Are used to associate with the Republican party in general, strongly anti-Communist, opposed to detente and in wanting Mr. Ford to visit Taiwan instead of Peking.

If right-winger Reagan were elected president of the United States, about as disturbing a thought as a Goldwater victory in 1964, he could not use the famous Henry Kissinger.

Presumably everything he has done and does with the substantial career is based, would have to be undone. Though it is Ronald Reagan in the White House would soon find the realities of power politics in the late '70s would odds his dangerous concerns based on the late '60s.

One hears very little from critics of Henry Kissinger because surely he must have been, inside the state department where some career men have been disturbed in front of Kissinger appointees, in Congress, even in the Republican party.

And yet after these last several years of his tour-de-force global diplomacy in return in "business as usual" in the state department, whether a Republican or Democrat is president, makes one wonder what a foreign U.S. foreign policy would be like.

Presumably the places where he has built up new relations ships both with the Nixon and Ford administrations as these affect any prospects of a Middle Eastern or general war, would be maintained.

After all, Dean Rusk as secretary of state to the late Democratic president Lyndon Johnson turned out to be, along with his president, just about as hawkish in action as Goldwater sounded during the 1964 presidential election.

Surely no future secretary of state would consider such suicidal turnabouts in foreign policy as leaving the Arabs and Israelis to their own devices, signing the People's Republic of China for the rump Nationalist regime on Taiwan, withdrawing the United States from the United Nations.

And yet this is California-type thinking on foreign policy the same kind which Ronald Reagan once preached and believed before the rise of the presidency and the presence of a Kissinger changed him.

Whatever happens if and when Dr. Kissinger leaves his office, there will be a hiatus and a gap in American foreign policy.

His role and place are already so clearly-defined that we can expect uncertainty when his time has come to go.

Three senior cadets of the Duke of Edinburgh Squadron were honored this week at Belleville Armory and presented with their wings to show their skill in flying.

Warrant officer Jim Carley, Sgt. Brad Snider and Corp. David Buckles were presented with their pilot wings after an inspection and parade.

Square Lively

Century Place will open it's plaza square for the use of bands and entertainment groups in Belleville, Bill Wills, president of Belle-Bridge Development Ltd., said Thursday.

Mr. Wills said the Belleville Collegiate Institute (BCI) Band will be the first group to perform. They will play light background music and some Christmas melodies under the direction of Brian Williamson Nov. 27 from 12:30 p.m. until 2.

Mr. Wills said the glass background, fountain and trees in the four-corners square will provide a pleasant spot for performances.

Century Place, still under construction, is scheduled to open in 1976.

Stringing Along

Shoestrings tied together, these young people were among a group of students who hope to beat the world record for the sport. If they can do it, they plan a lace-a-thon to raise community funds. Among those in practice this week were (from left) Diane Boulter, Karen Dodson, Viki McGaughey, Richard Moore and Danny Prewer, all 11.

Lace-a-thon? Why Not Argue Group of Students

A band of young people are hopeful of raising community-aid funds in a shoestring.

In reality, it's a number of shoestrings all joined together. In fact, the more shoestrings the better.

It all started earlier this week, explains 12-year-old Viki McGaughey, 246 Dufferin Ave., when some neighborhood classmates at Queen Elizabeth public school, tied their laces together to see how they could run with such a handicap.

That was near the Quinte Skating and Tennis Club and somehow it fired an idea. One thing led to another: How many could do it? How far could they get? What about using it as a fund-raising effort.

"If there can be walk-a-thons, why not lace-a-thons?" asked Viki.

At school they queried the phys-ed teacher, who told them the record for laced-together walking was 1.25 miles.

Undaunted, Viki and 10 other classmates decided to get in training — and not only to beat the record. If more participants could be attracted a lace-a-thon could be staged for community purposes they argued.

Such an enterprise is no shoe-in.

So the group may train through the winter — even if it means lacing snowboots together. Come spring they will challenge the record — then go on to raise funds for community work.

This week they started their program.

Setting out gingerly from Belleville Collegiate, 11 of them laced together by the feet, they manoeuvered along Queen St. toward MacDonald Ave.

On the more-than-half-mile march one developed lace problems and dropped out reported Viki.

Ther emaining 10 however, came to a tight-toed finish in 25 minutes.

"We're going to practise each week — and then go for the record," said Viki.

Driver Faces Several Charges

NAPANEE — A 53-year-old Trenton man will appear at the spring sittings of Ontario Supreme Court here in 1976 on charges laid in connection with a fatal car-pedestrian accident near here in May.

Stanley Vanmeer of 17 North Elm Dr., face charges of criminal negligence causing death, criminal negligence with an automobile and impaired driving.

A Crown attorney's office spokesman said here this week that Vanmeer's appearance during the sittings in either March or April is subject to possible re-election on the three charges.

Vanmeer has also been remanded to Jan. 12 in provincial court here to submit a plea on three other charges arising from the same incident.

The charges are driving with a blood alcohol reading in excess of .08, refusing to take a breathalyzer test and having liquor in a place other than his residence.

Ontario Provincial Police at Napanee said the accident occurred on the Glenora Ferry landing located 15 miles south of here when Carol Schumaker, 34, of Kingston was struck and killed by a car as she walked along the roadside with her five-year-old son, Albert, who was injured.

Vanmeer was committed for trial during a two-part preliminary hearing which began here Sept. 4 and finished on Oct. 23.

Whitlam and Three Cabinet Members Face Conspiracy Charges

CANBERRA (Reuter) — Deposed Australian prime minister Gough Whitlam and three senior members of his cabinet have been summoned to appear in court to face charges of alleged conspiracy relating to efforts to raise overseas loans.

The charges carry a maximum penalty of three years imprisonment.

The summonses, issued by Sydney solicitor Danny Sankey, order the four men to appear in a New South Wales court on Dec. 8, only five days before Australia's general election.

They name Whitlam, whose dismissal by Gov.-Gen. Sir John Kerr prompted the election, former attorney-general Lionel Murphy, now a High Court judge, former treasurer Jim Cairns and former mines and energy minister Rex Connor.

Legal sources said that because of the election court hearing probably will be postponed until early next year.

The summonses were issued as the election campaign went ahead amid tight security. Letter bombs have been sent to two political leaders — opposition leader Malcolm Fraser, leader of the Liberal-Country party coalition, and Queensland Premier Johannes Bjelke-Petersen.

Health Cuts Could Save $80 Million

TORONTO (CP) — Reductions in government spending in the health field suggested by a committee investigating Ontario spending could result in an $80 million saving in the next fiscal year, the committee reported Thursday.

Among the suggestions for reductions made by the eight-member committee in a report tabled in the legislature were a curtailment in the expansion of medical schools and maintaining the present doctor-patient ratio.

The doctor-patient ratio now is one doctor to every 585 patients.

Committee members also urge more efficient use of existing hospital facilities and more rational planning for anticipated needs, along with improved productivity on the part of hospital staff.

The committee suggested user charges for some health services might make the public more aware of health costs and discourage careless or unnecessary use of health services.

Charges of $1 to patients for services in emergency departments, out-patient visits and hospital in-patient care would generate revenues of $20 million from emergency visits alone and up to $50 million from in-patient care with persons over 65 exempted, the committee said.

Ontario Urged to Avoid COLA

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario should resist any cost-of-living clauses when negotiating with its employees, a government-appointed committee said Thursday.

"By their very nature, they (cost-of-living clauses) tend to encourage inflation," the eight-member committee investigating government spending said in its report tabled in the legislature by Treasurer Darcy McKeough.

Contracts of many of the province's 60,000 civil servants expire at the end of the year.

"In view of the basic responsibility of government to lead the country in the fight against inflation, the province should resist the introduction of cost-of-living clauses in the public sector," committee members said.

The committee also recommended that costs associated with merit increases, the extent of salary ranges and the ease in moving to a higher classification be reviewed and brought under tighter control.

Members also want public-sector wages to remain competitive with, but not exceed, those in the private sector.

P.E.I. Lowers Speed Limits

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP) — The Prince Edward Island government has decided to lower the posted speed limits of all highways in the province, Highways Minister Bruce Stewart said in the legislature Thursday.

The speed limit on the Trans-Canada Highway and other all-weather routes will be reduced to 55 miles an hour from 60 while the limit on other highways would be set at 50 miles an hour, down from 55.

Mr. Stewart said in an interview the decision resulted from a long study during which the government became concerned with safety and the conservation of energy.

He said the program will be started immediately, with the first signs being prepared within the next few weeks. There was no exact timetable for lowering the limits because "it will take a while to have the signs made up."

Not Convinced About Joy of Family

Dear Ann Landers: Tell us again about the joys of family. We aren't convinced.

Our only child, a son, 22, has caused us more heartache than we can bear. This boy was every parent's dream until he reached 14 and started on drugs. After numerous arrests he was sent to a reform school, released on parole, and arrested shortly after for breaking and entering.

We have done everything we can think of to help straighten him out, but nothing works. People always think it's the parents' fault, but is it? We did our best—paid out a small fortune for professional help, but no one could reach him.

We've spent hundreds of sleepless nights worrying about our son. Until the phone would ring again—someone asking us to come and get him (pieces out from an overdose) or telling us of a car accident with him dead or others killed by his reckless ness.

If you'd like to see a grown man cry, look me up any day.—Hit Dad

Dear Dad: When children go wrong, it's not always the parents' fault. We now know that the genetic factor can be a contributing influence in behavioral patterns.

Some children inherit fragile nervous systems. They go hyperkinetic and crack up—don't respond to parental love or professional help.

So stop feeling guilty. You've done your best. Angels can do no more.

Dear Ann Landers: Please tell the reader who signed himself "Speechless" not to feed your free chickens who came to his restaurant and brought cartons of chicken food purchased at a carry-out place down the street. There's a way to put an end to such behavior.

I had a few "customers" who pulled the same stunt—only these fowls brought their lunch in paper bags and sat in a booth for a full hour, drinking our water, using our salt, pepper, sugar, mustard, catsup, toothpicks and paper napkins. They always left a mess and said "thank you" when they left.

After a week of it, I handed them a cheque just as they were preparing to leave. I charged them $1 per person for the use of the booth and the items on the table.

They were shocked, refused to pay it and walked out in a huff. Needless to say I never saw them again.—Good Riddance

Dear Friend: Your signature is my comment. Good thinking!

Dear Ann Landers: A girl who started to work here a few months ago came up to me and said, "I'm told you have a beautiful voice and sing at weddings. Will you sing at mine?" I said I'd be glad to.

The wedding was beautiful. Her father must have spent a great deal of money on it. I sang three numbers and my sister accompanied me at the piano. The bride and groom and their parents were very complimentary about my singing.

A week ago the new Mrs. returned from her honeymoon. Again she thanked me for singing—but made no mention of money. Usually I get $40 or $50. Should I send her a bill?—Sweet Head

Dear Head: Sorry, it's too late. The time to have talked about your fee was when she asked you to sing.

Some brides present the musician with a gift if no fee is set and the music is provided as a favor. Yours you can't ask for that either.

Dear Ann Landers: I went out with Eddie last Friday night. He's very good-looking, educated, rotten by his parents, and he can get almost any girl he wants. It was our first date. I'm ashamed to tell you how much I wanted him to ask me out.

Instead of having plans for the evening, Eddie rode around awhile and then pulled off to a dimly lit side street. I thought something was wrong with his car. Before I knew it he grabbed me and said, "I hate it when a girl plays a game with me. Give me a kiss."

I told him to drop dead. He lunged at me. His glasses fell out the floor and I accidentally stepped on them.

He got very angry. Gave me home and said it's didn't come up with $40 for new glasses he'd speak to my parents. I have the money in a savings account. Ann, but I don't know what to do. I did step on his glasses but it was all his fault. Help me, please.—Miss Mess

Dear Miss: Don't let the punk blackmail you. Had he behaved like a gentleman his glasses wouldn't have been on the floor. Tell Eddie: "Guys who make passes should take off their glasses."

Dear Ann Landers: My job as secretary pays well, but not well enough so that I can subsidize strangers. The problem isn't the people I work with—it's the boss.

I've been selected to supply coffee for the office. Everyone pays me back for their cup, except the boss. He used to pay me by the dime. He decided it was a nuisance and said he'd prefer to give me a couple of dollars at a time. He seems to think $5 should last forever.

Dear Girl: Your boss isn't a freeloader. He'd pay if you asked him. And you should—before he goes underwater, Simply say, with a smile, "The coffee fund is drying up. Buddy, can you spare a dime? Or better yet, make it $."

Renovating House Together Makes or Breaks Marriage

NEW YORK (Reuter) — Again about the joys of family.

"Literally thousands of decisions have to be made whenever a couple restores an old house and each decision is an opportunity for a fight," said Ronald (Clem) Labline. "Strong marriages will become stronger while weak marriages may crack and fall apart."

Labline's observations of the social scene were made from the expert height of editor and publisher of the Old-House Journal, a monthly newsletter offering "renovation and maintenance ideas for the antique house."

His own marriage has been strengthened since he and his wife Claire, a television producer — writer, became "brownstoners" eight years ago.

"Brownstoners" form a somewhat exclusive club in New York. They're purchasers, usually young married couples, who buy three-story homes of brownstone or brick in rundown neighborhoods at a bargain price and then restore them.

The Lablines have three children and their experience in renovating their Brooklyn home led Labline, 38, to quit his job as a market researcher for the McGraw-Hill publishing house in New York and inaugurate the journal.

Since then, he has built the circulation of the publication to 19,000 with subscribers in all 50 states, several hundred in Canada and six in England, including three copies which are sent to the library of the Royal Institute of British Architects in London.

Only about two per cent of circulation is in New York, largely among people who, like the Lablines, have bought brownstones built about the turn of the century. Labline said.

Outside New York, the newsletter is read by anyone who has purchased an antique house and wants some tips about how to bring it back to some of its former glory.

Labline, a cheery, mustachioed man with thinning hair, said people have a tendency to do too much to old houses.

"When a person buys an old house, we urge that, beyond making sure the plumbing works and the roof doesn't leak, you do nothing to it until you learn more about it."

One way to do that is to check with local historical societies or read about period homes and design.

"You may find that the things you thought were added later were really original," he cautioned. "You enrich the experience by understanding your house. If you've got 100 years into the thing, why not learn about it?"

The Lablines bought their home for $25,000, a bargain price for a well-built home, but he said he put another $25,000 into it in renovation, not counting the price of labor.

Nevertheless, he recommends buying an old home as an excellent way to beat high real estate prices.

"I feel that old houses in inner-city areas are the only bargains left in real estate today," he said. "And for persons who have a sense of adventure and creativity, renovation can be a positive and rewarding experience."

Risk of Bladder Cancer Likely Not Increased By Sugar Substitutes

CHICAGO (AP) — The use of the artificial sweeteners cyclamate and saccharin probably does not increase the risk of bladder cancer, a Baltimore study has found.

The study, said to be the first large-scale study of a possible relationship between bladder cancer and no-calorie sweeteners in human beings, contradicts studies with experimental animals.

Dr. Irwin Kessler, a professor at the Johns Hopkins school of public health in Baltimore reported on the human study at the annual meeting of the American Public Health Association.

Cyclamate was banned by the health, education and welfare department in 1969 and the Food and Drug Administration removed saccharin in 1972 from the list of food products generally regarded as safe. These actions were based on studies with rats.

Kessler said his study indicates that the use of these sugar substitutes is not at the moderate dietary levels reported by our patient sample, is not associated with an increased risk of bladder cancer."

He said it often is difficult to draw conclusions about the effect a substance might have on humans from animal experiments.

Clara Reddick, crocheting mats to sell at the market.

For Maker of Baling Twine Mats There's Never a Wasted Moment

BY HAZEL HUGGAN

Clara Reddick's face has been a familiar one to marketgoers for 20 years. During that time she's had a stall on market square — "the price of a stand has gone from $10 a year up to $30 in that time," she says — where she sells a wide variety of hand made and homegrown goods.

Mrs. Reddick's merchandise ranges from tarts and cookies to fine crochet work, from Jars of jellies and relishes to fresh turnips and homemade sauerkraut. Song her most popular items are the crocheted doormats she makes from baling twine.

"I get used twine from the farmers around here," says Mrs. Reddick, who lives on Highway 37 north of Plainfield. "It comes off their bales of hay, so it's in pieces. It takes me about a week to tie all the pieces of twine together with string, so that I get a nice big ball.

"Once I got started, it takes about a day to crochet the whole mat," she says. She uses a large wooden crochet hook that she says is responsible for starting the whole business.

"I bought this old hook at an auction years ago, and then wondered what I could do with it," she says with a smile. "It seems so big that it was only fit for baling twine, and that's how I got the idea!"

Mrs. Reddick has been using her wits and talents to support herself since 1954. At that time she still lived on a farm near Bennington. Five years ago she and her son Allan moved to their present three-acre location where they raise rabbits as part of their livelihood.

In Reddick's Rabbitry there are 200 rabbits of all sizes, colors and types. Some are bred to be pets, and others are bred as food. Mrs. Reddick says that they do quite a brisk business in rabbits for frying and roasting — sold either "as is" or dressed.

"If you're willing to work, you can always get by," she says, speaking of the way she has made the most of what she has. "So many young people throw things out that they could use, but I've always been able to find a use for everything. And it pays off in the end."

Although she was absent from the market during the summer because of illness, she's back at her stall now, and spends her non-market days in busy preparation. Jars of pickles line her kitchen counter, and the huge ball of twine lies by the chair in front of the television, ready to be crocheted as soon as she sits down. "I like to keep going every minute," says Mrs. Reddick.

NSA MEETING

The Bay of Quinte Chapter, National Secretaries Association held their November meeting on Tuesday, November 18 at the Sun Luck Gardens.

The guest speaker for the meeting was Robin Jeffrey (former Mayor of Belleville) whose topic was "Broadening our Scopes with Belleville's Twin City — Lahr, Germany."

Mrs. Jeffrey spoke with enthusiasm of the student exchange program with Lahr and its merit, and gave a talk on the Belleville friendship flight to Lahr, describing the variance in customs. It was interesting to note that both Lahr, Germany and Belleville have the same population.

At the conclusion of Mrs. Jeffrey's talk she was thanked by Lena Dearborn and presented with a small token of appreciation.

A short business session concluded the meeting.

ARGYLL CHAPTER I.O.D.E.

CLUB NEWS

Press secretaries in charge of sending in club news to the People and Events column should submit their news within three days of the event having taken place.

If the notice is regarding an event that is going to occur, it should be submitted at least a week in advance.

Advance notices can be used in the column only if the occasion is open to the public.

All names in the news report must include both a first and last name. Two initials are acceptable, but an initial is not sufficient, and names given this way are not.

Refer to women by their own names rather than their husbands'. If they are married. This is current practice in daily newspapers and women's names are used in connection with women's groups.

A woman is referred to as "Mrs.", "Miss" or "Ms." on the second reference only. For example, she is called Georgia Brown in the first time she is mentioned, and Mrs. Brown (or Miss Brown) thereafter. The same rule applies to the use of men's names.

Mr. and Mrs. David Charlesworth of Stirling, are pleased to announce the forthcoming marriage of their eldest daughter, Deborah Joyce to Timothy Frederick Holt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Levi Holt of Glen Miller. The marriage will be solemnized December 20, in the Washington Temple of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints in Washington, D.C.

Sky Shops Executives Give Gifts in Breach of Criminal Code

OTTAWA (CP) — The Sky Shops affair revealed Thursday as investigative MP Elmer MacKay said the firm's executives clearly breached the Criminal Code in offering television sets to three federal employees.

The television sets were refused but more than 100 other airport or liquor board employees took Christmas gifts from Sky Shops Duty Free Ltd., which operated duty-free shops at Montreal and Dorval, Que., N.B., airports and has the concession for one at Mirabel International Airport, he claimed.

"One has to question the motives of people who would put government employees in this position," said Mr. MacKay (PC—Central Nova). In Criminal Code there is no mention of a broad judicial inquiry into "corrupt benefits of issues, commissions and $1 billion in contracts from the government."

Under House rules, there was no vote on the MacKay motion.

He first raised the matter Nov. 3, calling for a federal inquiry into possible conflict of interest involving Liberal Senator Louis Giguere who made a profit on a $5,000 investment in Sky Shops shares in 1972, after the company's Montreal airport lease was extended to 1980.

Sky Shops, in 1974, was granted the duty-free shop concession at Mirabel, the new international airport north of Montreal.

The RCMP disclosed later, after raiding Senator Giguere's parliamentary office and Montreal home, that it had been investigating Sky Shops for months.

Mr. MacKay said the fact that P. Lawson Travel paid "an extraordinarily high price" for Sky Shops shares in 1972, was based at least in part on "the knowledge that Sky Shops has an inside track on other duty-free operations" and would get the Mirabel contract.

A bidder identified only as the operator of a duty-free shop in Newfoundland had its application by a business associate:

"Why are you fiddle-diddling around with a bid for the duty-free Shop Limited? The Liberal bag-man has a piece of the action.

A bag-man in political jargon is a fund-raiser. Senator Giguere was a Liberal fund-raiser and Commons questions already have been raised about whether the $60,000 profit on the 1972 share transaction, in which Sky Shops shareholders contributed about $5,000 for the shares at one-twelfth the value, went into the Liberal party treasury.

Transport Minister Otto Lang all but ruled out a judicial inquiry and said he prefers to leave the matter to the RCMP.

"The government was totally innocent in the question of shareholding or dealings in the shares of that company," he said.

The government's direct involvement lies in granting leases. Mr. Lang defended the leases to Sky Shops but he did so. Conservative MPs shouted: "Tell it to a jury."

Other Liberals in the debate also tried to disengage the government.

Jean-Jacques Blais (Napierville) said members are trying to technicoler" the lady "standing in the way." Board guides he quoted from won't be violated occasionally.

And Alison Nicholson (Toronto-Trinity) said opposition, media and officials must share responsibility for what has happened.

Alvin Hamilton (PC—said three cabinet ministers—Health Minister Marc Lalonde, Public Works Minister C. M. Drury and Transport Minister Don Jamieson—should be fired for involvement in the affair.

Mr. Lalonde is a former secretary to Prime Minister Trudeau. In 1970 wrote then deputy transport minister Gerald Hosser to proceed "without delay" on Sky Shops' bid for a lease extension.

He repeated this information in a letter to Sky Shops chairman Louis Lapointe. He also told Mr. Lapointe that Sky Shops exclusive and secret contract with the Quebec Liquor Board should be made clear.

Mr. MacKay said the contract was a factor in giving Sky Shops the Mirabel concession. Mr. MacKay he is going to re-examine whether federal tenders should be related in any way to provincial liquor licenses.

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 21, 1975

Transit Deficit Higher Than First Expected

BY AL ZABAS
Staff Reporter

It will cost every man, woman and child in Belleville 40 cents more this year to support the city transit commission, which now expects to face an additional $30,000 in costs beyond its projected 1975 deficit of $185,000.

For each city resident, it means a total outlay in 1975 of $5.90, even after the provincial government picks up half the deficit the Belleville Transit Commission incurs each year.

In 1975, according to estimates commissioners made Thursday, the BTC will end the year with a deficit approaching a quarter-million dollars.

Commission chairman Marylea Burt said the BTC underestimated the year's budget deficit by about $30,000.

She said the commission foresaw it would overspend its $330,834 yearly budget and as a result tried to reduce some of its costs.

One such attempt was the curtailment of evening service in Belleville—a move that sparked public criticism that lead to a return to 16-hour-a-day, six-days-a-week service.

The deficit was further increased, said BTC manager Lewis McMullin, by a two-week strike earlier this year that stopped the city and deprived the commission of 43,000 passengers and about $41,000 in revenue.

Adn despite an increase in fares, the commission had lost $185,000 in revenue, but earn $185,000 less than it had anticipated.

For 1975, the BTC was to spend $1,165,000, but earn $345,600, leaving the $185,334 to be made up from subsidies from city hall and the provincial government. As of the end of Oct. the commission had incurred a $182,891 deficit. Mounting costs—traditional in the transit business across Ontario—is becoming of increasing concern to Mrs. Burt, the BTC chairman.

"We're going to have to do some sort of campaign to increase passenger use, especially at night," she said Thursday.

Between 9 p.m. and midnight, few passengers use the buses, Mrs. Burt said, adding that, curtailment of service would not be considered. "I'm not going to put my head in that noose again."

But her suggestion that fares be decreased during night hours met with opposition from BTC manager Mr. McMullin.

He said that in Regina, Sask., the transit authority dropped fares between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. to encourage use of buses.

The experiment, run about three years ago, produced a 10 per cent increase in passengers and a "staggering loss" in revenue.

he said "there's no doubt about it, Belleville is a market area of eastern Ontario."

In the eight years since 1967, approximately $60 million in building value has been processed through the inspection department, slightly more than $10 million each year.

Chains Freeze Prices

An eight-week price freeze on about 7,000 food items, excluding perishables, at Miracle Mart food stores makes sense, says local store manager Robert McGall, because it "gives the customer a break!"

The company announced Thursday that Steinberg and Miracle Mart stores will freeze prices until Jan. 17, 1976, on more than two-thirds of its weekly stores' sales volume starting today.

Meat, eggs and fresh produce will be exempt from the freeze, said Sam Steinberg, chairman of the board of Steinberg's Ltd.

Earlier Thursday, Dominion Stores Ltd. announced a 90-day freeze and Loblaws, Ltd. president William Sherman announced a 60-day freeze on non-perishable goods.

Plainfield Home Staff Request Conciliation

The Stonemoor union at the Plainfield Children's Home has applied for conciliation in support of wage demands of $1.50 an hour.

Hourly pay scale at the home for retarded infants now ranges from a low of $3.65 to a high of $4.80 among the union local of nursing aide, maintenance and kitchen staff, said Ian Reilly, chief negotiator for the Hotel and Shoe Workers Union which represents the staff.

Mr. Reilly said the across-the-board raise represents a 30 to 50 per cent pay increase compared to the 12 per cent increase offered by the province, which financially maintains the centre.

He said a letter to the province will be hand-delivered requesting conciliation "and likely will lead to binding arbitration."

The union local is also seeking a variety of fringe benefit improvements, he said.

Mr. Reilly said the federal government's wage ceilings and the province's battle with hospital staff strikes, "the workers have two sticks being held over their heads," said Mr. Reilly.

Mr. Reilly said "the government is suppressing these people from earning a fair wage. The majority earn less than $3.15 an hour."

Mr. Reilly said in addition to the request for conciliation the local is seeking the advice of the Canadian Labor Congress to determine what the local's position will be as negotiations progress.

The workers are looking for a one-year contract.

The current working agreement will expire at the close of December, said Mr. Reilly.

Taking the Oath

Betty Fort, district Beavers co-ordinator of the Belleville Association of Belleville, swore in Ed Thompson as the new troop leader for St. Thomas' Boy Scouts.

New Plant Under Way

Construction will begin immediately on a 40,000-square-foot plant in the city's north-west industrial park for Interprovincial Pipelines Ltd.

Economic development commissioner Fred Bemis said Thursday the purchase of one acre of land of Bell Blvd. has already been approved by council.

Construction handled by local contractor Hugh Murray Ltd. — is expected to be complete by early spring.

Mr. Bemis said the plant will employ 12 in the fabrication and repair of parts used along the pipeline which runs parallel to Highway 401, just south of Corbyville.

Arson Suspect To Appear

A 24-year-old Belleville man will appear in provincial court here Monday on charges he set fire to a Bell Street South home Tuesday.

Daniel Higgess of 117B Victoria Ave. was remanded when he appeared in provincial court here Thursday.

Police said Higgess was charged on Nov. 19 following an investigation into three fires which occurred in the city during the past four months.

The fires were a two-alarm blaze at an apartment block at 90-92 Victoria Ave on Oct. 17, a 1½ hour fire at a two-storey house on Bell Street South on Nov. 3 and blaze in a garage near Victoria Ave., police said.

UCS Drive Still on

The 1975 United Way campaign, started October will continue indefinitely.

J. Robert Burns, campaign co-chairman, said it will be set to end the seven-week-old campaign when the mail strike has ended.

The annual appeal for donations to help support 15 community agencies has reached 61 per cent of its $146,000 goal.

Mr. Burns addressing his remarks to the United Community Services (UCS) board of directors Thursday, said even though people "are feling the pinch this year the campaign is $15,000 ahead compared to last November's figures.

Mr. Burns said volunteers are winding up the employee donations and "we have been the biggest block of money so far."

"Most of the United Way agencies across Canada are in trouble but I think we Belleville's are going to make it," he said. "The results so far are very encouraging."

Alarm Box

Belleville firefighters responded to the following call for assistance during a 24-hour period which ended at 8 a.m. Thursday.

THURSDAY, NOV. 20, 8:28 p.m. — extinguished a fire in waste disposal pickup truck behind the office of Quinte Secondary School on West College St., no damage.

Fair Talk

Matters involving fairs were talked over Thursday by Lyle Vancliff (left) Quinte Exhibition president, E. C. Gowsell, exhibition general manager and Arthur Peppin, assistant director of province's agricultural and horticultural societies branch. The talk came during annual meeting at Shrine Club of District 3, Ontario Association of Agricultural Societies.

City's Rapid Growth Means Problems for Fair Board

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Recent rapid urban development in Belleville has raised problems for the Quinte Exhibition, area fair board spokesmen were told Thursday.

For one thing, city expansion has brought new showcase facilities which are drawing exhibitors who once used the Belleville fair as a display ground, said E. C. Gowsell, Quinte Exhibition general manager.

The exhibition also has tried in recent years to find the most suitable dates for its big show.

But it still has "a problem, no question about it," said Mr. Gowsell. "Time and trial are the only factors which will determine the future.

His remarks came at the Ontario Association of Agricultural Societies' District 3 annual meeting at the Shrine Club.

Mr. Gowsell's report citing exhibition difficulties contrasted with the annual reports of other district fair boards which noted successful exhibitions this year.

The exhibition is "facing problems of change brought about by the fact of Belleville expanding at a fairly active pace during the past three years," he said.

"Expansion has brought with it new facilities and other interest groups operating independently — and at times and places other than the Exhibition.

"This loss to the local exhibition has meant taking a hard look as to what the future format would be to compensate," he said.

This has seen the exhibition change its timing in the past two years in an attempt to find a solution.

But there's another problem:

Car, Truck Collide

A Belleville couple were treated and released from Belleville General Hospital Thursday for minor injuries suffered in a two-vehicle collision at the intersection of Sidney and West Bridge streets in Belleville.

City Police Deputy Chief Harold Reid identified the two people today as Russell Rupert, 72, driver of a car westbound on West Bridge St. and his passenger, Eliza Rupert, 64, both of 128 West Moira St.

Deputy Reid said the driver of Canadian Pacific express truck, Rex Allan Claus, 21, of 231 Dufferin Ave. in Trenton, did not require hospital treatment.

Investigation Continues Into Cause of Blast

An investigation continues for the third day today into an explosion late Tuesday which smashed a front door and shattered a large window at the King Sol Discount Store on Front St. in Belleville.

City Fire Chief Leo Culhane said today both city fire department inspectors — Bill Christopher and Paul Stephenson — and John Stoneham, an inspector with the department of energy and resources in the provincial ministry of labor, are attempting to determine the cause.

He said the three men spent Thursday checking a basement furnace and boiler which smashed a front door and shattered a large window.

Store employee John Silcott, 23, of Pine St. in Belleville is listed in satisfactory condition at Belleville General Hospital (BGH), recovering from second degree burns to his face and hands suffered in the explosion, a BGH spokesman said today.

Silcott had spotted smoke and smelled oil and went downstairs to check the furnace.

It is open to Loyalist students only who have until next Thursday to register.

Mr. Cook said if the tournament is a success, it will operate each year as a side activity in the drive.

A new system to gauge the drive's success has been devised, he added. Regular poundage reports will be presented every two hours over Radio CJBQ.

In September an advance interview for the drive might be broadcast on CHEX-TV in Ottawa (cable and channel 8) or Rogers cable TV at 6 p.m., Nov. 28 as program officials have confirmed it is considering filming an interview next week, Mr. Cook noted.

He said all toys and food-stuffs will be housed in the student lounge until the drive ends at 6 p.m. on Dec. 3. Donation pledges can be made by telephoning 962-9197.

Plaque Unveiled

Mayor Ben Corke unveiled a plaque Thursday commemorating the opening of the Belleville Public Library. Mr. Corke, Belleville Library Board chairman Mrs. Ruth Young and Library Director Mrs. Ann Ferguson are shown with the plaque.

Loyalist, Firemen Join Together for Annual Christmas Toy and Food Drive

BY ROBIN CHASE
Staff Reporter

Parents with young children in the Belleville area will be able to set up appointments for Santa Claus to make pre-Christmas visits to their homes from Dec. 1-3, courtesy of the Students Association of Loyalist College (SALC).

However, there's a catch — the families must have repairable toys to donate to SALC's third annual toy drive and radio marathon, says Ken Cook, SALC special events co-ordinator.

Mr. Cook said Thursday that the one-of-four new facets to this year's drive, sponsored jointly with Belleville Fire Department which sees repairable toys and non-perishable foodstuffs collected for distribution among needy families in the Belleville area at Christmas time.

The foodstuffs collection is also new this year, he said. Organizers will seek donations of canned or non-perishable board goods to be donated over the Salvation Army for distribution.

Mr. Cook announced that a marathon euchre tournament will begin at 4 p.m. on Dec. 1 in the college student lounge, headquarters for the drive, and continue until a winner is declared.

Sponsored by the Molson Brewery's awards program which provides the trophies, the tournament has already attracted 109 teams, by said.

Fire Department Continues to Improve

The condition of Capt. George Woodhouse, 30-year veteran of Belleville Fire Department who suffered a heart attack while fighting a fire on Oct. 27, continues to improve, a public relations spokesman for Toronto General Hospital said Thursday.

The spokesman said Capt. Woodhouse is listed in good condition and continuing about quite well."

He was to have been transferred from the hospital's respiratory unit to a regular ward Thursday evening, she said, adding that Capt. Woodhouse is walking in "short spurts" is talking somewhat and physically, "he seems to be fine."

Capt. Woodhouse was stricken while walking at the rear of 90-92 Victoria Ave., a 100-year-old apartment block extensively damaged in a two-alarm fire.

He was transferred to Toronto for coronary care from the intensive care unit at Belleville General Hospital in serious condition on Oct. 21.

Commission Rejects Free Bench for Shelter

Belleville Transit Commission Thursday rejected a suggestion that a bench be placed in its newest bus shelter in front of Corby Library.

The commission decided to continue its no-bench policy and refused to accept a donation of a bench and trash can from the Board of Management of the downtown improvement committee.

BTC manager Lewis McMullin said benches "create more trouble than they do good."

Chairman Marylea Burt echoed his words saying that the policy will continue "mainly because shelters become used for purposes other than waiting for a bus."

Experience in other cities has shown that non-bench-equipped shelters, often harassing passengers forcing them to leave shelters, commissioners have previously said.

The city transit authority has itself experienced problems. Manager Mr. McMullin said that children have pelted the Wellington Cres. shelter—erected for use by residents of nearby senior citizens apartments—with rocks, eggs and tomatoes.

McLauchlan Leaves Board

Carson McLauchlan has resigned as a director of the United Community Services (UCS) board.

Gord Mullin, executive director of UCS, announced Thursday he had received a written resignation from Mr. McLauchlan.

Mr. McLauchlan cited a change in his working hours as the reason for the move.

Spirit of Christmas

The firemen have begun their annual repairable toy drive and already, many items have been left at the East Dundas St. fire hall.

Suspect Remanded

A 23-year-old Belleville man has been remanded to the Penetanguishene Psychiatric Hospital at Penetanguishene following his appearance in provincial court here Thursday on a charge of murder.

Gordon William Graham of 11 Earl St. was scheduled originally to appear for a date to be set for trial.

The charge resulted from an incident on Nov. 9 when Arnold Bruce Thompson, 38, of 22 East Moira St. in Belleville was sent to Belleville General Hospital with a stab wound in his left chest and a broken hand following a fight in his apartment.

Guessing Game Doesn't Bother Lemmerman

CALGARY (CP) - Quarterback Bruce Lemmerman of Edmonton Eskimos, part of a week-long guessing game with Manitoba's Joe Ken Wilkinson will start for the Western Football Conference championship game Sunday's Grey Cup final, says the speculation doesn't bother him.

Lemmerman says he is accustomed to walling until game time to find out if he will start.

Coach Ray Jauch keeps the quarterbacks and the spectators guessing.

"Jon and I are both used to it and it doesn't bother us," Lemmerman said. "Often we don't know who the starter is until about five minutes before game time."

Wednesday, Wilkinson started for Eskimos when he's healthy and the Eskimos say he's ready for Sunday's rematch with Montreal Alouettes, who whipped Edmonton 20-7 in the sodgy 1974 final at Vancouver. However, there is speculation that Lemmerman will start this time because of his performance off the bench in the last half of the sudden-death final and sparked Edmonton's 20-18 victory over Saskatchewan Roughriders.

Both Lemmerman and Wilkinson say they would rather miss the game and watch Edmonton win than play a prominent part in a loss.

"I think I'm more confident," says Lemmerman. "I didn't have a big season last year, especially the last half.

"But this year I feel I was consistent and I had some successes in the playoffs, which has to make a difference."

Charlie Turner, selected as top offensive lineman in the Canadian Football League, says he feels the club's practices are tougher than game preparations for the Grey Cup in the last two years.

"For myself, I feel we're stronger," said Turner, who edged Dave Braggins of Montreal in balloting for the offensive lineman award.

Turner is reluctant to label 1975 his best year, but he is satisfied with it.

"I think I was meaner, maybe a lot meaner, in 1971, but we were losing then and this game is about winning.

"That year, I took everything personally. Maybe I was better in some ways but I might not have been as good if I hadn't been hurt."

Part of Turner's pre-game jitters is said, in a way, to stem from about last year's loss to Montreal.

Backfield Coach and Player

Could Be Gaines' Last Fling

CALGARY (CP) — It is likely that veteran Giles Gaines will be playing his last game for Montreal Alouettes when they meet Edmonton Eskimos in the Grey Cup championship Sunday afternoon.

But there was a time during the 1973 Western Football League season when Gaines, who also is the Montreal defensive backfield coach, was riding the bench for the Alouettes and there was speculation he would quit again.

However, due to injuries to the defensive backfield personnel, Gaines, who entered the CFL in 1961, was put back into action by Alouettes' coach Marv Levy.

"I really wasn't happy sitting on the bench," Gaines said. "I'm not the type to sit around and just collect my cheque.

"But now that's nothing is all on the bench is not the type of guy the coaches want. I really wanted to play but I wasn't doing what the coaches wanted to do."

Gaines, 37, played the first regular season game of his football's starting middle safety. He was replaced by Tony Proudfoot, who had just returned from the Hall of Fame game with Ed Smith pushed Gaines back into the lineup. He was still sharp enough to intercept two Ron Lancaster passes.

Gaines, who hopes to be involved in coaching next year or a full-time basis, will be appearing in his sixth Grey Cup game.

This is my third Cup game in Montreal," he said. "And its exciting to be back in the Grey Cup game again. I am looking forward to it.

"There's a 50-per-cent chance that this is my last game. Four of the CFL have been good to me and I've enjoyed playing. I think I have attained a maximum out of my body."

Gaines has managed to keep himself in excellent condition throughout the season.

"I never stopped work during the off-season. Even in the winter time I put on boots and go for walks. The game requires good physical condition. Too many guys let themselves go."

Meanwhile, coach Levy had another problem to worry about Thursday night as defensive tackle Junior Ah You aggravated a knee injury during Montreal's 90-minute workout.

"At first we were fearful it was very severe," Levy said. "But we're a bit more encouraged now.

"We will have to wait until tomorrow (Friday) to see whether he can practice."

Ah You suffered the original injury in the final game of the schedule Nov. 1 in Ottawa. Ed Bennett of Canadian, filled in for Ah You in the semi-final last week.

Bonnett started the eastern final, 15 in Ottawa and Ah You eventually entered the game when Mike Samuel was shaken up in the second half.

Best Man Lost Claims Rodgers

CALGARY (CP)—A modest Willie Burden of the Calgary Stampeders accepted the award Thursday night as most outstanding player in the Canadian Football League, leaving runner-up Jackie Rodgers of Montreal Alouettes to complain that the best man lost.

"I have more yards than has and I've carried the ball half the times he has," Rodgers told reporters later.

The flamboyant running back and wide receiver, however, insisted that being runner-up for the award for the second consecutive year did not really disturb him.

"I don't really care if I get the trophy. I'm the highest-rated football player in any league and I think this proves who should be the best."

Burden, who set a CFL season record this year with 1,896 yards on 322 carries, declined to deal extensively with Rodgers' assertions, commenting that "He's a great, super athlete, no doubt about it."

In his acceptance speech, Burden sought to pass much of the credit to his team-mates.

"I owe a tremendous amount of credit to the entire Calgary Stampeder offensive line and to a great blocking back by the name of Mike Gabler."

Burden said Gabler' talents have not been recognized enough and were a key factor in his season success. "He just opened things up and all I had to do was walk behind."

In other awards, running back Jim Foley of Ottawa Rough Riders was named Canadian Player of the Year, Edmonton Eskie Charlie Turner

BILLY SMITH

Goalie Comes To the Rescue

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hockey is supposed to be a team game, but it doesn't always work out that way if a goaltender is holding a hot hand.

New York Islanders played hardly enough to lose Bernie Parent from in front of the net after we tie in spite of themselves because of goalie Billy Smith.

Smith kicked out 35 shots at Boston only the Islanders escaped with a 3-2 tie in a national Hockey League game with the Bruins.

The goal belongs to Billy Smith," said Islander coach Al Arbour after the game.

In Thursday's other games, Buffalo Sabres pounded Detroit Red Wings 7-2 and Philadelphia Flyers edged California Seals 5-4.

Smith was busiest in the first two periods, allowing just one goal in each period on 18 shots in the first and 19 in the second. The Islanders managed only 25 shots.

"I was tired after 35 shots but I always seem to play well in Boston," said Smith. "It's like my home rink. I don't know. I've ever had a bad game here."

Lorne Henning, who has been up and down with the Islanders since they joined the league, scored the first two goals of the game Wednesday while Bobby Schmautz and defenceman Dale Hoyes finish had Boston goals.

Red Wing coach Doug Barkley thought a missed scoring opportunity with Buffalo leading 3-1 in the second period may have cost his team the game.

Rick Martin and Richard Mio scored from in front of the net after we scored," said Barkley. "Instead doing 3-2, we were down 4-1.

Rene Robert, Danny Gare and Brian Spencer scored twice each for the Sabres. Rick Martin provided Buffalo's other goal. Dan Maloney and Terry Harper scored for the Wings.

The Seals didn't impress Philadelphia coach Fred Shero. "We played the way they did, everybody would have gone home—including the bus," said after second-period goals by Bobby Clarke and Orest Kindrachuk brought the Flyers back from a 2-1 deficit.

California coach Jack Evans disagreed.

"I thought we played pretty well," he said. "I've looked at the records and we've won as many points on the road as anybody else.

The Seals have won four games on the road last year. But this year they're 4-10-1 on the road and 7-12-2 overall.

Jim Watson had the other Philadelphia goal. Reggie Leach and Bob Girard scored for California.

Lancers Win 5-4

WHITBY, Ont. (CP) — Dave Nicholson scored two goals to place Lindsay Lancers to a 5-4 victory over Whitby Warriors in the only Ontario Hockey Association game for a game Thursday.

Lindsay held period leads of 2-1 and 3-2.

George Cornell, Randy Rhodes and Jeff Stewart got the other goals for the Lancers.

Peter Vipond, with two, Robert Menard and Greg Rice scored replied for the Warriors.

The Warriors outshot Lindsay 37-31 before 225 spectators.

Play resumes tonight with Lindsay visiting Wings and Niagara at Orillia.

Football Fever Strikes

CALGARY (CP) — Football fans began pouring into the city Thursday night and today in preparation for noisy weekend celebrations and the Canadian Football League championship.

It will be the first time Calgary played host to a Grey Cup game. The city is celebrating its centennial this year and Calgarians in the welcoming committees at the airport leave little doubt that visitors are in for the time of their life.

A few people disrupting Montreal Alouette buttons and tags, could be spotted on the streets Thursday and a few Edmonton Eskimo supporters included a group riding an old fire engine.

Prime Minister Trudeau will be at the Grey Cup game but will arrive too late for meet and the celebrations. He is scheduled to arrive Sunday for a luncheon and then the game. He will present the Grey Cup to the winning team.

Air Canada has added a Boeing 747 to one of its one of its regular flights from Central Canada scheduled for Boeing DC-9, to accommodate the influx of visitors, and airline spokesman said seven extra flights have been added from all parts of the country.

City merchants and hotel owners expect to make Calgary Tourist and Convention Centre says revenue generated by the game will be in hotel tax $4.5 million.

Meanwhile, city police chief Brian Sawyer said: "We are not going to put up with hoodlums and try in dry up the town but we'd rather not see people hanging from already full and tossing anything around.

He says 300 uniformed officers, 200 more than usual, will be on duty Thursday to Sunday in the downtown area. On Sunday, 180 officers and 120 private security men will be on hand for the game at McMahon Stadium on the University of Calgary campus.

Bryan Joins Dennis

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Minnesota North Stars have acquired centre Bryan Hextall from Detroit 18 for a change for left winger Rick Chinnick, the National Hockey League club announced Thursday.

Hextall, who played for Detroit Thursday night against Buffalo, will join the Minnesota for Saturday night's game against Atlanta.

Hextall, 24, is the older brother of North Star centre Dennis Hextall. Bryan is the Bryan Hextall Sr., a member of the Hockey Hall of Fame. The two brothers have not previously played together as professionals.

Hextall had no goals and four assists with Detroit this season, prior to Thursday night's game.

Chinnick, 28, who has been playing with Minnesota's New Haven Coes, farm club in the American League has four goals and 11 assists this season.

Weak Sisters Are Suffering

NEW YORK (CP) — Outspoken coach Bep Guidolin of Kansas City Scouts says the stronger teams in the National Hockey League must stop "hiding" player talent and make winning and losing strong clubs such as his own.

"The trade would please me" Guidolin said in an interview after the Scouts' first-ever win over New York Rangers (6-4) Wednesday night.

Kansas City and Washington Capitals entered the NHL last season with new arenas that can seat 16,000 and 18,000 respectively for hockey. Rarely have the rinks been more than half-filled.

The Scouts won 20 of their first 97 games in the NHL while the Capitals, who in fact have the rinks been more than half-filled, won 8.

"All I'm saying is that if they (the stronger clubs) have players somewhere, throw them at us at home."

Scandinavian Power for Jets

BY SCOTT ABBOTT

The Canadian Press

Winnipeg Jets have lost more of the "world" in the World Hockey Association than they grabbed Wednesday night.

Gerbert Ron Dupuis, who reaped some of the rewards of co-operational Thursday night.

Yet he did get all their goals from Scandinavian imports in a 2-2 victory over Quebec that snapped a nine-game home-winning streak for the Nordiques.

Elsewhere, Minnesota Fighting Saints downed New England Whalers 2-0, Phoenix Roadrunners dropped Edmonton Oilers 5-1 and San Diego Mariners defeated Denver Spurs 5-1.

"Our Swedish guys now know how to play our North American game," said Sidney Hull, who set up Ulf Nilsson for Winnipeg's winning goal after 1:13 of overtime.

The Jets they shoot quick instead of making a double pass." Nilsson fired the puck at the centre ice and relayed it to Nordiques goalie Michel Dion in the left wall boards. Nilsson fired quickly from top of the faceoff circle and beat Quebec goalie Richard Brodeur high to the stick side with the first shot of the overtime period.

The Nordiques outshot 36-34 over the game, tied 2-2 after two periods. In the first period, but it was Winnipeg's Veli-Tekka Ketola who got the only goal of the opening 20 minutes. Mats Lindh of the Jets and Quebec's Real Cloutier exchanged second-period goals. Lindh's goal was the Jets's 10th goal of the season a record. Cloutier's goal was for Quebec and forced the overtime period.

Winnipeg's victory pulled the Jets within four points of the first-place Nordiques in the Canadian Division.

Gerbert Ron Dupuis scored his first shutout of the season for the Minnesota Saints blanked the Whalers at Hartford, Conn. Dupuis, who left the Jets in the year in the opening period and Wayne Connelly's goal in the third constituted Saints' defensive offense, but Jack Carlson retained the spotlight he grabbed Wednesday night.

Carlson, who left the Jets recently with four major penalties in one game against Quebec, added two more in the previous night, picked up two more Wednesday night.

Ron Huston led the Roadrunners to victory with a pair of goals and John Gray had the other for the winners. Rusty Patenaude scored Edmonton's only goal.

Joe Norris scored two goals and set up another as the Mariners clubbed the visiting Spurs. Bill Stevenson, Don Tsley and Ray Addonno added single goals for the Mariners, who lost the Jets goalie Ken Dryden

Oshawa Out, Yardmen In

Don Gavey, director of the Belleville Lions Midget Hockey Tournament which opens tonight and continues Saturday, has known all along that these events don't always run smoothly.

But earlier this week, he had to shake off the effects of a bombshell when word was received that Oshawa would not be taking part in the 18-team tournament.

Gavey says Oshawa team manager Don Bowen informed him that commitments to Wrigley Tournament elimination rounds would make it impossible for the club to keep the Belleville date.

According to the tourney director, the Ontario Minor Hockey Association, through its secretary Vern McCallum, could not confirm that Oshawa was indeed busy with elimination games this weekend.

Gavey promptly informed the Oshawa-management that the team's place would be by Belleville's minor midget OMHA team, the Yardmen.

"I assume they (Oshawa) felt competition would be too stiff and they did not want to risk injuries, suspensions or defeat," said Gavey.

Gavey is upset by the turn of events.

Not only will Oshawa forfeit its $40 entry fee but, emphasizes Gavey, "Never again will an Oshawa team be invited to a Belleville tournament as long as I am involved."

"This year's tournament will be just as competitive but with Oshawa. We have teams coming in with reputations that are superior to the Oshawa club's," he states.

Tournament play begins tonight at 6.30 p.m. at Dick Ellis Rink and Memorial Arena.

It will be Belleville Yardmen and Trenton in the opener at Dick Ellis while at Memorial, Kingston faces Burlington.

Saturday all tournament games will be played at Memorial Arena, beginning at 7 a.m.

Lancer Leader

Leading point-getter in Thursday's Loyalist Lancer upset of previously undefeated Durham Lords, Ken Fairbank (14) drives past Oshawa defender Fred Sweemek (30). Lords brought perfect 4-0 record into game but wound up on short end of 65-45 score.

Karate On Show

Saturday, approximately 400-500 Karate enthusiasts will gather at Centennial Secondary School for the first annual Canadian Karate Today open championship.

Jim Sheridan and Bill Daniels are promoting the event that they hope will blossom into a nationally known meet. Besides having the second largest trophy array in Canada, next only to the Ontario Finals, this first meet is attracting some very big names.

Probably the best known entry is second ranked past Canadian champion, Wally Slocki of Brampton, Ontario. Slocki will be preparing for his upcoming world championship match in Hawaii in the near future.

Other well-known competitors, including Vern Cleroux of Hull, Quebec, will also be on hand. Besides the competition that will begin at noon there will also be demonstrations of the various types of Karate and also a special Kung Fu demonstration.

Spectators will be able to cheer for some local Karate enthusiasts at the event. Sheridan also predicts that there will be anywhere from 40-50 entries from the Belleville area.

Loyalist Upsets Lords

The Loyalist Lancers men's basketball team could not have picked a better time or a better team to beat to end a three-game losing streak at Loyalist on Thursday night. The Lancers convincingly defeated the Oshawa Durham Lords 65-45 to give them a two win and three loss record to date.

Heading into Thursday's contest the Durham club had yet to lose a game sporting a four win- no loss-record. Durham came up flat against the fast running Lancers who built up a good lead right from the start and never gave it up.

Before the game, Lancer Coach Rob Stinson acknowledged that his club "would have to play a full 40 minutes of basketball." In the last two encounters, Loyalist had faded in the final 10 minutes of play which cost them the game.

Both clubs came out slowly and missed many good scoring chances in the early going.

"We should have put the game away in the first half of play but we missed a lot of easy, close in shots", said Stinson at the conclusion of the match.

Fortunately for the home team the Lords were unable to find their running legs and as a result, the Loyalist club were able to build up a substantial 20-34 lead by half time.

Ken Fairbank was the driving force behind the Loyalist win as the speedy forward compiled a total of 21 points during the evening.

Jim Bellall and Randy Starke also provided a scoring punch for the winners as each man was able to rack up a total of 14 points. Other Lancer points were scored by Mike Lynch with eight, and Wilf Lemoine and Dave Culmer with six and four points respectively.

In the second half of play it was all Loyalist as the Lancers walked all over their opposition who continued to run into trouble in their shooting accuracy. The Lancers' rebounding showed a marked improvement in the second half which also aided them on the scoreboard both offensively and defensively.

John Szczepanski showed the way for the losers hooping a total 12 points while Larry Hornsey, Fred Sweemek and Daryl Bodashtsky scored nine and eight points respectively.

Lancers will get a long break from league play but will travel to Peterborough to take on the Trent University team Thursday in an exhibition encounter.

Streak Ends

Devolin Combines picked an opportune time to end league leading Reid's Dairy's six streak in Thursday night Quinte Hockey League play.

Stopping the high flying Dairymen 7-4 after the league's first place team had chalked up six straight wins, Devolin earned a share of second spot in the standings.

The win was Devolin's third against four setbacks. In Thursday's other contest, O'Brien Steel kept pace with Devolin's by edging past Belvedere Hotel 4-3. That leaves the Hotel team alone in the cellar with four points.

Devolin's upset the Dairy crew in spite of another big night by Mac Hunter who brought his league leading total of goals to 14 with three markers. Rick Rosebush has a goal and an assist in defeat.

Doug Jodoin and Terry Pope led the charge for the upstart winners, each collecting a pair of goals. Pope also added two assists. Dave Andersen, Ken Johnson and Paul Paddon were the other marksmen. Paddon had a big night in the playmaking department, earning three helpers.

Al Earl's goal was the winner for O'Brien's in the squeaker over Belvedere. Kevin Fifer, Andy Prudden and Don Goodfellow had the winners' other goals.

Replying for Belvedere were M. Vanasline, Jason Morris and Jack Donovan.

Look for Striped 20

By MIKE Brubacher
Staff Reporter

Football fans are going to get some great action this weekend. There's the regular slate of National Football League games, the Grey Cup game and a third contest area fans might take interest in watching — the College Bowl Game.

The matchup between third ranked University of Calgary Dinosaurs and number one Gee-Gees is being played tonight in Toronto's CNE Stadium. However, if you can't be there in person, CBC Television is video-taping the contest and running the tape at 12 noon Saturday. It will be carried by CKWS television at that time.

The local angle to the Canadian college game of the year doesn't lie in the players or the coaches. You'll have to look for number 20 in the black and white stripes. And if you look close enough, you are bound to recognize the man under that visored cap as Bayside Secondary School vice-principal, Gord Smith.

"This is the biggest game I've ever officiated," said Smith. "I've been officiating football and basketball for over a decade.

"The local teacher belongs to a very elite group within the University Athletic Association referees. There are only 20 such associated officials in the province. Besides belonging to the few granted permission to officiate university games, Smith is an individual case in point. He is the only member of the OUAA Football Panel of Officials who resides outside a university city.

"I'm not even sure how it was allowed in the group," said Smith, "but one year I had an opportunity to officiate a couple of university games for which he gives credit to Jack Sisson another area football-minded teacher, now principal at Trenton High, and the following year I was offered a chance to join."

Smith has been doing games ever since. Every weekend for the last nine years he finds himself in one of Ontario's university towns, during football season.

Besides his wife is an enthused about making the college football circuit as he is. "I got married the same year I joined the panel," said the Maynard teacher, "she doesn't mind me travelling because she gets a chance to go right along with me."

Smith will handle the field judge chores for tonight's contest. Though he wasn't always he in the thick of things he'll be somewhere close by and since his prime function is to keep the forward progress of the ball", he's bound to pop up in the picture.

One good thing about the game and being carried live — Smith will get a chance to see him — in action.

Goegan Back For Key Game

The Belleville Bobcats, although far from being in top shape as far as a full roster is concerned will be out for a win tonight when they travel to Pickering to tangle with the eastern division leading Pusmbers in Metro Junior B Hockey action.

Out of action for tonight's encounter will be defencemen Neil Turner and Wayne Calberry who are both currently sitting out suspensions picked up in last week's game with the Markham Royals. Also missing will be Cats', speedy forward Paul Tilley. He is also out with a suspension the length of which has yet to be determined.

"This is a key game for us", said Cats' coach Meehan Bonnar.

"Grant (Goegan) will be back tonight and was skating well in the practice. Tony (Meagher) will also be back after missing the last game due to exams." Bob Thompson also out of action last week will be back on the forward line giving the Cats some more shooting power.

Coach Bonnar plans on playing a more "defensive" game tonight depending on the state the team gets, sending in only one forechecker instead of the usual two.

Wanted: 20 More Players

When regular registration for the Belleville Minor Hockey Association (BMHA) was held, some parents were disappointed that their six year olds were not accepted. They'll be glad to know that in an effort to place more boys in the eight-team Novice division, a one-night registration is planned at which six year olds will be welcome.

Right now, each of the eight teams in the Novice group has only 12 or 13 players. It is hoped response to the registration will enable the BMHA to place two or three more boys on each team.

It's a first come, first served registration. Only the first 20 boys, six, seven and eight year olds, can be accommodated. And parents must present their boy's birth certificate.

Registrations will be taken Tuesday, at the Recreation Centre on Pinnacle St., from 6-9 p.m.

Giants Walk On Air

TORONTO (CP) — Mike Kelly stands 6-foot-four and weighs 303 pounds but after being named to the all-Canada college football team, Thursday, he felt light enough to walk on air.

"I'm up in the clouds," said the mammoth defensive tackle from St. Mary's University in Halifax after being named to the Canadian Intercollegiate Athletic Union's all-star squad.

Riley and SMU team-mate Mark Pothier, a 6-4, 275-pound offensive tackle—are the biggest men on the team announced at an awards luncheon. Both are native of St. Catharines, Ont.

Joining Riley on the all-Canada defensive unit's interior line were Paul Kilger, 25 years old, six-foot and 236 pounds from Ottawa Gee Gees, the lone repeater from the 1974 defensive team; Richard Ott, 22, 5-11, 205, of Wilfrid Laurier in Waterloo, Ont., and Brian Walker, 22, 6-2, 225, from the University of Saskatchewan in Saskatoon.

Gary Mueller, 24, 6-11, 225, from the University of Western Ontario, London, and Ed Sitlak, 22, 6-1, 226, of St. Mary's, were tabbed as linebackers.

The defensive backfield was made up of halfbacks Kevin Avery, 18, 6-1, 185, St. Francis Xavier, Antigonish, N.S.; Les McFarlane, 19, 5-11, 170 Saskatchewan; Darell Penner 22, six feet, 182, Queen's University, Kingston, Ont.; Tim Pickett, 21, 5-4, 165, University of Waterloo (Ont.); Victor Wasilenko, 23, 5-11, 170, British Columbia, Vancouver, and safety Rodney Ward, 18, 6-3, 205 of Bishop's University at Lennoxville, Que.

Award winners Brian Fryer, a wide receiver from the University of Alberta in Edmonton, and Pothier topped the offensive selections of coaches and athletic directors from the four university conferences voting for the all-Canada team.

Fryer, 22, 6-1 and 180 pounds, was named winner of the Hec Crighton Trophy as the outstanding college player in Canada, and Pothier the outstanding college lineman at an awards presentation Wednesday night.

Other 1975 ward winners in the offensive lineup are University of Ottawa wide receiver Jeff Avery, 22, and University of Calgary running back Dan Diduck, 24.

Avery, a 6-2 180-poulder, was named first winner of the Frank Tindall Trophy as the outstanding player in the Gee Gees' Central Bowl victory over Windsor Lancers last weekend. Diduck, 5-9 and 190, won the Don Loney Trophy as the outstanding performer in the Atlantic Bowl when his Dinosaurs throttled Acadia at Wolfville, N.S.

Rounding out the offensive backfield are Neil Lumsden, Ottawa's versatile fullback who has run and kicked almost 500 career points; his Gee Gees' running mate, Bill Harrison; running backs Clifford McLeod of Acadia and Bruce Morris of Guelph—who shed in the voting—and quarterback Gord Taylor of Wilfrid Laurier.

Lumsden, 21, is 6-1 and 228 pounds while Harrison, 23, is 5-11, 195 pounds. McLeod, a 22-year-old native of Dartmouth, N.S., at 5-6 and 180 pounds is the smallest player on both teams while Morris, 25, goes six feet and 185 pounds.

Ottawa's Dan Sarfer, 20, six feet and 225 pounds, centres the offensive line. He's flanked by guards Rene Harrisor, 19, 6-2, 225, of Lennox and Dale Tingley, 20, 6-2, 190, of Acadia. Joining Pothier at tackle is Drew Allan 21, 6-5, 240, from Carleton to complete the offence.

McAdoo Sharp

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Cleveland Coliseum is never the same after a visit by Bob McAdoo.

The Buffalo Braves' centre seems to play some of his best games there. Last year, he had 49 points one night to break the Coliseum scoring record. Thursday night, he bettered that mark by one.

"I guess it's just playing against Jim Chone," McAdoo said after his 50 points powered the Braves to a 118-115 overtime victory over Cleveland Cavaliers. "We're real good friends."

As far as Buffalo was concerned, it was a good night for McAdoo to put on a record-breaking performance. The Braves had to wipe out a 27 point deficit to win the pulsating contest.

Dodgers Bid To Keep Star

NEW YORK (AP) — The agent for pitcher Andy Messersmith said Thursday that if Los Angeles Dodgers meet his client's contract demands before the opening of Friday's arbitration hearing in which the pitcher seeks to become a free agent, "we would have to sign."

"I don't see how we could refuse," said Osmond. "As a matter of good faith, we'd have to accept. Otherwise, we would really look bad." Dodger officials were in New York Thursday trying to sign Messersmith before the hearings open.

Osmond says Messersmith wants a four year contract from the Dodgers worth more than $700,000—with the first year retroactively covering the season—and a no-cut clause.

He said the Dodgers have offered a $150,000 for 1976—$25,000 more than his renewed 1974 contract; $170,000 for 1976; a figure for 1977 which Osmond would not reveal, and a no-trade clause in writing.

Bowl Teams Show Eskimo Influence

TORONTO (CP) — Any similarity in the offences employed in tonight's Canadian College Bowl involving the University of Calgary Dinosaurs and Ottawa Gee Gees is not coincidental.

Both teams run out of a version of the "I" formation, similar to that employed by Edmonton Eskimos. No wonder—Eskimo head coach Ray Jauch has influenced the head coaches of the Dinosaurs and the Gee Gees.

"I helped Ray out at his training camp two years ago and Don (Ottawa coach Gilbert) helped him out this year, as I suppose you could say our teams have been influenced by Ray, Calgary head coach Mike Lashuk, a seven-year CFL veteran with the Eskimos, said Thursday.

Gilbert adds however, the similarities between the two teams in the Canadian Intercollegiate Athletic Union championship game at CNE Stadium don't end there.

"We also use the same type defence, and we have our specialty units' said the former CFL defensive halfback with Ottawa Rough Riders.

"What it's doing to ball down is who can execute (their) plays the best."

What worries Gilbert most, however, is the weather. After a string of mild days, the weather bureau is calling for much colder temperatures and the possibility of snow flurries for the game.

"It's a darn shame," Gilbert said. "There's going to be a lot of talent out there tomorrow night and I just hope the weather holds off and allows them to play their best."

Like Lashuk, he feels one factor that could sway the game in Ottawa's favor could be size. The Gee Gees are a much bigger club physically than Calgary, leading both coaches to suggest it could be the difference in winning or losing.

Lashuk, however, is just grateful to be here. It's the first time a Dinosaur team has reached the national final.

"But I'm not surprised," Lashuk added. "I said the kids before the season that we could go all the way if we could avoid any serious injuries. We did, and we're here."

What encouraged Lashuk early was the fact that he had 31 players returning from last year's club, "and that's six more than we'reverehaul."

The only question mark on the Dinosaurs is defensive halfback Miles Morrison, playing his final game for Calgary and one of two graduates Lashuk feels is a fine pro prospect.

"Morrison suffered a shoulder separation, but we're hoping he'll get clearance from the doctor to play Friday," said the Calgary coach.

The other plus in Lashuk's ledgers is running back Dan Diduck, a five-foot-nine 180 pounder who ran roughshod over Acadia University in the Atlantic Bowl at Wolfville, N.S., last weekend. The performance earned him most valuable player honors and made him the first recipient of the Don Loney Trophy.

The fact that Calgary has been back and forth across Canada twice in the last week doesn't seem to worry Lashuk.

"The thing that does worry me is all the festivities going on around here. It's difficult for them to concentrate on the game preparation."

Carpet.

Among the most expensive, least understood, purchases you can make.

One store tells you one thing. Another store another thing. You ask a salesman the difference between $4.98 pile and the $9.98 pile and he says, "One's better".
So you prepare yourself for things like this. But there's one thing you can't prepare for. One thing you can't know until it happens. Fact. Like when you write a cheque for a lot of money and you start thinking: "Will it really last years?" "Will it resist stains?" "Will they stand behind it if something goes wrong?"

INTELLIGENT QUESTIONS DESERVE INTELLIGENT ANSWERS
We don't think you need us to tell you that $10.00 carpeting is better than $5.00 carpeting. You need us to tell you why. You need us to tell you why nylon might be all right for your bedroom but not for your den.

A SOLID GUARANTEE OF SAVINGS & SATISFACTION
At Cherney's, every installation is accompanied by a written guarantee of savings and satisfaction. On savings we guarantee that if you can purchase the same carpet and quality elsewhere for less money within 10 days of your purchase, we will meet the price and give you 10% of the difference. Our policy on installation is simple and honest. Every installation is unconditionally guaranteed for 12 months. If it isn't right, we make it right. We aren't afraid to tell you the truth about carpet. All the more reason for coming to Cherney's.

CROSSY — In loving memory of Reta Crossy who passed away Nov. 21, 1974.
Peacefully sleeping, resting at last.

Never she suffered, in patience she bore.
Till God called her home to suffer no more.

Summer Job Program Now on-going Operation

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — What started as a temporary summer job program employing about 30 area students has become an ongoing manufacturing operation.

The program began with the National Alliance of Business-men-Junior Achievement Salvage Co., (NAB) which rebuilt and sold wooden pallets to local businesses last summer.

Because of the operation's success, the Toledo board of education has incorporated it into its Jefferson Centre for Vocational Rehabilitation, a program for young men and women who have not adjusted completely to a regular school program because of special problems or handicaps.

However, when the school term ends, NAB, in co-operation with Junior Achievement, plans to revive the company and take over the operation for the 10 summer weeks as it did last summer. The company will provide students, aged 15 to 21, with paying jobs and business experience.

"This is an excellent addition to our work-oriented program," said Richard Buchholz, Jefferson Centre director. "At present, we have 11 individual training programs involved in more than 100 different manufacturing contracts."

Jefferson Centre, which is funded by the federal and state governments "is in the business of creating employable young people who can contribute to the American system," he explained. The centre has 45 professional staff members.

"This is no ordinary program," said Tom Rutter, vice-president of Junior Achievement (Northwest Ohio.) Inc.

"These students actually operate electric power tools and heavy manufacturing equipment including air hammers, table saws, a bending machine and a five-ton truck."

During the summer program the company sold approximately 10,000 pallets—portable platforms for handling large quantities of goods in shipment or storage.

"We selected wooden pallets as our product for two basic reasons," said Ronald W. (Skip) Allan, Toledo metro director of NAB, on loan from his permanent job as a marketing manager for Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp.

"Demand for pallets is increasing, and considering that local corporations donate their broken pallets to us, material costs are relatively low."

Florence Peppers, 18, was the vice-president of manufacturing and the youngest employee in the original company.

"I loved my job and plan on coming back next summer," she said. Being a vice-president, responsible for shipping and receiving, quality control and production, was more work than I ever expected. I thought vice-presidents just put their feet on the desk and relaxed."

Hershel Peppers, Florence's older brother, worked for the company until Florence fired him for being "too lazy."

NBA had structured the company much like any other including a board of directors. However, while a get of Jefferson Centre, there is no longer a corporate name or executive officer.

Buddhist Monk Treats Drugs Users

SARABURI, Thailand (AP) — For 18 years Charoon Panchan, a former police undercover agent, has been treating narcotics addicts successfully with the spiritual techniques of a Buddhist monk.

His treatment combines herbs, baths, meditation and a solemn vow. Says one Western narcotics officer: "It's unorthodox, sure, but you can't argue with success."

More than 27,000 addicts, mostly teen-agers and elderly opium smokers, have taken their problems to Phra Charoon's Temple of the Bamboo Cave 80 miles north of Bangkok.

Phra Charoon said it is impossible to tell how many have been cured permanently, because they do not come back. But Thai narcotics officials said the great majority free themselves from heroin, morphine and opium forever—a considerably better record than most drug treatment centres—largely because of the vow.

"They invite condemnation by all the spirits of their religion if they break their promise, and most of them really believe it will happen," said Police Col. Chavalit Yodmanee, head of the National Narcotics Suppression

Recently, Phra Charoon was awarded the Philippines' annual Magsaysay award for public service. For the first time the presentation took place outside the Philippines, in deference to the monks 20-year vow to travel only on foot. Because it would cannot himself accept money, the $10,000 award was received by former defence minister Dawee Chullasap.

Gas Powered Destroyer Makes Public Debut

PORTLAND, England (CP) — HMS Sheffield, the Royal Navy's first destroyer powered solely by gas turbines, has shown off its capabilities at sea in public for the first time.

With journalists and technical specialists on board, the 4,000-ton guided-missile vessel, based at this West of England port, spent six hours at sea performing manoeuvres and exercises.

Early this year the Sheffield began one of the most intensive and complex sea trials in naval history, ranging from arctic to tropical conditions and planned to last until the end of next year. In 1977 she will go into active service with NATO defence forces in the eastern Atlantic and home waters.

As the leading ship of a new generation, geared to the demands of the space age, the Sheffield will set the pace for the rest of her class now under construction in British shipyards. They will be called Birmingham, Cardiff, Coventry, Newcastle and Glasgow.

The Sheffield's twin propellers are powered by two sets of Rolls-Royce Olympus and Tyne turbines. The Olympus jet-variants of the power units of the supersonic Concorde airliner, can drive her along at close on 30 knots; the Tynes are intended for cruising. Any combination of two turbines can be used in twin or single propeller drive.

Missiles have replaced the guns as the main armament: Sea Cat missiles, said to be the most sophisticated weaponry of their type in the world, spearhead the multi-purpose system that can be "used for surface-to-surface or surface-to-air attack. A Westland Lynx helicopter mounted with missiles or an aerial torpedo is carried to extend the ship's submarine attack role.

With only a few exceptions every member of the crew of 350 is a technician able to operate or maintain the ship's sophisticated equipment. She has two high-capacity computers with inputs from all sensors including radar and sonar. The computers produce an accurate, up-to-the-minute visual picture for the operations room from which the ship is run when on the attack.

Much of this telemetry was brought into play during the trial program which included simulated air and submarine attacks, refuelling at sea and liaison with other ships.

Electric Stun Gun Proves Valuable

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Promoted as a humane defensive weapon that will immobilize but normally not kill, the electric stun gun may be winning unwanted acceptance in the underworld as a sort of jailhouse insurance.

More than 1,000 Taser Public Defenders, which pack a 50,000-volt wallop, have been sold since the weapon was first marketed in March and a company spokesman said new orders are straining production lines. Only 10 of the guns have been sold to police, the intended buyer.

Just who is buying the stun guns, the manufacturer, Advanced Chemical Technology of Los Angeles, can't say. It is a question some police worry over.

Recently a holdup woman in Miami and a burglar in Redondo Beach near Los Angeles fired Tasers at their victims. Miami police also reported nine Tasers stolen from a distributor.

Some Los Angeles police theorize that criminals may like the weapon because if they are forced to shoot and are caught later, the potential prison sentence will be far lighter than if they had used conventional firearms.

The laws of many states carry different penalties for robbery and armed robbery, or simple assault and assault with a deadly weapon. Criminals who shoot their victims are commonly charged with attempted murder or murder if the victim dies.

The Taser is a flashlight with two mechanisms for firing tiny darts which are attached to the light's nickel cadium batteries by 15-foot-long wires. When the darts strike a person and the low-current, high-voltage charge hits, the victim's nervous system is effectively short-circuited and he normally drops, temporarily stunned.

The flashlight is not integral to the weapon other than holding the sets aim at sight. The darts and wires are enclosed in cassettes which cannot be re-used.

The gun's name is a loose acronym taken by inventor Jack Cover from the book title, Tom Swift and His Electric Rifle.

Some authorities have questioned just how effective and safe the weapon really is.

In the Redondo Beach burglary, Michael Mattingly was hit by both darts from one Taser, which knocked to his knees and stunned. But he was able to pluck out the darts and tackle the burglar, who escaped empty-handed after a scuffle.

Dr. Peter M. Rocovich, a Los Angeles neurosurgeon, said the gun is potentially lethal. The delivery shock could result in cardiac arrest for a victim with heart trouble. He added that the shock fired at a man on dry ground would be felt much more lightly than one adminiistered to a man standing in a pool of water.

"Electricity is very unpredictable and hard to control," he said. "What would be a strong shock to one person could be fatal in someone else."

The firm says only one sale has been made to a law enforcement agency—10 stun guns have been delivered to the Lauderdale Lakes, Fla., police force.

If Los Angeles Police Chief Ed Davis, dismissing all "gun substitutes" now on the market, said: "None of these devices can ever replace a police firearm. . . . If the bad guy knows that his worst fate is being incapacitated and the policeman knows his worst fate is being killed by the bad guy, the bad guys would become roaring lions."

Pantomime Alive and Well in Britain

LONDON (CP) — Pantomime, never easy to explain outside Britain, is a unique blend of broad comedy, spectacle, music hall and a little direct narrative. Usually based on a popular children's story, it has certain elements that have become traditional.

A Victorian Christmas pantomime was a great occasion and some of the traditional elements are retained in today's production. While some of the rules have been slackened in recent years, a pantomime's "principal boy" must be unmistakably a girl and the "dame" is an unmistakably male comedian.

The good fairy and demon king, whose positions on the stage are rigidly assigned, should speak in rhyme and the set should end with a transformation scene, such as the magical change of Cinderella's pumpkin coach by midnight into a coach drawn by ponies.

Pantomime defies disciplined analysis. Call it an enormous Christmas cracker filled with glycerine, lots of babes and bears, cats and broken backs and gooseberries covered with paste and whitewash who smash crockery.

It has always been as much for parents as for children and never pretends to do more than glance at an original legend or fairy tale.

Typical of its cheerful inconsequence is the performance of Dick Whittington some years ago in which the actress playing Dick delivered John of Gaunt's address to England, written by Shakespeare, and turned at the last line to salute the shade of Lord Nelson on the poop of the Saucy Sally.

The London Palladium preserved the tradition of spectacular pantomime for many years but has lately moved away from it. A musical about Hans Anderson opened last Christmas and ran for 10 months.

This Christmas, the Palladium is returning to normal by presenting Peter Pan, which appeared on its stage for nine consecutive seasons in the 1930s.

Of all children's plays, Peter Pan is the undisputed leader. Captain Hook remains the monarch of holiday villains and pirates, redskins and flying children are part of any well-ordered nursery upbringing.

Another hardy perennial is Treasure Island, which appears this year in the musical version by Sir Bernard Miles at the New London Theatre with Sir Bernard as Long John Silver and Spike Milligan as the mutinous Ben Gunn. Sir Bernard is also preparing a panto version of Gulliver's Travels.

Another steady attraction is Toad of Toad Hall, A. A. Milne's adaptation of Kenneth Graham's The Wind in the Willows, with its exhilarious Toad, schoolmasterish Badger and invading hordes of stoats and weasels.

Curiously, Alice in Wonderland has never been a lasting success on the pantomime circuit. Lewis Carroll's jokes appear to provoke a continuous smile rather than loud laughter and the Christmas stage appears to call for more strenuous romping.

Producers of Christmas shows usually start planning 10 or 11 months ahead and their casts contain many people who go to the theatre only once a year.

One well-known company, Howard and Wyndham, is putting on four pantomimes at Glasgow, Newcastle, Liverpool and Birmingham. The subjects are Babes in the Wood, Robinson Crusoe, Aladdin and Cinderella. All are new productions but none is expected to stray far from the traditional guidelines.

Details of Events Expected in January

MONTREAL (CP) — A detailed schedule of performances in the arts and cultural program of the Olympics is expected to be issued in January with tickets sold by mail during the following three months.

Yves Desrochers, director-general of the cultural program, said in an interview that his office has set an end-of-December deadline for signing contracts with performers and groups invited to participate.

More than 100 artists and groups, ranging from Stanphyl Tom Connors and Anne Murray to the Toronto Symphony, Mendelssohn Choir and National Ballet, are being worked into the schedule.

Most of the major performances will take place at Place des Arts, and Desrochers said the scheduling will be so tight no artist or group will give more than three performances.

The events will run through July and will be presented in Quebec City, Sherbrooke, Ottawa and Kingston, Ont.

Desrochers said about 40 per cent of the performers appearing in Montreal also will perform in one or more of the other four cities.

Some of the best-liners of the Canadian entertainment industry—such as the Stratford Festival and the Shaw Festival from Niagara-on-the-Lake, Ont.—will not be able to perform in the festival because July is their most active month in their home theatres.

Desrochers started with a $100,000 planning budget and the program now has grown to $8 million. He said much of the program will be financed by specific grants from government and private agencies.

COJO, the olympics organizing committee, has been unable to finance any community shows for new works to be performed strictly in honor of the Olympics. But Desrochers said some groups, like the Grands Ballets Canadiens of Montreal, are mounting new works on their own initiative.

A highlight of the program will be a performance of Beethoven's Ninth Symphony with tenor Jon Vickers leading the soloists and chorus in the Ode to Joy symphony. It is one of the rules of Olympic cultural program that this work is performed at each Olympiad.

The Canadian Opera Company of Toronto is expected to perform Mussorgsky's opera Boris Godunof if a sponsor can be found to underwrite the $200,000 cost of revising it, plus an anticipated $30,000 loss on each performance.

Ten per cent of the seats for each show will be held back for sale on the day of performance.

Desrochers said this probably will mean long early-morning box-office lineups, but it is the only way to be fair to late comers.

B.C. Student Field Trip A Success

VANCOUVER (CP) — They brought back lots of footsie. But they left the scorpion, the black widow spider and the rock face full of garnets behind.

All were around the phenomena encountered by eighteen students and three teachers on a 13-day field trip across British Columbia from the coast to the Rockies.

The 2,000-mile trip was one of the features of the curriculum at City School, an alternative school for 125 students from Grades 4 to 12 which is funded but not run by the Vancouver school board.

The group travelled in a van and two cars, studying geography, geology, vegetation and animal life and branching into other subjects along the way.

Sue Arundel, one of the teachers who organized the expedition, said the students studied mathematics by computing car and gas mileage, learned survival techniques while camping out and boned up on marketing techniques by stocking up on food and supplies for the trip.

"We've been building our science courses around geology because it's something you can get out and do," she said. "It's hard to get out and do physics or chemistry. This is an extension of those studies."

Each of the students, who ranged in age from 11 to the late teens, contributed $25 for food. The rest of the expenses were met by the school, which will be paid back by the students through fund-raising activities.

Daryl Sturdy, another of the organizers, said the trip gave the students a chance to gain first-hand knowledge of the economics and geography of western areas of the province.

"We felt that by seeing different kinds of towns, they could see a cross-section of B.C."

HAVANA (Reuter) — Cellist Christine Walevska has become the first American artist to perform in Cuba since relations with the United States were broken 14 years ago.

Miss Walevska gave the first concert of her two-week-long Cuban tour on Monday in the western city of Pinar del Rio, 110 miles from here.

The U.S. cellist played works by Vivaldi, Debussy, Brahms, Cervantes and Villalobos with her priceless 256-year-old cello, one of five made in 1710 by Italian craftsman Carlo Bergonzi.

Your Horoscope

By Bernice Bede Osol

Saturday, Nov. 22

ARIES (March 21-April 19) It will be difficult to get your goals and ideas around you to share your natural enthusiasm today. Subdue your ardor. Do what's best for all.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You try to spend yourself too this today. Your limit is nigh. It's better to do one thing well than to attempt everything and be complish nothing.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) It could be a tough day on your budget. If you run out of cash you'll regret it. Your credit card more use than is product.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) In your haste to please you may act against your best judgment and harm your own interests. Better to risk offending than to create frustrations.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Hunches are prone to override your usually logical perspective. At times these could be fine. Today, your intuition isn't all that great.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If you can't keep a tight rein on your purse strings today, don't wonder later what happened. It will be too late.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct 22) Your image is more important to you than financial gain. Don't do something for temporary fame that could bring lasting notoriety.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Responsibility is normally your cup of tea, but today it may be only let George do it, you'll probably be just as happy.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You tend to be a trifle careless with the possessions of others today. If you borrow something and break or lose it, it's your baby.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Though it seems simpler to you today, letting others make decisions for you is a mistake. You'll get the short end of the stick.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your intentions are good, but the flesh is weak today. You'll procrastinate, do the job poorly and have to do it again.

PISCES (Feb.20-March 20) Avoid financial flyers today, especially those involving others. Advising associates poorly will cause long-standing resentments.

Indian Bands Apply for Grants

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. (CP) — Three area Indian bands have applied for a federal grant to begin bargaining for a multi-million-dollar land settlement with Ottawa. Sam Murphy, lawyer for the bands, said Thursday.

Mr. Murphy said the dispute concerns the Kawartha Lakes area, which was submerged during the construction of the Trent-Severn canal system 60 years ago.

The bands were reserves before flooding began about 1905 to create boat channels and the Indians received no compensation, he said.

Birth Marks Often Disappear

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I just gave birth to a lovely, healthy baby girl a week ago. To our surprise she was born with a birth mark (hemangioma) on her face. It is about the size of a half dollar. I am very concerned and worried. It is pink, but gets darker when she cries.

The doctor said all we can do is wait about a year and hope it goes away by itself. Do they generally disappear on their own? Where does a birthmark come from? What is it?

If it doesn't go away, what kind of treatment is there? And how long should we wait?—Concerned.

I can readily understand your concern about the birthmark. There is a strong tendency to "do something" about it. Unspoiled, the baby's mother doesn't advice.

The majority of these lesions do disappear in time, some within a year, others by age 5. The mark may increase in size, partly, but, chances are good that it will then recede. It represents a localized accumulation of tiny blood vessels, which is why the color changes when she cries.

The "do-nothing" policy should be followed for the next four or five years. If the lesion is still present by then, and if it has shown no tendency to regress then you might consider taking action. The use of carbon-type drug has been reported effective in hastening the disappearance. This is sometimes used earlier if the defect is large. A half-dollar size would not be considered large for such purposes.

If the mark persists into later years, surgical removal can be performed if necessary. Right now the prospect of a five-year wait may seem disturbing, but it is better than tampering with unpredictable treatment which could be painful or scar-producing.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My wife is 79-year-old and has no known allergy, but she started having eruptions on the small of her back. These blotches have gradually spread to various parts of the body, including scalp and mouth.

A dermatologist calls it "lichen planus," and said there is no known cause or cure. He said the lesions might disappear in a short time or they may stay for a couple of years. Have you any suggested treatment?—A.A.L.

This is one of a multitude of skin disorders about which we know very little except that they appear, be apparently harmless (except for the discomfort) and for which there is, as your doctor told you, no known cure.

They may disappear spontaneously or be mighty stubborn and last for years.

About all you can do is to apply soothing medication to the area. Medicine to calm the nerves is often advisable. Ultraviolet light treatment experiment has been tried, but there is no guarantee of success.

A dermatologist can recommend appropriate treatment. Don't attempt to alleviate the discomfort.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I twisted my knee while mowing my lawn. It turned black and blue and is quite painful and swollen.

The doctor took X-rays but could find nothing unusual. There is quite a bit of fluid on the joint. Is there anything to reduce the water and pain?—Mrs. N. W.

The discoloration implies bleeding from injured tissue; the swelling is the accumulation of fluid from the injury. You should rest the joint as much as possible. A firm elastic bandage will help in this.

If the swelling persists your doctor may want to draw some of the fluid from the joint. Normally this is not necessary and the joint returns to normal with rest.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have a problem with my fingernails. They have a washboard appearance, are very thin and have ridges and peel off every so often. I am being treated for uremia. Can this have anything to do with it.—W.C.R.

Yes. Skin eruptions and other disturbances are often associated with uremia. A skin disorder can easily be transferred to the nails, and this may be true in your case. The problem would be cured with successful treatment of the underlying cause, "be uremia—which at times can be the retention of urinary waste in the blood.

Spending Cuts Affect Universities

TORONTO (CP) — Among universities to get $670 from $598 the recommendations of the province's special committee on government spending are several grants which might hit hard at post-secondary students.

The proposals, contained in a sweeping report on government spending released Thursday, call for changes in tuition fees, programs, and student loans.

In suggesting ways to cut the annual $1-billion cost of post-secondary education, the committee called for a combination of tuition increases and administrative and instructional staff reductions.

The report said universities and community colleges should be allowed to set their own fees.

Noting that tuition fees now account for about 15 per cent of the cost of community colleges and 18 per cent of university costs, the committee suggested that fees be increased to cover a greater proportion of expenditures.

Allowing such increases would raise average fees for

Growing Oil Deficit May Raise Domestic Prices

OTTAWA (CP) — A growing deficit on international trade in crude oil is exerting pressure on the federal government to raise domestic prices, Energy Minister Alastair Gillespie said Thursday.

But he added he did not expect to see any increase before the current agreement with the provinces expires next June 30.

Oil now sells for $8 a barrel domestically, about $5.85 below the base price for international oil.

"We're going to be running into an increasingly awkward situation on the balance of payments in petroleum," the minister told a Commons committee.

Later in the day, he announced that oil exports to the United States will be reduced by one-third to 350,000 barrels Jan. 1 and to 262,000 later in the year. Average daily shipments during the year will be 400,000 barrels a day compared with 700,000 in 1974.

Under the two-price system, the government collects an export tax of $4.50 a barrel on oil shipped to the United States, raising its cost to world levels.

The money, in turn, is used to subsidize the cost of world crude imported for use in eastern Canada, lowering its price to the frozen domestic level.

Mr. Gillespie said the fund had a slight surplus when it was introduced in 1974, but the time the country was importing about 200,000 barrels a day and exporting 900,000.

But with the drop in exports to the United States, income for the compensation program has also been falling.

In 1975, the government expects a deficit of about 300 million in the program, money that will have to be provided from general tax revenue.

The deficit is calculated after the government includes revenues of $400 million from a special 10-cent a gallon gasoline excise tax imposed last June to help meet the cost of the program.

Without the tax, the deficit would have been $400 million.

Government officials say there are too many variables to estimate what the deficit on the compensation program would be next year. But without a domestic price increase or a change in import and export levels, the deficit would be about $750 million.

"For each $1 a barrel increase in domestic prices, $100 million a year is cut from the cost of the compensation program," he said.

With the drop in exports of oil, the country will lose $1 billion in foreign earnings, the minister said. But income of $1.6 billion from higher natural gas prices to the United States would offset the deficit on overall petroleum trade next year.

Chargex Bills Can Wait Until Strike End

OTTAWA (CP) — Chargex cardholders do not have to get their accounts until they receive itemized bills, Sidney Handleman, Ontario Consumer and Corporate Affairs minister said Thursday.

His comment followed Chargex advertisements in newspapers which notified cardholders where they can pay overdue accounts during the mail strike.

Meanwhile, in the Commons, Consumer Affairs Minister Andrew Ouellet said his department is investigating allegations that banks issuing the cards are illegally charging interest during the strike.

He said prosecutions would be made if necessary.

Perrin Beatty (PC—Wellland) one published report indicates that banks are charging interest on unpaid balances despite a cardholder agreement which states that interest is payable 25 days after the statements have been sent out.

Mr. Handleman said senior bank officials had assured him that interest would not be charged to those who normally pay their account in full each month.

He said for people who usually pay the minimum, interest would continue to mount but people who were charged unfairly would receive credit.

He advised cardholders to pay up now, so "their debt does not become astronomically high," but under the Consumer Protection Act "you must be given an itemized bill before the account is due."

The advertisements were designed for consumers who want to keep up with their bills, he added.

Pepin Undecided Over Disclosure

TORONTO (CP)—The federal anti-inflation board has not decided yet whether it will make public the names of companies involved in board decisions, Chairman Jean-Luc Pepin said Thursday.

Mr. Pepin told a news conference the issuing of the names of companies accused to roll back price increases "might be wrong" and hurt the companies. He did not elaborate.

He said board decisions on labor negotiations probably would be made public by one or both of the sides involved but he did not specify whether the board would publicize the names of the participants.

Earlier, Mr. Pepin told a luncheon of the Electronic Industries Association of Canada and the Canadian Electrical Manufacturers Association that the board wants to keep its staff small and to keep our direct interventions in the marketplace to a minimum."

"If you don't want a big board then don't bring all the problems in the country to the board."

30 Bilingual Districts Proposed

OTTAWA (CP) — The government announced Friday that today's debate on the proposed series of bilingual districts, but it said the Commons it will not necessarily accept a bilingual language proposed by a special board set up to supervise the program.

Public Works Minister C. M. Drury, speaking for Prime Minister Trudeau, told the Commons in tabling a board report that the government will make a second look at recommendations in the document.

The report proposes establishment of 30 bilingual districts across the country with at least one located in every province but British Columbia.

It recommends that the entire province of New Brunswick be declared a bilingual district, but excludes Montreal and other areas of Quebec.

Under the 1969 Official Languages Act, the government may designate areas bilingual when the minority population, French or English, is 10 per cent or more.

Once a district is proclaimed bilingual, the government must provide services in both official languages at federal offices, in federal courts and in Crown corporations.

Mr. Drury, who represents the Montreal riding of Westmount, said the government will ensure establishment of at least one bilingual district in Montreal.

No districts will be established until next March, however, and the program could lead to higher government spending, he said.

The 10-member board, headed by Paul Fox, was set up nearly four years ago after a previous board produced a report that was rejected.

The second board proposed one bilingual district each in Prince Edward Island and New Brunswick, two each in Nova Scotia, Newfoundland and Alberta, five each in Quebec and Ontario and six each in Manitoba and Saskatchewan.

Bilingual designation under the program means only that federal services must be provided in both languages.

Mystery Mediator?

Secret Move May Get Talks Going

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A mysterious, unofficial mediator may be trying to get negotiations resumed in the drawn-out strike by postal workers, union officials hinted Friday.

But so far there is no sign of a break in the deadlock despite statements from both the government and the Canadian Union of Postal Workers (CUPW) that they are anxious to get talks under way once more.

Union spokesman Paul Mitchell said attempts are being made to restart negotiations, but he declined to give details.

"We're making every effort we can to get negotiations going again," he said. "But we have not yet had a response to these efforts."

He declined to identify the third party attempting to get the two sides together. He said the union "is still flexible provided we deal with a total package on wages."

Negotiations broke off Nov. 6 and since that time the post office has held firm on its offer of a $1.70-an-hour increase spread over 39 months.

The union is seeking an increase of $2.73 an hour spread over 27 months, in addition to shortening the work week to 35 hours from 40 and a cost-of-living clause. The current top rate for the postal workers, earned by about 10,000 of the 22,000-member union, is $4.58 an hour.

The union has appealed to the post office to improve its offer, indicating that it is willing to be flexible and lower its demands.

A post office spokesman said Friday the hourly rate offer remains firm but said the other issues in the wage package can be negotiated.

A number of union members have trickled across picket lines during the past two weeks and Friday the post office reported that about 10 per cent, or 2,200 workers, were back on the job.

Friday was the first day of strike pay for the union members still on the picket lines—$40 a week—and although it is costing the union $200,000 a week, the national executive has promised the money will continue until a new collective agreement is negotiated.

The seven-year-old union does not have a regular strike fund and money to pay the strike benefits has been borrowed from an undisclosed source.

Meanwhile, about 200 employees in the greeting card and gift wrapping department have been laid off as a result of the strike, a spokesman for the Canadian Gift Package and Greeting Card Association said Friday.

In a statement, the association said about $20 million worth of Christmas cards are sitting on retailers' shelves because of the public's reluctance to buy cards they might not be able to mail.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ronald Reagan's candidacy for United States president may keep his old movies off television stations in the U.S. A Federal Communications Commission (FCC) official said stations that show old Reagan movies might be subject to the equal time ruling, meaning they would have to offer free television time to other candidates. Reagan, a former movie actor, announced Thursday he is a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination. Food Stores Here Stay Open Sundays

By AL ZARAS
Staff Reporter

The Dominion and A & P food stores in the Belleville Plaza are expected to remain open this Sunday, two days after each supermarket received a subpoena charging them with mass arraigning for allegedly doing business on a Sunday three weeks ago.

A & P supermarket manager Floyd Bell said Friday that his last directive from head offices said he remain open Sundays.

Unless head office informs him otherwise, said Mr. Bell, the store will remain open. "It's up to them," he said, in referring to action stemming from the charge against the store.

Dominion Stores Ltd. manager here, Ted McMullin, said that as far as he knew the supermarket will be open for business this Sunday.

Confirmation of Sunday hours came from Dominion vice-president of advertising Richard O'Brien Friday.

City police, given permission by the provincial attorney general's office, charged the two food stores for allegedly conducting business on Sunday, Nov. 2.

Charges were laid under the Lord's Day Alliance Act. Alleged two official complaints were received by police.

Dominion's Mr. O'Brien said although the supermarket chain is against Sunday opening, it is forced to do so by its competition. "We have to protect our franchise," he added.

Two years ago, the chain requested Ontario Premier Bill Davis for legislation to ban Sunday hours. A list of Dominion stores in Ontario that the company was planning to open was enclosed in the written request as a way of showing the company's sincerity, he said.

Now, proposed legislation covering all supermarkets "would probably be the only reason" Dominion would close Sunday, Mr. O'Brien said.

Dominion in the eastern plaza opened for the first time Sunday, Oct. 19, four Sundays after A & P. The latter was the first store in the city to open Sunday.

The action prompted protests from a number of Belleville ministers, church congregational boards and the Quinte District Labor Council.

Complaints were also registered with city hall officials. In the end, the council in mid-October asked Queen's Park to give priority to legislation prohibiting Sunday opening of supermarkets.

Winemaking Championships to Be Held in Belleville Next June

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Belleville will be a rendezvous point for amateur winemakers across the province next June.

The event is the winemaking championship and annual meeting of Ontario winemakers.

Ian Reilly, president of the Belleville Winemakers Guild, says the event — scheduled for June 5-8 — is expected to draw about 200.

However, there'll be no winetasting event at the meeting.

All judging is now done in Toronto prior to the annual convention at which the championship awards are announced.

The guild is seeking permission from the recreational areas department to stage the event at Ben Sleecker auditorium.

Montreal High Schools Closed After Walkout

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

All of Montreal's 8,000 high school teachers, on strike since Nov. 12, and some elementary, secondary and junior-college teachers in Quebec, off the job part of this week, added to the number of people on strike in the country.

In Montreal, more than 10,000 students at 17 area schools were without classes Friday following a walkout by about 550 teachers protesting wage offers from the government of Quebec in a series of one-day work stoppages.

The teachers, members of the Provincial Association of Protestant Teachers (PAPT) and the Provincial Association of Catholic Teachers (PACT), with a combined membership of 12,000, walked off the job at 14 elementary and three secondary schools.

More than 2,000 teachers off the job Wednesday in Montreal were joined Thursday by members of both associations in Hull, Laval and Quebec City.

The teachers, without a contract since June, are seeking pay increases of 47 per cent in two years from the 1974-75 average salaries to $15,000 from $10,000.

The government has offered teachers a 9-per-cent increase in the first year of a three-year contract, including a 10-per-cent-of-pay bonus. The offer totals 40.5 per cent in the last year of the contract.

PAPT was ordered Thursday by Chief Justice Jean Deschenes of the Superior Court to begin contract negotiations Dec. 11 with the Quebec Association of Protestant School Boards.

Meanwhile, about 2,300 teachers at 14 English-and French-language junior colleges in the Montreal area left 30,000 students without classes Thursday to discuss the government's wage offer.

Junior college teachers receive the same salaries as elementary and secondary teachers.

In Toronto, John Volpe, chief negotiator for Metropolitan Toronto's 4,000 striking teachers, said Friday that negotiations between the teachers and the William Rosr, chairman of the Metro board, and a delegation of officials from city's five borough school boards met Thursday with representatives of the federal anti-inflation review board for clarification on possible exemptions from selective wage and price controls for the teachers.

CUPE Rejects Call For Price Freeze

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Union of Public Employees (CUPE) Friday reiterated its opposition to the federal anti-inflation program and rejected calls by two other large unions for a price freeze on all goods and services until Feb. 1, 1976.

"We will not accept the wage control program—with or without a 60-day price freeze," CUPE president Grace Hartman said in a news release.

CUPE, the country's largest union with 210,000 members, voted at its national convention last month "to democratically oppose, with every means at our disposal, the unfair and unbearable program imposed by the Trudeau government."

"A 60-day price freeze will do nothing to help working Canadians," Ms. Hartman said. "And it is a cynical joke that the supermarket chains—after jacking up their prices to astronomical levels—jointly announced they will refrain from implementing further price increases until February."

She said the federal government would be making "a serious mistake" if it interpreted a recent statement by retiring Public Service Alliance of Canada (PSAC) president Claude Edwards as a weakening of the union movement's voice in opposing the anti-inflation program.

Late Wednesday, the 179,000-member PSAC issued a 25-page position paper urging the federal government to freeze the prices of all goods and services until next Feb. 1. Finance Minister Donald Macdonald said a freeze is unacceptable.

Plumptre Wants Boards Under Restraints

OTTAWA (CP) — Pressure on the government to include farm marketing boards under its anti-inflation program mounted Friday as the Progressive Conservatives reasserted their intention to fight the program unless it is shortened to 18 months.

Beryl Plumptre, the outspoken vice-chairman of the anti-inflation board, was reported to be considering resigning unless the selective wage and price controls are applied to the marketing boards.

Mrs. Plumptre could not be reached for comment. A spokesman said the question of resignation is "still hypothetical," but added that she feels "she might be forced into it if the board gets no power to oversee the marketing boards."

The marketing board controversy is focused on the Canadian Egg Marketing Agency (CEMA), which Mrs. Plumptre says was apparently unjustified in recently raising egg prices at a time when chicken feed costs were dropping.

Finance Minister Donald Macdonald admitted to reporters that public acceptance of the anti-inflation program is threatened by the CEMA issue.

Under repeated questioning in the Commons, he reiterated the union "is still flexible provided we deal with a total package on wages."

Negotiations broke off Nov. 6 and since that time the post office has held firm on its offer of a $1.70-an-hour increase spread over 39 months.

The union is seeking an increase of $2.73 an hour spread over 27 months, in addition to shortening the work week to 35 hours from 40 and a cost-of-living clause. The current top rate for the postal workers, earned by about 10,000 of the 22,000-member union, is $4.58 an hour.

The union has appealed to the post office to improve its offer, indicating that it is willing to be flexible and lower its demands.

A post office spokesman said Friday the hourly rate offer remains firm but said the other issues in the wage package can be negotiated.

Books Best Sellers In County Craft Shop

By MARG HAYLOCK
Staf Reporter

PICTON — Best sellers at the County Book N' Craft Shop in the Armory Mall this month are stories of Prince Edward written by community residents.

Co-owner of the shop, Mrs. Beverley Skidmore, observed that sales are "super" for books such as The County, by Richard and Janet Lunn and The Settlement of Upper Canada by William Cannifi, first published in 1869.

Mrs. Skidmore noted that the books now are being sold as Christmas gifts as they make excellent stocking stuffers.

She said that copies of The County, published during Canada's centennial now are limited and she will receive only 40 additional copies for sale.

The Settlement of Upper Canada already has been sold out and a new order placed.

Other popular sellers are Cheesemaking in Prince Edward County by Gerald Ackerman, Churches in Prince Edward County by Pat Coleman and Former Days and Quaker Ways by Arthur Dorland.

Soon to be added to the collection of county books is Willis Metcalfe's latest publication, Marine Memories, a soft cover edition. Mr. Metcalfe is a marine historian who resides at RR 2, Milford.

In addition to promoting books written by local authors The County Book N' Craft Shop offers a retail outlet for hobbyists and artists here.

Mrs. Skidmore said Friday that approximately $2,000 is paid out each month to community residents who consign their handicrafts for sale.

Among the items featured by the shop are macrame wall hangings and flower pot holders, stuffed animals, ceramics, handmade jewelry and afghans, Japanese punch work pictures and bird feeders.

One of the best sellers this fall has been a wall hanger featuring a fabric hen with wings that double as pot holders.

A workshop for the recorded located in the basement of the Armory Mall contributes ceramics and women's handbags and woolen tams for sale.

A local photographer, David Mercer, has a number of pictures taken on scenic drives in Prince Edward directly for sale. Also there are prints of local scenes mounted on matte backings.

One of the new items soon to be sold is a reproduction of the 1878 historical map of Prince Edward. It will measure 12 by 16 inches and be suitable for framing.

Mrs. Skidmore said the map will be available next week and will sell for $2 unframed or $4.40 mounted.

"It's conversation piece," she observed.

The County Book N' Craft Shop has been open for six months and has a strategy expanding stock of handicrafts reflecting the interests and talents of Prince Edward residents.

Water Tap Off

By RON HUSER

TRENTON — Water services will not be turned on for a senior citizen and low rental housing development here until the public utilities commission receive approval from the ministry of environment, says Douglas Manlow, PUC manager.

Mr. Manlow said the approval from the ministry is required to guarantee the present water system is adequate for the development.

At present there is a six-inch water main in the development area which the consultants for the PUC say would offer a "marginal" service.

The development has an 89-unit senior citizen highrise and 32 Ontario Housing Corporation single and 3 - 5 bedroom low-rental houses located south of Crewswell Drive, between Queen and Victoria Streets.

Steve Hicks, construction manager for this region for the OHC, in a telephone interview Friday, said he was unaware of the requirement to have the ministry of environment approve the site for water services. "If we share responsibility to get approval with the contractor we will oblige any request," he said.

Mr. Hicks said the individual contractors are required to obtain any permit needed for the site.

Errol King, construction manager for Tan Properties Ltd., subcontractors for the 89-unit highrise, said he knew an application was needed but did not know if there was such a ministry of environment. He said, the individual who did the preliminary work for the development left the company about two months ago. "I'm not familiar with the situation," he said.

"I assume an application has been made but I don't know one if necessary."

A spokesman for Eaglewood Structure of Markham, Ont., contractors for the low-rental units was not available for comment.

The development should be completed in the spring of next year, and ready for occupancy if the ministry of environment approves the application, said the PUC manager.

Mr. Manlow said he has been in discussion with town council to have the procedures to obtain a building permit changed for about two months.

"We would like a person to get a service availability certificate before the council issues a building permit," he said. This would ensure adequate services for any development be available.

Council has refused to make the certificate part of building permit requirements, said Mr. Manlow.

"If a service permit is not approved by the ministry of environment, a larger water line would have to be installed before occupancy would occur. I blame council partly for not a situation which could be avoided," said Mr. Manlow.

He said council can issue a permit without consulting the PUC for availability of services.

Seek Quote

The United Community Services board of directors will seek a second quotation on a price to shingle the roof at the UCS headquarters at 240 William St.

Executive director Gord Mullin said the house maintenance budget of $2,000 would easily cover the estimated cost of a new roof — approximately $800.

Mr. Mullin said leakage is causing damage in an upstairs room in the house.

The UCS has been at its William Street location for the last four years.

Photos Make Fellow

Val Balikains, master of the photography department at Loyalist College, has been awarded fellowship standing by the Royal Photographic Society of Great Britain.

Mr. Balikains, who has taught in Belleville and staged one-man photography shows at Corby's Library during the last five years, said he has worked hard the last five years towards the fellowship and was not surprised when he finally received it.

Mr. Balikains said the society was the only one of its kind in the world, and only 30 per cent of fellowship applicants receive the honor.

"It's a sign of personal achievement for me. It's the improvement of what I've done," he said.

A total of 54 black and white and color prints were sent to the society based on three themes — pictorial, portrait and some demonstrating skills taught at Loyalist. Sincerely Yours, a portfolio, and a book on the chameleon color printing were the final citeria for the award.

Born in Latvia, he came to Canada in 1949 and has worked for studios, freelanced with the Ottawa Journal, Ottawa Citizen and the Globe and Mail and served as the Belleville manager of the Canadian Weekly Newspaper Association in Toronto.

Mr. Balikains is also the author of three publications — Camera, The Torrent of Lies — Soviet Press and Propaganda Methods and International Relations in the Post War Era.

Milk Producers Told To Educate Public

By CLIFF KENTON
Staff Reporter

One of the most important jobs of farmers is to convey to the public what agriculture has accomplished, a New York farmer told Hastings County milk producers this week.

"Surely agriculture in North America has done a fantastic job at production of food at a reasonable cost — cheap in fact," Harris Wilcox of Bergen, told participants at the county milk producers banquet organized by the Hastings County Milk Committee.

For each dollar spent, North Americans pay about 19 cents for food. The central European pays about 32 cents and the Russian 50 cents, Mr. Wilcox, a Holstein farm owner and auctioneer told the group of about 250 persons.

Ray Donnan, milk committee chairman, said producers should be happy about milk prices: "I think we should be happy with our lot in life." There are about 200 milk producers in the county.

Mr. Wilcox said there has been a lot of interesting things happening in the dairy industry: "It's been fun to be part of the dairy industry for the past few years."

He is president of the American Auctioneers Association for two years and has sold cows in Canada and United States.

He told producers he attended a sale in September, in United States where a world record of $200,000 was paid for a Holstein bull. The record, he added, has already been broken.

Allan Ketcheson of Ontario Milk Marketing Board said the board has always valued the judgement of milk committees across the province.

Robin Jeffrey represented the Ontario Milk Commission.

Awards under seven classifications were presented following the banquet.

Harry Dunford of Springbrook took four awards. They were: highest herd average award, Toronto-Dominion Trophy herd award, top cow award and supervised herd improvement awards.

Hastings took two awards: Hastings farm service club award and improvement certificate to the owner-sampler who made the most improvement in terms of pounds of milk and fat during the year.

Tony Wever and Alex and Ken McCurdy had special certificates for highest herd average.

Top Heifer award went to Andy Jongsma.

Dennis McFadden of RR 2, Hastings County Milk Committee certificates to individuals helped to have done the best job recording during the year, went to Bernard Kelleher of RR 1 Campbellford, to Fred Farrell of Marysville and Donald Tuinman and Son, RR 2 Stirling.

Supervised Herd Improvement Awards also went to Carman Huffman of Coeryille and Glen and William Elliott.

Harris Wilcox, New York farmer and auctioneer who has sold cows in Canada and United States was guest speaker this week at Hastings County Milk producers annual banquet. About 250 persons turned out for the banquet and award presentations in Belleville.

Common Pests Can Be Beaten

By ROSS HAWTHORNE

Last week we talked about a few things that "bug" house plants, especially at this time of the year, things such as mealy bugs, white flies, earwigs and scale. Today we'll look at the other common house plant insects and various ailments and tell you how to preventive maintenance to work so that you can avoid most pests, or at least protect them easily.

Whatever your insect problem, remember most can be washed off with soapy water or washed away with alcohol. However, serious infestations require chemicals, so be absolutely certain you follow the directions on the label and never be tempted to make a solution stronger than directed.

One of the most common house plant pests are mealy bugs. They are about ¼ inch long and may be pink, red, white, yellow, brown or black. They collect on soft protected parts of the underside of leaves and suck out a plant's juices, stunting new growth and causing foliage to pale, curl and die. They also secrete a shiny, sticky substance, honeydew, that attracts ants host to unattractive sooty black mold.

To control aphids, pick off any that are present, then wash the plant by dunking it upside down into warm soapy water. If the plant is too big to dunk, swab the leaves and stems with a soft, soapy cloth. Rinse the foliage with clear tepid water. If the aphids persist, you will have to spray. If you're using a product such as malathion, be sure to do that spraying in a well-ventilated area, even outdoors if the weather will allow it. When the spray dries, rinse leaves with clear water.

Last but not least, we'll look at the spider mite, or as it's often called the "red spider mite" even though some types are green in color. Spider mites usually live under leaves, spinning fine white webs that may cover the plant. The first signs of attack may be yellow or brown speckles on the foliage. In time, the plant will become stunted and die.

You can control spider mites with the same treatment used for aphids. If however, you find they persist in spite of your efforts, you may have to destroy the plant.

The key to curing ailments that afflict house plants is "promptness". The sooner treatment is begun, the more likely you will be able to restore the plant to its normal, healthy state.

To prevent problems, you should set up a regular inspection schedule. Once or twice a month, check your plants carefully, especially the new growth, which quickly shows signs of damage or animal, insect or bacterial life in no other way, is allowed to freedom. There are many hazards that make it dangerous for pet owners to allow their dogs to run.

Surely, household pets, purebred or mongrel can be exercised on a leash or in a run way or through a supervised romp when the handler remains close by.

There is no excuse for thoughtlessly turning dogs loose to attend Remembrance Day parades, rifle through garbage or otherwise annoy others.

The town of Picton lacks the backbone to bring this problem under control through a strong by-law and a vigilant dog catcher assisted by police then the municipality deserves to go the the dogs.

County Going To the Dogs ?

By MARG HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — A man's best friend may be that but this month the old adage has been challenged through a sniper's attack on an Irish setter and a canine demonstration at the cenotaph.

Dog days in Picton and Prince Edward sprang to the fore last week when three prized retriever types crashed the Remembrance Day service at the cenotaph.

The pups, romping the green, thought it was just another game when J Bugler Creighton Peckyer took up pursuit with switch in hand. They yipped with delight and continued to cavort as the veterans parade approached.

Several members of the crowd at the cenotaph tried to restain the stray mutts but it was an impossible task. They persisted in their game of tag right in front of the mayor, the town clerk, the reeve of Picton and other councillors.

It was almost as big a sacrilege as the St. Bernard who interrupted the service a few years ago and howled when the bugler offended his sensitive ears with the notes of the Last Post.

Just days after the Remembrance Day parade there was a letter to the editor in the local press stressing the need for dog control and follow-up comments by a regular columnist.

A few days later a Demorestville woman expressed concern when her purebred Irish Setter was shot in the paw near the main road of the hamlet.

She said that the family pet has always run at large as do most of the dogs in Demorestville. There had been no complaints about his behaviour until the shooting incident.

Both the romp at the cenotaph and the injury to the Irish Setter pushed district canine problems to the fore. The question of dogs at large has again surfaced and should be answered conclusively instead of with ineffective stop-gap measures.

Without a dog catcher since August, Picton is over-run with stray dogs and pets permitted to roam at large. The trio at the cenotaph provided a prime example of the town's lack of animal control.

In Demorestville where the Irish Setter was injured, many dogs run at large and because the community is not density populated residents appear to accept the situation.

It is difficult to understand, however, why any purebred animal, whether pedigreed or in no other way, is allowed the freedom. There are many hazards that make it foolhardy for pet owners to allow their dogs to run.

Surely, household pets, purebred or mongrel can be exercised on a leash or in a run way or through a supervised romp when the handler remains close by.

There is no excuse for thoughtlessly turning dogs loose to attend Remembrance Day parades, rifle through garbage or otherwise annoy others.

The town of Picton lacks the backbone to bring this problem under control through a strong by-law and a vigilant dog catcher assisted by police then the municipality deserves to go the the dogs.

Arena Decision Needed Now

By JERRY BROWN
Staff Reporter

It is time for Murray Township council to stop playing politics and make a decision on whether they are going to participate in the building of a new arena in co-operation with the two Brighton arenas.

Repeatedly council has affirmed the need for the facility to service the township's population most of whom are located in its southern portion nearest to Brighton Village, the proposed site of the arena but their efforts have been aborted by a small but vocal contingent of northern township ratepayers and shortsighted scrooges.

Originally, members of all three municipalities foresaw no problem in instigating the project because it was an accepted fact that the old arena, also located in Brighton Village was no longer safe. This fact was substantiated by the Ministry of Labor who closed the present structure after obtaining two engineering reports prepared by the local municipalities on the condition of the facility.

During a regular scheduled council session, and after a public meeting had been held and a decision was going to be reached, council submitted two demands offered by a delegation and inaugurated a mail poll of all ratepayers in the township.

The poll has become a travesty, because of the mail strike and an easy excuse for council to continue postponing the decision.

Whether the ratepayer poll is in favor of the arena or not, it is up to council, the elected body delegated to look after the interests of all the township residents, including the youth of the area to accept that the facility will give the municipality services it cannot obtain, nor will it ever likely be able to get from building its own arena. Murray does not have the financial means to construct and maintain a separate arena at a comparable cost to the Brighton project, council has said in numerous past sessions.

There are too many children and youth that will be effected by the final decision, including those that are currently not involved in the sports and recreation programs.

Murray Township council should not let a small group of people, whether their actions are financially motivated or otherwise, halt a project that would benefit so many for so little.

If council makes the decision to join in the venture and co-operate on the construction of the arena many future generations will likely grow up believing that Santa Claus really does exist.

Bombings in England and Australia Broaden the Impact of Terrorist Acts

By JOHN D. HARBRON

Foreign Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

It's incredible that London is now classed with the likes of Montevideo, Saigon, (before the Communists took it over last spring), Athens, Madrid and Tel Aviv as a city of terror and one which the tourists have begun to shun.

Since mid-summer there have been 14 bombings in greater London against luxury restaurants, the bars and homes of prominent Britishers including a bitter parliamentary opponent of the IRA who wasted the death penalty returned to hang bombers, and the home of former prime minister Edward Heath.

The latest was a crudely-made but fiercely lethal bomb which destroyed the Irish Walton's Restaurant in Dublin, killing two patrons and wounding about 15.

The situation is severe enough that London has been closed against leaving autos parked overnight on the city's streets.

If this is necessary, the police will issue a pamphlet on how to search your car in the morning for visible evidence of a bomb attached.

A British television commentator made the remark this week that London was beginning to look like Belfast, what with extra police squads moving around the city's pub West End, parcel searches in the main railway stations and all comers entering and leaving all of London's major shops.

But London is not Belfast, chiefly because of its greater size and also because of the sheer impossibility of searching every passenger or subway user as a potential bomb-placing prospect.

And in Australia where vicious bombings of this kind have been unknown, letter bombs have been delivered to political enemies of the deposed former prime minister Gough Whitlam.

The escalation of the use of the bomb for terrorist purposes in peaceful societies has the British or the Australian must raise deep concern about some kind of breakdown in the social order.

This is not taking place per se in Britain because it is the Britons who are engaged in the vicious London bomb attacks, but it is the way in which a very generous society will react and be re-shaped by the IRA terrorism which is escalating.

The Australian experience has shocked that nation, since no one visualized that even the bitter reaction to the firing of Gough Whitlam would produce the same kind of terror perpetrated by Irish and Arab factions against the societies they oppose.

In Canada we have so far been mainly free of the kind of terror, though the conditions for such an eventuality need only the same kind of political or racial stirrings which even the British have not been able to escape.

There was a concern that the letter bomb attack of a few years ago against Israeli diplomatic missions abroad, as well as against world statesmen like Jews, would spill over into Canada. But the campaign subsided before breaking out here.

The heavily built-up-populated and extremely vulnerable major urban areas like Toronto and Montreal are those which stalks our world by every new act he commits or fails to bring about.

Controlling the bomber will be much more difficult than controlling the hijacking of a few years ago. Ending the social inequalities at the source is as even harder prospect.

Revival of EMO

Every community should have some practical means of coping with a major disaster, over and above what could be provided by police, militia, firemen, and volunteers.

That's why even the tentative moves toward reviving the Quinte Emergency Measures Organization (EMO) are welcome news.

The prospect of the EMO being restored comes with word of increased federal funding, but is also dependent on support from Hastings and Prince Edward Councils. A favorable response in this regard would be recognition that a community should not be permitted to remain defenseless against unforeseen disaster, let alone any long-term threat from some foreign enemy.

Meantime the EMO committee, which had the foresight, at the urging of former co-ordinator Col. Angus Duffy, to remain in being, has scheduled a meeting for Monday to discuss the new grants. Equally farsighted was the decision at the time of disbandment (following the withdrawal of provincial support) to ensure return of radio and other equipment in the event of a resumption of activities.

It will take time of course to get things going again. Mayor Corkie speaks of the possibility of a "modest budget with no full-time employees," but whether this will suffice, or something a little broader will be required, remains to be seen.

At least there is official recognition of a vital adjunct of community and national security.

Spain Faces Change

Whether the "orderly change" which Spain's Prince Juan Carlos envisages will work out that way only time will tell.

At least the chances of this occurring appear to be more hopeful than they are in neighboring Portugal which since the death of dictator Dr. Salazar, the relinquishing of the African colonies, and the politicization of the armed forces and citizenry has been in a state of near anarchy.

The new monarchist leader has said the country will never be open to orderly change. Yet while there may be a gradual slackening of the repressive atmosphere that characterized the Franco regime, it is likely too that the army and police which upheld it will not tolerate "too much too soon."

Meanwhile, the death at 82 of General Franco breaks one more link with the fast-fading old guard leadership around the world. Ireland's Eamon de Valera, himself part Spanish, passed on earlier this year. Only China's Chairman Mao among big power leaders remains from that long-term leadership era, and he too is in poor health. Among lesser lights — ironically, from Spanish-speaking Latin America — there's Paraguay's Gen. Stroessner — in power since 1954.

They come and go, and the rest of us who watch these events are reminded that it is later than we think.

Messages of Hate

There is probably nothing in our so-called civilization as obnoxious or deplorable as the practice of sending hate messages by phone or through the mails, unless it be obscene phone calls, or written messages of a similar nature.

There is little official protection against this sort of thing and it is clearly with this in mind that Ontario Attorney-General Roy McMurtry is spearheading a provincial request that the federal government take action against those responsible.

Mr. McMurtry, himself a target of such messages, says it is hoped to convince Ottawa that the proposed Canadian Human Rights Act at present before parliament be amended by including them on the list of discriminatory practices.

The Attorney-General has the backing of all sides of the legislature in this action. Certainly it is in the interests of all, and in particular those who are its victims, that action be taken against the perpetrators.

Church Attendance in Our Time

Picton Gazette

The somewhat glib and superficial tendency to dismiss the Christian Churches and their adherents in Canada as a quaint, anachronistic institution, largely populated by senior citizens and refugees from the second and more remote lands, is a mistake. It is a mistake because, true, the major denominations that still make Christianity's central Gospel message of liberation and even the most optimistic of its defenders acknowledge that its once vaunted position of prestige in our nation is no more.

But there are still more people attending church on any given Sunday than those (and many of them are the same people) who watch devotedly Canada's national sport on Saturday night.

Denominationally may be a denial of Him who came in the name of unity, but more and more Christians are working and worshiping together than ever before in Church history.

Even more important though, than numbers and unity projects, is the quality of the lives and witness of those people who still choose to call themselves Christian and adhere to a church on a regular basis.

Perhaps the loss of secular prestige and the de-emphasizing of buildings is something the Church must see as a bonus rather than a sign of weakness.

Gone are the days when church attendance was the "proper" thing to do on a Sunday morning. Gone are the days when infants and adults were baptized because everyone else was "done" too. Gone are the days when church leaders received the kind of pomp and privileges usually accorded heads of state. And well gone too.

Those substantial numbers of people who find themselves in church on a Sunday now are more often there because they want to be and those who were long hours at volunteer projects do so because they believe it is right and not because it may help them some place in the community.

Church attendance may have dropped from the post-World II heyday, but we suspect that the quality and dedication of its members today is more substantial.

Divorce by Mail Coming in Britain

Brockville Recorder and Times

Where is the smallest country in the world in which to obtain divorce? Is the answer, Isle of Capri, parts of the United States? Before long, Britain may take that dubious honor — effective December 1 it will be possible there to get a divorce by mail, without going near a courtroom.

The mail-order divorce is part of the British government's attempt to cut down on costs. It is expected that $1,000,000 a year can be saved on lawyers' fees under the country's free legal aid scheme which assists those who can't otherwise afford legal representation in the divorce courts.

Under the new rules, no formal court hearing will be required when the petition for divorce is undisputed, two years of separation in cases where both parties consent, or five years' separation without the consent of one party. The present law permits the granting of uncontested divorces only where at least one of the parties attends the court.

There has been a tremendous increase in the number of divorces in Britain since 1970 when Parliament passed what is officially known as the Divorce Reform Act and what has been unofficially dubbed "the divorce charter." Nearly half a million divorce decrees have been filed since then and the financially hard-pressed government recently feels that action is necessary to cut down on legal aid costs for those unhappily married but unable to afford a divorce.

Divorce laws are in the process of change in many countries, including Canada where the Law Reform Commission is urging "no-fault" divorce in order to ease the hostilities involved in many family break-ups. But Britain's mail-order divorce goes considerably farther than the changes proposed in most countries.

Safer Than Many Think

Ulster Commentary

Northern Ireland is not the dangerous place it may sometimes appear. John D. Concannon, Parliamentary Under-Secretary of State, told dealers and equipment suppliers at a reception in the Ulster Office, London.

"I do not mean this as a criticism of the media," he added. "They have a job to do and they do it in their own way. But what does sometimes frustrate us is that the normal side of life in the Province is not reflected at all. The vast majority of the population go about their daily lives virtually unaffected by the troubles.

"I can quite understand the worries and the fears of families; they are entirely natural. But the facts do not bear out those fears.

"I have spoken often to people who have visited Northern Ireland and I find they have suffered no molestation, inconvenience and experienced nothing unusual. Most are virtually unaffected by the troubles.

A new lease of life has been given to the industrial casualties of Northern Ireland's violence, thanks to a Ministry of Commerce project.

Derelict factories that have been bombed out, as well as any disfigured by redevelopment, that is the consolation of knowing that emergency accommodation is available at Knockmore, outside Lisburn.

The Knockmore project was initially launched to provide new homes for firms displaced by redevelopment projects. A 235-acre landbank was acquired as part of the long term development strategy to cater for firms wishing to expand in the future.

Three years ago it was decided to provide 100,000 sq. ft. of multi-purpose buildings on a 20 acre site and to include facilities for firms hit by civil disturbance.

The first one of the scheme was completed in February 1973 and was fully occupied within two months.

By August 1973 it was decided that a further 100,000 sq. ft. of multi-purpose buildings should be provided on the site.

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

In preparation for next years visit by the Lahr Choir, committees are being formed. Alderman Meek, it would appear, feels that this duty of welcoming the Lahr residents would be better performed by former Mayor Robin Jeffery. Nonsense. This is the job of the sitting mayor.

Perhaps a suitable introduction to the festivities would be to invite the Belleville Harbor of a gigantic choice from members of city council each clutching a bottle of wine.

In the meantime, was it really necessary for Alderman Frank Smith to jet to Germany by Armed Forces Airlift? Was it also necessary for the alderman to spend the better part of two weeks in the country overseeing the welfare of the Belleville students participating in the exchange?

As an ex-serviceman I will recall those occasions when my flight priority was downgraded in order to accommodate similar frivolous trips. Was her journey really necessary?

Trade 'Consultant' at $40,000 Unnecessary Says Hees

By RICHARD JACKSON

Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA —Remember — it was only Thanksgiving Day that Prime Minister Trudeau, pleading for restraint, promised that the government would practise what it preached and control its own costly "rising expectations" of operation?

"Rising expectations" was what Lucien Pierre said were largely responsible for inflation.

And some 20 various ways the voracious federal government would curb its ever-consuming appetite for taxing and spending your money, pledged he and his ministers, would be to take it easy on hiring all those expensive consultants.

That is one way — one of the favorite ploys — of the federal bureaucracy in consuming control of the ever-expanding size of their staff.

Hire consultants — they are not counted in the official departmental staff establishment and their fees don't enter into the agency's payroll budget.

But all this was going to be stopped, as you will recall Lucky Pierre and his cabinet playmates promising.

Yes, sir, that was then. Haven't they gone and hired for $100,000 — or maybe $40,000 in non-accountable expenses — a special consultant for Industry Trade and Commerce.

That is for a two-year contract — a $140,000 pay package not much, really, by fancy, free-spending federal standards.

Excess that the consultant, Roy MacLaren, a Toronto advertising agency executive, happens to be a big-time operator in the Liberal establishment of Big T. O.

How big?

Well, if you wish a fortunate, he claimed a $100-a-plate dinner last year for Pierre Trudeau to raise better than $100,000 for the party's war chest.

And he remains a director, says Liberal Riding Association President Mike Murgatroyd, of the party's organization in the Toronto constituency of Oakville.

Then, too, he is reported an insider that the federal Liberals have tried, but failed, to recruit him as a candidate, both federally and provincially.

So maybe, says William Kempling, Conservative MP for the Ontario riding of Halton-Wentworth, he broke the $140,000 story of the special consultant, the Grits figured they owed him a little something for all that good work.

Conservative MPs, including former Tory Trade Minister George Hees, have noted that Roy MacLaren is well connected politically with Senator Keith Davey, Cabinet Secretary and Trudeau chum Michael Pitfield, and James Coutts, the Prime Minister's new principal secretary.

A "Davey Connection" is just about the next best thing to a letter to the Prime Minister's executive suite that any rising and aspiring party insider could have.

Roy MacLaren has it. And he has that new $140,000 consulting appointment which some cynics are supposed to be a no-no in this new, strange Trudeau era of restraint.

But let's quit all this political quibbling.

The Liberals have always known how to take care of their own. That is what makes them the party that what helped keep them in power for all but six of the last 40 years.

Instead, let's get down to basics.

Let's ask what Roy MacLaren is supposed to do for the $140,000.

His assignment is to "improve the interface between the department and business and industry."

Interface is another of those double-talking terms dear to the hearts of the self-expanding empire of the bureaucracy.

It means relations.

George Hees, perhaps the most successful federal Trade Minister of the post-war years, swears that the appointment of Roy MacLaren and the job he has been directed to do "are absolutely 100 per cent unnecessary."

The way George Hees sees it — and he is looking at it through the eyes of some everloyal former associates in the department — there's really nothing much wrong with the interface between Industry Trade and Commerce and the business world that a consultant can fix.

Relations between them have been pretty good, says George Hees, ever since he left the department with his slogan "VCIDIDGA," which he prefaced on ties and stamped into clips and cufflinks, means "You Can't Do Business Sitting on Your Ass."

There are some top people in the department's executive who agree with him and displayed their resentment of MacLaren's appointment by filing resignations, since withdrawn. But what's $140,000?

USC Feeding Program Finally Becomes Self-sufficient

Real Hunger

Large-scale Feeding Program

(CP) — Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova, executive director of the Unitarian Service Committee of Canada (USC), first visited India in 1960 and during the next two decades visited the country twice to inspect the growing network of USC activities in the states of Tamil Nadu, Delhi, Maharashtra, Mysore, Andhra Pradesh, Assam and Bihar.

The USC supported health clinics, family planning centres and leadership training courses; it organized large scale feeding programs in the slums of Calcutta, Madras, Bombay and in the isolated Kodai mountains in the south.

Together with the Rama Krishna Mission, the USC established an agricultural training institute for the young in Ranchi, Bihar, and the training methods used were incorporated into India's fourth Five Year Plan.

India had always been the country with the largest number of USC-sponsored projects. We worked hard to help our partner agencies meet local needs themselves and become self-sufficient," said Dr. Hitschmanova.

In 1975, the USC partner agencies were able to continue working entirely with local funds and the USC had literally worked themselves out of a job. On June 30, the day of the final phase out, 45 of the 47 USC-sponsored projects began running on Indian funds.

The USC now supports 165 projects in 12 countries in Asia and Africa.

Dr. Lotta Hitschmanova, executive director of the Unitarian Service Committee of Canada (USC), visits slums of Calcutta where USC milk other funds and supervised by USC local partner agencies. One of the first projects undertaken in India was an emergency feeding program for children. (CP Photo)

Daughter Sleeps in Nude, Mother Becomes Prude

Dear Ann Landers: I don't know if you can print this letter or not. I hope you can because I need to know if I'm old-fashioned, a little crazy or what.

We have a wonderful 18-year-old daughter. Belinda does well in school, goes with mannerly and refined girls and boys. Both my husband and I are very proud of her.

A few weeks ago I discovered that Belinda has been sleeping in the nude. At first I pretended not to notice, then last night I tactfully suggested that she wear a nightgown because the room gets rather chilly at night. She called me "old-fashioned" and sleeping "in the raw" (a new expression to me) was more comfortable and that all her girlfriends did it.

Ann, I'm not trying to play the role of moralist for our daughter's generation, but when I was her age, sleeping naked was considered clean. Only the crudest and most vulgar girls did it.

Have things changed that much? How do you see it?—Culturally Shocked

Dear Shocked: I see nothing wrong with Belinda sleeping nude if she wants to. True, it's not the way we did it in "our day" but then our grandmothers went swimming in long black stockings and the bathing suits had sleeves. Customs do change, you know, and maybe in 20 years nightgowns will be obsolete.

Dear Ann Landers: I'll bet that letter and your response in support of the small business man went up on posters from coast to coast. The small independent merchant can't survive when his neighbors think of him only for donations, small favors and an after-hours bucket of coal. The price of gas, the problems of service, the benefit of having stores within walking distance—don't they count any more?

Unfortunately, there's nothing side to that coin. It's the small town businessman who's "mad it," or is counting the days till retirement, regardless of whether he's 30 or 60.

He's the community leech, vesting on his laurels or on the advantage of being "closest." He doesn't advertise, solicit business or give a damn. He refuses to support the Chamber of Commerce. He figures he'll get enough walk-in business when the Chamber promotes, or when the store down the street has a big sale.

These people are considered freeloaders. When they want their kid's baseball team to wear their daughter's wedding in the local paper, they can't understand why there isn't space—

Black Magic Still Thrives

CHICAGO (AP) — Even in the midst of the space age, superstitions, an interest in the occult and fascination with witchcraft still are prevalent.

Though witches are no longer burned at the stake, people all over the world still think they can influence their lives, says the World Book Encyclopedia, and satanism, devil worship, white and black magic remain popular.

Most witchcraft, as currently practised, is supposedly beneficial, or at least is practised not of good intentions and is harmless. But there still are secret cults active in England and elsewhere which vigorously practise black magic.

Black magic or sorcery is the use of supposed magic powers to influence events, harm people or damage their property.

It has been practised in one form or another by people of virtually every culture that has ever existed. According to the evidence gathered by one scholar, black magic was actively practised as far back as 60,000 years ago.

It was the common belief that a witch or, in the case of a man, a wizard or warlock received magic powers from evil spirits. Some witches were believed to have a personal demon or "familiar" that would take the form of a black cat or crow and serve the witch in various ways as she carried out her sorcery.

A person desiring to become a witch might even sell his or her soul to the devil in exchange for supernatural powers.

In one form of sorcery, the witch makes an image of the intended victim, using something from the victim's body as a part of the image, such as fingernail clippings or a lock of hair.

The witch then destroys the image by melting it with a knife, burning it, or sticking pins into it. As a result, the victim supposedly suffers severe pain or even death.

The "will to power" is generally behind sorcery, because the witch wants to exert control over events or over the lives of other people, usually for evil purposes.

People once thought that witches, by reciting magic formulas or performing the proper ceremonies, could make cows go dry, raise storms, ruin crops or turn people into beasts.

Black magic (sorcery) also includes the power of the "evil eye"—the ability to cause harm or bring bad luck simply by looking at someone. Or a witch might send an evil spirit to torment the victim.

Researchers for World Book say that covering the mouth when yawning, which is something most people do simply out of politeness, was originally a technique used by ancient peoples to prevent demonic possession.

People thought that evil spirits made them yawn and that the spirits would jump down their throats while their mouths were open.

Something Else Is Just as Good

You're about to put together Grandma's favorite chocolate cake recipe when you discover the ingredients include semi-sweet chocolate. All you've got on hand is bitter chocolate. At this point you can either give up the project, call Sara Lee or go out and buy another (expensive) pound of chocolate.

Or you can use your bitter chocolate with some sugar. Simple enough unless you've a cook — like me — who feels it's almost sacrilegious to deviate from the recipe.

It comes from an overgrown respect for the printed word and is compounded I've collected a table of substitutions which let me know when it's all right to substitute what and how much to use.

For the one ounce semi sweet chocolate, for example, just use one square of bitter chocolate, with four tsp. of sugar.

If a recipe calls for ammonium carbonate just substitute one tsp. of baking powder for each tsp. specified in the recipe. You can also use ¾ tsp. of baking powder to substitute for each egg in a recipe. What if you don't have any baking powder? Well to substitute for IT, use one-third tsp. baking soda plus ½ tsp. cream of tartar for each teaspoon. Or ¼ tsp. baking soda with ½ cup yogurt. (Honest!)

If a recipe calls for arrowroot thickening, you can substitute one tbsp. flour for each 1½ tsp. of arrowroot. The same rule applies to substitute for cornstarch.

Short on shortening? You can successfully use four-fifths cup bacon fat, ¾ cup chicken fat, seven-eights cup corn oil or seven-eights cup lard instead. To substitute for two cups oil, use one lb. fat.

Yogurt and buttermilk can substitute for each other in a cup for cup basis.

You can add extra flavor and in some cases nutrition, to your baking by substituting the following for a cup of white flour: two tbsp. farina, ½ cup barley flour, one cup oatmeal, ¾ cup potato flour, 1½ cups rye flour, 1½ cups oats, ¾ cup whole or cracked wheat flour. If a recipe calls for cake flour, incidentally, and all you have is all-purpose, just decrease each cup by two tbsp.

When using flour for thickener, you can substitute 1½ tsp. potato starch or two tsp. of tapioca for each tbsp. of flour.

If a recipe calls for ¼ tsp. of gelatin, you can use two tbsp. of cornstarch instead.

Fresh out of candied ginger? Use ¼ tsp. powdered for each tbsp. specified in the recipe. If your herbs are dried, not fresh, use ¼ tsp. of dried for each tbsp. of fresh listed. Bottled horseradish can be substituted for fresh on a two-to-one basis.

If you're out of lemon juice, substitute one tbsp. vinegar. (Which brings up one telling point about substitutions — they come under the heading of making do. Vinegar works well for lemon juice but don't try to make lemonade from it!)

Almost any kind of sweetener can be substituted for any other. For one cup of sugar: ¾ cup maple syrup, ¾ cup honey, ¾ cup corn syrup, one cup molasses with ½ tsp baking soda.

If you'd like to translate an old dieting recipe into more edible form, substitute one tsp. of sugar for each ¼ gr. saccarin.

Brown and white sugar substitute on a cup for cup basis but you'll need 1¾ cup confectioners' sugar to substitute for white.

If you're out of milk for baking, use one cup water with four tbsp. skim milk powder or ¼ cup evaporated milk with ¾ cup water.

Ordinary tapioca can be substituted for pearl tapioca by using two tbsp. for each four specified.

Incidentally, if you're baking Grandma's cake and you don't have either semi-sweet or bitter chocolate, you can substitute cocoa. Just use three tbsp. of cocoa with one tbsp. fat for each ounce of bitter chocolate and add four tsp. of sugar for each ounce of semi-sweet.

Alma Gomme arranges flowers for Garden Club

Expert Gives Useful Tips About Arranging Flowers

Alma Gomme, of Toronto, recently showed Garden Club members how to use household articles and a few blooms to make floral arrangements.

Mrs. Gomme, who with her husband, Ontario Horticulturist Society secretary Russ Gomme, was guest speaker at the most recent meeting of the club, told members that flower arranging need not be an expensive hobby.

"Salmon cans and old dishes can be spray painted and, with pin-type holders and a little bit of 'Oasis' to conserve medial plastic from flower holders', that's all you need", she said.

Mrs. Gomme displayed a plow disc she sanded and spray painted black. A painted salmon tin was fastened to the centre and a Japanese style arrangement of three spider mums with greenery created.

While demonstrating the construction of several floral arrangements, Mrs. Gomme told more than 150 persons gathered for the meeting that flowers from the garden should be cut in the early morning or early evening after the sun has set.

"Cut them on a slant and if they come from a florist, give them a fresh cut."

She explained that the focal point of any arrangement is usually a full blown bloom. The ingredients in an arrangement should be varied so that round flowers are balanced by airy greens.

"Above all, cover the mechanics," she said.

Pin holders, oasis, adaptors and other holders should be covered by blooms or foliage.

Mrs. Gomme told members that they could prune shrubs for foliage for arrangements and that only a few flowers were needed.

"Don't use too many blooms or too many colors," she advised.

One tool she recommended is an inexpensive plastic turntable for constructing arrangements.

"Be sure to sit down when you're doing dinner table arrangements to be sure you'll be able to see your dinner guests."

Carnations and chrysanthemums are best buys, she advised, and roses the worst.

"But be happy when someone brings you roses because they're a sign of love."

When buying flowers, Mrs. Gomme said that only the freshest blooms should be chosen for longevity.

"Touch the top of the flower with the palm of your hand and if it's firm, it's fresh."

To keep arrangements fresh longer, she advises overnight storage in a fruit cellar or cool front hall.

Committee Investigates Service Sentencing

By SUSAN McCONNELL
Staff Reporter

A steering committee to establish the need for community service sentencing for first-time offenders has been organized by 13 agencies in Belleville.

Eric Runacres, education director for Hastings County Board of Education, was appointed chairman of the steering committee Friday at an informal meeting called by Provincial Court Judge J.L. Clendenning.

Representatives from city council, the Law Society, Volunteer Bureau, probation office, Ontario Provincial Police, Belleville City Police, Loyalist College Board of Governors, Hastings County board of education, the Ministerial Association, the Provincial Ministry of Correctional Services and labor and management appointed to steering committee with one representative from each agency.

Community service sentencing lets young offenders pay their debt to society by either providing free services to the victim or the community. For example, cleanup programs have been one type of sentence imposed by judges.

Community service sentencing has been used in Belleville over the past year, said Judge Clendenning.

He added an estimated 30 cases, most of them shop-lifting offences, have successfully settled with this type of sentencing.

Judge George M. Thompson in Iroquois and family court in Kingston, initiated the bulk program last year ago. It proved successful. Out of 110 cases the federally-supported committee handled, only two teenagers committed a second crime.

Mr. Runacres said the committee will work as a cooperative group to initiate steps towards getting more people stay out of court.

"It's a very legitimate and exciting concern, he said. "All members of the community should care about what's happening to the young people."

There are no statistics about juvenile delinquency available now. He added this could be a function of the committee.

The purpose and objective of such a program will be outlined in a position paper to be presented January or February, said Mr. Runacres.

"It's a payed for society and the individual involved," he said. "You can't get around putting band-aids on problems."

Judges Face 5,000 Pound Choice

Entries in the British Empire Cheese Show opening in Belleville Monday have exceeded predictions.

Organizers of the prestige event — biggest of its kind in Canada — expected about 120 cheeses this year.

Put with unexpected shipments arriving Friday, it's believed the total number of cheeses in the show will reach about 150, says Lindsay Matthews, secretary of the Central Ontario Cheese Manufacturers' Association, which sponsors the event.

This could mean a total of 5,000 lbs. of choice cheese in various sizes, shipped in from far away as Wisconsin, New Brunswick and Manitoba.

The public will have a chance to buy it a cheese when it goes on sale from Wednesday on at noon when judges have completed their selection of prize winners.

Sales will last until noon Saturday at the show's exhibition quarters 213 Front St.

Transit Negotiations Come Closer to Wire

By AL ZABAS
Staff Reporter

A resumption in contract talks between the Belleville Transit Commission and its 32 employees originally scheduled for two days next week has been moved ahead to early December.

The re-scheduling means talks are now closer to the Dec. 31 expiry date of the current one-year contract, a situation both sides have said they wanted to avoid.

Hugh Kerr, president of Local 126 of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers, said Friday negotiations have been postponed from Nov. 25 to Dec. 1 because the union's representative could be available next week.

The postponement is "our fault," said Mr. Kerr. He added that the union representative has been forced to conclude negotiations in Montreal with another union local.

"We have to have a ratification vote" he said.

Only one meeting, termed "exploratory" at the time, has been held to date. And after that meeting, both sides said they would remain silent on the substance of discussions.

Mr. Kerr confirmed the silence Friday, saying there was no point in keeping the public upset by releasing union demands until such time as a strike vote might become necessary.

He did not discount use of the strike tactic at a means toward a settlement.

Earlier this year, in negotiations over the 1975 contract, the 23 transit employees walked out for two weeks.

When they returned to work, they did so after accepting a BTC offer of $5.40 an hour for drivers and about 20 cents more an hour for mechanics — a 21.2 per cent wage increase.

In 1974, the union wants more than 10 per cent over a two-year contract, but precise demands are unknown.

City Below 'Ideal' Size For Mayor

The ideal size for a city?

Mayor Ben Corbett sets it at about 50,000-60,000 population.

Such a community can provide "the kind of things people want in this world of modern day," he said.

The mayor was welcoming delegates of the Ontario Association of Agricultural Societies District 3, to their annual convention at the Shrine Club.

In the past 20 years there have been "substantial changes" in Belleville and he foresaw "very considerable changes" in future.

He was sure most citizens look forward to such changes which can produce a city of ideal size.

"This is a growing and vital city," said Mayor Corbett.

Another Opening

Getting ready for another opening of the prestige British Empire Cheese Show, Lillian Matthews polishes trophy she won last year. This year's show, which will be the 28th, holds 40-lb. cheese. It's one of an expected 150 choice cheeses from Canada and US. expected to be in show.

Glanmore Bedroom to Get Facelift

A $10,000 facelift will begin in a matter of days on the master bedroom at Hastings County's major museum, Glanmore House.

The bedroom, which has been used as such since the house was built in 1882, is about to undergo major restoration work and is expected to be officially opened in January next year.

Marten Lewis, Glanmore House curator, is pleased that the room will return to its true Victorian Flavor.

But he said Friday, what is even more of a pleasure is the approximate $4,000 wallpaper that will cloak the naked walls in deep brown tones.

The wallpapers comes to the museum for nothing. Its price is not included in the $10,000 cost of restoration.

"It's very unusual not to have to compromise and get exactly what we want for nothing," he said.

Mr. Lewis explained that an American wallpaper manufacturing company in Buffalo, owned by the Reed Decorative Products Group of Brantford, has donated 42 rolls (at $120 a roll) of wallpaper that fits almost the color and style of paper used in Glanmore House when it was a home.

The paper is being issued by the company as part of its celebration of the American Bi-centennial in 1976.

Glanmore House, along with only three other historical sites in Canada, has been selected by the company as the recipient of the wallpaper. Sixteen sites in the United States will also receive the paper free.

What is unique is the "noninfringe attached" nature of the contribution. The museum, said Mr. Lewis, has no obligations other than to allow the room to be photographed for an upcoming publication, and to permit visits to the room by prospective buyers of the wallpaper.

For authentic restoration, the museum would have needed to commission the proper wallpaper at an estimated cost of $9,000 to $3,000 — had not the donation been made.

The museum, in doing research prior to restoration work begins, spent six successful months looking for the right wallpaper. Even England was searched.

The wallcovering is the key to the restoration, with much of the remaining needs — furniture and painted room decoration — nearly all provided for.

Permanent loans of furnishings — from a Victorian lady sold to three matched, globe shades for a gasolier — have been secured from Canadian sources.

Smaller pieces such as table mirrors and trinket boxes, the museum has in its collections.

The dollars — supplied by Belleville and county councils and a $5,000 provincial grant from Queen's Park — and the time to be spent on restoration was prompted, said Mr. Lewis, by the interest of museum visitors in the bedrooms physical appearance.

Education Beat
Guidance Needs Earlier Start

By RON CARSON
Staff Reporter

Although guidance programs generally suffer from bad public images it is obvious their reputations accidents dampen the enthusiasm of those who spearhead the programs.

One such case is Ray Chodinski who is currently launching the Hastings-Prince Edward Secondary School Board's new guidance program.

Mr. Chodinski, a board's guidance resource teacher, appeared before trustees last week to explain the details of the program and give trustees an overview of how the system works. If the board wasn't impressed by the details of the program it certainly couldn't help but be impressed with Mr. Chodinski's approach to an area that is still clouded with controversy.

The board, in the past, had made isolated and unco-ordinated attempts at a guidance program for all its schools. This year it decided to go all the way and introduce a comprehensive program.

Among the usual guidance efforts in schools Mr. Chodinski made several comments to the board which deserve repeating.

First of all he told the board that the new guidance program deals with how students can better cope with their parents and their home environment.

He qualified this by saying students are not taught how to manipulate their parents but more importantly understand them.

He said it's essential that children learn that parents have problems, too and just because these problems place stress on the family life. He indicated that if children could handle the family stresses it could possibly help the student both at school and at home.

Secondly, Mr. Chodinski said that if a Grade 8 student knows what career he or she wants to pursue then that student and the system is in trouble.

He was dramatizing the importance of career development programs which, in his estimation, should begin in kindergarten and be carried on throughout school life. In fact, he told trustees he would eventually like to develop such a program.

However, he cautioned that his program should not "lead kids with overblown ideas of their qualifications but rather it would focus how the child can cope with today's society and the kinds of problems he or she finds within this framework.

He said such a program would deal with values, skills for living and wise use of leisure time. Mr. Chodinski said that today a good career development program must deal with leisure time because it goes hand in hand with fulfilling a rewarding career.

No doubt the board's new program has many wrinkles to iron out but if Mr. Chodinski's enthusiasm flies down through the classroom the board she worked for Smith Transport.

Transport Clerk Jailed

County Court Judge Russell C. Honey Friday sentenced Lois Harvey, a former accounts receivable clerk at Smith Transport Co. Ltd. in Belleville to imprisonment for an indefinite period not over six months after she pleaded guilty to a charge of theft over $200 from her former employer of nearly six years.

The judge's sentence included the recommendation to prison authorities that Mrs. Harvey receive ongoing psychiatric assistance with a view to returning her to her husband and children in Calgary as soon as practical.

Prosecutor William J. Parker from the Toronto office of the attorney-general said the court heard that approximately $28,000 was found in the bank account of Mrs. Harvey, formerly of 25 Harris St., Belleville over and above her personal income during the years 1966 to 1973 inclusive.

Woman Charged In Crash

A Belleville woman was rushed to hospital with cuts and bruises after a two-car collision Friday on Palmer Rd.

Charged with making an improper turn was Donna Davidson, 28, of 300 Dufferin Ave.

Belleville City Police said the Davidson vehicle, travelling southbound on Palmer Rd. behind a school bus, attempted to make a left-hand turn toward Harris St. and was struck in the side by a truck, owned by Peter's Garage Service, operated by Bradley D. Ashley, 16, of 137 Wright Ave.

Mr. Ashley was not injured.

Bills Expected First in Local Letter Boxes

Quinte area letter carriers are back on the job delivering local mail sorted by inside workers who have crossed the union's picket lines.

But a recent survey of Belleville shoppers shows it seems the only mail delivery they will receive from local companies-in other words, bills.

With less than five weeks until Christmas the bills are arriving at an unfortunate time.

The month-old strike has slowed operations in businesses but shoppers said they feel it will not take Christmas sale to bring accounts up to date.

Some shoppers said it was a nuisance receiving any mail until the nation-wide strike ended. Many are waiting for correspondence to arrive that was mailed weeks ago.

The local mail delivery seemed to be a one-way street, many shoppers said. The mail is being delivered but the survey showed none of the shoppers interviewed plan to post any letters until the strike ends.

MIKE STEPHANI

A member of a real-estate firm, Mr. Mike Stephani, 48, of Belleville, said he hasn't received any mail but when it comes it will be bills. "The mail delivery isn't really working out," he said. "I'm going to wait until the strike is over before I start posting my own mail."

EVERETT THRASHER

Mr. Everett Thrasher, 70, of Belleville, said the first place he heard from after weeks of no mail was the Bell Telephone. "It's the first and only piece of mail I've received," he said. Retired, Mr. Thrasher said he is still waiting for his pension cheque to arrive.

DOROTHY CHATTEN

Mrs. Dorothy Chatten, 59, of Colborne, said she received her first bill from the hydro company Tuesday morning and is patiently awaiting the arrival of more bills. She said it was annoying that personal mail was still tied up because of the strike. A housewife, Mrs. Chatten is concerned the strike will interfere with Christmas.

L. J. STACEY

Mr. L. J. Stacey of Belleville said he has only mail he received was an advertisement delivered from a store.

"I'm expecting the telephone bill any time now," he said. Mr. Stacey added that although he is expecting more bills, he is not anxious about it.

A retired manager of Woolworth's store, Mr. Stacey said the mail strike was really "a troublesome situation."

MRS. LEON WILSON

Mrs. Leon Wilson, a Foxborough housewife, said there was no mail delivery to their home yet so she picks up her own mail. She said local delivery doesn't mean any changes for her. Mrs. Wilson said she wasn't worried about receiving any bills; she's been paying them in person the last couple of weeks.

JANIS BROWNING

Mrs. Janis Browning, 26, a member of the dietary staff at Belleville General Hospital, said she hasn't received any mail and isn't looking forward to local deliveries. "It will probably be bills, but I wish it wasn't."

Mrs. Browning added it didn't make much sense sending any mail. "There's still quite a back-log. It will be interesting to see what's been tied up in the mail."

Snap String of Losses

Bobcats Fight Back for Tie

PICKERING — The Belleville Bobcats snapped a three game losing streak Friday night with a thrilling four goal comeback drive that earned them a 5-5 tie with the Eastern division leading Pickering Panthers in Metro Junior B play at the Don Beer Arena here.

Up until about the midway mark of the middle frame the Panthers with their never ending skating ability had compiled a 4-0 lead over the Cats who at the best of times in the first half could just manage to keep the home team out of their end.

Grant Gorgan back in form and almost fully recovered from a back injury suffered three games ago showed why he continues to lead the Cats' individual stats in the scoring department. The bustling centre fired two goals including the tying marker in the third period.

In the space of little over one minute Belleville connected for three goals in the middle part of the second period putting them only one goal behind the bewildered Pickering club. Andy Ricketts' goal at the 17 minute mark tied the game up setting the stage for an exciting third period of action.

Belleville sluggling over the past few games in an attempt to get things organized finally came up with a successful combination, the same one that had worked effectively in their opening string of 10 games at the first of the season.

Although the tie by the Bellevelle squad was without a doubt a whole team effort the Belleville coach, Meehan Bonnar, who had earlier in the day classed the game as a "key one" credited the begining of the comeback to the line of Paul Johnston, Mike Crawford and Bob Thompson."

"They started dumping the puck into their (Pickering) end then chasing it in. That's our style of play and it worked."

Johnston without a doubt played his best game of the season in a Bobcat uniform, firing a goal and showing some excellent playmaking.

If one individual star had to be picked from the Cat's roster, goaltender Bob Moore would no doubt come up as a unanimous choice. Moore sparkled, robbing the home team time and time again from point blank range. He made saves that left everybody shaking their heads.

Pickering outshot Belleville in every period of play and wound up with a 50-27 edge on goal margin over the visitors. Moore, sporting a new mask for the game, had it pot to the last as he took a slapshot from close in off the stick of Mark Trodden, just under the eye. He was able to continue although by the conclusion of the contest his face was black and blue.

Not in the line up for Friday's game were Paul Tilley, Neil Turner and Wayne Calberry, all of whom are sitting out suspensions incurred in last Sunday's game with the Markham Royals. Ray Skelly and Bruce Chacko were called up from the Jim's Pizzeria Juveniles to fill in.

Tony Meagher, back after missing last Sunday's game due to exams, counted a goal and an assist raising him out of a recent scoring slump. Ricketts played his usual steady game for the bucks notching three points on a goal and two assists.

The game was a relatively clean affair with each team picking up a total of 15 minutes in penalties including a major for fighting to each club.

Jeff Roche, Cam Small, and Chris Papathedorou each fired a single by goalie Moore in the first period of play, the latter two scored early in the second period to give the home team a six lead. Trodden with the third period a minute old, put Pickering out in front for only to have Goegan's goal tie it.

Belleville will get another crack at the division leaders next Friday in a rematch between the two clubs at the Memorial Arena.

Scott Samis, one of last year's leading scorers on the Cats has left the team after getting off to a poor start in his first nine games of the season. Samis has returned to Pancruit where his schooling is to be the first priority.

The Cats are currently in the process of trying to secure a release for former Peterborough defenceman Jake Aycotte, from the Ontario Hockey Association. Aycotte could add some valuable muscle to the Belleville blueline corps.

Lions Rip Verdun Leafs 8-3

By TOM GAVEY
Sports Staff

Bobby Crawford put on quite a show for local fans attending the Belleville Lions Major Midget Hockey tournament Friday night at Memorial Arena. What he did was score four goals in the local teams 8-3 victory over Verdun in a rescheduled game. He also added an assist to his scoring outburst.

Although the Veiglon Leafs had the edge over the Lions in size, they did not come close in finesse, as the locals built up a 6-0 lead before Verdun finally got on the scoreboard. Crawford scored what was to be the winning goal in the second period, on a pass from Glenn Gibson.

One of the things which killed Verdun's chances of winning was the number of penalties they incurred over the course of the game.

The work of Belleville coach Bob Burrowes was quite evident in the game, as Belleville's positioning was a major factor in its win.

Another important part of the victory was goalie Bruce Hamilton, who came up with a great effort.

On the scoreboard for Belleville was Crawford, with his marksmen John Jiaopolous, off a quick backhander, Peter Hall, Greg Goegan and Doug Shaw.

Impressive for Verdun was tweagual scorer Patrick Kennedy, wo was one of the Leafs' better skaters.

The victory puts Belleville on the "A" side of the tournamey.

In other tournament action, Cornwall and Ottawa, two of the finest teams in the tournamet met, with Ottawa handing Cornwall its first defeat of the season. The final score was 4-1 in favor of the representatives of the nation's capital.

Scoring for the Voyageurs were Kerry Green, Bill Ward, Tim Webley and Jim Mellon. For Cornwall, who lost as early 1-0 lead, Jerry Ingram, the team captain, scored. Cornwall held its lead until the first minute of the second period, when Green evened things up on a pickup.

In one of the closest game of the tournament to date, Brampton edged Peterborough 5-1 in a sudden death overtime encounter at Dick Ellis arena.

Finally, Burlington just got by Kingston 2-1.

Dan Pulizzani scored for Burlington to give them a lead. Within four minutes Kingston was back with Kevin Taylor on the scoreboard.

An unassisted goal from Paul Harper at 7:45 gave Burlington the pass into the "A" division.

With the number of close games in the tournament it should be tough for any team anyone as "A" or "B" Championship winners. Play resumes at the Memorial Arena Today.

Adding to Comeback Drive

Carty Faces Rebuilding Job

Pickering goalie Rob Rasmussen isn't happy as he looks back to see puck in the net on scoring play by Belleville Bobcats' Paul Johnston (12). Cat defenceman Joey Edwards (4) admires teammate's handiwork. Not so pleased with turn of events is Pickering Jeff Roche (2). Cats bounced back from 4-0 deficit to snap string of three losses in a hard earned 5-5 tie, in Pickering, Friday.

While several coaches are looking for 1975-76 to be their year in Senior A Bay of Quinte Basketball Centennial's Pat Carty is aiming at the future.

"Most of the other schools in the league have something to build on" said the Chargers' coach "we're just getting around to laying the ground work here."

Carty has but two of 12 players with senior experience. He too admits that this is really his first year of senior coaching.

"I picked up the team two years ago at mid-season and again last year when they didn't have a coach" he said "this is the first year, though. I've really gotten in at floor one."

Carty spent five years coaching Centennial wrestlers to Bay of Quinte championships before switching to basketball. He does, though, have some coaching background in the sport. Before coming to Belleville hh guided junior basketball teams at Ottawa's St. Pius X High School. And two years of experience at t h i s t baseball academy speaks for itself.

His approach to the flagrant problems that threaten the Chargers this season is a simple one. He sums up the solution in one word — "fundamentals."

"I'm not going to throw anything fancy at them," said Carty, "we're just going to play basketball."

His backdoor entrance to each basketball game may pay in this year's highly competitive Senior A League.

Carty's charges will simply try to outhustle the opposition. "The guys are really enthused about playing ball and that is a big factor," he said, "we practise about two hours every session and they work their butts off the whole time."

The obvious lack of experience hasn't stopped the coach from utilizing a somewhat daring defence. He plans to run a man-on-man with guard Denis Kamada holding the reins. Carty refers to the rookie as "one of the best defensive ballplayers in the league."

"It's a lot of hustling," he said, "and we may get caught up for a while but their ability to anticipate switches and helping each other out is a big plus in running man-to-man."

Offensively Centennial is led by six-foot-five centre Curtis Crawford, one of the two experienced players on the team. He is aligned with Brian Towers the other second year man and John Hipwell, of whom Carty has high hopes.

Those three will key Carty's 1-2-2 offensive set up.

"Ball control will be a big thing," said the coach, "we'll accept a lot of game time just keeping the ball away from the other team."

Centennial faces its first test Tuesday night at Centennial when they take on the Trenton Tigers in the first Senior A doubleheader of the season. That game will be followed by Belleville Collegiate and Moira Secondary's confrontation. Opening jump ball of the evening is thrown at 6.45 p.m.

Concentration Helps

Belleville Badminton Club member Tom Greenground and Al Emerson sharpen skills in preparation for Central Ontario Badminton Association B Tournament sheduled for Bayside Secondary School, November 28-29. Local club is host for event which will attract some of Ontario's top players.

Barrie Folds

For any hockey fans who may have attended games at the Memorial or Dick Ellis Rink, during the Belleville Lions Minor Hockey Tournament, a little bit of schedule adjusting was necessary.

Not only did Barrie not turn up for the tournament but at 11 a.m. on Friday morning Terrance Gaver of Barrie Gaver received a call from Barrie. What he heard was not pleasant. It seems that the city of Barrie has folded its major midget team, just in time to miss this tournament.

That meant a little last minute juggling, some unpaid phone calls, but everything was eventually ironed out and Wellington is scheduled to take the place of Barrie, beginning today. As for Barrie, they have already been replaced by Belleville's Yale's minor minor midget hockey club.

How Will They Keep Him Down on the Farm?

By NEIL CAMPBELL
The Canadian Press

A few days on the farm appear to have done Pittsburgh goalie Michel Plasse a world of good.

Just back from the minor leagues, Plasse kicked out 24 shots for the Penguins on Friday night, leading them to a 4-0 win over Atlanta Flames.

"We came up with the big saves when we needed them," said coach Marc Boileau. "Atlanta didn't have that many big chances, but we did well when we had to."

In Friday's only other NHL game, California Seals blanked Washington Capitals 2-0.

The Penguins brought Plasse back from Hershey Bears of the American Hockey League earlier this week, switching him with rookie Gerd Lanton who had been called up as his replacement earlier this season.

Friday night, Plasse displayed some of the form that enabled him to play three full NHL seasons before this year's demotion. He was a backup goalie with Montreal Canadiens for two years, then came to the Penguins from Kansas City Scouts last season.

Rick Kehoe and Pierre LaBouche combined for two first-period goals that sent the Penguins on their way. Kehoe got his sixth goal of the season, LaBouche his ninth, and each drew an assist on the other's goal.

Vic Hadfield and Lowell MacDonald had the other Pittsburgh goals. Curt Bennett spoiled Plasse's shutout bid in the third minute of the third period.

Gil Meloche blocked 22 Washington shots in recording his eighth career shutout for the Seals before a Landover, Md., crowd of 6,572 fans.

Al MacAdam gave the Seals a 1-0 lead in the first period. Washington goalie Bernie Wolfe. Bob Murdock added an insurance goal in the third period.

On Sunday, California is at New York Rangers, Los Angeles at Detroit, Kansas City at Buffalo Sabres and Toronto at Boston Bruins.

Attendance Gratifying —Campbell

MONTREAL (CP) — Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League, said Friday he remains gratified by the league's attendance picture this season.

Average attendance figures for the first 91 games of the 720-game schedule dropped by 400 for each team.

"We realize it's not much of a test, roughly one-eighth of the season," Campbell said. "But it's very gratifying. When you consider economic conditions everywhere, it's better than we could have expected."

He said the average attendance, up to and including Oct. 31 when the last figures were available, was 12,500. The principal gainers in the early going were New York Islanders, Montreal Canadiens, California Golden Seals and Los Angeles Kings, while Minnesota North Stars and Chicago Black Hawks were attendance "sell spots" in the 18-team league.

Angry Smedsmo's Burst Not Enough

Tim Sutcliffe fired five goals for the Pembroke Lumber Kings Friday night but it wasn't enough to save the team from an 8-6 loss to the Gloucester Rangers in the Central Junior Hockey League.

In other league action, Bill Neill scored two goals to lead Nepean Raiders to a 7-3 win over Smiths Falls Bears. Results of a game between Brockville and Rockland were unavailable.

Louis' Lertie and Kevin Benson each scored three goals to lead the Rangers to their win over Pembroke. Mark Campbell and John Barrett got one goal each.

Ian Campbell scored the other Pembroke goal.

In Smiths Falls, Paul Steszyn, Jim Gillis, Al Sheehan, John Jessop and Tim Bell had a goal apiece to round out the scoring for Nepean.

Tim Torrance and Doug Harvey scored for the Bears.

with 18 seconds to play to give the Torrs an 87 win over the Stingers.

Smedsmo scored two goals and set up the tying goal by Steve Andrascik as the Stingers wiped out a 7-2 Toronto lead in the final 20 minutes.

"It's like Eddie Shack (former NHL forward)," Stingers coach Terry Slater of Smedsmo, who spends most of the time warming the Toronto bench.

"He'll be playing flat so I'll get him out there and he'll disturb people and frustrate them and then he or somebody else will put the puck in the net," said Slater.

In Friday's other WHA games, Houston Aeros topped Edmonton Oilers 4-3 and Calgary Cowboys dropped Denver Spurs 6-2.

Slater blamed goaltender Rich Coutou, a rookie just called up from Hampton, Va., Gulls of the Southern Hockey League, for the defeat.

"He's been playing well in Hampton, but he was shaky tonight," said Slater. "Well, there were four little goals out there that beat us tonight."

Jim Harkewicz added two goals for the Toros and Peter Marrin, Gavin Kirk, Jerry Rollins, Vaclav Nedomansky and Mike Malowicki scored one each. Gene Sobchuk with two goals, and Mike Pelyk and Claude Larose, with one each, for the Cowboys. Steve Hull, George Morrison, Peter Hoisington, defencemen John Driscoll and Francois Lacombe scored his team's first goal against the Oilers. Larry Lund, rookie John Tonelli and Don Lalwayo scored the other Houston scorers. Bruce MacGregor and Norm Ullman scored for Edmonton's goals.

The victory was Houston's fifth without a loss at home and kept the Aeros on top of the WHA Western Division. Edmonton now has lost eight in a row on the road.

Ron Chipperfield scored two goals, including the game-winner, for the Cowboys, Steve Cincinnati's other scorers. Cincinnati defenceman John Schella scored his team's first goal against the Oilers. CAR AND DRIVER APRIL 1975
"Whole populations of drivers will live for years with this car, strongly impressed by its generally nimble disposition and sensitive feel of the road through the steering wheel and brake pedal. It slips through city traffic like a bicycle and thrives on the parking-space remnants most cars pass by. You can stuff enough groceries for a football team through the rear hatch while the back seat folds and pivots forward out of the way. The only thing you'll need a trailer for is objects too heavy to boost across the high lift-over.

Esquire THE MAGAZINE FOR MEN AUGUST 1975
"VW's new Rabbit is significant because it is a complete departure for Volkswagen, and also because it is the specific type of car that Detroit will be building in the 1980's.
The statistics speak for themselves: accommodation for four, a seventy-horsepower engine, fuel consumption of thirty-eight mpg (U.S.) and a weight of under two thousand pounds.
What they came up with was a car that doesn't have an ounce of fat, one which provides excellent operating economy, as well as performance and value. Personally, I think that VW's Rabbit is one very good idea ahead of its time."

"The winner, and not by a hare (sorry, couldn't resist). This car does it all: it's small, light, roomy and fast, with nimble and responsive steering, ride and handling. A modern and sophisticated car with a handsome Guigiaro-designed hatchback body. The Rabbit offers one of the most space-saving mechanical layouts we've seen yet: front-wheel drive, transverse engine and a unique, independent rear suspension featuring an integral anti-roll bar and using so little space it's remarkable. The Rabbit has a solid feel and an ultramodern look to it.
Best of all, it is almost sinfully enjoyable to drive."

Popular Mechanics APRIL 1975
"The most important new import for 1975 is the VW Rabbit.
"The 1800-pound Rabbit is a mechanical masterpiece. It gets up to 60 mph in about 12 seconds—giving it the edge on some V8 subcompacts. Its hatchback design provides 24.7 cubic feet of luggage capacity with the rear seat folded.
"VW got the greatest possible amount of usable interior space into the smallest possible outer shell—and an exterior with some style."

Wind Could Give Eskimos Edge

CALGARY (CP) — A feeling of quiet confidence pervaded the camps of Montreal Alouettes and Edmonton Eskimos today as they laper off in their preparations for Sunday's Grey Cup game.

This is the third year in succession that the Eskimos have reached the Canadian Football Association championship game for the second year, having won the cup with a 20-7 victory over Edmonton in 1974 in Vancouver.

Neither team is overawed by the fact that it has got this far. The emphasis is all winning.

"We've not just satisfied to be here," said Eskimos coach Marv Levy. "We came to win the Grey Cup."

"I know we'll be ready to play," said Eskimos coach Ray Jauch, who is still leading for his first cup, having been beaten by Ottawa Rough Riders 29-18 in Toronto in 1973.

Refusing to betray any fear of being like it's been in the Alouettes did against the Eskimos in 1974 and "Mr. Jones" mostly said: "Win or lose, I won't be embarrassed by this team."

Edmonton has been installed by 10-point favorite but that is probably because, with the Eskimos having played the last five games in Calgary, it's almost a home game for the Eskimos. Undoubtedly western supporters will be in the majority in the stands at the Canadian McMahon Stadium.

Game time is 1:30 p.m. EST and the contest will be televised on both the CBC and CTV networks.

Last year's game in Vancouver was played in heavy rain and the Alouettes, with quarterback Sonny Wade complaining the bench is direct in a well-balanced attack, showed they could overcome the elements somewhat better than Edmonton.

This time the weather should be different if not necessarily more pleasant. The forecast is for cloudy, windy conditions with a temperature around 7 Celsius. There is a chance of some flurries as well.

That won't exactly be suited to Edmonton, easily the strongest passing team in the CFL but it shouldn't hurt all that much.

Montreal outgained the Eskimos by over a little better than 100 yards more rushing—1,833 to 1,718—and Edmonton has the only player in the game who gained more than 1,000 yards on the ground. Roy Bell's total of 1,068 yards compared with that for Steve Ferrigno, Montreal's leading rusher.

If the wind forces the teams to go primarily with a ground game, the Eskimos might even have an advantage. They were No. 1 against the rush this season, yielding 1,768 yards, while Montreal was No. 3 with 1,947.

But it is a key factor Edmonton could be the condition of Junior Ah Yo's right knee. Injured in recent games by stretched ligaments, he reinjured his leg in practice Thursday.

"Junior's injury appears not to be serious," said Levy. Levy said Friday, "I think he's okay."

Jauch indicated he was considering an offensive lineup with the powerful Montreal defensive end Wally Buono in the game. He said Buono, who is 6-foot-4 and last switched Larry Watkins from guard to tackle in recent games, will handle the part of pass rush mounted by the likes of Saskatchewan George Wells and Ah Yo.

Jauch, who has refused to say whether he will start Tom Wilkinson or Bruce Lemmerman as quarterback, said he has got healthy despite the rumors that have been flinging around all week. Lemmerman has a circulation problem in his throwing hand. Jauch says it can be overcome by keeping his hands warm on the sideline. And he maintains there is nothing to report that Wilkinson, who has been knocked out of the last two Grey Cup games with injuries, is suffering from a rib injury.

Levy hasn't said whether he will start Jimmy Jones or Wade but Jones intimated he thought he would be the man. Wade, the most valuable player in last year's game and in Montreal's 1970 victory over Calgary Stampeders, seems to have lost some of his zest for the game by going gets tough and turning the game around.

Underdog Role Not a Problem

CALGARY (CP) — For coach Marv Levy, Sunday's Grey Cup game against Edmonton Eskimos is the culmination of a full year's work by Montreal Alouettes.

"This just week of practice was one more chance for me to improve a little bit," Levy said Friday. "Our whole approach has been that each week we improve a little bit and try and do better than the week before. Maybe this has been our opportunity to improve that little bit more right now and I hope that we have."

The Alouettes, who defeated Ottawa for the Eastern Football Conference championship, have been rated as underdogs for Sunday's game, but that doesn't bother Levy.

The pre-game line and prognostications don't mean that much. It just adds to the interest. Somebody has to be a favorite, somebody has to be an underdog.

"I'd like to play against the bookies. It doesn't make any difference whether you're favorite or not, it's what you do on the field.

"Edmonton has had a better overall record than we have had. It doesn't take much more than an imbecile to pick them as a favorite."

The Alouettes may not be in top physical condition for Sunday's game. Defensive halfback Phil Price is still being bothered by a sprained ankle and defender Junior Ah Yo has sprained ankle and defender Junior Ah Yo has sprained ankle and lacerated knee ligaments in Thursday's practice.

"Junior appears not as serious as we first thought," Levy said. "We hope that he will be able to play."

Levy rates this year's edition of the Eskimos as a better ball club than the one Montreal defeated 20 last year in the Grey Cup final in Vancouver.

"They have an extremely strong offensive unit which affords protection for (Tom) Wilkinson and (Bruce) Lemmerman. George McGowan of course is a premier receiver and they have had him all year. John Konihowski has really blossomed into a fine receiver and Mike Fink is a kick returner and corner has given them a lot of help.

"They have consistency on offense and ability to keep ball control in a three-down game. That isn't easy to do but they seem to have solved that problem."

"Their defence has improved and I'm sure it's a main reason they won against Saskatchewan. I know some people have said they've given up a lot of points

GOWDY DROPPED

NEW YORK (AP) — Curt Gowdy has been dropped as NBC-TV's main baseball and college basketball broadcaster. The Associated Press reported Friday. Gowdy, who reportedly under contract to the network, will be replaced on baseball by Joe Garagiola and on basketball by Dick Enberg.

Morris Had Faith And It Paid Off

By JOHN SHORT

Frank Morris, director of player personnel for Edmonton Eskimos, pays special tribute to Canadian university talent, John Konihowski still stars at wingback for the Western Football Conference champions in the 1975 Grey Cup final.

"I have to give a lot of thanks to Frank Morris," Konihowski said Friday during a half hour preparations for Sunday's Grey Cup meeting with Montreal Alouettes.

Morris, once a brilliant linesman with Toronto Argonauts, approached Konihowski last season after he was cut by Calgary Stampeders.

"He asked me to come to training camp and also he said I was better than I showed in Calgary. He said I guess he did not have a good camp and he wouldn't judge me on that. He wanted to judge me on what he had seen me do when I was playing for University of Saskatchewan.

"I told him I wasn't sure I wanted to come. I didn't feel Calgary had treated me well and that was part of it.

"I felt really wanted by Frank Morris told me—he kept telling me—that he felt I was an athlete.'

After Konihowski made up his mind, head coach Ray Jauch took over the job of rebuilding a young receiving corps with confidence.

"He kept talking to me. He told me he could see I was a competitor. I was making some mistakes and he knew I had things to learn but he kept saying that he wanted competitors on his team. I didn't know what would happen and then the Eskimos kept me as a back-up and eventually

"That was a surprise, I guess, but I'm even more surprised to be playing wingback."

Konihowski, one of Canada's best hurdlers and 400-metre runners said his major adjustment in moving from defence to wide receiver was to make myself agressive.

Konihowski was named Edmonton's top Canadian player last season although he started without a regular job.

He got his big chance after flanker Garry Lefebvre broke his leg in the opening game. Konihowski grew in stature when Don Warrington suffered a knee injury.

"Replacing Warrington is almost impossible. If he hadn't been injured, I think he'd have been the top Canadian in the whole league. He was scoring touchdowns and making big plays.

Konihowski said his long gain of 80 yards for a touchdown away for long gains but somewhat on the chalk a quick off the mark as he'd like to be.

"That's why I'm more comfortable running 400 metres than 100 metres. After I get moving, I'm all right."

Konihowski, 25, caught 45 passes, fifth in the WFC, for 628 yards. His longest reception was an 80-yard scoring strike against Winnipeg Blue Bombers and his most dramatic a pass catch, with two seconds remaining to defeat Calgary.

"I guess if you could take Warrington's injuries and add them to them we'd look pretty good," said Konihowski, who also plays at basketball and volleyball in university.

"Athletics always has been more important to me than academics. I'm a student. I attended Brigham Young University for two years and then before returning to Canada. I'm close to finishing my studies but I'm not sure I want to teach.

"My mother and father didn't encourage me in sports. Even now, they don't like me to be trying to get a job."

Konihowski, 6-foot-2, brilliant Edmonton flanker who caught 45 passes this season for a Canadian Football League record, said Konihowski's speed is vital to the Eskimos' attack, which ranked best in the league this year.

"We run almost the same patterns and he runs them the way the coaches want him to," said McGowan. "The difference is that we quarterbacks have deep to John more often because he's almost impossible to cover one-on-one in that situation. He has a deceptive stride and he's really fast."

Konihowski said he will return to Calgary and field competition after the season but he hopes he will be a better player not be compared

"It's great to be part of a football team because it's possible to do things that would make mistakes," said Konihowski.

It's great, but different, to win in track because you know you've done it yourself.

Konihowski will compete in the Canadian Track championships indoor games at Saskatoon during the Christmas season because United States amateur track professionals in international events.

Ottawa Gee Gees College Champs

TORONTO (CP) — Ottawa Gee Gees will be without at least 11 of this year's Canadian College Bowl football champions when they meet Saint Mary's Saints in a CIAU championship game Friday night to capture the university's first national championship crown.

But Ottawa coach Jim Kilrea expected Saint Mary's powers in Canadian intercollegiate play.

While most of the glory on campus this year has fallen to Ottawa's quarterback Jim Sullivan, Neil Lumsden, his running mate Bill Gradel, wide receiver Jeff Avery, tackle Jim Leach and centre Don Sartor, Gilbert Price, Yves Leclerc and Lumsden and Harrison on occasion.

"He's our quarterback of the future," Gilbert said of Price who got a running back in Murphy that will step in for Lumsden. "He's got a wide receive in (Rocky) Dispiatro who is one of the class of the league in the future."

Gilbert said he was particularly pleased for the current Ottawa veterans who supplied the confidence and balance for the team that registeres its fifth victory of a six-game season in pouling the victory over Calgary.

Lumsden, the game's most valuable player and winner of the Ted Morris Memorial Trophy, closed out a fabulous collegiate career that saw the full-back rush for 1,000 yards, move 3,500 yards and score nearly 500 points, shattering several Canadian college records en route.

The university thought enough of his contribution to the university sports to retire his sweater. No. 23, after Friday night's game.

Lumsden rushed for 140 yards—three shy of the Bowl record set in the Fall Bowl game of St. Francis Xavier University in 1974—and scored touchdowns by Harrison and Collins.

Saint Mary's Saints, who might have been credited with giving Ottawa scare enough that he lost control of the ball as he attempted to lunge over from the Ottawa one yard line. Both fumbles and several players thought they had control of it before Collom came up with it.

It proved a costly score for the Gee Gees, however, when Jim Kilrea, a native of Tonawanda, N.Y., suffered a severe ankle injury that forced him out of the game.

Dan Dickel, a speedster from Calgary was the quarterback for Mike Lashuk's Dinosaurs, running back Ken Ford led a ground game that netted 108 yards and Bill Gold for Calgary, and catching first-half passes for another 108 yards.

Lashuk continued to rotate his quarterbacks—Dan Dickel and Greg Watson—on every play, a formula that carried them to the Canadian championship game and the Atlantic Bowl a week ago.

It almost proved enough as the passing tandem completed on 10 of 26 for 209 yards, but three of the attempts, including two of Watson's, were picked off by an Alert Ottawa secondary in the footsteps of Lumsden snuffing off any advances the Dinosaurs made on the Ottawa goalline.

Wendy Miles of Calgary Selected as Miss Grey Cup

CALGARY (CP) — While Grey Cup festivities warmed up in this bitterly cold city, Wendy Miles, 21, representing Calgary Stampeders, was selected Miss Grey Cup at ceremonies Friday night.

Miss Miles, a secretary-receptionist, also was selected Miss Congeniality. Her winnings include a $2,000 scholarship, a diamond and ruby cocktail ring, a live steer and a color television set.

Leslie Steuart, 18, representing Ottawa Roughriders, was chosen as runner-up.

The other contestants were Brenda Torry of British Columbia Lions, Heather Barr of Hamilton Tiger-Cats, Laura Thompson representing Winnipeg Blue Bombers, Lydia Pulecki of Toronto Argonauts, Susie Dubois of Montreal Alouettes, Zenka Lisakowski of Saskatchewan Roughriders and Linda Holliday of Edmonton Eskimos.

Light snowflurries across the city did not chill the Grey Cup spirit and hotel lobbies were jammed with merrymakers. Most hotels quickly people going in elevators to make sure they had keys for rooms.

Flurries forced the city crews to make 30 arrests for drunken driving Thursday night, more than double the usual number. A couple of fights had to be broken up but there were no other major problems related to the Grey Cup, police said.

The weather office said cloudy skies would continue today but the 15-mile-an-hour northwest winds that added to the chill of minus four degrees celsius temperature of Friday would shift to lighter southwest winds today.

But it will still be cold for the Grey Cup parade and snow could be more of the snow-flurries that greeted the city Friday morning.

The 24-hour parade will wind its way through downtown streets beginning at 1 p.m., MST. Columbia Lions, floats, cloaking some from Ottawa, Winnipeg, Edmonton and several British Columbia communities, will be on display along with more than 30 bands.

When someone tells you their own brand of so called "rustproofing" is the "same as" Ziebart, don't accept it.
Because only Ziebart will guarantee your new car won't rust for ten years. No matter how many miles you drive it. We put it in writing.
Our process is so effective, we've inspired a lot of imitators. Some of them last a while. Some don't.

Faith Healing, Empathy Part Of Toronto-based Church

By ROBIN CHASE
Staff Reporter

Faith healing, empathy and mental telepathy are three unusual aspects of a religious denomination which believes the end of civilization as we know it will occur before the end of this century.

Brother Amos

Sister Eir and Brother Amos of the Foundation Church of the Millennium in Toronto visited Belleville this week as part of a regular tour throughout Ontario and parts of Quebec "seeking to get more projects and possibly more centres going."

Their secular names are Joan Wallace and Bruce Garrett and both are Boston natives. They relinquished their given names, except for legal purposes, when they joined the Foundation.

Eir says she is a faith healer — one who by laying hands on an afflicted person can remove his or her affliction. "At times I have felt the pain of the people I work with," she said. "I can discharge the pain or hold it."

The empathy and telepathy are basically "being sensitive to a person's feelings," said Amos. He explained it is all a matter of unsuppressing people's emotions.

Amos elaborated that every one has the powers of empathy and telepathy as other senses — such as "feeling the vibrations of a person nearby or having the urge to contact a friend or relative who was thinking of the latter at that precise moment.

Sister Eir

He said the Foundation has workshops which assist people in developing the extra senses and Eir added that all a person requires for development is confidence and experience.

Besides in Toronto at 539 Yonge St., the Foundation has three American headquarters in Chicago, Ill., New Orleans, La. and New York City. Members have been together as a community for 13 years and as an entity (Foundation) for only two years.

They believe the current civilization will end within the next 25 years due to either a natural or man-made holocaust by fire as predicted in the Bible, following a period of peace lasting for only 1,000 years of peace.

Exodus Was Not a Myth

by
Dr. Gordon C. Smyth

There is no warrant for the idea that the Exodus was a myth. In World War 1, General Allenby took his army across the Red Sea, with "a strong east wind" providing a ford.

Moses actually ascended Mount Sinai and entered "the thick cloud where God was". He returned to find the people dancing naked round a golden calf (Exodus 32).

The calf was the result of popular clamor. When people forsake live of the true God, there is a pathological identification of love with sensality. Ancient history has become modern history.

TV Ontario, the educational TV network being set up by the province, plans a series of 13 programs on sexual problems, which will include film of around male and female sexual organs, of masturbation and perhaps of actual intercourse.

After the first three films have been shown next January, on a six-station network covering most of the area between Windsor and Ottawa, they will be available for use in high school and college sex education classes.

"We're going to try to present very stoni material in a very tasteful way", said June Callwood as nicely as Aaron tried to soothe Moses when he beheld the behavior of his people.

Those Israelites found Moses beyond them, and the God he represented too demanding. Like many of our contemporaries, they were tired of God, no matter all he had done for their ancestors or themselves. They wanted something easier, more on their natural level.

Not Aaron, the priest who curried ' favor with the multitude, but Moses was brave enough to pray that he might be blotted out by God if this had to be the price of forgiveness for Israel. That is the height of redemptive grandeur to which few have attained.

Of course, the centre is Calvary. It is more than a martyrdom long ago. It is a remedy, here and now, for another civilization careening toward destruction.

Only when we cease our mad dancing around the idol that the Israelites called the golden calf, and the Romans called Venus, and allow the love of Christ to constrain us, will the night of so much hysteria and heartbreak turn into the joy of morning.

SNOREY — In loving memory of a dear husband, father and grandfather, Milton J. Snorey who passed away November 22, 1967.
Gone is the face we loved so dear,
Gone is the voice we used to hear,
Too far away for sight or speech,
But not far for thoughts to reach.
Sweet to remember him who once was dear,
And who, though absent, is just as dear.
—Always remembered by wife, sons, daughters and their families.

WEEVES — In loving memory of a dear mother, Agnes Florence Weeves, who passed away November 22, 1964.
Yes, it was a dear father Cecil Aaron who passed away July 4th, 1962.
Sadly we sorrow I cannot tell
Of the loss of him I loved so well.
Fond memories are all we have left
Their memory is sweet and dear.
—Too dearly loved to ever be forgotten, daughter Doris, Speedy, Gordon, Buddy and Judi.

To Your Good Health

Anthony's Fire Could be Fatal

By GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband recently came home from work with a high fever and chills. We thought he had the flu, but he came home three days later with a dark red splotch on a swollen leg.

He finally went to a doctor, who told him he had erysipelas. I wonder if you could advise me on this disease? I've been told it was caused by a mosquito bite.—Mrs. M. R.

I doubt a mosquito bite was the cause, except that he could have broken the skin in scratching a bite, thus providing access for the infecting organism.

The common type of erysipelas is caused by a streptococcal organism. The condition is sometimes called "St. Anthony's Fire." It is characterized by shiny red blotches. The area is hot to the touch compared to the surrounding tissue.

There can be high fever, chills, vomiting, even pain in the joints. It is a good thing the symptoms are as violent as they are. Untreated, it can bring death. Bed rest and antibiotics to control the infection is the best procedure. With prompt attention it can be rather quickly brought under control.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am a large lady. I'm 60 years old, and I have been having severe cramps in my legs. They seem to be getting worse. I work at a hospital. I am taking vitamin B, vitamin D and calcium. Would any of these help me?—Mrs. E. B.

By the phrase "large lady" do you mean obese, or do you mean tall and big-framed?

You are 60 and work in a hospital. I assume this means you must do a considerable amount of walking, perhaps climbing on your feet. A lot. This could be a factor in your leg cramps. Consider, also, adequate footwear. Faulty foot mechanics could be a cause of your cramps.

The vitamin D and calcium, as well as the vitamin B, often help alleviate such cramps.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have heard all my life that watermelon and whisky won't mix, also that watermelon and ice cream can cause death. This is unbelievable. Is there anything to it?—Mrs. C. G.

Nothing to it. Watermelon contains vitamin A, and has small amounts of carbohydrates, protein, calcium and B vitamins. Nothing life-threatening in that. Too much whisky is another matter.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 30 years old and have had earaches and dizziness from my right ear on and off all my life. I was recently told by my doctor that I have "cholesteatoma" extending into the inner ear. I've been told I need surgery.

I have never heard this term used before, nor have I seen it in any of your columns. Is it serious?—Mrs. G. L.

This is a cystic mass filled with, among other debris, cholesterol, from which it gets its name. The condition is sometimes associated with chronic middle-ear infection. It is serious, as any middle-ear problem of this type is.

Your physician feels surgery to get rid of the cyst is the best approach. This is done in stubborn cases.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would you give your opinion of elderly people taking three teaspoons of petroleum jelly a day for easing of joint pain. I've heard this has been prescribed by a reputable friend. I am 78.—A. B. C.

I have not heard or read of this. It should do no harm. Nor will it do any good. It reflects a grossly simplistic and incorrect notion of how the body "works."

THE UNEXPLAINED

by Allen Spraggett

In Defence of Astrology

Copyright 1975, Toronto Sun Syndicate

George Abell, an astronomy professor at the University of California at Los Angeles, recently unleashed a blast against astrology.

Calling it a "sham," and a "dangerous" one to boot, the skeptical scientist attacked the growing popular acceptance of the ancient "science of the stars."

In an unconscious bit of irony Abell warned that democracy is jeopardized by the irrational and uncritical "thought" which astrology inspires, and went on to mention that Hitler exploited just such irrational beliefs.

The mention of Hitler was ironic because the only modern state in which it was a crime to be an astrologer, to own astrological books, or even to openly espouse belief in astrology was Nazi Germany.

Yet when shared Abell's conviction that astrology is "dangerous." The Nazi, astrology decrees bound on June 6, 1941, and signed by Hitler's deputy, Martin Bormann, ordered the arrest and internment of all persons active in astrological organizations, the burning of astrological literature, and the suppression of all astrological publications on the grounds that "astrology is detrimental to the spiritual health of the German people."

(To be sure, leading Nazis, such as Hess and Himmler, had their own personal astrologers but that's another story. The point is that Hitler's policy agreed with those who today would urge the "control relationship" between planetary positions and human affairs.

What he fails to mention is that many serious astrologers would agree. The correspondence between planetary patterns and human events is not necessarily causal.

There is no causal connection between the fact that when the hands of the clock point to 12 noon restaurants start to fill up — yet obviously there is a connection. Many astrologers say that planetary patterns serve as a cosmic clock indicating a time when a certain type of event is likely to happen (for example, people going out to lunch). The astrological correspondence may well be not a simple cause-and-effect one but, as Dr. Carl Jung, the great psychiatrist (and believer in astrology) expressed it, one involving "synchronicity," or meaningful coincidence.

There is a growing body of scientific evidence to support astrology. If this were not so, why would NASA have invited 18 members of the American Federation of Astrologers as official guests to the Apollo XII moonlaunch on November 14, 1969? If astrology were flapdoodle, would NASA be expending so much honor to its practitioners?

The truth is that the U.S. space agency uses a technique for predicting sunspots (which could be lethal to astronauts in space) called "gravitational vectoring" very similar to the astrological method devised by former BOAC radio engineer John H. Nelson, who is a member of the American Federation of Astrologers.

Studies at the University of Pennsylvania in 1961 and the University of Miami in 1973 showed that violent crime increases significantly at the time of the full moon. Medical research pioneered by Florida surgeon Dr. J. Edson Andrews showed that there is an 87 per cent greater risk of postoperative hemorrhage if surgery is performed during the full moon. (Dr. Andrews' findings have been fully confirmed by other researchers.)

The term "lunatic" (meaning literally one who has a tic of the moon) points to astrology's traditional claim that the full moon correlates with disturbances in human behavior.

French statistical psychologist Michel Gauquelin of the University of Strasbourg put 20,000 sets of birth data through a computer and found very significant correlations between the hour of a man's birth and his occupation! Research by Dr. H.J. Eysenck of the University of London confirmed Gauquelin's findings.

Such cases could be multiplied. Evidence continues to mount from such diverse fields as psychology, biology and meteorology that the ancient speculation of astrology may turn out to be the most up-to-date science of them all.
